O captive daughter of Zion. How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace. The watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing; for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for He hath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. Anthem, . . . Dr. Stainer.

Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna. Who is this that cometh from Edom? who is this with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is glorious in His apparel, travelling in the greatness of His strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save. Wherefore art Thou red in Thine apparel, and Thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-fat? I have trodden the wine-press alone; and of the people there was none with Me. I will tread them in Mine anger, and trample them in My fury; for the day of vengeance is in Mine hand, and the year of My redeemed is come.

And when as Judge Thou drawest nigh,
The secrets of all hearts to try,
When sinners meet their awful doom,
And saints attain their heavenly home;
O let us not for evil past
Be driven from Thy face at last,
But with the blessed ever more
Behold and love Thee and adore. Amen.

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as a rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing: The glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it: the excellency of Carmel and Sharon, they shall see the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God. Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong: fear not: behold your God. Behold your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense: He will come and save you, even God. Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna. Who is this that cometh from Edom? who is this with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is glorious in His apparel, travelling in the greatness of His strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save. Wherefore art Thou red in Thine apparel, and Thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-fat? I have trodden the wine-press alone; and of the people there was none with Me. I will tread them in Mine anger, and trample them in My fury; for the day of vengeance is in Mine hand, and the year of My redeemed is come.

hast said, My name shall be there; and hearken Thou to the supplication of Thy servant, and of Thy people Israel, when they shall pray towards this place: and hear Thou in heaven, Thy dwelling place; and when Thou hearest, forgive. If there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, whatsoever sickness there be: what prayer and supplication soever be made by any man, or by all Thy people Israel, which shall know every man the plague of his own heart, and spread forth his hands towards this house: then hear Thou in heaven, Thy dwelling place, hear and forgive. And the Lord said to Solomon, I have heard thy prayer; I have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put My Name there for ever: and Mine eyes and Mine heart shall be there perpetually. Amen.

Shake thyself from the dust; arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem: loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, shake thyself from the dust. O captive daughter of Zion. How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace. The watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing; for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, which fadeth not away, reserved for you, who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed at the last time. But as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation: pass the time of your sojourning here in fear; see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently: being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God. For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof fadeth away: but the word of the Lord endureth for ever. Amen.

These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Hallelujah! therefore, are they before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple: they shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of water: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

Salvation, and glory, and honor, and power, unto the Lord our God; for true and righteous are His judgments. And, again they said, Hallelujah. And the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down, and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen. And, again they said, Hallelujah. And a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye His servants, and ye that fear Him, both small and great. And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Hallelujah! for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. O where shall wisdom be found, and where is the place of understanding? Man knoweth not the price thereof; neither is it found in the land of the living. The depth saith, It is not in me: and the sea saith, It is not with me. It cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof. No mention shall be made of coral or of pearls: for the price of wisdom is above rubies. Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living. God understandeth the way thereof, and He knoweth the place thereof, for He looketh to the ends of the earth, and seeth under the whole heaven: to make the weight for the winds; and He weigheth the waters by measure. When He made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunder: Then did He see it, and declare it; He prepared it, yea, and searched it out. O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness: let the whole earth stand in awe of Him. Tell it out among the heathen, that the Lord is King: and that it is He who hath made the round world so fast that it cannot be moved; and how that He shall judge the people righteously. Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is. Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it; then shall all the trees of the wood rejoice before the Lord. Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come unto thee the uncircumcised and the unclean; shake thyself from the dust; arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem: loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, shake thyself from the dust. O captive daughter of Zion. How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth salvation, that publisheth peace; that saith unto Zion, thy God reigneth! The watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing; for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. No mention shall be made of coral or of pearls: for the price of wisdom is above rubies. Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living. God understandeth the way thereof, and He knoweth the place thereof, for He looketh to the ends of the earth, and seeth under the whole heaven: to make the weight for the winds; and He weigheth

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing: the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon; they shall see the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God. Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense: He will come and save you. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb shall sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called the way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those; the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein. No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up thereon; it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there. And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads.

Lord, Lord, when saw we Thee an hungered, and fed Thee? or thirsty, and gave Thee drink? when saw we Thee a stranger, and took Thee in? naked, and clothed Thee? or when saw we Thee sick, or in prison, and came unto Thee? Ascribe unto the Lord, O ye kindreds of the people, ascribe unto the Lord worship and power. Ascribe unto the Lord the honor due unto His name: bring presents, and come into His courts. O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness: let the whole earth stand in awe of Him. Tell it out among the heathen, that the Lord is King: and that it is He who hath made the round world so fast that it cannot be moved; and how that He shall judge the people righteously. Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is. Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it; then shall all the trees of the wood rejoice before the Lord. For He cometh to judge the earth; and with righteousness to judge the world, and the people with His truth. Amen.

When Jesus, our Lord, was born in Bethlehem, in the land of Judea: behold, from the East to the city of Jerusalem, there came wise men, and said:—

Say, where is He born, the King of Judea? for we have seen His star, and are come to adore Him. (St. Matthew ii. 1, 2.)

There shall a star from Jacob come forth, and a sceptre from Israel rise up, and dash in pieces princes and nations. (Numbers xxiv. 17; Ps. ii. 9.)

So Jesus sheddeth glorious beams,
Of light and consolation!

He shall feed His flock like a shepherd; and He shall gather the lambs with His arm, and carry them in His bosom, and gently lead those that are with young.

Nunc Dimittis }

Anthem, from the "Christmas Oratorio" - - - J. S. Bach

And there were shepherds in the same country, abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night. And the angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were sore afraid. Break forth, O beauteous heavenly light, and usher in the morning; Ye shepherds, shrink not with affright, but hear the angel's warning. This Child now weak in infancy, Our confidence and joy shall be; The power of Satan now breaking, our peace eternal making. And the angel said unto them, Be not afraid, Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people. For today is born to you, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord. 'Tis right that Angels thus should sing, To us this day such joy doth bring. Come then our voices let us raise, And join with them in songs of praise.

Anthem, from "Christus" - - - - - Mendelssohn

When Jesus our Lord was born in Bethlehem, in the land of Judea, behold, from the East to the city of Jerusalem there came wise men and said: Say, where is He born, the King of Judea? For we have seen His star, and are come to adore Him. There shall a Star from Jacob come forth, and a sceptre from Israel rise up, and dash in pieces princes and nations.

As bright the star of morning gleams,
So Jesus sheddeth glorious beams
Of light and consolation!
Thy Word, O Lord, radiance darting,
Truth imparting, gives salvation;
Thine be praise and adoration!

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. To an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for us, who are kept by the power of God; through faith unto salvation ready, to be revealed at the last time. But as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; pass the time of your sojourning here in fear. Love one another with a pure heart fervently. See that ye love one another. Being born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God; for all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as a flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away. But the word of the Lord endureth forever.

By the waters of Babylon we set down and wept, when we remembered thee, O Sion. As for our harps, we hanged them up, upon the trees that are therein. For they led us away captive, required of us then a song and melody in our heaviness: sing us one of the song of Sion. How shall we sing the Lord's song, in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth. Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem; how they said, Down with it, down with it, even to the ground. Anthem, - - - - - Walford Davies

Out of the deep have I cried unto Thee, O Lord: Lord hear my voice.
O let Thine ears consider well the voice of my complaint. If Thou, Lord, wilt be extreme to mark what is done amiss, O Lord, who shall stand? But there is mercy with Thee, therefore shalt Thou be feared. I look for the Lord; my soul doth wait for Him: In His word is my trust. My soul looketh for the Lord, yea more than watchmen look for the morning. O Israel trust in the Lord, for with the Lord there is mercy and with Him is plenteous redemption.Hymns: { 157 - - - - - Tune, David

Anthem, from the Stabat Mater - - - - Dvorak

At Thy feet in adoration,
See, dear Lord, I lie,
Wrapt in earnest contemplation
Of the Cross where Thou didst die.

Lord, accept my deep devotion;
Fix my heart on Thee,
Fill my soul with love's emotion,
Till at last Thy face I see.

There, where all our sins Thou bearest
On that bitter tree,
In compassion, fullest, rarest,
For this dark world's misery.

Cross of Love, and Tree of Glory!
Rings the whole world with Thy story,
The story of Calvary.

Souls of the Righteous, in the Hand of God,

Anthem, from "The Light of Life," - - - - - Elgar

Light of the World, we know Thy praise
The angels and archangels raise,
And all the host of heaven,
More worthily than our faint hymns,
Whose jarring sound thy glory dims,
Which God to Thee has given.

But Thou didst not disdain to take
Our low estate, or e'en to make
The tomb Thy resting-place;
So Thou might bring into our sight
The dawn of Thine eternal Light
To shine upon our face.

Nor death, nor hell, nor sin, is Lord,
But Thou, O Son of God. Thy Word
Is now our sovereign law.
Therefore we thank Thee, and we pray
Thy Light may shine unto the Perfect Day
On us for evermore.

I desired wisdom openly in my prayer. I prayed for her before the temple, and will seek her out even unto the end. Even from the flower till the grape was ripe hath my heart delighted in her. They that serve her shall minister unto the Holy One. When Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of Herod the King, behold, wise men came from the East unto Jerusalem, saying Where is He, born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star, and are come to worship Him. And lo, the star, which they saw in the East, went before them till it came and stood over where the young child was. And when they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. Hallelujah. Sing, Choir of angels, sing in exultation, Sing, all ye citizens of Heaven above. Glory to God, Glory in the Highest. O come, let us adore Him, O come, let us adore Him, O come, let us adore Him, Christ the Lord. Hallelujah. Amen.

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. To an inheritance incorruptible and undidled, that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for us, who are kept by the power of God; through faith unto salvation ready, to be revealed at the last time. But as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; pass the time of your sojourning here in fear. Love one another with a pure heart fervently. See that ye love one another. Being born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God; for all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as a flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away. But the word of the Lord endureth forever.

Anthem, Ps. cxxxvii - - - - - Coleridge-Taylor

By the waters of Babylon we set down and wept, when we remembered thee, O Sion. As for our harps, we hanged them up, upon trees that are therein. For they led us away captive, required of us then a song and melody in our heaviness: sing us one of the song of Sion. How shall we sing the Lord's song, in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth. Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem; how they said, Down with it, down with it, even to the ground. O daughter of Babylon, wasted with misery, yea, happy shall he be that rewardeth thee as thou hast served us.

Judge me, O God, and plead my cause against an ungodly nation: O deliver me from deceitful and unjust men. For thou art the God of my strength; O why dost Thou cast me from Thee? Wherefore mourn I because the enemy sorely oppresseth me?

Send out Thy light and truth, Lord; O let them lead me, and bring me unto Thy holy hill, and to Thy dwelling-place. And then I will go to the Altar of God: to God, the God of my gladness and joy. I will praise Thee upon the harp. O my God, O my soul, why art thou cast downward? and why art thou disquieted within me? Light of the World, we know Thy praise
The angels and archangels raise,
And all the host of heaven,
More worthily than our faint hymns,
Whose jarring sound that glory dims,
Which God to Thee has given.

But Thou didst not disdain to take
Our low estate, or e'en to make
The tomb Thy resting-place;
So Thou might bring into our sight
The dawn of Thine eternal Light
To shine upon our face.

Nor death, nor hell, nor sin, is Lord,
But Thou, O Son of God. Thy Word
Is now our sovereign law.
Therefore we thank Thee, and we pray
Thy Light may shine unto the Perfect Day
On us for evermore.

Anthem - - - - - Sir John Stainer

Awake, awake! put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come unto thee the uncircumcised and the unclean. Shake thyself from the dust; arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem; loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, O captive daughter of Zion. Awake, awake! put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments. Awake, awake! How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing, for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord hath made bare His holy arm in the eyes of all nations; and all the ends of the world have seen the salvation of our God. Break forth into joy, sing together ye waste places of Jerusalem. Hallelujah. Amen.

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly; and rejoice with joy and singing. Say to them of a fearful heart, be strong; fear not: behold your God. He will come and save you. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing. For in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there, it shall be the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there; and the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

Anthem, Prologue from "The Apostles" - - - - - Elgar

The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor: He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives—and recovering of sight to the blind,—to preach the acceptable year of the Lord. To give unto them that mourn a garland for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; That they might be called trees of righteousness,—the planting of the Lord, that He might be glorified. For as the earth bringeth forth the bud, and as the garden causeth things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord God will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all the nations.

When Jesus our Lord was born in Bethlehem, in the land of Judea, behold, from the East to the city of Jerusalem there came wise men and said: "Behold, where is He born, the King of Judea? For we have seen His star, and are come to adore Him. There shall a Star from Jacob come forth, and are from Israel rise up, and dash in pieces princes and nations."

How lovely are Thy dwellings fair,
O Lord of Hosts! how dear
The pleasant tabernacles are Where Thou dost dwell so near!
My soul doth long and almost die
Thy courts, O Lord, to see;
My heart and flesh aloud do cry,
O living God, for Thee.
There even the sparrow, freed from wrong,
Hath found a house of rest;
The swallow there, to lay her young,
Hath built her brooding nest.

They find their safe abode;

Dr. S. S. Wesley

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. To an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for us, who are kept by the power of God; through faith unto salvation ready, to be revealed at the last time. But as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; pass the time of your sojourning here in fear. Love one another with a pure heart fervently. See that ye love one another. Being born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, for all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as a flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away. But the word of the Lord endureth forever.

Anthem. Ps. cxxxvii - - - - - Boyce

By the waters of Babylon we set down and wept, when we remembered Sion. O Shew. As for our harps, we hanged them up, upon the trees that are there. For they that led us away captive, required of us then a song and said, sing in our heaviness: sing us one of the song of Sion. How shall we sing the Lord's song, in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth.
Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem; how they said, down with it, down with it, even to the ground. O daughter of Babylon, that hast destroyed us, yea, happy shall he be that rewardeth thee as thou hast served us.

Judge me, O God, and plead my cause against an ungodly nation: O deliver me from deceitful and unjust men. For thou art the God of my strength: O why dost Thou cast me from Thee? Wherefore mourn I because the enemy sorely oppresses me?

Send out Thy light and truth, Lord; O let them lead me, and bring me unto Thy holy hill, and to Thy dwelling place. And then I will go to the Altar of God: to God, the God of my gladness and joy. I will praise Thee upon the harp, O my God. O my soul, why art thou cast downward? and why art thou disquieted within me? Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money: come ye, buy, and eat. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto Me, eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in richness.

Incline your ear, and come unto Me; hear, and your soul shall live. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break before you into singing, and the trees of the fields shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the brier, shall come up the myrtle tree.

Daughters of Zion, weep for yourselves and your children.

He leaves His heavenly portals, When Thou, O sun, art shrouded, Endures the griefs of mortals, By night or tempest clouded,
 To raise our fallen race! Thy rays no longer dart.
 O love beyond expressing, Though earth be dark and dreary,
 He gains for us a blessing, If, Jesus, Thou art near me,
 He saves us by redeeming grace. 'Tis cloudless day within my heart.

For death, which sin engenders,
 He full atonement renders,
 If contrite we believe.
 Then humbly bow before Him,
 Let all the earth adore Him,
 Who dies for man, that man may live.

The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor:—He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives—and recovering of sight to the blind,—to preach the acceptable year of the Lord;—To give unto them that mourn a garland for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; That they might be called trees of righteousness,—the planting of the Lord, that He might be glorified. For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord God will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all the nations.

Notes

Monday will be a busy day. At eleven o'clock, regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of Saint Mark's Home for Aged Women. In the afternoon at three, in the Parish Parlor, Auxiliary Sewing Class. Upstairs in the Sunday School room, meeting of Saint Michael and All Angels' Guild of the Home for Colored Cripple Children.

On Tuesday the Queen Mary Needlework Guild will occupy the Women's Auxiliary room all day. The Guild is not connected with the Parish, but Saint Mark's is more than glad to assist in War Relief work by placing the room at the Guild's disposal. A number of St. Mark's parishioners are members of the Guild, and more, we feel sure, would be welcome.

On Sunday next, the third Sunday in the month, the second special collection for the Missions of the Church will be taken up. The first collection was taken up in December and amounted to $708.68, which is more than the amount of the corresponding collection the year before. Our apportionment for the general missions of the Church is $5,651.07. Besides this we have an apportionment for the Diocesan Missions, in our own Convocation of South Philadelphia. This amounts to $1,233.76, covering salaries of Diocesan Missionaries, Colored Work, and work among Italians, French and the Seamen's Mission. We have a special duty to carry the Gospel of Jesus Christ to these "strangers within our gates."

Your Rector commends very earnestly to the alms and prayers of the congregation the needs of Saint Michael and all Angels' Home for Colored Cripple Children. It is, so far as known, the only Home in the world devoted to the care of colored cripples exclusively. The Home has been recently enlarging its work, and is in need of funds for fitting up the new house. The Rector would be very glad to give any further information about it.

The Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the Diocese has recently appointed the Rector to a sub-committee on work among the Poles, in our Committee on Church Work Among Immigrants. We have a most encouraging work going on at the old Church of the Evangelists, under the leadership of Rev. J. O. Pienonzek, one of the priests of the diocese, who is also connected with the City Mission. The Rector hopes some day to ask the members of the congregation to come to hear about this wonderful people, who have contributed so many brilliant names to the pages of history, a people about whom everybody is supposed to know, and about whom, as a matter of fact, most of us know very little.

At the recent meeting of the vestry, the requisite papers were signed to present to the Standing Committee for the ordination of Mr. Frank Williamson, Jr., now of the Senior Class of the General Theological Seminary. The Rector wishes the signing of such certificates might be of more frequent occurrence. If only our people could be awakened to the seriousness of the situation resulting from our dearth of candidates for Holy Orders.

The Bible Class meets Saturdays in the Church at noon. The subject of the lectures this year is "The Worship of the Old Covenant."

PSALM xiv. The fool hath said in his heart; There is no God.

They are corrupt, and become abominable in their doings; there is none that doeth good, no not one.

The Lord looked down from heaven upon the children of men; to see if there were any that would understand, and seek after God:

But they are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become abominable; there is none that doeth good, no not one.

Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues have they deceived: the poison of asps is under their lips.

Their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness; their feet are swift to shed blood.

Destruction and unhappiness is in their ways, and the way of peace have they not known; there is no fear of God before their eyes.

Have they no knowledge, that they are all such workers of mischief: eating up my people as it were bread, and call not upon the Lord?

There were they brought in great fear, even where no fear was; for God is in the generation of the righteous.

As for you, ye have made a mock at the counsel of the poor; because he putteth his trust in the Lord.

Who shall give salvation unto Israel out of Zion? When the Lord turneth the captivity of his people; then shall Jacob rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

GRADUAL. The Lord sent His word and healed them: and they were saved from their destruction. O that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness: and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men. Ps. cxvii.

Notes

On Monday the 17th, at 8 P. M., the Sunday School Association of the Diocese of Pennsylvania will hold its Epiphany meeting here at St. Mark's. The meeting will be in the interest of the Lenten Missionary Offering of the Sunday Schools. Last year the Sunday Schools of the Diocese gave $32,989.91. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. C. E. Betticher, of Alaska, and Rev. F. L. H. Potts of St. John's University, Shanghai, China. I hope our own Sunday Schools will be represented by teachers and scholars.

Speaking of Sunday Schools, that of St. Mark's though small in numbers, is, I believe, decidedly above the average in the zeal of the teachers and pupils and in the quality of the instruction and training given. I hope all the parents who attend St. Mark's will send their children. And we shall be glad to welcome also children whose parents attend elsewhere. Do not be afraid that they are too young. Some of our youngest pupils are intensely interested and the quickness with which they acquire what is taught them is often astonishing. Visitors are always welcome at the School. The School opens at half past nine and lets out in time for the older pupils to be present at the late service.

I would call the attention of the Congregation to the exceedingly interesting and illuminating lectures on "The Bible and Modern Criticism" which are being delivered on Monday afternoons at 2 P. M. at Trinity Parish House, South Twentieth St., by Rev.

Stuart Tyson of Princeton University. At the first of these, given last Monday, in spite of unfavorable weather, about 250 people were present. The lectures are free and a cordial welcome extended to all to come. Prof. Tyson is a thorough master of his subject, and presents in a clear and reverent way, information every intelligent Christian should have.

The Society of American Organ Players are giving this winter a series of free organ recitals, for the benefit of the musical public. One of these will be given at St. Mark's on Saturday, the 22d. at 4 P. M., by our organist, Mr. Lewis A. Wadlow.

There will be a song recital on Thursday evening at 8.15, at the Orpheus Club Rooms, to which the public is cordially invited. A number of the musicians are members of our choir.

After exactly three years of faithful service, first at St. Mary's and then at St. Mark's, Rev. F. E. A. Aitkins will leave February 1st for Buffalo, N. Y. He has been called to the important parish of Saint Andrew's. He will be greatly missed by many friends, notably the acolytes and boys of the choir, and by none more than by the Rector. The good wishes of the parish accompany him to his new field of work. His successor here has not been appointed. The Rector hopes to find some one to take up his work immediately; but as indicated in one of the Advent sermons, it is exceedingly hard to secure good men. Your prayers are asked that a faithful helper may be sent us, and for the Church at large, "That it may please Thee to send forth laborers into Thy harvest."

The beautiful violet frontal, after nearly forty years of service, has been pronounced past repair by experts, the fabric having become with age too tender to stand mending. We ought to have a new one by Lent, but as that at this date seems hardly possible, we ought at once to give an order for a new one. The elaborateness of the design will of course be dependent on what we can afford to pay. The Rector is sure all will feel the need of proper dignity and richness. He asks for liberal contributions for this object. They may be sent to him or to the accounting warden, or to the Treasurer of the Altar Society.

Looking over the past two years, how many changes in the staff! All of the Vicars and Curates, three of five Sisters, two organists, one sexton. Doubtless this is very trying in many ways, and we must all have patience one with another. Change is unavoidable, and while the faith must ever remain the same no two people can teach or practice precisely in the same way. Each must follow his own method, we must be ourselves not somebody else, even though somebody else may be far better than we.

There will be a retreat for the Society of the Companions of the Holy Cross and other women at St. Clement's Church, Philadelphia, Pa., on Saturday, January 22, 1916, conducted by the Rev. C. S. Hutchinson, D.D. Application may be made to Secretary, S. C. H. C., 2222 Spruce Street, Philadelphia.

Rector's Notes

I thank the many friends in the Parish who have expressed themselves favorably on this little project of maintaining a weekly leaflet containing the text of introits and anthems, and news and comment on Parish affairs. I shall be glad to receive any suggestions for improvement. I also ask all who desire notice of guild and other meetings to let me have their manuscript early in the week.

Tuesday is the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. This festival was not generally observed till the Twelfth Century; but as early as A.D. 448 there was a festival of SS. Peter and Paul, February 22d. These two saints have also been commemorated together on June 29th and 30th.

One subscription of twenty-five dollars has been received for the violet frontal. I hope more will follow. Do not overlook this call, in a multiplicity of charities.

Here is something much on my mind and heart. God makes nothing without purpose, nor does He bring anyone into the world without giving some work to do for Him. Not alone in the home and family, but in the Church. Every one who belongs to St. Mark's ought to ask: "What am I doing to help forward the kingdom of God?" There is so much we can do, not only for the Church's support, but in the various charitable enterprises in this part of the city. And, with our many services, we have so much grace given to us. The problem is to bring together and so make effective, the people, the opportunities and the grace. I am trying to think it out, and I would like suggestions, plans and leaders. Let us see if we cannot get together, those who are doing no special work, largely I take it, because they have not been asked, and enlist in some new work, apart, I should say, from what we are already doing, chiefly in St. Mary's and St. Michael's Chapels. This is a request for more laborers, not for additional work on the part of the old ones.

The Rector is continually met with appeals, worthy and pathetic, by Churches and individuals, some a long way off, for material assistance of various kinds. Sometimes he is asked, by those who do not understand the situation, for the names and addresses of such of his parishioners as in his opinion would be likely to contribute. This request he invariably refuses, but he is always glad to lend the use of his name in causes, which from investigation or prior knowledge he believes to be entirely deserving. Here are some recent requests he commends to the charitable. He will be glad to answer any questions concerning them and to forward gifts in kind and money.

The roof of St. Anna's Church, New Orleans, has been wrecked by a tornado, and the interior damaged. St. Anna's is the only ritualistic Church in this leading city of the South. It is doing a large work, and has good congregations, but the people are poor and money for repairs must be raised without.

The Rector of Silver City, New Mexico, appeals for funds to complete his parochial plant. Silver City is in the midst of a country much resorted to by consumptives in search of health, and the work of the parish could be very greatly enlarged if there was a proper equipment.

The Rector of St. Joseph's, Rome, N. Y., asks for help for Church repairs. The parish has had a singular history and passed through many vicissitudes. It does a considerable work among a foreign population.

Bishop Horner, through his agent, asks for help in a work of the nature of social service, at Valle Crucis, N. C., among the farmers of that section.

The Archdeacon of East Tennessee is in Philadelphia, soliciting aid for work among the mountaineers.

A very worthy priest in this city, a missionary among the poor, is greatly in need of a new cassock, the one he is now using being past repair. Will any one help him?

OFFERTORY. Hymn of St. Anatolius A. D. 458,

T. T. Noble

Fierce was the wild billow; dark was the night;
Oars labour'd heavily, foam glimmer'd white.

Trembled the mariners, peril was nigh;
Then said the God of God—Peace! it is I.

Ridge of the mountain wave, lower thy crest;
Wail of Euroclydon, be thou at rest!

Sorrow can never be, darkness must fly,
When saith the Light of Light—Peace! it is I.

Jesu, deliverer, come Thou to me,
Soothe Thou my voyaging over life's sea;
Thou, when the storm of death roars sweeping by,
Whisper, O Truth of Truth—Peace! it is I.

Rector's Notes

The Corporate Communion of the St. Mark's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will take place at the quarter to eight service on Thursday, February 3d. The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Parish Building the same afternoon at quarter to four. Rev. George Hilton, of Morganton, N. C., will make the address.

The Right Reverend the Bishop of the Diocese writes:

There seems at this time a real and pressing need felt and expressed in many quarters, of a clear and convincing "declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us." . . . I have therefore planned the following series of addresses during the weeks immediately before Lent:

I. THE INCARNATION. Thursday, February 17th, 4 P. M. St. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia. Locust Street, above Thirty-ninth Street.

II. THE CHURCH. Thursday, February 24th, 4 P. M. Calvary Church, Germantown. Manheim Street and Pulaski Avenue.

III. THE SACRAMENTS. Thursday, March 2d, 8.15 P. M. St. Simeon's Church, Philadelphia. Lehigh Avenue and Ninth Street.

IV. THE MINISTRY. Monday, March 6th, 11.30 A. M. St. James' Church, Walnut and Twenty-second Streets.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be said at the St. John's altar, Monday the seventh, at half past nine.

Reverend Charles E. Taylor, a Seminary classmate of the Rector, will assist him at St. Mark's during the month of February.

It has been decided to keep closed, except at service time, the doors from the Church to the outer sacristy, and from the cloister to the sacristy and parish house. The sexton may be called by the bell at the choir door.

In spite of the extremely inclement weather, a good number of people attended the blessing of the new house for boys at St. Michael and All Angels' Home for Colored Cripples on the Feast of the Purification. Right Reverend Bishop Van Buren officiated and made an address. St. Mark's is really no more responsible than any other parish for the support of the Home, nevertheless, there are reasons why we should take a special interest in its welfare, and I commend it to your alms and prayers. The Mission Chapel connected with the Home is one of the most flourishing of the missions to colored people in the city.

At the recent meeting of the Convocation of South Philadelphia, the ladies attending organized a Woman's Auxiliary for Convocational Missions. We are asked to send two delegates each from Saint Mark's and from each of the chapels. A Woman's Auxiliary for diocesan work is much needed, and need not conflict with the one engaged in assisting the Board of Domestic and Foreign Missions. God has placed St. Mark's and its chapels in South Philadelphia because He wants us to minister to the spiritual wants of this section of the community. That is the first of our missionary duties, and though not the only one, no other should be allowed to obscure or interfere with it.

Rector's Notes

The Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of Saint Mark's Parish cordially invite you to attend a meeting at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Brock, 1920 Spruce Street, on Thursday afternoon, February 17th, at five o'clock, to listen to an account of the work now going on at St. Michael's Chapel, Nineteenth and Lombard Streets.

It is now about a year since the Chapel entered upon a greatly increased usefulness in ministering to the wants of the immediate neighborhood. Not only have the interests of the regular congregation been diligently cared for, but the Chapel has reached far out in helping the poor, rescuing the intemperate, and setting upon their feet those who have been "down and out." The story is a most interesting one, and one which we believe that all who have the welfare of the community at heart will take pleasure in hearing. The meeting is for information and discussion only; there will be no soliciting of contributions. All we ask is that you come.

Easter will be very late this year, but it is not too soon to say a word about the Confirmation, Easter Even. The Rector's regular class will begin at four on the first Friday in Lent and continue every Tuesday and Friday. I shall be glad to arrange for special interviews and instructions for those who cannot attend at the regular times. If not yet confirmed, please give the subject serious thought and speak to me about it. I would also remind Godfathers and Godmothers of the last words of the Baptismal Service. "Ye shall take care that this Child be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed by him," etc.—brought, that implies effort on your part; in suggesting and urging Confirmation on your wards; best of all, coming with them at least to the first few Confirmation lectures.

Rector's Notes

Thursday is the Feast of Saint Matthias. There will be the usual Saint's day Celebration at 9.30. Saint Matthias' election is noteworthy as the first corporate action of the Church. A curious custom prevailed in old times in connection with this feast. The extra day of leap year was inserted just before it, so that every four years St. Matthias' day came on the 25th.

Today is a turning point in the Church Calendar. We cease to count back to Christmas, and begin to reckon forward to Easter—seventy days. The next two and a half weeks are given us to prepare for Lent, and to make up a rule. One or two suggestions. Not more devotions, but better devotion. In these strenuous times it is well to exercise some caution in adding too many additional prayers and reading. Just one or two extras, well attended to. Next, more time for silence. Meditation seems to be the hardest exercise for most Christians; we might argue from that, that it is the most needed. I wish we could have during Lent some "Silent Meetings"; and let God talk to us, not man. I would urge you to read on this point a recent book, "The Fellowship of Silence," edited by Cyril Hefner.

Next Thursday I ask the men of Saint Mark's and St. Michael's to meet the clergy of the parish at the Parish House at 8 P. M. for a social gathering or Smoker. We had such a gathering last year, for Saint Mark's only, and found it a great success. It makes us feel that though we do not often get the chance to talk together, we are yet one in sympathies and interests. I have asked Mr. George Wentworth Carr, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the National Security League, to address us. "National Defense—Not Aggression" is a live topic and ought to bring out interesting discussion. I hope every man, young and old, will take this as a personal invitation.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House next Thursday afternoon, at 3.45. The quarter before eight Eucharist on the same day has been appointed for the corporate Communion.

I have asked the Reverend Charles A. Strombom to assist me as Curate at Saint Mark's and he is expected to take up his residence with us this week. Fr. Strombom comes to us from Poughkeepsie, N. Y. I bespeak for him the cordial welcome the Saint Mark's people know so well how to give. I hope that with his advent we shall be able to plan and carry into effect some more active work in the Church, as distinct from its chapels.

No Lenten folder will be issued this year, the special services being announced on these leaflets from week to week.

You will soon be receiving circulars regarding the finances of the coming year. I ask your careful consideration of them. The success of our mission and charitable work depends quite as much on the wisdom as on the generosity with which money is given.

In this connection I wish to make a statement regarding the Communion Alms. They belong by right to the Rector in trust to administer for charitable purposes. He is not required to give any account of them and it would be extremely unwise as well as indelicate in some instances to publish what he does with them. Nevertheless he has kept a strict and separate account of every penny received since he has been at St. Mark's, whether in these alms, fees or private contributions, and is always ready to show to those who have a right to know what becomes of their money. He may say that in a general way, almost all of the Communion Alms goes to the Chapels, St. Michael's receiving considerably the larger share. A little over eighty dollars a month is sent to the two in regular payments for charitable work, and there are always contingencies calling for special expenditures.

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Harken diligently unto Me, eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness.

Incline your ear, and come unto Me; hear, and your soul shall live.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break before you into singing, and the trees of the fields shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the brier, shall come up the myrtle tree.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be said at St. John's altar, Monday, at 9.30.

A stated meeting of St. Mark's Board of Education will be held in the Parish House, Monday, at 10 o'clock.

The Rector will be in the Church for Confession, Shrove Tuesday, after three o'clock.

Please note that on Ash Wednesday the early services will be at seven and eight, and late Celebration at half-past ten. The Assistant will preach in the morning. The Rector will speak on meditation at Evensong at 5 P. M.

Lent will be marked by a series of addresses on "The Sevenfold Gifts of the Holy Spirit" by Fr. Strombom, at the Friday afternoon service. The Rector will give his Confirmation Instructions in the Lady Chapel, beginning next Friday and continuing Tuesdays and Fridays till Holy Week. These lectures, while primarily for those purposing to be confirmed, are also for unconfirmed persons simply interested to know what the Church teaches and practices, and also serve to refresh the memories of those already communicants. All are welcome. Meditation Wednesday afternoons, under the direction of the Rector.

A Lenten resolution of the Clergy and Choir: under no circumstances to keep the people at weekday evensong later than twenty minutes to six.

Please come out on Thursday afternoon to the Parish House at three to hear Mrs. Bradford, a well-known Communicant of our parish, tell of the needs of Baldwin Day Nursery. It is under the Lighthouse Corporation. I do hope this invitation may meet with a wide response.

The budget and envelope circulars have been sent out. If you have not received any, something is the matter. Either your name is not properly entered or we have not your correct address. Please let the Rector know. And if you have received the circulars, please give them prompt attention. This will considerably lighten the labors of those who have the work in hand.

I will acknowledge my sin unto | thee: and mine unrighteousness | have I | not hid.

I said I will confess my sins unto the | LORD: and so
thou forgavest the | wickedness | of my sin.

For this shall every one that is godly make his prayer unto thee, in a time when thou mayest be | found: but in the great water-floods they shall | not come | nigh him.

Thou art a place to hide me in, thou shalt preserve me from | trouble: thou shalt compass me about with | songs
of de | liverance.

I will inform thee, and teach thee in the way wherein thou shalt | go: and I will | guide thee | with mine eye.

Be ye not like to horse and mule, which have no under | standing: whose mouths must be held with bit and bridle, lest they | fall up | on thee.

Great plagues remain for the | ungodly: but whoso put-teth his trust in the LORD, mercy embraceth | him on | every side.

Be glad O ye righteous, and rejoice in the | LORD: and
be joyful all | ye that are | true of heart.
Glory be. Blessed is he.

GRADUAL. God shall give His angels charge over | thee:

Rector's Notes

Next Sunday the third of the Missionary Collections will be taken up. I hope it will be a liberal one.

The Committee of St. Michael's Neighborhood House have taken another house, 2002 Bainbridge, and are fitting it up for a lodging house for respectable men who, on account of adversity, would otherwise be forced to live under the soul-destroying influences of the tenderloin. This is a most excellent work, which after the first cost will be practically self supporting. The Committee wants furniture for the rooms. Have you not in your attic some articles you could spare? The gift of them would be greatly appreciated. A postal card or 'phone message either to the Rector or the Vicar; and someone will be sent, at the hour you name, to take your gift to the Home.

We need 300 hymnals for St. Mary's. The Chapel has not had any new ones in many years and there are only a very few left in hardly usable condition. Music means so much at St. Mary's, and the congregation sings so vigorously and well—come and hear them sometime—and the choir too is so faithful that I hope some good friend will help the Rector out.

The Bishop would like to enlarge his Extension Fund. This is maintained by subscriptions in response to the Bishop's "Call," the understanding being that there are not to be more than five calls any one year. Cards for subscribers are to be found in the porch. It is one of the wisest ways of giving money, putting it into the power of the Bishop of the Diocese to occupy strategic points. For lack of this ability the Church has suffered largely in the past. Let not our generation be liable to the same reproach.

I commend to your special consideration the work of Rev. W. C. Rodgers, President of St. Stephen's College, who is on here to solicit funds. Here again it is wise to place one's money where it will do the most good. St. Stephen's educates men with special reference to the Sacred Ministry. And nothing is more needed today than more men for Priests.

George Craig Stewart, L.H.D., Rector of St. Luke's, Evanston, Ill. The Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the Diocese is expected to take the Intercessions at noon. The time table will be as follows:

The Sisters of Saint Margaret will be glad to give an account of the work of their community to any of the ladies of the parish who may be interested to hear of it, on Thursday, March 23d, at 3 P. M., at the Sisters' House, 1917 Lombard Street.

All Secretaries or heads of Guilds are asked to make their reports for the year book up as of April 1st, and to send them promptly to Miss Little at the Office. Then we can have the book out by St. Mark's day.

Rector's Notes

Rev. James M. Niblo, the Vicar of Saint Michael's Chapel, exchanges today with the Rector and will preach at the eleven o'clock service. For the information of those whose memories do not go back to the earlier days of Saint Mark's a bit of the parish history will be useful. Rev. F. D. Canfield, assistant 1869-1879, began mission work among the poor to the south of us. In the late eighties the Saint Mark's Working Men's Club was formed, the pioneer among organizations for Church work among the laboring men. In 1880 a building was erected for their use at the corner of Kater and Seventeenth Streets. In 1892 Saint Mark's Mission took possession of the property for its work among white people. In 1905 the old Church of the Mediator, built when Saint Mark's was built, was purchased and also three houses to the west and one to the north, and Saint Michael's came into its present quarters.

Bishop Beecher, of Western Nebraska, is taking Bishop Garland's place for the present. Bishop Beecher is specially interested in putting on a permanently stable footing his School, the Kearney Military Academy. I commend his project to your prayers and alms.

Now is the time for us to arrange our finances for the coming year. If you have not received the letter enclosing subscription blanks, something is wrong and you should mention the fact to the Rector. The oversight is certainly unintentional. If you have received the papers, will you please fill them out as requested and return. If you are unable or unwilling to give, please communicate that fact to the Rector or Accounting Warden. The stewards will soon be going out; let me say a word about them. They will go this year only to those who have taken no notice of the letter. They go to ascertain if perchance the communication has miscarried, to set forth our needs, to explain our system, and in any other way to be of service. They are not asking you to state to them what you will give, but whether you will give. We ask you to make their burdens as light as possible.

INTROIT.

Rejoice O Jerusalem, and be glad with her all ye that love her, rejoice with her, all ye that mourn for her: that ye may be satisfied with her consolation.

God is our hope and strength: a very present help in trouble.

Therefore will we not fear, though the earth be moved: and though the hills be carried into the midst of the sea:

Though the waters thereof rage and swell: and though the mountains shake at the tempest of the same.

The rivers of the flood thereof shall make glad the city of God: the holy place of the tabernacle of the Most High.

God is in the midst of her, therefore shall she not be removed: God shall help her, and that right early.

The heathen make much ado, and the kingdoms are moved: but God hath showed his voice, and the earth shall melt away.

The LORD of hosts is with us: the God of Jacob is our refuge.

O come hither, and behold the works of the LORD: what destruction he hath brought up on the earth.

He maketh wars to cease in all the world: he breaketh the bow, and knappeth the spear in sunder, and burneth the chariots in the fire.

Be still then, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, and I will be exalted in the earth.

The LORD of hosts is with us: the God of Jacob is our refuge.

Glory be. Rejoice O Jerusalem.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be celebrated at St. John's Altar on Monday at half past nine.

I would remind the congregation that there are weekly intercessions in the Church at noon on Wednesdays, and also a Bible Intruction on Fridays at the same hour.

The Right Reverend the Bishop of the Diocese gives early notice of a service which he will hold, according to his custom, for Vestrymen and other men at the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany on Good Friday afternoon at four o'clock. He also reminds us of the appropriateness of devoting the Good Friday offerings for missions to the Jewish people. The money so given will apply on our Diocesan apportionment.

Since the last Rector's Notes appeared Sister Mary Angela of the Sisters of Saint Margaret has passed to her reward. Sister Mary Angela was identified with the work of Saint Mary's Chapel almost from its inception, and greatly endeared herself to the colored people. The memory of her devotion, her gentleness and helpfulness, wisdom and charity will be fondly cherished not only in that Church but throughout the neighborhood. May she rest in peace. Amen. The funeral took place at the Mother House in Boston on Tuesday. On the same day at half past five in the morning a solemn High Mass of Requiem was sung in Saint Mary's Chapel by the Vicar, the Rector and the Vicar of St. Michael's. The early hour enabled many of the congregation to be present and the Church was well filled with mourning friends.

Today is Mid-Lent or Refreshment Sunday. The latter title seems to have been derived from the subject of the Gospel, the refreshment of the multitudes through the miraculous multiplying of the loaves and fishes by our Lord. Mid-Lent reminds us that Lent is more than half over. How have we been keeping it so far? Let us be diligent to "gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost" of this season of God's grace.

Rector's Notes

Immediately before this Sunday morning's sermon, Mr. Charles L. McKeehan, of St. Stephen's, will address the congregation briefly on the new Church Pension Fund for our Clergy. The subject is one of supreme importance, and I hope all will give to the words that will be spoken their closest attention. Heretofore the Church, in spite of their excellent efforts, has been unable to provide adequately for her clergy in disability and old age. The present plan is the work of a commission appointed by the General Convention of 1910. It places the pensioning of the Clergy on principles of business efficiency, economy and justice. Before it can be put into effect $5,000,000 must be raised to meet accrued premiums. The undertaking is far greater than any that has yet come before the Church and will require united effort and widespread sacrifice. But the opportunity is one of a lifetime and I sincerely hope the people of St. Mark's will respond generously to the appeal.

The Corporate Communion of the Altar Guild of the City Mission will take place on Wednesday, the 12th, at the 7.45 Eucharist.

This coming Wednesday evening, April 12th, at eight o'clock, the Choir of St. Mark's, assisted by Messrs. Harry Wadlow and Jacob Weber Gibson, will render in the Church the sacred cantata by C. Lee Williams, "The Last Night at Bethany," a musical interpretation of events immediately preceding the first Holy Week. All who are taking part have taken much pains and have given freely of their time and talent. I feel sure that this service, entirely religious in its character, will prove a great help to us in our devotions. The seats are all free, and strangers as well as members of the congregation are cordially welcome.

I regret that by an oversight, for which I alone am responsible, due notice was not given last Sunday of the Corporate Communion and meeting of the Women's Auxiliary.

A plate for offerings will be at the door at the Three Hours' Service. In accordance with the Bishop's suggestion the offering will be for Jewish Missions and will apply on our apportionment.

The Easter collection will be divided into three parts and given for Diocesan Missions, St. Mary's and St. Michael's Chapels. Details of these works will be found in the circulars distributed in the porch.

The Rector would note that it is by the request of both our Bishops that the Confirmation is for greater dignity separated from Evensong.

Let us break their bonds a | sunder: and cast a | way their | cords from us.

He that dwelleth in heaven shall laugh them to | scorn: the Lord shall have them | in de | rision.

Then shall he speak unto them in his | wrath: and vex them in his | sore dis | pleasure:

Yet have I set my | King: upon my holy | hill of | Sion.

I will preach the law, whereof the LORD hath said unto | me: Thou art my Son, this day have | I be | gotten thee.

Desire of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine in | heritance: and the utmost parts of the earth for | thy pos | session.

Thou shalt bruise them with a rod of | iron: and break them in pieces like a | potter's | vessel.

Be wise now therefore O ye | kings: be learned ye that are | judges | of the earth.

Serve the LORD in | fear: and rejoice unto | him with reverence.

Kiss the Son lest he be angry, and so ye perish from the right | way: if his wrath be kindled, yea but a little. Blessed are all they that | put their | trust in him.

Sunday School festival, at 4 P. M., of the Schools of St. Mark's, St. Mary's and St. Michael's.

Monday and Tuesday being the Monday and Tuesday in Easter Week, will be observed with the usual additional Celebration of the Holy Communion at half-past nine.

The patronal feast of the Parish, St. Mark's Day, will be transferred to the first free day, May 2d.

A silent meeting for meditation and prayer in the Lady Chapel on Wednesday afternoons during Eastertide from half-past four to five.

Will those who attend the Sunday morning service, not only today, but on other Sundays, for their own sake and for others', whom their departure disturbs, remain to the end?

The Clergy of the Parish are ready to bring the Holy Communion to those who are sick or shut in, that all may have the opportunity to receive the Blessed Sacrament of the Lord's Body and Blood during the Easter season. Please communicate with the Clergy regarding this, that suitable times may be arranged.

The Twelfth Annual Service, with the Presentation of the United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary, will be held in old Saint Peter's Church, Third and Pine Streets, on Thursday, April 27th, at 10.30 A. M. The Bishop of the Diocese will be the celebrant, and the Rector, the Reverend Edward M. Jefferys, D.D., the preacher. Please note that the service is not only for the parish treasurers, of the United Offering, but for every woman.

The Reverend Mother of the Community of Saint Margaret's has assigned Sister Maud Margaret for duty at Saint Mary's Chapel. Sister Maud is expected on Wednesday.

The Parish Year Books will probably be ready for distribution during the coming week. Copies will be mailed to those whose names are on our address list, or may be obtained from the Clergy or Sexton.

Rector's Notes

Monday is the Feast of Saint Philip and Saint James. This Saint Philip was the Apostle, to be carefully distinguished from the Saint Philip the Deacon who baptized the Ethiopian nobleman. The Saint James is Saint James the Less, the son of Alphaeus. On this day there will be the usual additional Celebration of the Holy Communion at half-past nine.

Tuesday we shall observe as the Feast of Saint Mark, transferred from Easter Week, when no Saints' days are noticed. There will be the usual nine-thirty Celebration.

The regular monthly meeting of the Saint Mark's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, May 4th, at quarter to four o'clock. The Rev. J. Thompson Cole will make an address on Miss Riddell's work among the lepers.

The Collections on Easter Day came to the following amounts: St. Mark's, $1,247.61; St. Michael's, $206.35; St. Mary's, $91.03. The collection at St. Mark's will be divided between the work in the Convocation of South Philadelphia, and at St. Michael's and St. Mary's.

We have received the gift of a beautiful silk national flag, which will be hung beneath the west window shortly. The custom of displaying the flag either within or without the Church edifice is an ancient one in England and is becoming increasingly common in this country. It serves to emphasize the sanctity of the State and the Church's concern in its preservation and welfare. Patriotism is a virtue much needed in the present crisis of the world's affairs.

Rector's Notes

The Right Reverend Charles H. Brent, D.D., Bishop of the Philippines, will be the preacher this morning.

Silent meeting for meditation and prayer in the Lady Chapel Wednesdays in Eastertide from half-past four to five minutes to five.

The Convention of the Diocese will meet on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, May 9th and 10th. You are asked to remember the convention fervently in your prayers. Pray particularly for peace and good will. There always have been and there always will be in the Church different schools of thought, but the present is full of opportunity for planning and co-operating in matters on which we can all agree, and it is neither for God's glory, the Church's good, nor our own credit to start up or stir up controversies, old or new.

A Diocesan Missionary Meeting will be held in the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany, Tuesday evening, May 9th, as one of the sessions of the Convention. The hour will be 7.45 P. M. I shall be glad to give tickets to those who will attend.

You are cordially invited to attend the Annual Presentation Service of the Bishop's Bricks Fund in this Church on Thursday afternoon, May 11th, at half-past four o'clock. The Bishop will be present and will receive the little Churches, which the children of the diocese have made from the Bricks. For the benefit of those who do not understand I would say that the children collect dimes for which certificates are given. The certificates are called bricks. With them little model Churches are constructed by the various schools and placed on exhibition. Our Sunday School has built a large Church meaning twenty-five dollars for the Bishop. We think it will be the finest of the lot. But we have not yet seen the others. Our children have taken the greatest interest in the building, and I hope that a number of the parents and friends will encourage us with their presence.

Rector's Notes

The Convention this year was an unusually happy one. The most perfect harmony and mutual consideration prevailed. We can well believe that this was due to the prayers of the people, but chiefly to the Corporate Communion of Clergy and delegates with which the Convention began. Heretofore it has been difficult if not impossible to receive in accordance with the ancient rule of fasting, but this year provision was made for a brief recess and a light breakfast, with the result that almost everybody made their Communion at this opening service.

An appeal for St. George's, Richmond, and Epiphany, Sherwood, was met by prompt subscriptions on the spot. Mr. Pepper promised $500 from Saint Mark's. I hope we shall all join in making up this amount. Those of you who are familiar with our own work at St. Michael's will understand when I say that St. George's ministers to a similar neighborhood. It is well that our charity should not be entirely confined to South Philadelphia. Charity begins at home, but does not stay there.

Next Sunday the Vicar of Saint Mary's will exchange with the Rector in the same manner that the Vicar of Saint Michael's exchanged in Lent. This exchange should have been made before, but unforeseen circumstances arose to prevent. I hope you will give close attention and consideration to his account of his stewardship. Saint Mary's is a leading, if not the foremost Church for colored people in the Diocese.

Rector's Notes

A few words on the missionary apportionment and the general missionary situation. The present outlook is that we shall be about $700 behind. Shall we let it go at that, shall we default; or shall we make an effort to raise the amount in full? You know how I feel about Panama, and the action of the board, in sending delegates. What St. Mark's is to do about the apportionment is a totally different matter. Suppose we do not pay it? "It will punish the board. The only way you can hurt them is in their pocketbook." Is that so? What has the board always done when there was a deficit? Borrowed. And kept on borrowing till nearly bankrupt and then paid the debt in a whirlwind campaign, like last year's. Sooner or later we shall have to pay the apportionment anyhow. Why not now? Then again, as long as we support the board we are in a position to remonstrate, but if we repudiate them, why should they care what we say or think? It pays us to pay them, because it will then pay them to attend to us. Besides there is the matter of loyalty. As a matter of pride let us be loyal to our appointed officers even though we may not admire their judgment. But what if they betray us? Well now let us be consistent. Do not let us say they have betrayed the Church and at the same time console ourselves with the statement that it would be ultra vires for the board to commit the Church to anything. Lastly, the final word on Panama has not been spoken. It will be spoken at the next Convention, when the Church will practically ratify or disapprove. That is the time to secede if things are not satisfactory, not now. Altogether, though it goes against the grain I know, I advise you to do your best to secure the full payment of our apportionment this time only.

Rector's Notes

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are the Rogation days, days of abstinence and prayer for God's blessing on the coming crops.

Thursday is Holy Thursday or the Feast of the Ascension of our Lord. The early Celebrations will be at seven and eight. Morning Prayer will be said at ten. At seven past ten there will be a solemn High Mass and sermon. There will be choral Evensong at eight o'clock, at which service our choir will be assisted by the choir of the Church of our Saviour, Jenkintown. The sermon will be delivered by the Rector.

It is the purpose of the Rector to establish three prizes to be awarded annually to the boy choristers; the first, for the best attendance at services and rehearsals; the second, for the best conduct; and the third, for the greatest improvement in singing. Ordinarily the award will be made on the basis of the choir marks for the entire year, but of necessity the award this year will be determined from the marks since December 1st, the date when Mr. Wadlow became organist.

We have good reason to be proud of Saint Mark's choir, and I hope the congregation and lovers of music generally will show their appreciation by their presence at this service when the prizes will be given. And here let me say that, as in similar things, a word of praise for faithful service and earnest effort is certainly far more useful than the unsparing and not always just criticism of slight mistakes which the best of choirs will occasionally fall into.

I wish also at this time to express my thanks—and I am sure the thanks of the congregation—to the men of the choir and to their leader for their faithfulness and efficiency, in rendering in their artistic manner the worship of the sanctuary.

The Choir Camp of Saint Mark's and Saint Michael's will be as usual at the New Jersey Choir Camp, at Adamston, July 13th to 24th, inclusive.

Tone VIII, 1st ending.

Whoso dwelleth under the defense of the most High: shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

I will say unto the Lord, Thou art my hope and my stronghold: my God in Him will I trust.

For He shall deliver thee from the snare of the hunter: and from the noisome pestilence.

He shall defend thee under His wings, and thou shalt be safe under His feathers; His faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

Thou shalt not be afraid for any terror by night: nor for the arrow that flieth by day:

For the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the sickness that destroyeth in the noon-day.

A thousand shall fall beside thee, and ten thousand at thy right hand: but it shall not come nigh thee.

Yea with thine eyes shalt thou behold: and see the reward of the ungodly.

For thou Lord art my hope: thou hast set thy house of defence very high.

There shall no evil happen unto thee: neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling.

For he shall give his angels charge over thee: to keep thee in all thy ways.

They shall bear thee in their hands: that thou hurt not thy foot against a stone:

Thou shalt go upon the lion and adder: the young lion and the dragon shalt thou tread under thy feet.

Because he hath set his love upon me, therefore will I deliver him: I will set him up because he hath known my name.

He shall call upon me and I will hear him: yea, I am with him in trouble: I will deliver him and bring him to honour.

With long life will I satisfy him: and shew him my salvation.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son; and to the Holy Ghost.

Anthem, from "The Last Judgment".....Spohr

Praise His awful name who was and is, and is to come; praise to Him who giveth immortality. All glory and majesty surround His throne. Worship and adore Him. Praise, glory to God. Mighty He cometh to judgment, for He shall judge the world in righteousness; and He shall judge His people with His truth. Fear not thou O man, for thy Redeemer liveth: He that died is risen, and He shall live to all eternity, and He shall reign, and shall conquer all His enemies. I know thy works, and thy labors, and thy patience; for my sake thou endurest affliction; yet thy first and chiefest duty thou hast forsaken, and thou art fallen from thy high estate. Repent thee of thy sins, repent and return to thy first work. Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

Rector's Notes

In response to the suggestion made several weeks ago, $32.00 has been sent Rev. G. M. Mosher for the rebuilding of his Church.

Please note the change in the order of Sunday services, beginning today. Evening Prayer will be said without the choir at five P. M. The evening musical service will be at eight P. M. It will consist of a shortened form of choral evensong with one lesson. The anthem will be from Spohr's Last Judgment. There will be a sermon, the subject for tonight being "The Knowledge of Our Lord's Life." The congregation are asked to join in the singing of the hymns, especially the processional and recessional. The seats I need hardly remind you are entirely free and unassigned. I hope that many will attend and make the service known to their friends.

Dr. Tyson's second lecture will be delivered in the Parish House on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

On Wednesday afternoon at half past four the Silent Meetings will be resumed. They will close promptly at five minutes before five so that no one need be worried through not knowing the lapse of time. I hope these meetings will be as helpful as those which were held in the Spring.

Beginning next Friday, December 8th, at eleven in the morning, a series of Conferences will be led by the Rector in the parlor of the Parish House on Religious Education. The meetings will not only be for members of the Parish but for any others who may choose to attend. I hope all will feel free and moved to take part in the discussions.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Mark's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday, December 7, at 3.45 P. M. The Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of Kyoto, will make an address on his work in Japan.

The Rt. Rev. the Bishop of this Diocese will deliver a course of three lectures on "The Bible in the Church," in St. James Church, this city, on Thursdays, December 7, 14 and 21, at 4.30 P. M.

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be said at the side Altar tomorrow morning at 9.30.

Rector's Notes

The Annual day of intercession for St. Mark's Church and St. Mary's and St. Michael's Chapels will be kept here on Thursday next, December 14th. I hope that as many as can will spend a portion of the day, in prayer for God's blessing upon the parish. Without God's blessing, thus to be obtained, we cannot hope that our work will prosper. The arrangements for the day are as follows: There will be the usual Celebrations of the Holy Communion at seven, seven forty-five and nine thirty. The seven forty-five Celebration is that appointed for the corporate Communion of the League of intercession. At noon the Litany will be said by the Rector followed by Intercessions and an address. Requests for prayer should be sent to the Rector not later than the day previous.

"God commandeth thee to ask, and teacheth thee how to ask, and promiseth what thou askest, and is angry if thou askest not: and yet askest thou not?"

Tuesday, December 12th, will be the thirtieth anniversary of the Rector's ordination to the Priesthood. He asks you to remember him in your prayers. He would also be glad to have those interested attend the Solemn High Mass which will be sung on that day at eleven, at which the Rector will be Celebrant and the Preacher, Rev. G. L. Richardson, D. D., Rector of St. Mary's, West Philadelphia. The Clerical Union for the Maintenance and Defense of Catholic Principles (commonly called the Catholic Club) will be present and will be guests of the Rector at luncheon afterwards.

At a vestry meeting held on Tuesday last, the resignation of Mr. S. Wilson Fisher was read and accepted with regret. Mr. Fisher has served the parish continuously since 1904. Mr. Andrew Wheeler, was chosen vestryman at the same meeting.

The parish has received from Mr. Richard S. Brock a very beautiful chalice of solid gold, heavily jewelled, a memorial to his wife Mrs. Emma Newbold Brock. Mrs. Brock connected herself with St. Mark's shortly after its foundation, and will be remembered especially by our older members, for her devotion to the parish and for her manifold charitable activities. The chalice will be used annually March 8th, November 1st and 30th and at such other times as the Rector may appoint.

I hope next week to speak at length on the Clergy Pension Fund. Meanwhile I very earnestly ask all those who may be approached to give the subject and the committee presenting it, their earnest and prayerful consideration. It is the largest undertaking our Church has ever planned. Its success will be fraught with far reaching consequences. Its failure—but that is not to be thought of. Every one must help. All can do something. What will you do?

Please keep in mind these three:

Musical Service, Sunday evening at eight.

Silent Meeting, Wednesday afternoon at four thirty.

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly; and rejoice with joy and singing. Say to them of a fearful heart, be strong; fear not: behold your God. He will come and save you. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing. For in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there, it shall be the way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there; and the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

Rector's Notes

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are the winter Ember Days, days of abstinence and prayer for those who are to be ordained to the Sacred Ministry.

Thursday of this week is the Feast of Saint Thomas the Apostle. There will be the usual Saint's Day Celebration at 9.30.

Liturgically, next Sunday will be the Fourth Sunday in Advent till three o'clock, after which it will be Christmas Eve. In view of these facts and the almost universal feeling that families should be together on the evening before this great festival, the choral service for next Sunday will be at five o'clock. It will consist of full choral Evensong, the First Vespers of Christmas.

As the congregation generally will be preparing for the Christmas Communion, it is proper to announce today that the services for Communion on Christmas Day will be at 7 and 8 and also at 9 for those who find it difficult to attend at the earlier hours. At 11, Choral Eucharist with Sermon and Solemn Procession.

The Clergy will be in the Church for Confessions Friday from 3 to 4, also on Saturday from 4 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening.

Your offerings are asked today for Missions. I would call your attention to the circular letter addressed to the Congregation on the subject by the Missionary Committee. As the ability of the parish to meet its diocesan and general apportionments depends largely on the three special collections taken during the winter months, I ask that your offerings be liberal. Surely as we draw near to celebrate the birth of the Holy Child, we should do all we can in His Name to carry the glad tidings of great joy to those who have no Christmas.

I also call attention to the fact that the Vestry have changed the application of the Christmas Day collection from the "Christmas Fund" to the "Church Pension Fund." The object of both is the same, the relief of aged and infirm clergy. It is wise that we should concentrate our efforts to bring the great work of establishing a system of pensions for the Clergy to a successful conclusion.

I ask you to take home for reference the circulars which give in concise form the principal facts concerning the Pension Fund. I hope that the appeal which has been sent to you will receive very earnest consideration. Saint Mark's quota will be $15,000 and it will be needful for all to do their share to raise this amount. Two subscriptions of $1,000 have been already pledged, one of $300 and two of $250. The amount raised to date is $5,515 contributed by 21 people. I shall announce from time to time the progress of our efforts, and hope that our contributions will grow rapidly.

Rector's Notes

Choral service, the First Vespers of Christmas, will be sung this afternoon at five o'clock. On account of its being Christmas Eve there will be no night service or sermon.

Services on Monday, Christmas Day, will be as follows: Celebrations for Communion at 7, 8 and also at 9. Solemn High Mass with procession and Sermon at 10.30. By an oversight the hour of this last service was incorrectly given in last week's notes.

Tuesday will be the feast of St. Stephen, Deacon and first martyr; Wednesday, that of St. John, Apostle and Evangelist; and Thursday the Holy Innocents. On these days in addition to the usual services there will be Eucharists at 9.30 A. M.

The Festival of the Schools of the Parish will take place in St. Mark's next Sunday at half past three. There will be a festal Magnificat, address, carols and procession. All the carols will be new.

The Clergy will be glad to celebrate or bring the Reserved Sacrament to such sick people as would not otherwise be able to make their Christmas Communion. Arrangements may be made by note or telephone, preferably a few days in advance.

The Sunday Schools of St. Mary's and St. Michael's Chapels will have their entertainments on the evening of the 27th. At St. Michael's the children will render "Every Child," a morality play written by Father Barnes, who was for a short time in charge of St. Michael's three years ago.

About twenty-three years ago there was founded in this parish a volunteer choir of men's voices, known as The Men's Choir, which was organized for the purpose of interpreting music written for male voices only. Three Masses were given annually for several years, when the choir disbanded and formed the nucleus of the present Fortnightly Club. It is proposed to revive these services. On the first Sunday after the Epiphany, January 7th, the Second Mass of the Orpheonistes, composed by Gounod in 1852 when he was conductor of the Orpheon in Paris, will be given by a male choir of forty voices, consisting of the Chorister's Club, of Jenkintown, and the men of our own choir. Mr. Andrew Wheeler, organist of the original Men's Choir, will play the organ at this service, and Mr. Wadlow, our organist and choir-master, will lead.

Rector's Notes

I would call your attention to the fact that the Christmas service of the Sunday Schools of St. Mark's, St. Mary's and St. Michael's will be held this afternoon at half past three. The early hour is necessary that the children may get back to their homes before night-fall. The service will consist of a festal Magnificat, Carols, Address and Procession of the schools. The carols this year are all new and very tuneful. Evensong will be read at five, without the choir, and there will be no night service. The evening services will be resumed next Sunday.

Monday, the first of January will be the Feast of the Circumcision, the Octave of Christmas. The hours of service, in accordance with our custom, will be: Celebrations of the Holy Communion at seven and eight, Matins at ten, Choral Eucharist and Sermon at half past ten. Evensong at five.

Silent Meeting on Wednesday at half past four. Conference on Religious Education, Friday at eleven; subject, "Awakening Leadership."

Saturday will be the Feast of the Epiphany, or the Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. There will be an additional Celebration at half past nine. Epiphanytide is the great missionary season of the Church, bringing before us the root principle of true Christian life, that as "the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister," so the Church, His Mystical Body exists not for the spiritual enjoyment of its members, but to carry the precious truths of the Gospel to those who have them not.

As stated in the Notes of last week, the service next Sunday morning at eleven will be a Solemn High Mass, with Sermon, and Gounod's Mass of the Orpheonistes will be rendered by Choristers' Club of Jenkintown and the men and boys of our own choir. It will be, I hope, a fitting introduction to Epiphanytide, a consecration to the worship of God, after the example of the Magi, of the precious things of Art.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will take place on Thursday, January 4th, at 3 P. M. Bishop Burleson will make the address. The Corporate Communion will be at 7.45 on Thursday.

The first of January is a time for retrospection, and I take this opportunity to note the principal changes in our staff during the past twelve months. Rev. F. E. Aitkins, who was with us for three years, first as Vicar of St. Mary's, and then as Curate at St. Mark's, left February 1st to become Rector of the important parish of St. Andrew's, Buffalo, N. Y. Rev. C. E. Taylor, an old classmate of the Rector, assisted during February and also served as locum tenens during the Summer. Rev. C. A. L. Strombom became curate at St. Mark's, March first, coming to us from the Church of the Holy Comforter, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Since Dec. 1st Rev. C. D. Fairman has assisted at St. Michael's. St. Mary's Chapel has suffered a severe loss in the removal by death in March of Sister Mary Angela, who labored in that Mission practically from its foundation. Although advanced in years, her wisdom, indefatigable energy and sympathetic tenderness made her a tremendous power for good. Her place has been taken by Sister Maud. St. Michael and All Angels also has just been called to mourn the death of Miss Sarah Lynch, who labored so faithfully and acceptably as Parish Visitor. The memory of her kindness and sterling good sense will long be treasured by those to whom she ministered. Finally, numerous changes have taken place in the ranks of St. Mark's Choir. The Rector takes this opportunity to acknowledge the zeal and painstaking devotion alike of the new and the old members, under Mr. Wadlow's efficient leadership, and to praise the artistic and reverent rendering of the musical parts of the service.

The Christmas collection for the Church Pension Fund amounted to $1384.28. This with other contributions brings the total, pledged or already given, to $10,119.28 of the $15,000 we are expected to raise. It should also be noted that very nearly $15,000 was previously subscribed by five of our members, so that the total contributions to the fund to be credited to St. Mark's will be approximately $30,000.

January 7, 1917

Celebrations for Communion, 7 and 8 A. M.

Solemn High Mass and Sermon 11.00 A. M.

Processional Hymn, "Lo, the pilgrim Magi"

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps
Gleamed that beacon star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant
Earthly king's array;
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address;
So, with meekest offerings
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be. Amen.

INTROIT. On the highest throne I beheld a Man sitting, whom a multitude of angels worship, singing together: and behold His Name and empire are for everlasting.

PSALM. O be joyful in the Lord all ye lands: serve the Lord with gladness and come before His presence with a song.

V. Glory be. INTROIT. On the highest.

GRADUAL. Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel: Which only doeth wondrous things from the beginning. The mountains also shall bring peace: and the little hills righteousness unto the people.

A regular meeting of the Managers of St. Mark's Home for Aged Women will be held in the Parish Building, Monday, January eighth, at 11.15 A. M.

The topic for the Conference on Religious Education on Friday, the 12th, will be "The Educational Program of the Parish." The topic for the 19th will be "Religion in the Home," and for the 26th "Child Psychology."

If you have not as yet considered what you can do with reference to the Church Pension Fund, let me beg you to give the matter your early attention. The importance of our completing the amount asked of us is so great, as to justify speaking of it continually. Remember, everybody should help. Do not let the feeling that you can give but little, cause you to think that that little is not worth while.

Rector's Notes

I feel sure the congregation will join me in thanking our visitors of last Sunday for doing so much to render the service most beautiful and inspiring.

The topic for the Conference on Religious Education on Friday will be "Religion in the Home."

Let me say a few words with reference to these conferences. The Church exists for the carrying out of Christ's command: Go ye therefore and teach all nations. "Go"—the missionary idea—has been developed and made effective through the work of our great Board of Missions. Of late the Church has been giving more thought to the second verb, "teach," and it is time, for upon the faithful discharge of this duty the future welfare, yes, the very existence of the Church will depend. "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge" it is written in Hosea. The educational work of the Church is now being systematized by our Board of Religious Education, organized on lines similar to those of the Board of Missions. Its aims are, To study the educational problem from the religious standpoint; To suggest methods and material for attaining the best results in Religious Education and for deepening the spiritual life through worship and service; To stimulate our clergy, teachers of religion and all our people to higher standards of education; and finally, To systematize the educational work of the Church through an inspiring and co-operating leadership in both national and local fields. The ideas and methods are intended to descend through the provinces to the several dioceses and thence to the parishes and individuals. The work of our little conference is to study the plans and suggestions of the General Board for religious education in the Home, in the Sunday School, at day school and college, and see how best to do our part to put them into effect in our own parishes. I use the word in the plural, for the conference is not for St. Mark's only. Members of other parishes attend and have been most helpful in their comments and discussions. I believe it would be a distinct help to St. Mark's if more of our own people could find time to come in.

Rector's Notes

Thursday, the 25th, will be the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. The Feast of his martyrdom was formerly joined with that of St. Peter on June 29th. St. Paul being the great apostle to the Gentiles, and his own conversion bearing fruit in the conversion of so many others, it is most fitting that this beginning of his Christian career should be specially had in remembrance.

The collection this morning will be for our missionary apportionment. The collection on the third Sunday in December amounted to $584.84, which was less than usual. We should therefore make a special effort this Sunday to bring the amount up to the average.

There will be a Day's Retreat under the Society of the Companions of the Holy Cross at St. Clement's Church, 20th and Cherry Streets, Philadelphia, on Friday, January 26, 1917. Conductor Rev. Father Officer O. H. C. All persons who desire to attend are asked to communicate with the Secretary S.C.H.C., 2222 Spruce Street, and further information will be sent them and the Time Table on request.

Bishop Rhinelander has asked us to join in the "Pilgrimage of Prayer." The idea originated in England of having "pilgrims," chosen for the work, go from place to place, gathering people for prayer together. In this country the plan proposed at the General Convention is for the prayer to sweep like a wave from Diocese to Diocese. Maine took it up the first week in Advent, and the wave is travelling southward. It will be with us February 4 to 11. We are asked to pray for a blessing upon this devotion daily, using the collect for the Tenth Sunday after Trinity.

We have also been asked to join in a week of prayer January 18 to 25 for the reunion of Christendom, a hopeful sign.

Some friends of the former organist have received letters from him stating he has recovered from his wound and will return to the front. We are always glad to hear of his welfare. I desire to correct the rather persistent rumor that Mr. Jones is on leave of absence from St. Mark's. This is not the fact. His connection with St. Mark's was entirely severed over a year ago. The rumor has caused occasional embarrassment both to myself and the present organist, and would, I am sure, be displeasing to Mr. Jones if he knew of it.

Rector's Notes

Friday, February 2nd, will be the Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called the Purification of Saint Mary the Virgin. There will be a Celebration of the Holy Communion at half past nine.

Next Sunday will be Septuagesima Sunday, and we shall no longer count back to Christmas but forward to Easter, in our reckoning of the Church year.

The Corporate Communion of the St. Mark's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will take place at the quarter to eight service on Thursday, February 1st. The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Parish House at three P. M. Miss Riddle of the Manila Hospital will address the meeting.

The topic for the Religious Education Conference next Friday morning at 11 will be "Child Psychology."

The Silent Meetings continue every Wednesday afternoon from half past four to five minutes to five. Will you, whether you come yourself or not, make known the fact to others who may find them helpful? I find that they are not as generally known as they should be.

I call your attention to the circulars of the pageant entitled "Realization" which will be found in the Church Porch. The pageant will be given at the Metropolitan Opera House, Broad and Poplar, on February 16th. The Pageant is given under the auspices of the Junior Board of the Diocese, and has for its aim a deeper and wider interest in the need for Christian service at this time of the world's history. I hope many from this Parish will attend.

So many appeals for assistance are made upon our purses, that it is often difficult to know to which to give, if we cannot give to all. I commend to your special interest the circular "St. Andrew's Episcopal Church," the proposed Chapel for Students at the Pennsylvania State College. A State institution like this is a strategic point in the Church, because so many students are in attendance who need the Church's care and may be brought under her influence. Rev. Edward Monroe Frear is our Chaplain at the State College, all the dioceses of the State contributing to his support. His work is as successful as it is useful. But he needs a suitable Church in which to carry on services.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—American Organ Players Club Recital next Saturday afternoon, February 10th, 1917, at 3.30. Soloists: Master Augustine Garcia, Mr. Carl Ashwood. Public invited. No cards required.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be said Monday at half past nine.

The Pilgrimage of Prayer, of which I wrote recently in these notes, begins today. A Diocesan Service will be held each day of the week in seven of the City Churches in turn. On Saturday it will be at St. Mark's from noon to one, under the auspices of the Diocesan Educational Department. The Pilgrimage of Prayer, as the Bishop says, is a challenge to the Church. I hope each of you will take part in the devotions, public and private. You will find a special leaflet for that purpose in the porch.

The topics for the Conference on Religious Education during the remainder of the month will be: 9th, The Child's Devotional Life. 16th, Children and Missionary Endeavor. 23d, The Child and Social Service.

There will be a meeting for the Associates of the Community of Saint Margaret at the Home for Aged Women on Thursday afternoon.

In the Parish House of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Wednesday evening at eight, a meeting will be held in the interest of the Keswick Colony of Mercy. The aims, methods and needs of the institution will be presented, after which there will be an entertainment. Father Niblo will preside. The Colony is situated in the Jersey pines, between Whitings and Tom's River. It does a most useful work in caring for those who are battling with the temptation to drink, and we have been not infrequently indebted to its co-operation in the Parish Temperance work.

Rector's Notes

The "American Catholic" has discontinued publication, its editor having seceded to the Roman body. Per contra, "The American Church Monthly, a magazine of comment, criticism and review dealing with questions confronting the Anglican communion," will make its appearance in March. The names of a number of prominent priests and laymen are found on its Editorial Council. Those interested in theological matters will do well to subscribe.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Suffragan will visit the parish Easter Even and administer Confirmation. The Confirmation Lectures at St. Mark's will be given as usual in the Lady Chapel at 4 P. M. Tuesdays and Fridays in Lent, beginning February 23d. I should be glad to have children attend them, even if they do not expect to be confirmed this year. It is well to go over the subject twice. But the lectures are even more for grown people, as it is my aim to present simply but thoroughly what the Church teaches her children and requires her members to do. Communicants also may find it useful occasionally to review their past instructions. Their presence will be a help by way of encouragement to those more immediately concerned.

The folders giving details of Lenten services are being printed and will be out shortly. The chief additions to the ordinary routine will be Litany and Intercessions Wednesdays and Fridays, and courses of sermons at Evensong on the same days. Rev. G. W. Lincoln, of the Church of St John Baptist, Germantown, will preach Wednesdays, and Rev. C. A. Strombom Fridays.

Some difficulty has been experienced in past years in bringing these services to a close in time for dinner or other engagements. I am well aware that no words however true or however eloquent can be profitable to people conscious that the service is prolonged beyond the usual time. I think with our preachers this year we can say confidently that the service will be over by quarter to six.

Rector's Notes

The Clergy will be in the Church on Shrove Tuesday from three to five for Confessions.

The Reverend A. S. Cooper of Ichang, China, will be the preacher on Sunday morning next. Father Cooper, it will be recollected, spent his diaconate at St. Mark's. His many friends will be glad to welcome him again.

The Confirmation lectures will begin on Friday next at four in the Lady Chapel. The object of these lectures is to present a simple and clear statement of "those things which are most surely believed among us." They are intended primarily of course for those who purpose to be confirmed, either this year or next year, either in our own or in other parishes. They are also for those who, without any present intention of being confirmed, are yet interested in knowing what is the teaching of our Communion. Finally it is hoped they may be of service to communicants to put them "in remembrance of these things, though ye know them and be established in the present truth." I hope many will come to the first lecture.

Rector's Notes

It seems fitting in this critical time that the national anthem should be played on Sunday morning at the close of the service immediately after the Recessional hymn, but before the Choir leave the Chancel.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are Ember Days.

For a number of years the Christian Student Movement has chosen the last Sunday in February as a day of prayer for men and women in centers of learning. We are asked to join with them today, which I hope you will do in your private devotions.

The Corporate Day of Intercession of St. Mark's League of Intercession will be next Thursday, March 1st. The services at St. Mark's will be as follows: Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7, 7.45 and 9.30 A. M. Morning Prayer, 9.00 A. M. Address and Intercessions at 10.00 A. M. Penitential Office, Address and Intercessions at 11.00 A. M. Litany, Address and Intercessions at noon. The addresses will be made by the Rt. Rev. Wilson R. Stearly, D. D., Bishop Suffragan of Newark, N. J.

On Monday afternoons in Lent, beginning at 3.00 P. M. Rev. Stuart L. Tyson of Princeton, N. J., will give a course of free lectures on the Life of St. Paul in Holy Trinity Parish House.

The congregation will be gratified to learn that the $5,000,000 necessary to put in operation the Church Pension Fund has been raised. It will also be of interest to know that $39,796.43 was contributed by members of St. Mark's Parish.

I sincerely hope that all St. Mark's people will use their influence in society in the direction of more rational hours in the dances, and also against the thoughtless leading of the young people to drink on such occasions. I can hardly believe that those who do it realize how often the practice is responsible for the moral, social and financial ruin of those whom they have tempted.

Rector's Notes

There will be a meeting of the St. Mark's Board of Religious Education in the Parish House on Monday, the 5th, at 10 o'clock.

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be celebrated on Monday at 9.30 A. M.

Do not forget the Parish Meeting Thursday at 4.

On Sunday next the Vicar of Saint Michael's Chapel will exchange with the Rector and will take the opportunity to tell the congregation here about his work.

The announcement of the Rendering of Russian Church Music by the choir of the Cathedral of Saint Nicholas, New York, in St. Mark's next Thursday, was received with such enthusiasm that the supply of admission cards was immediately exhausted. The Most Reverend Evdokim, Archbishop of Aleutia and North America, has signified his intention of being present. Bishop Rhinelander has taken keen interest in the matter from the beginning, and will attend if able. It is a privilege to feel that St. Mark's is helping in this way to foster the feeling of fellowship and good will between the Anglican and Russian Churches.

Your attention is called to the circulars in the porch, regarding the Anglican and Eastern Association. A joint meeting of the American Branch, Provincial and Diocesan Chapter will be held at 8 P. M. on Tuesday at the Church of the Ascension, and on Wednesday at the Greek Church of the Holy Apostles, Twelfth below Fitzwater. The object of this association is to promote friendly relations with the Eastern Churches and to help their members in this country, as far as we can, where no ministrations of their own Churches are available. We hope also to learn more about their teachings and practices. It is astonishing how little even well instructed Churchmen know of the Eastern Churches. And few realize how large a population of members of these Churches, is to be found in the United States.

The Rector has been asked to pledge $50 from Saint Mark's for the better support of the Church of St. Sauveur, 22d and DeLancey Streets. This he has not felt at liberty to do, but he would be glad to receive contributions and forward them to the Committee having the matter in charge. In our admiration for the citizens of France, do not let us forget the French speaking people in our midst, French, Belgian and Swiss.

Hear my prayer, O God, incline Thine ear! Thyself from my petition do not hide; Take heed to me! Hear how in prayer I mourn to Thee! Without thee all is dark, I have no guide! My heart is sorely pained within my breast, My soul with deathly terror is oppressed, Trembling and fearfulness upon me fall, With horror overwhelmed, O Lord, hear me call. Rector's Notes

The Vicar of St. Michael's, exchanging this morning with the Rector, will present to you the plans and needs of his Chapel. I ask for his words your careful attention and consideration.

The topics for the Friday Conferences on Religious Education for the rest of the month will be: On the 16th, "The Sunday School;" 23rd, "The Sunday School Course of Study;" 30th, "The Child's Day School Life." There will be no conferences after that till April 13th.

The Parish Meeting on Thursday last was fairly well attended but I regret that more were not present. Two facts were brought out that need special emphasis. Less than half the Communicants attached to St. Mark's (as distinct from communicants of the Chapels) contribute to the support of the Parish by the regular methods of pew rents, envelopes and the budget. This is not as it should be, and I earnestly ask those who give spasmodically or not at all to consider both the needs of the Parish and their own duty in this matter. Secondly, the steady drift of Communicants from the city to suburban parishes makes the carrying on of parish work increasingly difficult. Our endowment fund needs to be greatly augmented, and I urge that the Parish Endowment be liberally remembered in your wills.

The visit of the Russian Cathedral Choir of St. Nicholas, New York, to St. Mark's on Thursday last will be long remembered. The Church was crowded to its utmost capacity, and both the rendering of the music and the hearing of it were marked with deep feeling and reverence. Our thanks are accorded to those who made the visit possible and to those of our own number who contributed by their care and labor to the successful arrangements.

Lord's Prayer

Psalm 32 Sixth Gregorian tone

Blessed is he whose unrighteousness is forgiven: and whose sin is covered.

Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth no sin: and in whose spirit there is no guile.

For whilst I held my tongue: my bones consumed away through my daily complaining.

For thy hand is heavy upon me day and night: and my moisture is like drought in summer.

I will acknowledge my sin unto thee: and mine unrighteousness have I not hid.

I said, I will confess my sins unto the Lord: and so thou forgavest the wickedness of my sin.

For this shall every one that is godly make his prayer unto thee, in a time when thou mayest be found: but in the great water-floods they shall not come nigh him.

Thou art a place to hide me in, thou shalt preserve me from trouble: thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance.

I will inform thee, and teach thee in the way wherein thou shalt go: and will guide thee with mine eye.

Be ye not like to horse and mule, which have no understanding: whose mouths must be held with bit and bridle, lest they fall upon thee.

Great plagues remain for the ungodly: but whoso putteth his trust in the Lord, mercy embraceth him on every side.

Be glad, O ye righteous, and rejoice in the Lord: and be joyful, all ye that are true of heart.

Anthem, from "The Crucifixion"..... Stainer

So Thou liftest Thy divine petition, Pierced with cruel anguish through and through. So Thou grieveest o'er our lost condition, Pleading, "Ah, they know not what they do." Oh, 'twas love, in love's divinest feature, Passing o'er that dark and murderous blot, Finding e'en for each low-fallen creature, Though they slay Thee, one redeeming spot.

Yes, and still Thy patient Heart is yearning, With a love that mortal scarce can bear, Thou in pity, deep, divine and burning, Liftest e'en for me Thy mighty prayer. So Thou pleadest, e'en for my transgression, Bidding me look up and trust and live; So Thou murmurest Thine intercession, Bidding me look up and trust and live. So Thou pleadest, Yea, he knew not, for My sake, forgive.

Rector's Notes

I hope the Collection for Missions this morning will be a liberal one. We need $1,931.73 to complete our total apportionment.

The rose-colored vestments are worn to-day to mark the more joyous character of Mid-Lent, or Mothering Sunday.

A special meeting of the Vestry is called for ~~Tues~~ Thurs day afternoon, March ~~10~~, at 4.15.

The anniversary of the death of Sister Mary Angela will be marked with a Solemn High Requiem on Saturday next at half-past five A. M. in Saint Mary's Chapel.

According to the Calendar, next Sunday should be both the Fourth Sunday in Lent and the Feast of the Annunciation. As the Sundays of Lent are "Privileged Sundays," they take precedence over the ordinary Saints days, hence the Feast of the Annunciation will be transferred to the first unoccupied day, April 16. In our devotion to the Blessed Virgin we must not forget that this particular festival kept in her memory is only a double of the Second Class.

Rector's Notes

A very generous gift for parochial obligations from one of our Communicants makes it possible for the Vestry to devote the Easter Offering to the Belgian Children's Relief Fund. Our Collection will go to feed the children of the Commune of Puers, a hamlet about twelve miles S. S. W. of Antwerp. The town is on the edge of the marshes to the West of the River Rupel, a tributary of the Sheldt. East and West, Puers is about half way between Malines and Termonde. This latter town was besieged by Louis XIV in 1667, who was driven off by the opening of certain sluices which converted the country into a morass. Before the present war, Peurs was a town of a little over 4,000 inhabitants, carrying on the manufacture of rope, leather and malted liquors. It speaks volumes for the misery of the country that only 267 children of school age survive. St. Mark's is asked to provide these 267 children with the supplementary ration, which the medical experts declare to be necessary if they are to grow to a healthy maturity. This can be done at a dollar a month per child. The German Government guarantees that the food will reach the children for whom it is given. We are asked to support these children for six months. It will cost $1,602. I ask the people of St. Mark's to give this amount on Easter Day, as an act of Christian charity to those who shall benefit by our alms and as an act of gratitude on our part for favors received.

Saturday Afternoon—Just as the notes are about to go to press, I learn that one of our Communicants alone will care for a village of 200. The proposition I have made above is not big enough for us. Forgive my lack of faith. I should have promised the Relief Committee more. But it is not too late to change. Let us try for a village of six or seven hundred. We can do it if we try. And what a glorious thing it would be!

Processional Hymn, Hail! Festal Day!.....Rev. J. Baden Powell

Hail! Festal Day! To endless ages known,
When Christ, o'er death victorious, gained His Throne.

Now with the Lord of new and heavenly birth,
His gifts return to grace the springing earth.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

He reigns supreme, Who died the death of shame;
And all created things adore His Name.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

Fulfil Thy promise, King of Love, we pray!
The third morn brightens, rise and come away.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

No mould'ring tomb shall hold Thee in repose,
No stone the Ransom of the world enclose.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

Who holdest all things in Thy hallow'd Hand,
No rocky barrier can before Thee stand.
Hail! Festal Day; etc.

Cast off the grave-clothes, let them there remain;
Come forth to us, our All, our only gain.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

Creator, Fount of Life, Thou know'st the grave;
And thence returning, Thou art strong to save.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

Light of the world! Show us Thy Face once more,
The day that died with Thee, to-day restore.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

A countless people from death's bondage freed;
Own Thee Redeemer, following Thy lead.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

The shades of death are pierc'd, his laws undone,
And trembling chaos flees the rising sun.
Hail! Festal Day, etc.

CHILDREN'S CAROL SERVICE

4.00 o'clock

Rector's Notes

The Lord is risen! The Lord is risen indeed! With this ancient Easter salutation the Rector wishes the congregation the blessings of Eastertide.

Do not let us forget in the midst of our abundance, the want of the Belgian children. I appeal for your utmost generosity on their behalf to-day.

For the information of the strangers who may be here this morning, let me say that we should appreciate their remaining to the end of the service.

The Easter Service of the Sunday Schools of St. Mark's, St. Mary's and St Michael's will be held here at 4.00 P. M. It will consist of the festival Magnificat, Carols, Address and Procession.

Evensong this afternoon at five, without music. There will be no evening service.

Monday and Tuesday, being the Monday and Tuesday in Easter Week will be observed with the additional Holy Day Celebration at half past nine.

Notice is hereby given that an election of twelve men to serve as Vestrymen of Saint Mark's Church for the ensuing year, will be held in the Parish Parlor, on Monday, April ninth, between the hours of four and five of the afternoon.

There will be a meeting of the Vestry on Easter Tuesday.

The Silent Meetings in the Lady Chapel on Wednesdays at half past four will continue as usual. The Conference on Religious Education will be resumed on Friday at 11. "Religion in the College" will be the topic for discussion.

The Clergy of the Parish are ready to bring the Holy Communion to those who are sick or shut in, that all may have the opportunity to receive the Blessed Sacrament of Christ's Body and Blood during the Easter Season. Those desiring this privilege are requested to communicate with the Rector, that arrangements may be made.

Several have spoken to the Rector about the publication of the Banns. The Rector would announce that he will make this the rule in the future at all public weddings. The revival of this old custom, after a period of neglect will do something to uphold the dignity of the Sacrament of Holy Matrimony, and serve as a warning against hasty marriages.

What aileth thee O thou sea that thou fleddest: and thou Jordan, that thou wast driven back.

Rector's Notes

Monday will be observed as the Feast of the Annunciation, transferred from March 25th. There will be an additional Celebration at half past nine o'clock.

Let us all rejoice at the splendid offering on Easter Day for the Belgian Children's Relief Fund. The collection amounts to $2,700. The Rector has transferred the application of the fund from the smaller town Puers to the larger one of Hombeeck (450 children) two miles West of Malines.

Next Sunday will be celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the inauguration of Saint Mark's Vested Choir, the first of this kind in Philadelphia. Mr. Pearce, the Organist and Choirmaster in 1867, will be with us on this occasion and will be tendered a reception on the Monday following. I shall speak further of the details in the Rector's notes of next Sunday.

During the past fifty years St. Mark's Choir has maintained the highest standard of Church music. Bach's passion Music, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" head a long list of the great works which have been given from time to time. Almost all the great masses have been used in the services and many given by our choir for the first time in this country. From the long list of members, about five hundred, many have become distinguished artists. The list of musicians includes David Bispham, Henri Scott, Nicholas Douty. Other prominent members have been Judge Norris S. Barratt, Charles A. Braun and John H. Carr. A feature of the past work was the Men's Choir of St. Mark's. Andrew Wheeler was the Organist. This was the first men's choir in Philadelphia to sing the entire service. Mr. Wheeler is now Chairman of the Music Committee, and the present Organist and Choirmaster, Lewis A. Wadlow, look forward to a splendid reunion of all the old members, and are planning for the continued advance of the work of the choir and the music in the Church.

If any former members of the choir should chance to see these lines, they are asked to send their names and addresses at once to the Rector that they may receive invitations to the Reception. There are some gaps in the list of choir members, especially in the early days, and we should like to have our lists as complete as possible.

Rector's Notes

Tuesday, the First, is the Feast of St. Philip and St. James. There will be the usual Saints' day Celebration at half past nine.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House on Thursday at 3.00 P.M.

The Sunday School meets to-day for the last time this season. The day for the presentation of the Bishop's Bricks Churches has not yet been given out but will probably be Saturday May 12th. The children will be notified and I hope will come out to carry our little Church which this year is a very pretty one of yellow brick and slate roof!

The final conference on Religious Education was held on Friday last. One result of the conferences will be to have a special Communion service for day school teachers at St. Mark's, Saturday, May 12th, at 7.45 with a breakfast afterward. I should be glad to have the fact known as widely as possible, and also to explain our plans further to any who may be interested.

The Silent Meeting on Wednesday afternoon will be discontinued, to resume about the first of October.

The Queen Mary's Needlework Guild which meets in the Parish House every Tuesday to work for the Allies has sent out 280,000 articles for the hospitals during the time it has been working with us. It is planned to take another day to work for our American Hospitals, but the details have not yet been perfected. They will be announced later.

The Reception and Reunion on the Fiftieth Anniversary of St. Mark's Choir was a great success. It was an inspiration to all who came. In view of the fact that the rector's sermon contained some historical matter concerning the choir, which it would seem advisable to preserve, it will be published, and sent to those more particularly interested.

Rector's Notes

Thursday of this week is Ascension Day, or Holy Thursday. The two early Celebrations will be at seven and eight. Morning Prayer will be said at ten, with a Choral High Mass and sermon at ten-thirty. In the evening at eight, there will be Choral Evensong. This will be the occasion for the annual giving of the Choir Prizes.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are the Rogation days, times for abstinence and prayer for God's blessing upon the labors of the husbandmen. The days have a special meaning for us this year, in view of the starving multitudes in Europe and our need to feed them with our crops. The Litany followed by intercessions will be said each noon, and I hope that a number of the people will find time to join in this our service of prayer.

I do not believe you realize what you missed, if you did not attend the missionary meeting on Tuesday night, the first evening of the Convention. I know missionary meetings are accounted dull affairs, but this one, at any rate, was anything but dull. All four addresses were short, intensely interesting and to the point. Dr. Prevost's remarks on our neglect of the spiritual needs of the country furnished much food for thought. Fr. Douchette Clarke spoke eloquently for the Negro, and Fr. Lane for City parishes in run down neighborhoods. Mr. Zacker, in his impassioned appeal for Jewish missions was wonderful.

I am proud to note that of the four speakers Fr. Lane came originally from St. Mark's and Fr. Clarke from Saint Michael and All Angel's.

The Bishop's Bricks Fund service will be at Trinity Church, next Saturday at 3 P. M. I hope our Sunday School will be there.

Rector's Notes

Next Sunday is the Whitsun Day, one of the days when the faithful communicant should make his Communion. The hours of service will be as usual. The Clergy will be in the Church for confessions Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. Other times by appointment.

I want to say a few very earnest words to you about your summer religion. Saint Mark's is not the only place where God is worshipped, nor is the law of keeping the Lord's day holy limited to Philadelphia. When you are out of town you are under the same obligation to attend the local parish Church that you are to attend St. Mark's when at home. Makes no matter what service it is. It may be "mere matins," but that does not dispense you. It is no excuse to say "I must hear Mass" and run off to the Roman Church. Even a Roman will tell you that there is no obligation to attend schismatic worship. And if schism ever is a sin, it is when catholic churchmen, (little c) make this pretext to dishearten and wound the little band of faithful, sincere, even though ignorant Churchmen, (big C) who probably have made great sacrifices to keep the parish Church going. Help them. You can do wonders for them. But be careful. Don't overawe them with your superiority. Do not tell them how much better we do things at St. Mark's. Do not be over anxious to show them what is "Correct." Bossiness is always resented, or ought to be. I speak feelingly for I was a country Rector once.

And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpets, and the mountain smoking; and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off. And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear; but let not God speak with us, lest we die.

When God of old came down from heaven,
In power and wrath He came;
Before His feet the clouds were riven,
Half darkness and half flame.
But when He came the second time,
He came in power and love:
Softer than gale at morning prime,
Hovered His holy Dove. Amen.

Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God and every one that loveth knoweth God. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us and His love is perfected in us.

Monday and Tuesday are Holy Days, being the Monday and Tuesday in Whitsun week. There will be additional Celebrations at half past nine o'clock.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are the Whitsun Ember days, days of abstinence and prayer for those who are to be ordained to the sacred ministry. You are asked to remember especially Rev. Frank Williamson, Jr. who will be advanced next Sunday to the Priesthood.

As this will be the last time the music leaflet will appear till the Fall, I would give notice that after next Sunday, June third, the Summer arrangement of the Celebrations will go into effect. On week days Matins will be said at seven, followed immediately by the Celebration at seven fifteen. The hour for Evensong will be half past five. The seven o'clock Sunday Celebration will be discontinued till October. Please bear in mind that the hour of early service on Sunday will be EIGHT o'clock, that being found the more convenient hour for those who attend during the summer.

In July and August the late choral Celebration will be at half past nine, Matins being said at nine.

Praise His awful name who was and is, and is to come: praise to Him who giveth immortality. All glory and majesty surround His throne. Worship and adore Him. Praise, glory to God. Mighty He cometh to judgment, for He shall judge the world in righteousness; and He shall judge His people with His truth. Fear not thou, O man, for thy Redeemer liveth: He that died is risen, and He shall live to all eternity. and He shall reign, and shall conquer all His enemies. I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience; for My sake thou hast endured affliction; yet thy first and chiefest duty thou hast forsaken, and thou art fallen from thy high estate: repent thee of thy sin! repent and return to thy first work: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. Rector's Notes

I resume today the publication of the Music Lists with the Rector's Notes. Will you please rely upon them for all parish announcements?

During Advent the Litany will be said on all weekdays at half-past twelve. I hope that there may be some who may find time to join in this devotion, with the special intercessions that will be offered from day to day.

The Parish League of Intercession begs you to join with it in prayer for the guidance of God's Holy Spirit and a blessing upon our work during the coming year. The Annual Advent Day of Intercession will be held here on Thursday next, December 6th. Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7.00, 7.45 and 9.30 A. M. At 12.30, Litany, Address and Intercessions.

We shall resume the Silent Meetings on Wednesday afternoons from 4.30 to 4.55. These have in many instances been extremely helpful to those who have been willing to give the time to "Hearken what the Lord will say concerning me." Meditation is of all spiritual exercises the best adapted to conquer that fidgetiness, fussiness, and lack of perseverance which makes the good intentions and work of some good people so singularly ineffective.

Beginning with next Friday, the Rector will lead a Bible Class on the Revelation of St. John, every Friday at 11 o'clock. I say lead to emphasize the fact that I hope the class will not be content with the mere listening to information, but will be stimulated to such thought as may lead to discussion, questioning and perhaps further research. That will be the true test of its usefulness. I think we shall find the book of Revelation of peculiar interest and help at the present time.

I would call particular attention to the Sunday Evening Services with their special program of music and of preaching during the Advent season. "Is it possible that with such a beautiful service, your Church is not filled?" That is what an entire stranger said to me in the porch Sunday evening a few weeks ago. I believe the services would be better attended if we all resolved to make them better known.

Rector's Notes

The Choral Evensong on the 13th, with Dean Vernon as the preacher, calls for a word of explanation. It is evident that the war, with its heavy toll of human life, will soon be bringing home very forcibly to many of us death and the life beyond. What is death? Does it end all? What becomes of the Soul? Is it conscious? Is communion possible with the departed? In a Catholic Parish, where everyone can answer unhesitatingly and accurately exactly what the Church teaches on such points, no preaching on them would seem to be necessary. Although even St. Peter found it wise to put men in remembrance though they knew the doctrine. But it does seem to be the Church's duty in such a time as this to make a special effort to spread the truth where it is less known. The plan of a special service is the outcome of a conference following the meeting of the Guild of All Souls. I would ask you, first, to come yourself, if not for instruction, yet for example, second, to bring some one with you, and let it be preferably someone less familiar with the Church's ways and teaching, third, to make a special effort to welcome any strangers, some of whom will doubtless have come from a long distance.

The suggestion has come to me from several quarters that it would really be more convenient if instead of having two weekday Masses at seven and quarter before eight, we had one at half past seven. It has happened not infrequently this Fall that one of the two Masses has had to be omitted for lack of a congregation, and it is idle to shut one's eyes to changing conditions. I should be very glad of some expression of opinion on the part of those who do, or would like to come out early, and I shall try to decide what on the whole seems to be best.

Rector's Notes

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are the Winter Ember days, days of abstinence and prayer for those who are about to be ordained.

Thursday is the feast of St. Thomas, Apostle and Martyr. The Collect reminds us that God for the greater confirmation of the faith suffered him to be doubtful in our Lord's resurrection. It is well to remember.

If doubts arise in our minds it is our duty to use honest effort to solve them, with prayer that we may be led into the truth.

If tempted to change our faith let us at least have the fairness to be sure of what our Church really teaches.

If others fail to believe and practice the Catholic religion, that is no excuse for losing faith ourselves.

No two minds move in exactly the same channels; do not let us be too hasty to brand as heretics those who are quite unmoved by the arguments that to us are convincing.

Do not say: I will not believe, but rather, I do not yet understand.

I expect to begin the Bible Class next Friday at 11.

time before them.

Offertory Anthem, "Nazareth" Charles Gounod

Though poor be the chamber, come here, come and adore,
Lo, the Lord of Heaven hath to mortals given
Life for evermore.

Shepherds, who folded your flocks beside you,
Tell what was told by angel voices near.
To you this day is born, He who will guide you
Through paths of peace to living waters clear.
Though poor, etc.

Kings from a far land, draw near and behold Him,
Led by the beam whose warning bade ye come;
Crowns cast down, with robe robe royal enfold Him,
Your King descends to earth from brighter home.
Though poor, etc.

Wind, to the cedars proclaim the joyful story,
Wave of the sea, the tidings bear afar:
Behold, in all its glory, all broad and bright rises
Eternal Morning Star!
Though poor, etc.

Rector's Notes

The Sunday Schools of Saint Mary's and Saint Michael's Chapels will not visit Saint Mark's this year, as formerly, and the only service this afternoon will be the usual Evensong, read at five.

This evening's musical service will consist entirely of old familiar Christmas hymns and carols with a few brief words by the Rector. It will be a service to which I hope you will come and bring your friends, and join heartily in the singing. This you can the more easily do because in all probability words and music have been known to you from childhood, and because the music is not in parts but in unison. At the close, the Choir will sing the great Christmas Anthem, Gloria in Excelsis, as rendered this morning from the Sacred Heart Mass of C. Gounod.

Tuesday of the coming week will be the Octave of Christmas, the feast of the Circumcision. The hours of service will be 6 and 8 and 10.30 for the choral Mass and Sermon.

Next Sunday will be the Feast of the Epiphany.

We hope on the Octave, January 13, to have a musical service similar to the one held about the same time a year ago.

The Women's Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting next Thursday, January 3, at the usual hour. We hope to have an address by Rev. Karl M. Block, who is stationed at Camp Dix.

A circular with reference to the completion of the endowment of Keble College, Oxford, has been sent me by Bishop Kinsman and will be found on the Board in the Church Porch. I commend the project to those especially who have received inspiration and help from this English saint and poet of the last Century.

Rector's Notes

Next Sunday we shall repeat the service we held at the corresponding time last year, Solemn High Mass and Sermon with the rendering of Gounod's Second Mass of the Orpheonists by the Choristers' Club, of Jenkintown, and our own choir. The Orpheon was a School of vocal music founded in 1835 in Paris under governmental supervision. Gounod took a special interest in its members and composed for them the music we shall render.

With this first issue of the year, I make note of the principal parochial items of interest in 1917. There has been one change on the staff of the clergy. Rev. Charles Fairman was called to Northfield, Vermont, and Rev. Carl I. Shoemaker succeeded him November 1st. The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Inauguration of St. Mark's vested Choir, the first of this kind in Philadelphia, was held April 22d with much enthusiasm. An Alumni Association was formed, which will meet annually. The Choir of the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas, New York City, on March 8th, rendered in the Church selections from the Russian liturgy, by Tschaikowsky and Rachmaninoff—a notable musical event. The congregation has responded nobly to outside appeals. Our contribution to the Church Pension Fund amounted finally to $39,796.43. Our Easter Collection, amounting to $2,700, was given to the relief of Belgian Children. A thorough survey of the properties of St. Mark's, St. Michael's and St. Mary's was made by the vestry in the Spring, and a number of long deferred repairs and much needed improvements made. These have not yet been completely paid for. I hope the congregation will wipe out the indebtedness at an early date. Death has been very busy especially among our older members; Mrs. Conarroe, little Millicent Maull, a devoted member of the Sunday School, Mr. W. H. Newbold, Mr. Wainwright, Dr. VanPelt, Mr. Horace Brock, a Vestryman, Miss Reintzel. The names also of Mrs. Prevost who for the past two years attended St. Michael's Chapel, and F. Averay Jones, our former organist, who died for his country, somewhere in France, will also occur to us. God grant them eternal rest.

The First Sunday after the Epiphany

Solemn High Mass and Sermon.....11 A. M.

Processional Hymn, Lo, the Pilgrim Magi.

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps,
Gleamed that beacon Star:
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly kings' array;
He a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address;
So, with meetest off'rings,
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be. Amen.

Introit—Ancient Plainsong. “Adorate Deum.”

Let all the angels of God worship Him. Lo, Zion heard of it and rejoiced: and the daughters of Judah were glad. The Lord is King, the earth may be glad thereof: yea, the multitude of the isles may be glad thereof.

Rector's Notes

As I announced last Sunday morning, Reverend Shirley Carter Hughson of the Order of the Holy Cross will give a mission in St. Mark's Church, beginning Mid-Lent Sunday, March tenth and ending with Passion Sunday, March Seventeenth.

For the clear understanding of what a mission is, and what its purpose, I quote a few sentences from the "Missioners' Handbook," by Father Paul B. Bull of the Community of the Resurrection.

"A Mission is a special effort to convert souls to God. . . . The first purpose of a Mission is to seek and save that which was lost, to thunder forth the old message in new tones. . . . If the Church is contented with the minstry of edification alone, a parish priest may settle down to overfeednig a little clique of saintly churchgoers to the point of spiritual indigestion; and, fatally pleased with the one sheep in the fold, may almost forget the ninety and nine in the wilderness. . . . The second purpose of a Mission is to awaken the careless. A vast proportion of the ruin of souls comes not from deliberate sin, but from thoughtlessness. . . . Thirdly; the faithful need that quickening for which the Psalmist always prayed. It is so easy to become self centered and self indulgent and stagnant in one's religious life. . . . and the Mission affords opportunities of sacrifice, of working for others, of confessing Christ before men, which rescue the soul from spiritual selfishness, and nerve it by that touch of pain, without which there is no progress."

The Diocesan Educational Day will be held at the Church House on Wednesday, January 16th. Mission Study Classes at 10.30. The Gospel of the Kingdom at 11.45. Conferences at 2. Address by the Bishop at 3. I commend this to your notice and hope that many will attend.

I hope as many as can will attend the Bishop's Lectures, notice of which is fully displayed in the Porch.

Rector's Notes

Friday is the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. There will be an additional Celebration at 9.30 A. M.

The preacher this morning will be the Reverend Royal H. Balcom, who will give us an account of the wonderful Mission work that is being done among the Indians.

The Collection this morning will be for our Missionary apportionment. I always bespeak your generosity for this, because Missions are the life of the Church.

I give notice several weeks ahead that the Rector's Course of Confirmation Lectures will be held in the Lady Chapel, beginning at four o'clock on February 8th, the Friday before Ash Wednesday, instead of the Friday after. The lectures will be continued on the Tuesdays and Fridays of Lent, except during the week of the Mission. The Right Reverend, the Bishop of the Diocese, will visit St. Mark's as usual on Easter Even at five o'clock. The classes prepared at St. Mary's and St. Michael's will not be confirmed at St. Mark's but in their respective chapels.

I would again announce that Father Hughson will conduct a Mission at St. Mark's, March 10th to 17th. I have written the Father to ask his wishes as to preparation and will make them known when I receive his reply. Meanwhile will you use this or some similar prayer daily?

A PRAYER FOR THE MISSION

O LORD Jesus Christ, the Great Shepherd of the sheep, who seekest those that are gone astray; bindest up those that are broken; and healest those that are sick; bless, we beseech Thee, the efforts to be made to convert souls unto Thee. Open the deaf ears of the wanderers, that they may hear the words which belong unto their salvation; and grant that those whom Thou dost raise to newness of life, may persevere unto the end; of Thy mercy, O our God, who art blessed and livest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, world without end. Amen.

Rector's Notes

Next Saturday will be the Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called the Purification of Saint Mary the Virgin. There will be the usual extra Saints Day Celebration of the Holy Communion at 9.30 A. M.

On next Sunday evening, Bishop Garland will visit St. Michael's Chapel and administer Confirmation to those who have been prepared by the Vicar. On the Wednesday following Bishop Rhinelander will visit St. Mary in like manner. St. Mark's Confirmation will be as from the foundation of the parish on Easter Even.

I shall speak to you this morning on the War Commission of the Church and of our duty of rallying with all our hearts to its support. I have seldom felt so strongly on any subject as on this theme. Our opportunity is one of a life time. Will St. Mark's, and that means the people of St. Mark's, do its bit?

I have received a letter from Father Hughson concerning the mission, which will be held, March 10th to 17th. There will be no choir. The congregation must do its own singing. The Mission Hymnal adopted by General Convention will be used. We shall need a few leaders, people who will be willing in different parts of the Church, to sing with all their might. It will be well also if we can have two or three general gatherings of the parish in the Sunday School rooms to practice the hymns the Missioner has selected.

The Convocation of South Philadelphia will meet at Old Swede's Church at half past four. I should be glad if any who have the time, would attend and hear what the Church is doing in the southern section of our city, in the way of missionary work.

Incline your ear, and come unto me; hear, and your soul shall live.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him: to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls will be said at St. John's Altar Monday, the 4th, at 9.30. The Guild of All Souls is organized for the purpose of praying for the dead and for the spread of this pious custom. Father Hutchinson is the head of the Philadelphia Branch and Mr. A. W. Booz, 1130 Spruce Street, is the Secretary. A number of members are from this parish. I wish we had more. I should be glad to talk with any person interested.

The Corporate Communion of the St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be at the 7.45 Celebration on Thursday morning, and the regular meeting will be held in the afternoon at 3 P. M. Archdeacon Russell is expected to address the members on Colored Work.

Copies of the prayer for the Mission will be found in the porch. They are on cards of a convenient size to slip into one's Prayer Book. I hope you are all praying for the Mission.

We cannot do better this Lent than to concentrate our work on the Mission. I am going to ask the congregation on the Wednesdays after Ash Wednesday to devote the time usually taken up by the address or sermon to practising the hymns.

The Confirmation lectures will begin, as announced, on Friday Feb. 8th, at 4 P. M. in the Lady Chapel. I hope to see not only those who are intending to be confirmed, but those who are in any way interested to know what the Church teaches in her doctrine and discipline. I also ask those who are thinking of attending the lectures to make an effort to come to the first one, so as to get the preliminary outline of the whole course.

At St. Mary's Chapel, Monday, at 8 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the Church League for Work among the Colored People to which you are invited to come.

Rector's Notes

Owing to the weak condition of Father Hughson's throat, he will not be able to take the full Mission as we had originally planned. He will however be with us as agreed upon, March 10th to 17th and will preach every night at eight. My three requests to you therefore remain; first, to pray for God's blessing on this preaching; second, to tell everybody about it, and bring all you can with you to the preaching services; third, to practice the hymns that are to be sung.

There will be a rehearsal of the Mission hymns next Monday night in the Sunday School room at 8. Please come if you can and help.

The Confirmation Lectures will be continued in the Lady Chapel Tuesdays and Fridays at 4. There will be no change in the day of their delivery.

Wednesday is the Corporate Day of Intercession of St. Mark League of Intercession. Circulars concerning it will be found in the Porch. The services will be conducted by the Right Reverend Pat Matthews, D.D., Bishop of New Jersey. The addresses will be at 10, 11 and 12 noon. All are earnestly invited to attend.

I have received from the Fuel Administrators a letter expressing appreciation of the fact that the congregations of St. James', St. Mark and the Church of the Holy Trinity have united their Lenten services. We are glad to know that we are helpful. It is a pleasure to have these friends with us. The services Ash Wednesday were particularly inspiring. The Collections on that day for the City Mission Fund amounted to $211.85.

Mr. Wadlow will give his second Organ Recital on Saturday at 4 P. M.

Rector's Notes

Tomorrow, Monday will be observed as the Feast of St. Matthias the apostle chosen to fill the place of the traitor Judas. It is the custom in the Western Church to transfer to the first unoccupied day those feasts which fall on Sundays in Advent and from Septuagesima to Low Sunday inclusive. In the Prayer Book revision now going on, it is planned to make this law as well as custom.

Confirmation lectures on Tuesdays and Fridays in the Lady Chapel at four. Fr. Strombom is also preparing some who cannot attend at these hours. If you are thinking of Confirmation please do not fail to speak to one of the clergy regarding your desire.

Rector's Bible Class Friday morning in the parish house, (Ladies' Parlor) at 11. The discussion will begin at Revelation, chapter 10.

There will be another rehearsal of the hymns to be sung at Fr. Hughson's services on Monday evening in the Choir room at 8. Very few attended last Monday's rehearsal. Will you not come and help? It is really necessary, if we are to escape the sort of singing that depresses, not inspires.

Among the many calls upon the purse, the appeal of the vestry for our expenses for repairs is liable to be overlooked. Will you please give it your earnest consideration, if you have not already done so?

The godless come fast;
Iniquity, hatred,
Upon me they cast.
Ah, where shall I fly,
Perplexed and bewildered,
O God, hear my cry.

My heart is sorely pained within my breast,
My soul with deathly tremors is oppressed.
Trembling and fearfulness upon me fall,
With horror o'erwhelmed, Lord,

In the wilderness would build me a nest,
And remain there for ever at rest.

M. His object is to meet the friends of the institution. It is expressly stated that the meeting is "For inspiration only. No Appeal. No Collection."

According to the book used as a guide in the ceremonial of this Parish, "Requiem Masses ought not to be said on Sundays or other feasts of obligation; nor within the octave of Easter or of Pentecost; nor on the vigil of Christmas or of Pentecost; nor on the octave day of the Epiphany; nor on Ash Wednesday; nor throughout Holy Week." Rector's Notes

All the days of this week are holy days. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be marked by the additional Celebration at half past nine. The Litany and Penitential Office will also be said at quarter before one.

On Maundy Thursday the Celebrations for Communion will be at 7 and 8, Morning Prayer at 10, Choral Eucharist (Solemn High Mass) and Sermon at 10.30, and the usual Evensong at 5.

On Good Friday, Litany and Penitential Office at 7; Children's Service at 9; Matins Litany and Proanaphoral service with sermon at 10.30. Three hours devotion from noon till three. Evensong at 5, without address.

On Easter Even there will be Celebrations at 7 and 7.45; Morning Prayer at 9; Evening Prayer at 4 (please note the hour). At 5, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Rhineland, D. D. will visit the Parish, preach and administer the Sacrament of Confirmation. I would remind you that this is the Bishop's formal visitation, at which he expects to meet and address the people, and not just simply those to be confirmed and their immediate friends. I hope the congregation will be larger than it has been in some of the years past. As noted before, St. Mary's and St. Michael's have already been visited and their candidates confirmed.

On Easter Day there will be Celebrations for Communion at 7, 8 and 9. Please note this extra service. Solemn High Mass with sermon at 11; Evening Prayer at 5; Evening Service, choral, as usual at 8 P.M. There will be no afternoon Sunday School Service.

The Clergy will be in the Church for confessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons between services and also Saturday morning and evening. The Clergy are always glad to hear confessions, but as the week is a busy one, please do not ask for an appointment unless you cannot possibly come at the regular times. Do not ask for the middle of the morning or afternoon, but as near an hour of service as possible. The earlier part of the week (before Thursday) should be avoided.

The offerings Good Friday will be for Jewish Missions and will apply on the apportionment.

The Easter Collection will be used to make up a deficit in our current expenses. I regret extremely that this should be necessary but increased running expenses due to higher prices and decreased income due to deaths and removals compel us. I ask you one and all to contribute to the extent of your means.

His Grace, the Archbishop of York, will speak on "The Duties of Women in Wartime" on Tuesday, the 26th, at 4 P.M. in the Academy of Music. Tickets may be obtained at the Emergency Aid

Light of the world, we know Thy praise
The angels and archangels raise
And all the host of heaven,
More worthily than our faint hymns,
Whose jarring sound that glory dims,
Which God to Thee hast given.

But Thou didst not disdain to take our low estate, or e'en to make the tomb Thy resting place;

So Thou might bring unto our night, the dawn of Thine eternal Light, to shine upon our face.

Nor death, nor hell, nor sin is lord, but Thou, O Son of God. Thy Word is now our sovereign law.

Therefore we thank Thee, and pray Thy Light may shine unto the perfect Day, Thy Light may shine on us for ever more.

Rector's Notes

Monday, April 8th, will be observed as the Feast of the Annunciation, transferred from March 25th. There will be the usual extra Celebration at 9.30 A. M.

The Social Service Commission has asked the Clergy to warn the people against the menace of the present standards of moving picture shows. I am glad of this excuse to speak my mind. Cultivated people are wont to regard the moving picture with rather contemptuous indifference, as a cheap substitute for the theatre, a place where vacuous melodramas and slap stick buffoonery are exhibited for the delectation of children and the frivolous. If this were all, one might hold one's peace. But the situation is far more serious. It will surprise many to learn that the moving picture industry ranks fifth in this country in the amount of capital invested. In only four States, Pennsylvania in the number, is any serious attempt made to regulate the pictures in the interests of morality. Our own Board of Censors is doing excellent work and deserves the support of all good citizens. Its weekly bulletin of censored pictures shows the unspeakable nastiness and viciousness from which the public is partially protected; though much that is coarse and vulgar the law does not authorize the censors to cut out. I ask you for your children, and for the safety of their souls, that you do not let them go to a movie, before you have honestly investigated to see if it does not portray with more or less sympathy, fornication, adultery, murder, robbery and similar crimes. Second, if you go yourself, I ask you to consider seriously what effect the pictures you see are likely to have, not on matured minds but on red-blooded boys and girls with awakening passions and curious to know the mysteries of life. And, thirdly, I ask you to uphold the hand of the Board of Censors, and do all you can to frustrate the attempt being planned to repeal the censorship law.

Rector's Notes

Thursday is Saint Mark's day. This, our patronal festival will be observed with an octave. On Thursday the usual Saint's Day Celebration at half past nine. The Altar Society will hold its annual meeting in the morning. In the evening the Rector and Choir will give a reception to the Alumni of the Choir, the Choristers' Club and others. There will be music, an address by Mr. Henri Scott and refreshments. On Sunday morning the Choir will receive their prizes at the eleven o'clock service. I purpose in my sermon to speak of our parish ideals. In the evening the congregations of our two Chapels will meet with our own, the whole clergy staff will be present, and the music rendered by all three choirs.

The fourteenth annual presentation of the United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary will take place at the Memorial Church of St. Paul, 15th and Porter, on Thursday at 10:30.

At the request of the Liberty Loan Committee, I am sending out circulars regarding an honor roll of all who are subscribers to the loan. Not the amount, but the fact of subscription is asked for. If you have subscribed please let me have your signature. We should all do this, whether the plan appeals to us or is, it may be, repugnant; first, because it is a time to do as the government asks us, and ask no questions. Second, because subscription to the loan is as truly an act of patriotism as serving in army and navy, and there should be recognition of one service, if there is recognition of the other. Of course in saying this I would not compare in degree the merit of those who give their money and those who risk their lives. The parallel is in the fact that both render service. Third, because our names on the honor roll will undoubtedly encourage people both without and within the parish to subscribe.

Rector's Notes

The service tonight will be the full choral vespers with sermon and procession. The choirs of St. Michael's and St. Mary's Chapel will augment our own. The two chapels will be closed this evening and the Vicars with their people will be with us. I hope St. Mark's will be fittingly represented.

Wednesday, May first will be the feast of Saint Philip and Saint James. There will be the usual Saints day Celebration at 9.30 A. M.

The Annual Meeting of the Saint Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, May 2nd, at 3 P. M. The Corporate Communion will be made on Thursday, at the 7 45 Celebration.

The Liberty Loan Honor Roll has at the date of writing 140 names, and a few of the signed circulars come in in nearly every mail. This is most gratifying as an evidence not only of our belief in the cause for which we are fighting but of our responsibility as citizens in supporting the government. In our district, south of Market and west of Broad to the Schuylkill, we stand third in the number of signatures.

The Reception and Reunion of the Choir and Alumni will I think be long remembered by those who attended. Mr. Henri Scott's interesting address and wonderful singing were worth coming a long way to hear.

Rector's Notes

Next Sunday will be Whitsunday, the last of the three great Feasts at which all Communicants should make use of their privilege to receive the Body and Blood of Christ.

The Rector will be in the Church for Confessions next Friday afternoon, and the Assistant on Saturday afternoon and evening.

At a recent meeting of the Vestry the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, that the request by the Food Administration for the co-operation of the Parish in the campaign for food conservation, be approved; and that this action on the part of the Vestry be communicated to the Congregation.

Resolved, that one of the signs of the Food Administration, of a design approved by the Rector and Wardens be displayed in the church yard, and the cost thereof be chargeable as an item of current expenses.

I would add my own entreaty to you all, in view of the needs of our nation and our allies, to do all you can to conserve our food supply, by following gladly the directions of the Administration in your own households, that you give simple orders at hotels, and also that you co-operate in the various efforts to secure larger crops.

Rector's Notes

Monday and Tuesday are Monday and Tuesday in Whitsunweek

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are the summer ember days of abstinence and prayer in behalf of those who are to be ordained to the sacred ministry. May I ask your special intercessions this year? The need for a larger number of candidates for the ministry is extremely pressing. The temptation to get men by hook or by crook, and to accept as candidates men lacking in spirituality or mental attainments is correspondingly great. Let us pray for our Bishops, and for our examining chaplains and seminary faculties, that they may "faithfully and wisely make choice of fit persons to serve in the sacred ministry of the Church."

This will be the last number of the Music List and Rector's Notes this season.

The following will be the Summer Schedule of Services. Beginning Monday week, the Monday after Trinity Sunday, Matins will be said at 7 A. M., followed immediately by the Holy Communion at 7.15. There will be but one Celebration a day on weekdays except on Thursdays and saints' days, when there will be also a Celebration at 9.30 A. M. The Thursday Celebrations will be war services at which the special Collect, Epistle and Gospel will be used. Evening Prayer will be said at half past five.

Beginning with the first Sunday in June, a week from next Sunday, the seven o'clock Celebration will be discontinued. The early Celebration during the Summer months will be at eight o'clock. During July and August on Sundays the hours for Matins and the later Celebration will be 9 and 9.30 respectively. Evensong at The Musical Evening Service will continue through June but will be omitted during July, August and the first week in September.

Kings from a far land, draw near and behold Him, led by the beam, whose warning bade you come; your crowns cast down, with robe royal enfold Him; your King descends to earth from brighter home. Rector's Notes

The Rector will be in the Church on Christmas Eve from two to five and from eight to nine P. M.

The First Vespers of Christmas will be said at five o'clock.

On Christmas Day there will be services for Communion at seven, eight and nine, and a Solemn High Mass with sermon at eleven. Matins will be said at 10.30. Evensong will be read Christmas afternoon at five.

On the three following days, viz.: the Feasts of St. Stephen, St. John Evangelist and Holy Innocents, there will be Communion services at 9.30 as well as at 7.30. Also Evensong at 5.

On Sunday next the hours of service will be as usual. The Christmas music will be repeated in the morning. A special Carol Service, similar to the one we had last year, will be held at eight in the evening.

I am asked to announce a mass meeting in the interest of Armenian Independence December 23, at 8 o'clock, in Witherspoon Hall. Bishop Rhinelander is the Chairman of the Committee.

I take this opportunity to thank the many who have so generously responded to my appeal for the Christmas Fund. I have been enabled to give to the Chapels sums considerably larger than usual. This is fortunate, as the prices of candy, toys, etc., have advanced, in some instances fifty per cent.

A number of people have expressed regret that the Music Lists and Rector's Notes have not been published this Fall. The sole hindrance has been the expense. Last year it cost $184.50 to get out twenty-five numbers, or something over $7.25 per issue. I should be glad if I could receive subscriptions enough to publish the Lists to Easter—twenty more numbers.

Solemn High Mass and Sermon, 11 A. M.

Processional Hymn, Lo, the Pilgrim Magi.

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps,
Gleamed that beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly kings' array;
He a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing,
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring.
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address:
So, with meetest off'rings,
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,

Rector's Notes

The Bohlen Lectures for 1919 will be delivered in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth below Walnut, on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, January 21, 22, 28 and 29, at 4 P. M., by Reverend Percy Dearmer, who visited us the first of December. The Subject will be an attractive one, "The Art of Public Worship." I hope many will attend.

A Retreat for Women under the auspices of the Philadelphia Branch of the Companions of the Holy Cross will be given by the Rt. Rev. P. M. Rhineland, D. D., at St. Clement's Church, Thursday, January 16th, from 8.00 A. M. to 5.00 P. M. Those proposing to attend should notify at once the "Secretary, S. C. H. C.," 2222 Spruce St., City.

Lest any should have overlooked last week's notice, I would repeat that the Rector's Bible Class will be held in the Ladies' Parlor every Friday at 11 A. M.

The Rt. Rev. the Bishop Suffragan visits St. Mary's Chapel this morning. You are asked to remember in your prayers those to be confirmed.

Bishop Garland will visit St. Mark's, Easter Even, April 19th. Although that date is still far off, I should be obliged if those who have any thought of being confirmed, would let me know at once. It seems so hard to get a convenient time for the lectures that I may have to prepare each candidate privately, though the work would be considerably greater.

I have mentioned several times in my sermons the Every Member Campaign for Personal Service. I purpose to speak to the congregation about it at length next Sunday, explaining its object and method, and enlisting, I hope, your interest and your prayers.

Rector's Notes

Saturday of this week is the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. There will be a Second Celebration at half-past nine o'clock.

We do not work for praise, but it is an encouragement to know that our efforts are appreciated. I am glad to print the following letter:

New York, January 3, 1919.

MR. PHILIP H. BRICE,

1625 Locust Street, Philadelphia.

My dear Mr. Brice—On behalf of the Board of Missions let me send with the enclosed Treasurer's receipt for $2543.44, a word of sincere thanks for the help St. Mark's has given in meeting, with the inclusion of the One Day's Income offerings, its minimum apportionment for the year. The steady help which the parish gives is most valuable in setting forward the work of the Church's Mission. I trust you will make known to the people the Board's gratitude and assure them that their co-operation is valuable out of all proportion in these times.

With renewed thanks and all good wishes for the New Year, I am

Very truly yours,

A. S. LLOYD.

You will soon receive a personal message regarding the Every Member Campaign from Bishop Rhinelander. I would join him in urging you very strongly to help by the daily use of the second the Good Friday Collects, which could not be more appropriate than it been written for this special occasion.

Rector's Notes

Next Sunday will be the Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called The Purification of St Mary the Virgin. This feast marks the limit of the Christmas season.

I hope you are all helping the Every Member Campaign by saying the Good Friday Collect. And you can do much also by telling people about it. The idea is that every person should have a definite thing to do, in the Parish, in the Diocese, or the general work of the Church. What will be "my bit" this winter? To get, say ten, children interested in Sunday School. To invite some people who do not go anywhere to go with me to Church. To attend a Mission Study Class, not because it is interesting, but with the definite purpose of starting a class myself. To read through The Living Church and The Spirit of Missions to learn what the Church is doing and then see that some one else reads through my copy. There is plenty to do if we have the will to do it for Christ's sake. And there are plenty of most excellent reasons, if we lack that will, why we just cannot find time, or are not able, to do anything that is suggested.

Rector's Notes

The regular corporate Communion of the St. Mark's Branch and the Woman's Auxiliary will be at 7.30 A. M. on Thursday next. The regular meeting will be in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Archdeacon Baskerville will speak.

A Committee of which Mrs. Horace Brock is chairman and Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt is Vice-chairman, will be in the Parish Parlor 1625 Locust Street, on Thursday afternoons until Lent, from four to six, to welcome members of the congregation, their friends and strangers in town. I hope you will make an effort to attend one or more of these Parish Teas.

Tomorrow, Monday afternoon, at 4.30, there will be a meeting in the Parish House to discuss details and organize the Every-Member Campaign. I ask you each, as a personal favor, to make a special effort to come. The time is short and we must get to work. I wish I could impress you all with the fact that this is the most important thing by far this winter in the Church world, and that we cannot afford to let slip this very unusual, yes, unique, opportunity to be a special service to St. Mark's, the Diocese and the Church at large.

Last year the War Commission asked the Church for $1,000,000, this year for $250,000, of which we are asked by the local committee to give $2,000. Shall we not give in special gratitude for the Armistice which makes our apportionment one-quarter of what it otherwise would be?

Rector's Notes

I ask you all to pray daily for the Every Member Campaign, and to make it known to all your friends. If it is to be a success must have our Church filled during our Parish week, and the Church of the Holy Trinity, our district centre, during the Diocesan and World weeks. While the work of the Campaign is chiefly spiritual, it is also educational, that in answer to the question, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" we may learn what the Lord's work is for us in Parish, Diocese and world.

I begin my confirmation work this week. From now on I will give to the work Sundays from 2.30 to 3.30; Fridays, from 4.15 to 5.15 and from 7 to 8. I would suggest to those who are praying and working in the Every Member Campaign the possibilities contained in this paragraph from the Prayer Book, page 251: "Ye are to take care that this Child be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed by him, so soon as he can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and is sufficiently instructed in the other parts of the Church Catechism set forth for that purpose."

not? Hearken diligently unto me, eat ye that which is good, and let

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his

Rector's Notes

The preacher this morning will be the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Salina.

Please take home one of the folders containing a list of the Lenten Services. They will be found in the Porch.

The 7.30 Mass on Monday will be the regular monthly Requiem of the Guild of All Souls.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Managers of St. Mark's Home for Aged Women at the Parish House on Monday, March 3, at 11.15 A. M.

The monthly Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be on Thursday at 7.30 A. M. The usual monthly meeting will be on Thursday afternoon at 3 P. M. The Rt. Rev. F. B. Howden, D. D., Missionary Bishop of New Mexico, will address the meeting.

The Rector will be in the Church on Shrove Tuesday for confessions from 3 to 5.

Do not forget that Ash Wednesday is one of the two days of fasting, and not merely abstinence. Try to begin Lent well by keeping it as strictly as possible.

Dr. Steele of St. Luke's and the Epiphany has published in his "Parish Helper" an article I wrote on the Diocesan Budget. I shall send it to you by mail, hoping you may find it timely and convincing.

Rector's Notes

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are the spring ember days, times of fasting and prayer in behalf of the Sacred Ministry of the Church. Please remember especially our Bishops and the Clergy of this Parish.

Thursday will be observed as the annual Day of Corporate Intercession for the Church, for our Country, and for the World. You will find in the porch folders containing full details of the services and a message from the Bishop, which I hope you will take as a call to yourself.

Please do not forget the PARISH MEETING in the Parish House tomorrow (Monday) noon. We shall expect addresses from Mr. Reynolds Brown of the Executive Committee of the Every Member Campaign, from the Accounting Warden, from the Vicars, telling of their work, and from the heads of the various St. Mark's Guilds. The meeting will last about an hour and a light luncheon will follow for the convenience of those who attend. All who have the welfare of St. Mark's at heart should be present to hear and discuss our work and plans.

Rev. Charles D. Fairman, who assisted the Vicar of St. Michael's during the larger part of 1917, died last week of pneumonia at his Rectory at Northfield, Vermont. Father Fairman was a priest of much ability and promise and made many friends among us. Of your charity pray for his soul.

Rector's Notes

I am sure the Parish meeting Monday was enjoyed by all who came. It did us good to get together, and to learn how much St. Mark's is doing and how many the opportunities of future usefulness. I thank all who have contributed to making the meeting a success.

Please bear in mind the Diocesan meetings this coming week, the illustrated lecture by Dr. Caley in the Sunday School room of the Church of the Holy Apostles, 22d and Christian, on Tuesday evening at 8. Pictures will be shown of our various diocesan activities. The other two meetings will be in Holy Trinity Church on Rittenhouse Square, on Thursday and Friday evenings at the same hour of 8. The first will be on rural work, in which the speaker, Dr. Prevost, is an expert. On Friday Bishop Garland will preside and Dr. Jefferys will tell the story of the City Mission.

In a letter to the Rector Bishop Rhinelander says: "Will you express to your people my very deep appreciation of their faithfulness and devotion to the missionary work of the Church. This past year was in many ways a searching test. I am thankful that ninety-six of our Parishes and Missions are on the Honor Roll of those who met in full their apportionment for General Missions. I congratulate you most heartily in being one of that number."

Rector's Notes

Tuesday of this week is the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. There will be the usual second Celebration at half-past nine.

I shall appoint a Committee for St. Mark's for the coming Victory Loan. As in the last loan, the Churches are urged to show their patriotism by helping the government in the work of canvassing. I ask first, that as many of you as can will subscribe to the loan through our Committee; and second, that those who feel obliged to subscribe through other agencies will, nevertheless, let us know, that their names may be on our honor list also.

I call attention to the meetings at 4 and 8 P. M. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this coming week at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Rittenhouse Square, in connection with World Week in the Every Member Campaign. The lecture last Tuesday on "The Diocese at Work" was remarkably interesting and inspiring, and I regret that there were not more St. Mark's people present to see it.

Rector's Notes

The change of standard time goes into effect today and our services will be held accordingly.

I hope the members of the congregation will be at home this afternoon from five to seven when our messengers will call. If you should not be visited do not think yourself overlooked; probably the messenger has not been able to call on all on his or her list.

Let us all pray very earnestly for God's blessing in today's canvass, both in our own Parish and in the Diocese.

The Corporate Communion of the St. Mark's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will be on Thursday at 7.30. The regular meeting will be at 3.30 P. M. (note change of hour), and Rev. J. P. Panfil, who was with the Rector a year ago, will make an address on his work among the Poles. I bespeak for him a cordial reception. The problem of people speaking foreign languages is one which is occupying special attention in our Missionary Councils today.

The Bishop asks me to announce that the Church Service Recruiting Office will be open daily at the Church House this week for the enlistment of volunteer workers in the Diocese.

Monday will be observed as the Feast of St. Mark, transferred from the 25th. There will be a Second Celebration at 9.30.

Thursday, May 1st, is the Feast of St. Philip and St. James. There will be the usual Second Celebration.

This morning's session of the Sunday School will be the last until next fall. I wish to compliment the teachers and the children on their interest and attendance during the past year.

We expect to have with us tonight at the Solemn Evensong at 8 the Most Reverend Alexander, Bishop of Rodosto, acting Archbishop and representative of the national Greek Orthodox Church. It is the first time a Greek prelate has visited Philadelphia. He will be attended by his Chaplain, Rev. Joachim Alexopoulos.

The Annual Meeting of the Altar Society will be held in the Parish House on Monday at ten o'clock.

The Third Annual Reunion of the Choir Alumni will be held in the Parish House, Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. We hope at that time to welcome a good number of our former choir members.

Thursday at half-past seven there will be the Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary. The Annual Meeting and Election will be held the same afternoon at three o'clock. Immediately after this meeting, about a quarter to four, the Rector will present the results of the Every Member Campaign, with some remarks of his own, and will welcome suggestions and discussion. All members of the Parish are cordially invited to attend.

On Sunday next there will be a Solemn High Mass, being in the Octave of the Patronal Feast of St. Mark. At this service junior choristers will receive their silver crosses and the Newbold Prize for General Excellence will be awarded.

Anthem, from Spohr's "Last Judgment"

Praise His awful name who was and is, and is to come: praise to Him who giveth immortality. All glory and majesty surround His throne. Worship and adore Him. Praise, glory to God. Mighty He cometh to judgment, for He shall judge the world in righteousness; and He shall judge His people with His truth. Fear not thou, O man, for thy Redeemer liveth: He that died is risen, and He shall live to all eternity, and He shall reign, and shall conquer all His enemies. I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patience; for My sake thou hast endured affliction; yet thy first and chiefest duty thou hast forsaken, and thou art fallen from thy high estate: repent thee of thy sin! repent and return to thy first work: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. He alone is mighty and He alone is great: praise, glory to God. Praise, glory to Him, He that was, He that is, and is to come; praise Him!

The Rector's Notes

According to liturgical usage the Feast of Saint Andrew will be translated to tomorrow.

Thursday, December 4, will be kept as the Day of Intercession of St. Mark's League of Intercession. The address will be given by the Reverend S. B. Booth of the Diocesan Church of St. Mary.

The Nation-wide Campaign plans to make this week one of special prayer in preparation for its canvass next Sunday, December 7th. We shall have the Litany and Intercessions on Wednesday and Friday at 12.30, and Evensong will be said at 5 every day this week.

I hope every one will make an earnest effort to attend the Parish meeting at noon tomorrow. A number of important matters will come up. The parish budget will be explained and discussed, and I should like also to voice further the feeling of the Parish on the subject of free pews.

I publish the Service List and Notes this week as a venture of faith. Last year the lists cost us $148. Three persons contributed toward this amount $95; eight others contributed the rest with the exception of a small sum which I took from the contingent fund. I shall be glad to continue the publication of these leaflets if a sufficient amount is subscribed to pay for them. Please let me know if you wish them continued and how much I may count on from you.

Bishop Rhinelander has asked the Women Leaders and Workers of the Nation-wide Campaign to meet at the Diocesan Church of St. Mary for a corporate Communion on Tuesday, December 2nd, at 9 A. M.

I have thirty tickets to the Nation-wide Campaign mass-meeting Wednesday night. I shall be glad to distribute them to those who will agree to attend. First come, first served.

The Creed and Prayers

Anthem—"The Wilderness"..... Samuel Sebastian Wesley

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly and rejoice with joy and singing. Say to them of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold your God; He will come and save you, even God. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there: it shall be called the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there. And the ransom'd of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads, they shall obtain joy and gladness. And sorrow and sighing shall flee, shall flee away.

The Rector's Notes

The five o'clock Evensong on week days will be continued through Advent.

I take this way to appeal for our Christmas Fund for the special gifts and festivities at the Church and Chapels. Last year the response was a generous one, bringing cheer to many hearts. So far $67 has come in through budget subscriptions; but much more will be needed, and I ask those who contributed last year to repeat their contributions.

I have received all told $23 for the Service Lists; $142 more will be needed to continue them through the season.

Last year three appeals from the Church for different objects were sent out by mail in one week. This was, justly, I think, thought to be rather "too much." I am trying to avoid repeating the annoyance, by publishing our wants as above. I have some doubts whether it is an improvement or not. It was said at the Parish meeting that "free churches are always begging." We are an example that pewed ones do, too. It is really a matter not of pews but of financial system, whether the annual needs shall all be foreseen added together and made up into one budget, or whether each want shall be appealed for as it arises. Some like the order and method of the first policy; others prefer the "personal touch."

The Rector's Notes

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are the Winter Ember Days, days of abstinence and prayer for those who are to be ordained to the Sacred Ministry of the Church. The Nation Wide Campaign, with the accompanying survey, has brought out the great need not only for clerical but also for lay workers, both men and women, in the foreign and domestic missionary field. I hope there are some in St. Mark's Parish who will respond to the Church's appeal. We need men and women quite as much, if not more, than money.

St. Mark's Sunday School began its winter session last Sunday in the Ladies' Parlor of the Church. It is one of the fruits of the Nation Wide Campaign, without which, I am afraid, we should not have been able to gather our very few children together. I am sure there are others in the neighborhood who do not go elsewhere to Sunday School and who would come if sought out and personally invited. I hope that all those who are interested in the future of the Church at large, and of St. Mark's in particular, will co-operate in every way in gathering the children and encouraging the teachers. We have a large and very successful class for the choir boys, instructing them in the meaning of the services in which they engage, but this is distinct from the regular Sunday School of the Church, though meeting at the same hour.

Offertory Anthem—O Holy Night..... Adolph Adam

O holy night! the stars are brightly shining,	Led by the light of Faith serenely beaming,
It is the night of the dear Saviour's birth.	With glowing hearts by His cradle we stand.
Long lay the world in sin and error pining,	So led by light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Till he appeared and the soul felt its worth.	Here came the wise men from the orient land
A thrill of hope the weary world rejoices,	The King of Kings lay thus in lowly manger,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn,	In all our trials born to be our friend,
Fall on your knees! O hear the angel voices!	He knows our need, He guardeth us from danger,
O night divine, O night when Christ was born!	Behold your King, before the lowly bend!

The Rector's Notes

Thursday, January 1st, is the Feast of the Circumcision. As last year, the services will consist of Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7.30 and 9.30 and Evensong at 5 P. M.

Evening Prayer will be said this afternoon at 5. Tonight there will be the singing of Christmas carols by the choir and congregation. This carol service seems to meet a special want and is increasingly attended every year.

I cannot give you the exact figures, but the missionary collection last Sunday has enabled us to meet our apportionments in full.

I have received a letter from the Nation-Wide Campaign Committee giving "the amount of money which your parish should be responsible for if the new program of the church is to be fully carried out." It is $46,249.12 annually. I confess it takes one's breath away; but I think it could be forthcoming if each of us should contribute on the average five per cent of our income, as suggested by the committee. At any rate let us do our best.

To clarify minds mystified by recent newspaper notices:

Saint Mary's Chapel, Bainbridge street is for the colored people. It is a chapel of St. Mark's.

Saint Michael's Chapel, Lombard Street, is for the white people. It is a chapel of St. Mark's.

Saint Michael's and All Angels' Chapel, North 43d street, West Philadelphia, is for the colored people. It has nothing whatever to do with Saint Mark's. The Rector of Saint Mark's happens to be President of the Board of Trustees, and is charged under a written deed of trust with the care of its services. This Chapel is primarily for the colored cripples of the Home, and secondarily for the worship of colored people residing in the neighborhood.

Sing, O Heavens; and be joyful, O earth; break forth into singing, O mountains: for the Lord hath comforted His people, and will have mercy upon His afflicted—He will swallow up death in victory! and the Lord God shall wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of His people shall He take away from off the earth.

Lo, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us: This is the Lord; we have waited for Him, we will be glad and rejoice in His salvation.

For His salvation is nigh them that fear Him, that glory may dwell in our land. Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other. Truth shall flourish out of the earth and righteousness hath looked down from heaven. Thy seat, O God, endureth for ever, the sceptre of Thy kingdom is a right sceptre: Amen.

The Rector's Notes

The collection today is for the Missionary work of the Church. I hope it may be a liberal one, for the calls are numerous and great.

I ask your help in addition in a sudden and very serious emergency. The increased cost of living has reduced some of our missionaries and rectors of small parishes to conditions bordering on destitution. Several compelled to eke out their incomes with some secular jobs; a number in debt to the amount of half their salary. Family of four trying to subsist on $1,200 a year. This among our own clergy not fifty miles from this city. A committee was appointed last May to raise $24,500 to relieve their necessities. The Nation Wide Campaign took the amount over, placing it on the budget. But with all the priority granted, this call can not be met out of the Campaign Funds for several months. The situation became so acute last week that the money had to be had at once, and the Rectors of Holy Trinity, Holy Apostles, St. Peter's, St. James', St. Luke's, Germantown, and several others, contributed directly or through others $1,000 each. I am sure you would not have St. Mark's be behind. One of the vestry has loaned $1,000 for the purpose, which is now in the Bishop's hands. This loan should be repaid as speedily as possible. Please give me your generous help. The money will count towards St. Mark's quota on the church Nation Wide Budget.

On Thursday next and the Thursdays following till Lent there will be a series of Parish Teas in the Parish Parlor from four to six. All members and friends of the Parish, and attendants at our services are cordially invited.

The first public service of the Men's Choir of St. Mark's will be given January 26th, 1920. Mr. T. Edgar Shields, organist of the Bach Choir of Bethlehem, will play prelude to the service at 7.40. Cards may be found in the Church vestibule.

The Rector's Notes

The Men's Choir of St. Mark's Church will give their first public service tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The Men's Choir was organized last fall to bring together men of musical interest and talent for the rendering of religious music.

I wish to thank the congregation for the prompt and generous response to my appeal last Sunday for the underpaid clergy. The $1,000 asked for was all received before Tuesday noon, and about $170 has come in since then, which will be added to the fund, and like that previously given will count on the Church quota.

The Right Reverend the Bishop will visit St. Mark's Easter Even, April 3d, and administer the Sacrament of Confirmation. There will be, beginning next Friday, a Confirmation Class for boys at 7.15 P. M.; and I shall also be glad to arrange a second class at a time more convenient to others. I should like also to hear of any persons interested in Confirmation, whether they purpose to be confirmed at this time or not.

The Bible Class is held every Friday in the Parish Parlor at 11 A. M.

There will be a series of Parish Teas in the Parish Parlor on Thursdays from four to six until Lent. Friends of the Parish are cordially invited to attend.

The Rector's Notes

Monday is The Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called the Purification of St. Mary the Virgin. There will be a second Celebration at half-past nine o'clock.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will take place on Thursday, the 5th, at 3 P. M. Mrs. Demby, the wife of the colored Bishop Suffragan, will be the speaker. The Corporate Communion of the Auxiliary will be at half-past seven on Thursday.

I should be glad to hear of any persons interested in Confirmation, and if they so desire, to arrange with them for instruction. The Bishop will visit St. Mark's on Easter Even.

I ask your prayers for the ordination to the Priesthood of one of our Italian Deacons, Signor Silvio Biagini on Candelmas, at the Diocesan Church of St. Mary. The Rector will preach the sermon. If we really believe in our own Catholicity we must feel a very grave responsibility for the Italian in our midst. We cannot fawn on Rome and shirk our duty by saying, let him go to the Roman Church. The average Italian immigrant is not Roman, he is not anything at all. He is Catholic in outlook and desire, but he has seen Rome at its worst, and he cannot accept the only form of Catholicity he knows. Anglican Catholicism appeals strongly to him when presented fully and fearlessly.

The Rector's Notes

Folders containing the list of the Lenten services will be found in the Church porch.

The Rector will be in the Church on Shrove Tuesday for confessions from three to four.

Ash Wednesday is a fast. The days following are days of "fasting on which the Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." Neither the Catholic Church as a whole, nor any branch of it has ever asked anything more than this, though some communions interpret the principle in detail. The Anglican Communion does not. In actual practice some of our people fulfil the direction by such a rule as not eating meat on Wednesdays as well as Fridays; others fulfil the direction by giving up desserts or sweetmeats. Note that there should be no abstinence on Sundays. They are in Lent, but not of Lent.

Four Super Rules for the making of a Lenten Rule:

1. Make a rule that will cost an effort to keep. "Neither will I offer unto the LORD my God that which doth cost me nothing." II Sam. 24: 24.

2. Make a rule you can probably keep. "Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay." Ecclesiastes 5: 5.

3. Don't give up under fire, because you are criticized or because you feel the rule irksome. "No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God." St. Luke, 10: 62.

4. Don't be puffed up with the big things you are doing for God and criticize those who keep Lent differently, or not at all. Remember the pharisee and the publican. St. Luke 18: 10 ff. And consider that neither did the pharisee realize his pride nor the publican his humility.

11.00 A. M.—Penitential Office, Address and Intercessions.

The American Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris, France, is asking today for an Endowment Fund of half a million to make it "America's Memorial Church of the Great War in France," and appeals for subscriptions, some in memory of those "over there" others in thanksgiving for those "over here." The Church is known to all Americans as foremost in the religious and charitable assistance rendered to our allies. In the circulars in the Church Porch you will find given at length the reason why this appeal is necessary at this time. I commend the appeal to you most heartily, and express the hope that many of you who look back with pleasure to happy days spent in the French Capital will send a gift to the fund, as a memorial or otherwise.

The Rector's Notes

The regular monthly Requiem for the Guild of All Souls will be said tomorrow, Monday, at 7. 30 A. M.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held on Thursday afternoon. The Reverend Edward A. Sibley, of Bontoc, Philippine Islands, is expected to deliver an address. The Corporate Communion will be at the 7.30 service.

The Woman's Auxiliary is devoting all day Thursdays to missionary sewing and would be glad of the help of any members of the congregation. We have also offered the rooms in the Parish House on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the new diocesan work of cutting garments for diocesan institutions. No sewing is done, but materials are cut, assembled and parceled. The plan is to provide hospitals and homes with standardized garments at the cost of the cloth, replacing the old box system which caused so much duplication of effort.

The Rector's Notes

I am asked to give out the following and I do so gladly:

The Diocesan Open Forum will meet in Saint James' Guild Hall, 2210 Sansom Street at 8 P. M. on these dates, and with these speakers:

March 8—Dr. J. P. Lichtenberger, Dept. of Sociology, U. of P. Subject; "Mental Levels and Social Problems."

March 22 Mr. Robert Wolf, Consulting Engineer, New York City. Subject: "Creative Impulse in Industry."

April 12—Rev. Mercer Green Johnson, D. D.; overseas twenty months; D. S. C., and Croix de Guerre. Subject: "Dare the Church Follow Her Leader?"

April 26—Hon. E. L. Tustin, Director of Dept. of Public Welfare. "Subject: "City Welfare in Philadelphia."

I think there is a great deal of misunderstanding about the object and methods of the Diocesan Open Forum. Its object is not to propagate error but to conserve truth. Its methods are those of free speech and not of license.

Consider: The other man has as much right to hold and express his opinions as you. Do you ever express them?

If what you believe is true, you need never fear free speech. A cause must be pretty weak that cannot stand being spoken against.

If you are sure you are right, it is your duty to maintain and defend the truth. Where truth is inveighed against, you should be there.

To lose one's temper is the sign of a losing cause.

Vital issues are being discussed all the time, and no human power can stop it. Which is better, to have them discussed under Church auspices, where religion has a fair show, or in anti-Christian assemblages?

Many a boiler has blown up from tying down the safety valve. All that most cranks want is the chance to blow off steam. Deny them the chance to speak and they resort to deeds.

The Rector's Notes

Bach's "Passion of Our Lord," according to St. Matthew, will be sung Palm Sunday evening, March 28. This work has been undertaken by the choir in the spirit of reverence and devotion. It should be truly a Passion Service and not confused with the idea of a choir performance. It is hoped that a large part of St. Mark's congregation will attend.

If ever artist poured out his whole heart in his work, that certainly did Bach in the Oratorio of The Passion. The man himself speaks and lives in every phrase of it, for such truthfulness, such fervour, could not characterize any objective treatment. Immensely much has to be accomplished before English audiences can do that justice to this wondrous composition, which is only to be reached through familiarity with its beauties. Such familiarity will a thousand-fold repay the pains of its acquirement; but it is to be acquired by knowing the music, not by reading about it, and the utmost value for which I can hope in these remarks, is that they may urge those who are open to the highest musical gratification to seek it in the study of this great work of art.

SIR GEORGE A. MACFARREN.

The great Passion according to St. Matthew is the richest and noblest example of devotional music in existence.

DR. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

The hymns are selected and practiced in order to encourage congregational singing. Under these conditions a "voiceless" congregation should not exist. The new hymnal is a decided step forward, placing as it does the words and music in the hands of the people. The new hymnals may be had from the sexton.

"All that hath life and breath sing to the Lord."

Though all men should forsake Thee, yet will not I, Lord,
Though death should overtake me, I'll not deny my God.
Since sorrow, pain and anguish, Thou didst endure for me,
Till I in death shall languish, myself I'll give to Thee.

Recit.—"THEN COMETH JESUS WITH THEM"

Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith to the disciples, "Sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray." And He took with Him Peter, and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy; then saith Jesus to them, "My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death. Tarry here and watch with me."

Solo and Chorus—"O GRIEF! NOW PANTS."

O grief! Now pants his agonizing heart;
It sinks within, how pale his countenance!

Chorus—O Saviour, why must all this ill befall Thee?
My sin, alas! from highest Heaven did call Thee.

They lead Him to the judgment hall;
None there is found to comfort Him.
The powers of darkness now assail Him,
While murd'rous men prepare to seize Him.

'Tis I, O Lord, who from Thy paths have swerved
And death deserved.

My Saviour! O could my feeble love,
My Saviour, Thine agony and sorrow
Assuage or help t'endure,
With joy, with joy, with joy,
Would I now watch with Thee!

Thursday of this week is the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The First Annual Meeting of the Cathedral League will be held at the Diocesan Church of St. Mary, Broad and South Streets, on Thursday, March 25, at 4 P. M. Everybody is cordially invited, men as well as women, whether they are already members of the Cathedral League or not.

The Conference of the Bishop's Bricks Fund will be held at the Church House Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Programs of the Conference for Church Work (the Wellesley Conference) will be found on the Church porch. I hope they will be taken by those interested. The courses to be given this year seem to me particularly timely and attractive. Father Huntington will be the Chaplain. I would suggest an early reservation with the program secretary, my sister, Miss Bumstead, 12 Berkely Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. O death where is thy sting, O grave where is thy victory. The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law, but thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Hallelujah. Amen.

You will also be interested to know how splendidly the House and Mission of Saint Michael and All Angels has revived under the leadership of the new Chaplain, Rev. A. G. Coombs. Sister Katharine writes that over $250 was taken in on Easter, besides other gifts. A large number of the people alienated in the last few years have returned, and the congregations are rapidly increasing.

The Sisters and Associates of Saint Margaret's invite all Churchwomen of the Diocese to inspect their new House, 1831 Pine street, tomorrow, Monday, the 12th, from 3 to 5.

An exhibit of the Seaman's Church Institute will be open April 12th-17th, at the former Parkway Building, S. E. corner of Broad and Cherry Streets, to which admission is free. "You will want to see how this man of the sea will be provided for afloat and ashore." I commend very cordially to your interest, prayers and liberality this most useful work carried on for the benefit of our merchant marine.

I am asked to give notice that the Churchwoman's Club invites the women of the diocese to the opening of its temporary room at the Church House, on Tuesday, April 13th, at 4 P. M.

At the Open Forum at Saint James' Guild Hall, on Monday, the 12th, at 8 P. M., Rev. Mercer Green Johnston, D. D., will speak on the subject "Dare the Church Follow Her Leader?" I advise you to go to hear him.

The following notice came too late last week for insertion in the notes.

A conference will be held at Holy Trinity Church, Nineteenth and Walnut streets, on Wednesday, April 21, 1920, in the afternoon and evening, under the joint auspices of the Executive Council of the diocese and the Diocesan Church Service League. The object of the conference will be to emphasize the opportunities for service to our laymen and laywomen, and to explain the new organization of the women entitled The Church Service League, and the proposed methods of co-operation between the men and women of the Diocese through the departments of the Executive Council. At the afternoon session, which will begin at 2.30, addresses will be made by prominent speakers; at the evening meeting, beginning at 7.30, addresses will be made by Dr. William C. Sturgis, Dr. John Mockridge, and Mr. A. J. County.

Rector's Notes

Saturday of this week is the feast of Saint Philip and Saint James. There will be the usual second Celebration at half-past nine.

The Choir prizes will be awarded at this morning's service. The boys have worked hard for them and they are all well deserved.

The reunion of the Alumni of Saint Mark's Choir will be held in the Parish Hall tomorrow, Monday, at eight. All former members of the choir are cordially invited.

I commend to your attention the Journal of the City Mission, copies of which are to be found in the porch. The City Mission is one of our most important active and useful charities. I hope you will give it your cordial support.

This will be the last number for this season of the music lists.

On Sunday next I shall take myself both the early and the late Celebrations. Rev. Dr. Richardson of the Diocesan Church of Saint Mary will preach on that morning and Fr. Williamson at night.

On Tuesday evening, May 4th, the choir boys and men will give a concert in Witherspoon Hall for the benefit of the Outing Fund. Your hearty co-operation is solicited.

In saying good-bye to you as your Rector, I wish to thank you for your many kindnesses and wish you God-speed.

Anthem—From "The Last Judgment" Louis Spohr

Come up hither and I will shew thee what shall be hereafter: And lo! a throne was set in heav'n, and on the throne One stood! And a rainbow was round about the throne: and the elders knelt before the throne, clad in white raiment, and on their heads were crowns of gold; and from the throne came thund'rings and lightnings, and voices crying day and night,

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts! God Almighty, who wast and who art, and art to come!

Behold the Lamb that was slain!

Weep no more, weep not! Behold! He that died is risen, and hath conquer'd death and hell.

And the elders fell down before the Lamb, with their harps, and golden urns burning odors, singing this song of praise. All glory to the Lamb that died, exalted now at God's right hand, in blessing, in wisdom, in honor and praise forever.

And every creature that is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, cried aloud and said: Blessing, honor, glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb forever.

And lo! a mighty host of all nations and people stood before the throne and the Lamb. Of spotless white was ev'ry garment, in ev'ry hand a palm was borne. They fell before the throne of God with holy fear. These, who passed through heavy tribulation, have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb: they stand before God's throne, and serve Him day and night. And the Lamb shall lead them to fountains of living waters, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. Yes, every tear and every sorrow He shall wipe away from their eyes. Blessing and power be thine, our Redeemer! Nor sin, nor death, nor pain, nor sorrow shall there be known. Thou art the Lord our God, and we are Thy people. Hail, our Redeemer, hail! Lord God of heaven and earth, we adore Thee. Blessing and pow'r be thine, our Redeemer!

Those who were not able to attend the first meeting are urged to come on Tuesday. Do come if you can. So much depends upon a good start.

My Dear People :

There will be a special meeting of the members of the congregation on Wednesday, November 17, at 4.30 P. M. in the Guild Room of the Parish Building. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the ways in which Saint Mark's may most effectually discharge the responsibilities laid upon the Parish by the Presiding Bishop and Council.

Your attendance is particularly necessary. The extra-parochial work can be done well and easily if each member of the Parish will begin at the beginning, take each task as it comes and continue to the end.

Our Guilds are getting under way nicely. Last week the Guild of All Souls, the Woman's Auxiliary and St. Mark's Altar Society began their year's work. The Executive Council held its meeting. The Council considered:

(1) The status of the Nation-wide Campaign and advised me to call the meeting of the members of the congregation as our next step in this work.

(2) The Housing Committee reported that the Committee were prepared to accept definite responsibility in studying the housing situation and co-operating with other agencies for its solution. The Committee will present a plan for parochial activity in this field.

The Council referred to the Housing Committee the matter of extending the hospitality of the Parish and a tender of the services of the clergy to the thousands of people occupying or about to occupy apartments in the neighboring apartment houses. Letters of welcome to the neighborhood, a list of services, and a card to be signed and returned to the Rector will be mailed to each apartment.

On Friday the Alumnae of Saint Mary's School, Peekskill, met in the Parish Building for organization. The society will include all persons living in Pennsylvania and Delaware who have at any time attended Saint Mary's School.

The Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament will meet this afternoon directly after Evensong.

I expect to preach this afternoon. In the evening I expect to preach at Saint Elisabeth's.

Tonight I expect to leave for Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wisconsin, to make my Annual Visitation as Chaplain General of the Community of Saint Mary.

I expect to be in church on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock as usual.

Our prayers are asked for two sick men, for a family in affliction, and our thanksgivings for the recovery of a sick man are due.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

My Dear People:

The meeting of the members of the congregation, called for Wednesday, the 17th, at 4.30, in the Parish building, will be of very great importance to me, and I think of some interest to you.

We shall, at that meeting, measure and divide and assign the work required from Saint Mark's for the church at large, the Diocese and the Parish. If the work is evenly divided among us all, and if we attack it promptly, there need be no sense of strain nor haste nor anxiety. We shall be able to realize in our first year together, our watch-words, Serenity, Stability, Strength. And at the end of the year we shall have the quiet satisfaction of the sense of achievement, which rescues rest from idleness and lends it purpose. Work begun, continued and ended in God is without weariness, anxiety or failure. As a parish we can never be stronger than our weakest link. The only thing that each of us can do to avert the disaster of a weak link, is to be a strong link one's own self. There is one thing that each of us has a vocation to do. So that thing, very likely, you are the one person who can do it. Very likely if you do not do it, it won't be done. We need you. Saint Mark's is not to be a one-man parish. It is to be a parish where everyone is necessary, appreciated, trusted and used.

And the next thing is this. It applies to each of us, as individuals, and it applies to us as a parish--We must lose our life to find it. The secret of power lies hidden deeply in self-sacrifice. Self-assertion is always a pitiable and sure sign of weakness. We are not working for ourselves, we are working for God. We give the first fruits of everything to God, in worship to make our sanctuary glorious and in work to make our labor effective.

Please pray for a blessing on our work. Also for two sick men.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

F. VERNON.

Remember now Thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them, while the sun, nor the light, nor the stars, be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain: in the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men bow themselves, and the grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out of the window be darkened, and the doors shall be shut in the streets, when the sound of the grinding is low, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of music shall be brought low. Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it. Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher. All is vanity, saith the preacher. My Dear People:

The services on Thanksgiving Day will be at 7:30, 9:30, 10:30 and 5:00.

The entire offering, envelope and loose, will go to the Episcopal Hospital.

There will be a special meeting of the Vestry today at 12:45 in the Parish House.

The meeting of the congregation last week was most successful. The response was gratifying.

The Parish is rallying splendidly. Our working forces are gaining in number and determination. The spirit of co-operation is spontaneous. It does not surprise me. I knew you were like that. But I can't help telling you what a joy it is to live with you and work with you.

The Nation-wide Campaign is our present and paramount business. The chairman of the Womans' Committee is Mrs. Pepper. The chairman of the Men's Committee is Mr. Alexander Groome. If and when you are asked to serve on either Committee, do not hesitate an instant. Say "yes" before they finish the sentence.

So far so good. But I ask now for: (1) Ten young men who are not at this moment working for Saint Mark's. (2) Ten young women who are not at this moment working for Saint Mark's. If this applies to you please send me your name and address and telephone number. I need you now.

The League of Intercession ought to be known and appreciated in every Parish. (This is not what I want the ten young men and the ten young women for.) If the League accomplishes its mission in Saint Marks it will mean that the Church will be used for private devotions all day long. It will mean that people will come and go from morning until night. Not always the same few, but just everybody, as a matter of course. Can't you see what it would look like? Can't you image the atmosphere? The very air would be charged with the reality, of which incense is the symbol. So please ask me about the League. My heart is set upon it.

There will be a meeting of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament Advent Sunday after Evensong. New members will be admitted. Why not stay and see what you think of it?

Let us pray for the repose of the soul of John Hart Carr.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

F. VERNON.

My Dear People :

Advent begins a new chapter in the spiritual life of every one of us. It is impossible to live through the Christian year without adventure and discovery. All that you and I need do today is to really give our wills to God. We must really become as little children. And like little children we must go up to the great city of God. We must walk about it and mark the bulwarks and tell the towers. We shall see wonderful things. We shall begin with a crib and end with a cross. We shall see angels and saints and miracles, and we shall see God. We shall learn more of penitence, grace and prayer. We shall live deeply with God and the Saints within these walls of Saint Mark's.

It would be a help if I could have the names of children who would come to the church on Sundays for instruction. I want to begin this work at once.

On the Fridays in Advent there will be a Meditation at 4 o'clock in the chapel.

The Parish meeting will be held tomorrow at 12 o'clock. Can you come? Will you?

The messengers of the Nation Wide Campaign will visit you next Sunday afternoon. They will start from the Parish House at 2 o'clock. Your share of the work will be to arrange to be at home that afternoon. Please do!

On Monday evening December 6th, at 8 o'clock, the Men's Choir will sing Evensong. Canon Douglas will preach. Canon Douglas is the leading member of the Commission on the New Hymnal and he is our authority in America on Plainsong.

On Tuesday afternoon, December 7th, at 3 o'clock, there will be a Conference on Ecclesiastical Music for Women.

On Tuesday evening, December 7th, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Conference for the Choirmasters of Philadelphia. I hope that this Saint Mark's Conference may become an annual event.

A Day of Corporate Intercession for the Nation-Wide Campaign, for the general work of the Church, and especially for the work of St Mark's Parish, will be held in St. Mark's Church on St. Andrew's Day, Tuesday, November 30, 1920. The Parish League of Intercession begs you to join with it on this day in prayer for these objects,

7,30 A, M, }	Celebration of the Holy Communion,
9,30 A, M, }
The League will make its Corporate Communion at the 7,30 Celebration,
10,00 A, M, }	Address by the Rector, followed by Intercessions,
11,00 A, M, }
12,00 M, }

Special requests for prayers should be sent to the Rector before November 29th,

Intercessions in the Church from the close of the noon address until Evensong,

The Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament will meet after Evensong today in the Chapel,

Please pray for the repose of the soul of Sister Mary Harriet, of the Community of Saint Mary,

BASS ARIA—Thus saith the Lord: The end is near, and all the winds of heav'n proclaim its coming. Prepare to meet thy God! I will reward thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee as thou hast deserved. To Me is every action known, each secret thought is unveiled before Me. The day of wrath is near, the Almighty shall reveal His power! The reaper's song is silent in the field, and the shepherd's voice on the mountain. The valleys then shall shake with fear; and the hills shall tremble. It comes, the day of terror comes! The awful morning dawns. Thy mighty arm, O God, is uplifted; Thou shalt shake the earth and heavens! They shall shrivel as a scroll, when Thou in wrath appearest. For men shall cast away their silver, and count their gold as dross; it shall not save in the great and awful day. Where is now the monarch's might? Where all his splendor? Where the dreams of earthly greatness? The princes of the earth shall cast their crowns before Thee, and all the power of the mighty shall fail, when Thou, O Lord, shalt come to judge the world.

DUET (Soprano and Tenor)—Forsake me not in this dread hour, O God most merciful! Thou art my hope; O Lord, give ear unto my prayer. O spare Thy servant, O cast him not away: if Thou forsake me, whither shall I flee? No friend is nigh, no arm to save, but only Thou, Almighty Lord of Hosts. In Thee alone, O Lord, in Thee alone I trust, alone in Thee.

CHORUS—If with your whole hearts ye humbly seek me I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and if ye return to me sincerely I will receive you from all the ends of the earth. I will be your Father and ye shall be my people. Thus saith the Lord.

TENOR RECIT.—Jehovah now cometh to judgment! Bow down to worship Him who made the heavens and earth.

CHORUS—Destroyed is Babylon, the mighty! The smoke of her torment ascendeth for evermore. The hour of judgment is come! Now is the Lord at hand! The grave gives up its dead! The sea gives up its dead! The seals are broken; the books are all unclosed; the mighty now tremble before Him!

My Dear People:

The messengers of the Nation-Wide Campaign will visit you this afternoon. They will start from the Parish House at 2 o'clock. It is just possible that some of you who read this letter may not have had sufficient opportunity to hear, at first hand, what the real work is that the messengers represent. There may be questions that you would like to ask. The visit of your messenger will give you that opportunity. I feel sure that once you understand what it is all about, that you will be eager to do what you can to help. I am watching the afternoon's work and waiting for the reports with keen interest. I am not at all anxious, on the contrary, I am confident that we shall be one mind in recognizing the fact that concerted action in responding to the call of the Church will mean finding our own life as a Parish. It is not intensive action at the center but extensive action toward the circumference that we need. It is not to add work to a few but to distribute work to all. We need you to do the thing that you want to see done. What we want to find out this afternoon is, (1) What are you interested in? (2) What will you do to get it done? Each for all and all for each and all, not for ourselves, but for our Lord. If we do not have you, we must register one delay. But we will have you, won't we?

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the Men's Choir will sing Evensong. This will be the third public service of this choir. It will be the most important event in the field of ecclesiastical music. It will be the work of an accomplished choir, under the direction of an eminently gifted Choirmaster, in a famous Parish Church. The preacher will be Canon Douglas. I consider Canon Douglas a great preacher. Also he is our authority in Plain-song, and he is the trusted leader of the editors of the New Hymnal. His coming is in itself an important event.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3 there will be a Conference for Women on Ecclesiastical Music. We have invited nearly 150 women to attend.

On Tuesday evening, at 8, there will be a Conference for Choirmasters and all interested men. All the Choirmasters of Philadelphia have been invited.

My hope is, that this Conference will be held every year, and that it will be as important a Conference as the Wellesley Conference. I think that Philadelphia is large enough and strong enough to make this possible.

Here are three opportunities for Christmas—

Saint Mary's

Saint Michael's

Saint Michael and All Angels

Beginning on Monday there will be Masses at 7 and 7.45 daily, excepting on Thursdays and Holy Days, when the hours will be 7 and 9.30.

The offering for the Episcopal Hospital on Thanksgiving Day was as follows:—

St. Mark's	$493.72
St. Mary's	17.10
St. Michael's	100.00

Total from the Parish $610.82

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly and rejoice with joy and singing. Say to them of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold your God; He will come and save you, even God. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there; it shall be called the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there. And the ransom'd of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads, they shall obtain joy and gladness. And sorrow and sighing shall flee, shall flee away.

My Dear People:

The returns from the Nation Wide Campaign are being tabulated. I am grateful for the response. The number of people who have offered their services is proof of the need and the value of last Sunday's work. It has gone to show that ever so many people really want to give themselves to Saint Mark's, and that they were only waiting to be asked. The increase in our working force will be a cause for thanksgiving. But the greater cause for thanksgiving will be that when we say, "And we most humbly beseech Thee, O Heavenly Father, so to assist us with Thy grace that we may continue in that holy fellowship, and do all such good works as Thou hast prepared for us to walk in," we really mean to "show forth praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up ourselves to Thy service"—a holy fellowship of praise and service; a taking of sweet counsel together; a walking in the House of God as friends. These three will keep Saint Mark's a true gate of heaven.

We all desire to express to Mr. Wadlow and to the Men's Choir our appreciation of the wonderful Evensong on Monday. Mr. Wadlow's influence is being felt far beyond the limits of the Parish.

I find that Friday afternoon is not a convenient time for many persons to make church engagements. Beginning this week, therefore, the Clergy will be in Church for confessions on Saturdays at 3, instead of Fridays. The meditation will be on Thursdays instead of Fridays. The hour will be 4 o'clock.

There has been a welcome request for a Bible Class. I invite all who desire the class to join the group who are now attending the meditations. When the Advent meditations are completed, the group will resolve itself into a Bible Class.

The Vicar of St. Mary's needs money for his Christmas work. It would be a help to him if offerings could be made as soon as possible. Father Craven is a devoted Pastor and a very hard worker. I know that you like to help him. Now is a better time than immediately before Christmas, because his Sacramental duties then leave him so very little time for much else.

Father Palmer has been obliged to undergo a surgical operation. We may now give thanks for a successful result. He is at the Episcopal Hospital. I have given him a message of your love and sympathy and the assurance of your prayers.

Please pray for (1) the recovery of a man, not a member of this Parish; (2) the repose of the soul of Josephine Carr; (3) for a blessing upon a Mission at the Church of the Advent, Boston, given by the Holy Cross Fathers.

My Dear People :

On Friday, Christmas Eve, the clergy will be in church for confessions from 3 to 5 and from 8 to 9.

On Christmas Day the services will be at 7, 8, 9, 10:30, 11 and 5.

On the three following days the Second Mass will be at 9:30 and not at 7:45. The first is always at 7.

There will be a meeting for parishioners on Monday afternoon, December 20th, at 5.30, in the Parish Building. At this meeting, the report of Sunday's offering will be announced and questions will be invited. Your attendance is urgently invited.

All the offerings today are for General and Diocesan Missions.

Offerings are needed for Saint Mary's for the Christmas work. About $140 more will make up the necessary amount.

I am overwhelmed by the kindness of the nineteen who have given the service of their motors to help me with the long-distance Parish calls. My only way of returning thanks will be to use them for the best advantage of the Parish. I am very grateful.

The Bishop has issued the following appeal:

"The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. The Church Farm School makes men for tomorrow out of boys of 'Lesser Opportunity' of today. The School needs $11,000 NOW to pay its bills. Will you send a Christmas gift of one dollar or more to help this work? The School gives each boy an High School education and the choice of one of six trades: Farming, Floriculture, Carpentry, Cabinet-making, Mechanics, Electricity." An envelope will be mailed to you for an offering. Will you do what you can?

The meditation will be given in the Lady Chapel on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

I am praying for a large Christmas Communion.

I wish you all a Happy Christmas.

Though poor be the chamber, come here, come and adore; Lo, the Lord of heaven hath to mortals given life forever more; Shepherds, who folded your flocks beside you, tell what was told by angel voices near. To you this day is born He who will guide you through paths of peace to living waters clear.

Kings from a far land draw near and behold Him, Led by the beam whose warning bade ye come, Your crowns cast down, with robe royal enfold Him; Your King descends to earth from brighter home. Winds to the cedars proclaim the joyful story, Wave of the sea the tidings bear afar; The night is gone, behold in all its glory, All broad and bright rises the Eternal Morning Star.

Solemn Mass and Sermon, 11 o'clock

Hymn in Procession, Lo, the Pilgrim Magi.

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps
Gleamed that beacon Star:
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly Kings' array;
He a mightier monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address;
So, with meekest off'rings,
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known,
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be. Amen.

INTROIT—Ancient Plainsong. "Adorate Deum."

Let all the angels of God worship Him. Lo, Zion heard of it and rejoiced: and the daughters of Judah were glad. The Lord is King. the earth may be glad thereof: yea, the multitude of the isles may be glad thereof.

Then shall a star from Jacob come forth and a sceptre from Israel rise up, and dash in pieces princes and nations,

As bright the star of morning gleams,
So Jesus sheddeth glorious beams
Of light and consolation.

My Dear People :

The preacher this morning is the Rev. Doctor Arthur Whipple Jenks, Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the General Theological Seminary.

Contributions for the new Hymnal are needed and may be sent to Miss Little at the office of the Parochial Secretary.

Some time ago I asked for the services of ten young men. The response was gratifying. I have now a committee of men who have taken responsibility for work in the apartment houses of our neighborhood. The question confronting us is, "What can St. Mark's do for its neighbors?" With all that we have, what can we share and with whom? I never tire of looking at the spire of St. Mark's. It points to God and it watches over the neighborhood. It is a symbol of Faith and Pastoral Ministry. It stands for the honest-hearted love for God and man. It means that we come not to be ministered unto but to minister. Our clear-cut desire is not to win people over to come to us, but to go to our neighbors, in response to the law of Mission, "As my Father hath sent me, even so I send you." I never see a great apartment at night, with the lights shining from window above window, without being thrilled with a sense of the mystery of human life in a great city. If that life within could be expressed in tone, what "a symphony of joy and pain and passion and regret" it would be for us to hear, if some genius could only compose it, some one who could sense the throb of "a city when the sun goes down," as Alfred Noyes sensed it. No doubt many neither want nor need us. But some one may be aching for us. God knows who. God knows how much. God knows what might be averted or accomplished by the right person at the right moment. The treasures of Saint Mark's are famous. Our one Great Treasure is the Love of God. This treasure we will share without stint with any one who will accept it. We may never receive a reward in this world. We neither seek that nor desire it. But we can make our very spire alive with the Love of God. And we can make familiar streets fair in that light. With all this and more in my heart, I am sending these brothers of mine out on a Mission. It is not a scheme, it is a mission. I shall always have a place in this band for any man who loves God and his fellow-man. Please pray for a blessing on this adventure and remember it when you receive Holy Communion.

If you know of any one who would like to talk over with me the subject of Confirmation, will you be so kind as to send me their names?

There will be no meeting of the Bible Class this week.

I expect to preach next Sunday morning.

I am writing this letter to you, from the shores of Lake Michigan. What I have written comes from a heart that is devoted to you. God bless you.

Hearken diligently unto me; eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto me, hear and your soul shall live. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree. Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.

LEWIS ALEX. WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People :

You will receive the Lent Service List today.

The service on Fridays at 5 will be the Litany sung in procession, with a sermon and hymn. Father Williamson will act as Precentor. The Choir will make the musical part of the office worthy of our best traditions. The Acolytes will serve to maintain the dignity and order to which we are accustomed. I shall preach a course of sermons on Temptation. My hope is that you will be able to arrange your engagements so as to devote the time necessary to incorporate this service into your Lent Rule. It goes without saying that the daily Mass comes first and foremost always. But after the Divine Liturgy, the Friday Litany will be a congregational devotion, which you can make massive and impressive, if you will come yourself and try always to bring some one with you. You can help to fill the church. Will you?

I offer you a plan for private prayer in the Church. I submit it to you as a suggestion, in the hope that it may merit and win your approval. The point in the suggestion is that the Church may become more and more a House of Prayer. If we can each use a common intercession and come with one accord into one place, for personal and private devotion, we shall fill our Church with the reality, of which the incense is the symbol. To help to make the matter definite, I think some such arrangement of days, as the one outlined on the Lent card, might be of use to you. It is one way of doing it. If you have no better schedule perhaps mine may serve you. I am trying to plan a Lent that will foster our prayer life. Do you see what I mean?

This year Lent comes to us with so few Sundays after the Epiphany. The devotion to the Holy Childhood is still in our hearts. He seems so young to us. And now the Sacred Drama hurries us on, and we must see, once more, strange and stirring and sad things. Something pulls at our heart strings. What is it? I think it is this:

"A little Boy of Heavenly birth,
But far from home, one day
Came down to find His ball, the earth,
That sin had thrown away.

O Comrades! let us one and all
Join hands and bring Him back His ball."

FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT, 1921

My Dear People :

On Wednesday of this week there will be a Day's Retreat in Saint Mark's. The addresses will be given by Doctor Barry, the Rector of the Church of Saint Mary the Virgin, New York. The hours for the addresses will be 10, 12 and 2:30. The Retreat is being given under the auspices of the Guild of All Souls. A general invitation is cordially extended to all who would like to attend. Luncheon will be provided in the Parish building. All persons who desire to come to the luncheon are requested to notify Mrs. Reath, 2103 DeLancey Place, without delay.

On Thursday, at the New Century Club, 124 South 12th Street, at 3 p. m. Dr. Barry will lecture under the auspices of the Alumnae of St. Mary's School, on Religious Education. Dr. Barry served as lecturer for the New York Alumnae last winter at the Colony Club. The audience at that lecture was a large and enthusiastic one. I hope for the same results in Philadelphia. The lecture is open to the public. If you can arrange to come and bring your friends, I know that you will be rewarded for your effort and you will lend assistance to an object very near and dear to me.

Saint Cecilia's Guild will meet on Tuesday at 8 p. m. This Guild is composed of young women interested in ecclesiastical music. Mr. Wadlow is the director. The Guild will sing the Bach Chorales at the Passion Music, which will be sung on Palm Sunday. The Guild will also serve as a Congregational Choir on Saints' days and at Special Office on week days. Any one desiring to become a member may apply at any meeting and will be welcome.

A committee of ladies of the congregation will receive strangers on Thursdays in the Parish Parlor at 4 p. m. After the social hour the committee and guests will attend Evensong at 5 o'clock.

The Confirmation Classes are held as follows:

Men—Wednesdays, Lady Chapel, 8 p. m.

Women—Saturdays, Lady Chapel, 4 p. m.

Boys—Sundays, Parish Hall, 10 a. m.

Girls—Saturdays, Lady Chapel, 4:30.

It is not too late to become a member and I will gladly arrange for private instructions.

Please remember the Litany and Sermon on Fridays at 5 p. m.

The addresses will be made by the Rt. Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese.

I hope that the attendance will be very large.

A group of ladies are engaged in sewing for the poor. Money is urgently needed with which to provide materials. This work is a real work of mercy. I think that many of you will be glad of an opportunity to contribute. Checks should be sent to Mrs. Andrew Wheeler, 2137 Locust Street.

Saint Cecilia's Guild held its first meeting last week with thirty-five members. More are desired. The Guild meets Tuesdays at 8 P. M. in the Choir Room.

The Young Men's League are at home to strangers in the Parish Parlor on Thursday at 8 P. M. The League meets fortnightly.

A Committee of the women of the Parish are at home in the Parish Parlor every Thursday from 4 to 5.

We take this means to meet and know new-comers to Saint Mark's. I have chosen these times and this way of giving ourselves the opportunity of meeting strangers, because on Sundays there must be of necessity silence kept in the Church before and after service. We may and do speak in the Porch, but that leaves too much to chance. The Church is for prayer. The Parlor for speech.

There is a Mass at 7, 7.45 and 9 30 on Thursdays, as on other days.

I depend upon notice being given me if there are any sick among you. One of the ministries that I prize most is the carrying of the Blessed Sacrament to the sick. I am privileged to do this on three days of the week, but I have three days free. I like to go every day, straight from the altar, with our Lord, to those who cannot come to Him. The early morning walks with Him are as wonderful for me as they are to those to whom I bear Him. Send for me, since now you know how gladly I come.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

THIRD SUNDAY IN LENT, 1921

My Dear People:

The fourth public service of the Men's Choir will be held tomorrow evening, Monday, February 28, at 8 o'clock. I expect to preach

I am asked by the Executive Secretary of the Diocese to publish the following letter:

February 18, 1921

Reverend and Dear Sir:

The total missionary offerings in 1919 (not including "specials") was $1,411,971.69. The total missionary offerings for 1920 (not including "specials") was $3,013,916.68—an increase of 113 per cent.

The third Province, including Pennsylvania, increased their missionary offerings from $372,174.49 to $864,384.17—an increase of $492,209.68, or 132 per cent. This increase of $492,209.68 was the largest of any Province.

Of the three Dioceses which have always contributed most liberally to missions, the Diocese of Massachusetts increased its offerings from $107,695.91 to $181,294.35, or about $74,000; the Diocese of New York increased from $216,714.21 to $291,134.49, or about $75,000; and the Diocese of Pennsylvania increased from $161,458.39 to $252,678.93, or $91,000.

The foregoing only include contributions made to the Presiding Bishop and Council for Missions under their charge. For all kinds of Missions, including Missions and Institutions in the Diocese, also including "specials" sent to the Presiding Bishop and Council, the people in our Diocese contributed during 1920 about $625,000.00, which is estimated to be approximately $200,000 more than the previous year.

The foregoing figures show a gratifying increase in this Diocese, but the total of approximately $625,000 is, of course, far below the $1,320,000 asked of our Diocese; it is hoped that by a better organization, both in and out of the Parishes, a further substantial step in the direction of the desired goal may be accomplished in 1921.

Faithfully yours,

REYNOLDS D. BROWN,

Executive Secretary.

I call your attention to the League of Intercession leaflets. They are on the tables in the Porch. If you are making your visits to the Church for private prayer, as I trust you are, you will find the leaflets useful in providing heads for intercession.

The Friday afternoon congregations are large. If you will come yourself and make an effort, each week, to bring one person with you, the Church will be filled. And you would like that. Wouldn't you?

This week I am preaching every day at 12.10 at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York. I go to New York at 9 each morning, returning in time to keep my afternoon engagements here.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

There was no report from the Acolytes Guild, owing to the fact that Mr. Megill was out of town and unable to attend the meeting.

There was no report of the Altar Society.

The report of the Cathedral League was read by Mrs. Taylor. There are now 156 members, and $106.50 has been collected. It is sincerely hoped that many more members will join during the year 1921. Any one desiring to do so will kindly send their names to Mrs. Francis W. Sharples, 1922 Pine street.

There was no report from the Choir.

Miss Croasdill reported that the Church Periodical Club desired first, more magazines; second, miscellaneous books for the Camp Dix library; third, books for theological students; and, fourth, money for the library of St. Paul's College, Tokio. Any contribution should be sent to the Parish House in care of Miss Croasdill, which in turn will be forwarded to its destination.

Miss Reath reported that the St. Mark's ward of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament had been organized on November 7, 1920, and has now 23 members. Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament are said in the Lady Chapel after Evensong on the first Sunday in the month and on Thursdays during Lent at the same hour. More funds are needed, which should be sent to Miss Reath at the Parish House.

Miss Gertrude Pancoast in her report for the Communication Committee, stated that she was undecided as to whether or not her committee should be continued or disbanded.

There was no report from the Educational Secretary, but it was stated at the meeting that there were now 13 members.

Mrs. Reath reported that there was no change in the work of the Employment Society, the same work being carried on as has been for fifty years. She also reported on behalf of the Hospitality Committee that the sum of $120 had been raised and the kitchenette put in order, and that lunches were served every Thursday for the ladies who were sewing. The Society is not in need of money, but a larger attendance at the weekly lunches is hoped for.

Miss Ellen Leaf reported that the Housing Committee is to co-operate with the Philadelphia Housing Association, and that there is a vast amount of work to be accomplished.

Faithfully in Our Lord,

The GREAT PASSION according to ST. MATTHEW

Johann Sebastian Bach

My Dear People:

Miss Ellen Leaf reported that the Housing Committee is to co-operate with the Philadelphia Housing Association, and that there is a vast amount of work to be accomplished.

Mrs. Brock on behalf of the League of Intercession reported that a very successful Corporate Day of Intercession with the Bishop had been held on February 24th, and that noonday sessions were being held during Lent. She entered a plea for new members.

Miss Hopkins stated that she now has fourteen motors in the service and that it is very successful, having been able to supply motors in emergency cases within a very short time.

Mr. Groome reported that in the December drive for the Nation Wide Campaign, there was provided only one-third of the allotment for St. Mark's Parish, and that the Committee was endeavoring to obtain the remaining two-thirds.

Mr. Booz reported that the Guild of All Souls now numbers 82 members, 30 of which are from St. Mark's Parish.

Mrs. Lewis stated that $20 was collected and 174 garments sent in for the Needlework Guild. She desires to have more articles donated and more members to join this Society during the coming year.

Mrs. Staley, as Treasurer of the United Thank Offering, reported that there were only 36 box holders and that for the year 1920 there was received from St. Mark's Parish and St. Mary's Chapel $351.20, and that so far in 1921, there had been received $511.28.

Mr. Saunders stated that St. Mark's Men's League had distributed literature to all the apartment and boarding houses in the district with an endeavor to interest the young men in the Church. There are at present ten young men in the League and it is hoped that this number will be increased.

Mrs. Scott reported that the Women's Auxiliary has met every week since November. She desires that more women attend the luncheons every Thursday and that a larger number of delegates attend the Diocesan meetings.

Miss Frances Leaf reported that two members of the Young Women's League had attended the Thursday teas each week and that a sewing class is to commence on Friday, March 4th, in charge of Mrs. Andrew Wheeler.

Mrs. Scott read the report of the Guild of St. Cecilia, which is composed of fifty women and girls who meet on Tuesday evenings in the Choir room of the Parish House. They are being trained by Mr. Wadlow to assist the Choir in singing on Palm Sunday afternoon. The Guild hopes next year to increase its work in membership as an Auxiliary Choir to be used at such times when the regular Choir is not available.

Miss Julia Ash said that she had only been asked to pay one visit for the Visiting Committee.

Mr. Saunders said that a request for funds for the Episcopal Hospital had been sent to all Parishioners and that $160 had already been subscribed. It is hoped that other Parishes will become interested in this work as has St. Mark's.

The Chair stated that the Rector and Wardens had prepared a leaflet on Systematic Giving to be mailed to those not enrolled to give through the budget and envelope subscriptions. There are about 250 not on either of these lists, while 130 only are enrolled.

On motion the meeting adjourned at 6.45 P. M. at the call of the Chair.

PALM SUNDAY, 1921

My Dear People :

The offering to-day is the second of our three for missions, social service, and religious education. My hope is that it will be sufficiently large to make sure beyond cause for anxiety that the quota will be completed by the third offering.

The Vestry has voted that on Easter Day half the offering shall be for parochial expenses and half for general missions. If every member of the Parish will do the best that he or she can, it will not be necessary to resort to additional appeals. We began the year with an Every Member Canvass, why not end it with an Every Member Voluntary Response and get rid of the canvassing matter altogether?

During Holy Week, the services as you remember are, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, mass, 7, 7.45, 9.30; matins at 9, intercessions 12, evensong 5. On Maundy Thursday, masses 7 and 7.45, instead of the mass at 9.30; solemn high mass and sermon, 10.30; matins 9, intercessions 12, evensong 5. On Good Friday, Pro Anaphora 7, 7.45 and 9.30; matins, litany penitential office and instruction at 9; three hours' devotion 12-3, evensong 5. On Easter Even masses 7, 7.45 9.30; matins 9, intercessions 12, confirmation 4, evensong 5. Confessions 4-5, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Easter Even 3-5, 8-9. The Services on Easter Day, masses 7, 8, 9; matins 10.30, procession, solemn high mass and sermon at 11; solemn evensong, sermon and procession at 4.

My Dear People:

I would like to observe Saint Mark's Day this year, and I am writing to you about it today, in order that you may make a note in your calendars. This is what I have arranged:

ON ST. MARK'S DAY, APRIL 25.

Masses, 7:00-7:45.

Solemn Procession, Solemn High Mass and Sermon, 10.30.

Father Hughson will preach the sermon.

Solemn Evensong, Sermon and Procession at 8.00.

The Men's Choir will sing the office.

Father Hughson will preach the sermon.

There will be a Parish Tea from 4 to 6, at which Father Hughson will be our guest of honor.

If you are within reach of town on that day will you make a point of giving up the day and evening? After that I really won't ask you to do any more extras. But it would be a satisfaction, wouldn't it? Wonderful services? Crowded church? You like that just as much as I do. If you will be responsible for the Nave, I will be responsible for the Sanctuary. Come yourself, bring some one with you, and utterly disregard the weather.

On the Sunday in the Octave, May 1st, there will be a Corporate Communion at the 8 o'clock Mass. I particularly urge the men of the Parish to receive at that time. I have invited the men of St. Michael's to come to the altar of the Parish Church. There will be breakfast for the men attending, at 9 o'clock, in the Parish Building. The men of Saint Michael's will be the guests of the men of Saint Mark's.

Then there are the choir boys to be remembered. I happen to live in the neighborhood of Mr. Wadlow's field of action. And I know how much hard work these children of ours do. We all take great pride in our music. The burden rests on very young shoulders. Don't you think we might send the choir boys out to Valley Forge for a jolly good outing?

The Choir Alumni will have their annual meeting on Monday, May 2, at 8 P. M., in the Parish Building. It is a Rogation Day, but I am sure that our Lord won't mind.

Forty-nine dollars more would bring the Easter offering up to twenty-five hundred—therefore?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

At the last meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mark's, the Rev. Charles W. Schreiner gave an account of the Church Farm School at Glen Loch, Pa. He asks for scholarships from the different parishes; $535 will give a boy a Christian education and his support for one year, also training in one of six trades: farming, electricity, carpentering, cabinet making, floriculture, and mechanics. One of the boys from St. Michael's was admitted to the Farm School last Saturday. The people of St. Mark's ought to at least provide a scholarship for this boy. It will count on St. Mark's quota, and may be sent to Mrs. Frank Staley, The Blenheim, or to the Accounting Warden.

There were many interesting reports made by the delegates to the Diocesan Committee meetings:

Mrs. William J. Taylor, of the Indian Committee, told of the urgent appeal made by Dean Christian of Alaska for the Bishop Rowe Foundation Fund. She wishes to raise one hundred dollars ($100) as a contribution from St. Mark's. Fifty dollars ($50) of this was donated at once by a generous woman. Additional subscriptions may be sent to Mrs. Taylor at 1825 Pine Street.

Mrs. Mann reported for the Domestic Committee that Mrs. Biller made an appeal for one thousand dollars ($1000) from this Diocese for the four tuberculosis hospitals in Arizona. Any one interested in Domestic Missions could not do better than to contribute to this very urgent need. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Levis L. Mann, 2021 Pine Street, and will count on St. Mark's quota. For details of this work, see the last number of the Diocesan News.

Mrs. George W. Pepper reported for the Foreign Committee, that the Diocese of Pennsylvania is raising money to build one of the Wards in St. Luke's International Hospital in Tokyo, to be named the Pennsylvania Ward. St. Mark's has been asked to be one of the Parishes to give a bed in this Ward. The bed costs $1,000 and will have a tablet over it. All contributions for this purpose will be credited on our Parish quota and should be sent to Mrs. Pepper or the Accounting Warden. Eleven beds have already been promised.

Miss Caroline B. Cooke spoke of the good work done by the Bishop White Parish Library Association in supplying missionaries and clergymen with necessary theological books. Miss Cooke will welcome any subscription of any size.

Miss Croasdill reported that the Diocesan Colored Committee has met all its pledges, but that there are many appeals for the schools for colored people through the South, especially Fort Valley, Georgia. She also reported for the Church Periodical Club that $87 had been received for the library in St. Paul's College, Tokyo.

Do not forget the Fair on April 21, from 2 until 6 o'clock, and do not forget to send donations of cake, candy, plants, flowers, and fancy articles.

There will be a meeting at St. James' Parish House on Thursday, April 21, in the interests of the various summer church conferences, notably Wellesley and Princeton. A cafeteria supper will be served at 6.30 p. m. The Bishop will make an address. It is also hoped that the Rev. Bernard I. Bell, President of St. Stephen's College, Annandale, will make an address. You are cordially invited.

The Education Department cordially invites you to attend the Diocesan Session of all Mission Study Classes on the Survey, at Holy Trinity Parish House, on Tuesday evening, April 19, at 8 o'clock, reception at 9.30 to the Bishop.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

My Dear People :

It is good to have Father Hughson with us. I always feel that he belongs to us.

The First Evensong of Saint Mark's Day will be sung at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Tomorrow, Saint Mark's Day, the Masses will be at 7 and 7.45. There will be a Procession, Solemn High Mass and Sermon at 10.30. Father Hughson will preach the sermon.

Solemn Evensong will be sung by the Men's Choir at 8. Father Hughson will preach the sermon.

There will be a Parish Tea from 4.30 to 6. Father Hughson will be our guest of honor. Next Sunday there will be a Corporate Communion at 8 o'clock. The men of Saint Mark's and Saint Michael's are urged to receive at that Mass. There will be a breakfast for the men in the Parish House at 9. The men of Saint Michael's will be our guests.

On Monday, May 2nd, the Choir Alumni will have their annual meeting in the Parish House at 8 o'clock.

The outing for the Choir boys, will be given after the Choir concert has taken place. I will announce the date later on. I hope that you will make a point of coming to the Choir Concert. It will be well worth attending. And the proceeds will be for the Choir Boys' Camp. The date is May 10th. The hour is 8.15. The place is Witherspoon Hall.

And now a word about our Festival. I am not asking for a special offering of money. I want something very much more important. This is my special appeal. I ask every Communicant of Saint Marks' to receive Holy Communion during the Octave, with these intentions, that (1) "here we offer and present unto Thee, O Lord, our selves, our souls and bodies to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice unto Thee." (2) "And we most humbly beseech Thee, O Heavenly Father ; so to assist us with Thy grace ; that we may continue in that holy fellowship, and do all such good works as Thou hast prepared for us to walk in."

Our fellowship is a fellowship of selfless oblation. In that fellowship is work without weariness or rest, and the peace that passes understanding.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

SAINT PHILIP AND SAINT JAMES,
ROGATION SUNDAY, 1921

My Dear People:

There will be Litany and Intercession at 12 o'clock on the Rogation Days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Ascension Day the Masses will be at 7, 7.45 and 9 30.

At 5 o'clock there will be Solemn Evensong and Procession. The Choir will sing the office and the Acolytes will assist at the ceremonies. There is something about an afternoon service at Saint Mark's that has a charm all its own. One never forgets it. Whether it is a Penitential Procession in Lent or a Festival Procession, such as we have been having, one feels that it is good to be here. Two things we must do to keep the Feast. First, every communicant should receive on Ascension Day. Second, every attendant at Saint Mark's should try to be present at Evensong. Come yourself. Tell your friends. Bring a friend with you. Fill the nave.

The Solemn High Mass and Procession of the Festival will be the chief events on the Sunday in the Octave.

Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament this afternoon at 5 30

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, May 4th, at 7.45. The meeting will be held on Ascension Day at 3. I expect to make the address.

Are there any enlisted men who have not yet received the Victory Medal. If there are, will they kindly send me their names and addresses?

LEWIS ALEX. WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People :

My first word is to tell you that I am depending upon each and every member of St. Mark's to come to the Conference to which you will be invited. The Conference will be on November 3 and 4, at 5 o'clock each afternoon and 8 o'clock each evening, in the Parish Hall, entrance at the Choir door.

"The Clergy are confronted each autumn with the task of overcoming in their parishes the inertia of the summer vacation period. It usually takes a number of weeks to get the parish under way. All of us are painfully impressed with the ignorance of most of our people about the parish, its work, needs, objectives and responsibilities. Many of us feel the burden of devising all the plans, outlining all the objectives, giving all the information, arousing all the interest and doing much of the work which enables our parishes to look well in the annual reports. We all know all the difficulty of reaching all our people with vital information about such great enterprises as the Nation Wide Campaign. If we could call upon each person separately in the first week after our return from vacation, no doubt many of these difficulties would disappear. The impossibility of this is apparent; but there is a way by which we can approximate the results. We can have our people come to see us; and they will, if we arrange it rightly. The way is to have a series of

PARISH CONFERENCES

In simple outline, the plan is to set apart at the earliest practical moment in the autumn, three or four days, clearing the docket of every other activity. We shall have two conferences each day, one in the afternoon at 5 and one in the evening at 8. Each conference will, of course, go over the same ground, so that each successive group will consider substantially the same things. It will not be necessary for any person to attend more than one conference."

It will make all the difference in the world to me if you come, for I have set my heart upon it. But my heart does not matter very much. The thing that really does matter is the work of St. Mark's. I want St. Mark's to come into its own, with all its own, of spiritual force and material resource. I want St. Mark's to do massive, telling work. I want St. Mark's to give its whole self. That can only happen if you (yes, it does make a difference if I do not have you) will sacrifice the time and put your mind and heart into this conference and come and listen, ask questions and be actively engaged in one definite work. Will you?

The Clothing Department of the City Mission appeal for clothing in good condition. Mrs. William A. M. Fuller, Jr., 225 South 3d Street, is in charge of the department for the clothing.

There will be a general meeting of the Churchwomen's Housing Committee on Thursday, October 27th, at 2.30 P. M., at the League Branch Y. W. C. A., 1222 Locust Street.

The October number of The Spirit of Missions has been given to the United Thank Offering. There will be some copies for sale in the church porch. A United Thank Offering Box will be on the table beside them. Kindly put ten cents in the box and take a copy of The Spirit of Missions with you.

Bishop Colmore has been suddenly called home on account of illness in his family. There will be no conference to-night.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People :

The Masses on All Saints' Day (Tuesday) and All Souls' Day (Wednesday) will be at 7 and 9.30. The first and second Vespers of the Dead will be said at 5.30 P. M. on each of those days. If you have not yet sent the names of those whom you desire remembered, or if you have any additional names, you have time to send them in.

The annual meeting of the Guild of All Souls will be held in the Guild Room at 10.30 on All Souls' Day.

I find that the omission of the 7.45 Mass on Holy Days and Thursdays is the cause of some confusion and no little inconvenience. I have therefore restored the 7.45 Mass on Thursdays and Holy Days, thus making the schedule uniform throughout the week.

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be at 7.45 on Thursday, Nov. 3. In the interests of the Missionary Conference the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be at 4 P. M. instead of 3 P. M. There will be no missionary speaker then, but all are asked to go directly from it to the Conference at 5.

The Missionary Centennial is to be observed on Sunday in the Octave of All Saints. I quote from the Bishop's circular letter: "Our fellow-churchmen throughout the land, and indeed in all lands, are turning in grateful retrospect to the convention that met in this City of Brotherly Love one hundred years ago, and inaugurated a movement of immeasurable significance. With the eyes of all focused here, we of this generation locally cannot but be roused by the Apostolic injunction—to lay aside every weight and run the race that is set before us."

I would suggest, 1st, that you give an intention of thanksgiving and intercession. 2. A free-will offering of thanksgiving to memorialize the century of missionary progress for the general fund for erecting certain buildings in the mission field. 3. The definite objectives of the centennial are: a. The enlistment of one hundred qualified missionaries to meet some of the calls for re-enforcement at home and abroad. b. Completing the enrollment by Easter next of the first one hundred thousand Proportionate givers, and the first one hundred thousand Intercessors.

I would recommend Father Huntington's book, "The Work of Prayer," as an invaluable text book. Copies may be obtained from the Parochial Secretary.

The Parish Conferences will be held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, November 3 and 4. There will be a Conference each afternoon at 5 and each evening at 8. If you will come, the first large work of the year will be a success. And so much does depend on the way we start. You ought to come. You do not have to come. But if you won't come for me is there any one else who could persuade you? You will come? I am glad.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon.

Solo (Bass)—"Come up hither, and I will show thee what shall be hereafter."

Recitative (Tenor)—And lo! a throne was set in heaven, and on the throne One stood. And a rainbow was round about the throne: and the Elders knelt before the throne, clad in white raiment: and on their heads were crowns of gold; and from the throne came thunders and lightnings, and voices, crying day and night:

Solo (Tenor) and Chorus—"Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty! who wast, and who art, and who art to come!"

Recitative (Soprano)—Behold the Lamb that was slain!

Solo (Tenor)—Weep no more: behold, He that died is risen, and hath conquered Death and Hell.

Recitative (Soprano)—And the Elders fell down before the Lamb, with their harps and golden urns bearing odors, singing this song of praise:

Recitative (Soprano) and Chorus—"All glory to the Lamb that died, exalted now at God's right hand, in blessing and wisdom and honor and praise for ever."

Recitative [Tenor] | And every creature that is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, cried aloud and said:

Solo [Tenor] and Chorus—"Blessing, honor, glory and power, be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever!"

Recitative [Tenor]—And lo! a mighty host of all nations and people stood before the throne and the Lamb. Of spotless white was every garment: in every hand a palm was borne. They fell before the throne of God with holy fear.

Solo [Soprano]—These, who passed through heavy tribulation, have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. They stand before God's throne, and serve Him day and night; and the Lamb shall lead them to fountains of living waters, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

Quartet—Yes, every tear and every sorrow the Lord shall wipe away from their eyes: nor sin, nor pain, nor sorrow shall there be known. He is our God, and we are His people. Hail our Redeemer! Hail!

Chorus—Lord God of heaven and earth, we adore thee! Blessing and power be Thine, our Redeemer! Thou art the Lord our God, and we are Thy people. Hail! our Redeemer! Hail!

Quartet and Chorus—Blest are the departed who in the Lord are sleeping, from henceforth for evermore; they rest from their labors and their works follow them.

My Dear People :

ARMISTICE DAY,
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1921

St. Mark's League of Intercession would call your attention to the services on Armistice Day, at St. Mark's Church.

The Litany, Intercessions and an Address by the Rector will follow the noon silence. As the Day has been made a holiday, it is hoped that every member of the Parish who is able to do so, will be at this service and will also attend one of the Requiems, which will be at 7.00 and 7.45 A. M.

Attention is also called to the Litany and Intercessions at 12.30 P. M. daily (except Sunday), in the Lady Chapel.

Will you not make all these services known, and invite your friends to come to them, and come yourself?

St. Mark's Church is in the central part of the city, and our hope and prayer is that these short noon intercession services, as they become known, will attract as many men and women as the noon-day preaching services.

COME AND BRING A FRIEND.

Sister Elisabetha Margaret writes that she will be greatly in need of a reserve fund to meet the unusual calls for relief. Contributions may be sent, designated, through the offering, or to the Parochial Secretary.

There will be a Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament this afternoon immediately after Evensong.

I am to preach this evening at Mt. Calvary, Baltimore. I expect to be at Intercessions tomorrow.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

LEWIS ALEX. WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

The message this week is about The Work of Prayer. I want to write something of the method and spirit of it, as we are developing it at Saint Mark's. Our chief work is prayer. It comes before everything else. And it makes everything else possible. It must be the one outstanding work. "My house shall be called the House of Prayer." The prayers must be constant. The prayer life must be regular. The prayer life of a parish is the measure of its strength. Back of all the ceremonies, back of all the organizations, lies the one thing that matters, the Sacramental Life. Without that everything is unreal and futile. St. Mark's was built upon this foundation. Through all these years it has remained firm. The Prayer Life has been our hope and strength. What are we doing about it today? How are we carrying on the work entrusted to us? I think it will help us if we try to visualize the typical day as it takes its ordinary course. Begin with Monday morning. At 7 o'clock the Holy Sacrifice is offered. And again at 7.45. And on Holy Days and Thursdays again at 9.30. All the needs and intentions of the Parish, the Diocese, and the whole church are offered for the living and for the dead. "The only offering in Thine eyes, the one true, pure, immortal sacrifice" gathers up into itself all that is to follow, "from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same." "Together with Angels and Archangels, and with all the Company of Heaven," our family of Saint Mark's is gathered together before the Throne. It is the supreme moment of the day.

At nine o'clock the Office is said, the Psalms and Canticles, the Lessons, Creed and Collects come throbbing into the prayer life of the morning hours

At half-past twelve the litanies and intercessions lift persons and affairs, with all the varying necessities and aspirations and longings up, high, before the good God, who is "ever more ready to hear than we to pray; and Who is wont to give more than either we desire or deserve." Not long ago a stranger, as he went out from the church, said, "This is a difficult day for me. I know I have been helped." The next day he returned to give thanks. "For," said he, "I was helped." Another said, "I am so glad that we can come to pray. It is prayer that we need."

At five o'clock comes Evensong. Our evening prayers are filled with the happenings and doings of the day. Rest and trust are doubly welcome. At 5.20 the night Litany for dwellers in great cities is said. That Litany leaves no one unremembered. The prayerful and the prayerless are all included and lovingly commended to the Blessed Trinity. St. Mark's has ended the day's work of prayer. To-morrow, early in the morning, it will begin again.

On Monday evening, November 21, at 8 o'clock, the Men's Choir will sing Evensong, and the Acolytes of Philadelphia will assist. The preacher will be the Rector of Rosemont.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it. Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, all is vanity. Then will I go to the altar of God, the God of my gladness and joy. I will praise Thee upon the harp, O my God; O my soul, why art Thou cast downward and why art thou disquieted within me? On next Sunday, December 4, we begin to make an inventory of the resources of our Parish, both in givers and workers. The inventory is made at this particular time, not only to arrange our program of work and giving for the new year, but also to make sure that we shall discharge such of our obligations for 1921 as yet remain unfulfilled.

Our share of the work of the church, outside the Parish for 1921, was $22,879.37. Of this all has been given or pledged except about $5,000. To square this account by December 31 is, of course, our first responsibility.

For 1922 our financial obligation will be the same as in 1921.

The Presiding Bishop and Council hope by Easter of 1922 to have 100,000 Proportionate givers who will give a proportion of their income to the Church, 100,000 Intercessors who will agree to pray daily for missions, and 100 missionaries who will volunteer for service.

We need all those who helped last year and also more volunteers.

The Sisters of St. Margaret will have a Sale of Dolls, Fancy Articles, Cakes, Candies and Christmas Cards at St. Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street, on Tuesday, the 29th of November, from 2 until 5.

A Parish meeting will be held in the Guild Room of the Parish House on the first Monday in Advent, November 28, 1921, at 4 30 P. M.

GRADUAL. Out of Sion hath God appeared in perfect beauty: our God shall come and shall not keep silence. Gather My saints together unto Me: those that have made a covenant with Me with sacrifice.

SOLO (Bass)—Thus saith the Lord: "The end is near, and all the winds of heaven proclaim its coming. Prepare to meet thy God! I will reward thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee even as thou hast deserved. To Me is every action known: each secret thought is unveiled before Me."

RECITATIVE (Bass)—The day of wrath is near: the Almighty shall reveal His power! The reaper's song is silent in the field, and the shepherd's voice on the mountain. The valleys then shall shake with fear: with dread the hills shall tremble. It comes! the day of terror comes! The awful morning dawns! Thy mighty arm, O God, is uplifted! Thou shalt shake the earth and heavens: they shall shrivel as a scroll, when thou in wrath appearest. For men shall cast away their silver, and count their gold as dross: it shall not save in the great and awful day! Where is now the monarch's might, where all his splendor, where the dreams of earthly greatness? The princes of the earth shall cast their crowns before Thee; and all the power of the mighty shall fail, when Thou, O Lord, shalt come to judge the world.

DUET (Treble and Tenor)—Forsake me not in this dread hour, O God most merciful! Thou art my hope, O Lord, give ear unto my prayer! O spare Thy servant, and cast him not away! If Thou forsake me, whither shall I flee? No friend is nigh, no arm to save, but only Thou, Almighty Lord of Hosts. In Thee, O Lord, in Thee alone I trust!

CHORUS—"If with your whole hearts ye humbly seek Me, I will be found of you," saith the Lord; "and if ye return to me sincerely, I will receive you from all the ends of the earth. I will be your Father, and ye shall be my people": thus saith the Lord.

SOLO (Tenor)—Jehovah now cometh to judgment! Bow down to worship Him Who made the heavens and earth.

CHORUS—Destroyed is Babylon the Mighty! The smoke of her torment ascendeth for evermore. The hour of judgment is come! Now is the Lord at hand! The grave gives up its dead: the sea gives up its dead: the seals are broken: the books are all unclosed: the mighty now tremble before Him!

My Dear People:

The Mission Study Class will commence on the Feast of the Epiphany, Friday, January 6, at a quarter after eleven, in the Parish Hall. The Class will meet on seven consecutive Fridays. Sister Lydia, S. S. S. M., is to be the Directress. I hope that every woman in the Parish will come to this class. The more we know about any given work, the more willingly we co-operate. If we know, then no time and energy need be wasted in persuasion at times when prompt and telling action is necessary. Campaigns and drives are usually hectic efforts to atone for previous lack of preparation. A man who goes without his breakfast and runs for a train is not busy, he is late. Will you send your name and address to Sister Lydia, 1831 Pine Street, or to Miss Josephine L. Doran, 2211 Rittenhouse Street.

A Food Fair, Christmas Sale and Tea will be held at the Parish House on Tuesday, December 6, from 10 to 5 o'clock, under the auspices of the Daughters of the British Empire and Queen Mary's Needlework Guild for the benefit of the British Patriotic Fund for the relief of suffering among the families of the men who went to the war from Philadelphia.

The Co-operative Shop announces its removal to the new permanent quarters at 317 South 20th Street. Weekdays [except Wednesday] 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. Wednesdays and Saturdays, 10 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. Family membership cards [good for one year] may be obtained by sending two dollars to Miss Eleanor A. Deane at the above address. Please continue to send contributions of clothing, etc., to the Pro-Cathedral, 616 South Broad Street.

I recommend the tract on Proportionate Giving as profitable Advent reading. The matter contained in this tract is not a begging appeal, or a scolding, or an exhortation of any kind. It is a wise, sympathetic, explicit, helpful answer to a definite question—the sort of question that you would confide to a dependable friend. The answer is the sort of answer a dependable friend would give you. It is useful because it is sensible. It is helpful because it is friendly. I am deeply grateful to the author. You will find copies in the porch.

As announced last Sunday we begin today our annual inventory of the resources of the Parish. Please give a cordial welcome to the messenger who will call upon you today or as soon as possible. The unraised balance of our 1921 quota has during the week been reduced from $5,000 to about $3,500.

The Preacher this morning is the Rev. W. S. Claiborne of the Du Bose Divinity School, Sewanee. I expect to preach at Evensong today.

Tomorrow evening at six o'clock I expect to preach at the General Theological Seminary. Please pray for a blessing.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

My Dear People :

The Parish appropriates $65 each year as a Christmas Fund for the children at St. Michael's and St. Mary's Chapels. This year more than that amount will be needed. Designated contributions may be sent to Miss Little.

I have also received an appeal for the Christmas Stockings for the children of the various Missions and Settlement Houses. We are asked especially for St. Ambrose Mission, Howard and Ontario Streets. Filled stockings are asked for. They may be sent to Mrs. Joseph Sims, 319 East Gravers Lane, Chestnut Hill.

Both are opportunities to give pleasure to children. First, naturally and justly, we must take care of the children of our own Missions, and then for others.

The attendance at the noon-day intercessions is steadily increasing. The prayer life gains greater effectiveness if it is worked out corporately and visibly in the church. I urge you to make it a part of your rule of life to visit St. Mark's at least on one week day, to fulfill your own allotted share. I suggest that on the day you set apart you attend at 7 or 7.45, also one of the offices at 9 or 5, or one of the intercessions at 12.30 or 5.30. I want St. Mark's to be a vibrant prayer center at the heart of this great city. I want to make our life together that kind of life. I am always there myself. I do need you. I call you. Will you come?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Say to them of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not, behold your God; He will come and save you, even God. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there; it shall be called the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there. And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness. And sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

CHRISTMAS DAY, 1921

My Dear People :

God bless you and give you a happy Christmas.

If there should be anyone in Church to-day for whom this is not a happy Christmas, is there anything that I can do to help? I shall be at the door after the services.

The Carols will be sung after Evensong this Sunday and next.

The Services next Sunday, The Feast of the Circumcision, are to be as they are to-day.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Saint Stephen's Day, Saint John the Evangelist's Day and Holy Innocents' Day, there will be the usual third Mass at 9.30.

On Holy Innocents' Night, the Choir and Acolytes are to have a party and give a play in the Parish House at eight o'clock.

The Pennsylvania Woman's Committee of the Church Mission to Jews, being endorsed by Bishop Garland, appeals to-day for an offering for its work. All offerings for this Fund will count on the Parish quota, and may be sent, designated as from St. Mark's, to Mrs. Morris W. Stroud, 1011 Clinton Street, Philadelphia.

The offering today is to be devoted to the Church Pension Fund Premium, which this year is larger than usual, due to the fact that there is an additional Curate at Saint Michael's.

Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament will be said every Thursday after Evensong and the Night Litany, and Vespers of the Dead every Saturday after Evensong and the Night Litany.

My Dear People :

We should give thanks today for the large number of Christmas communions.

If there are any who are ill, whose names are not on my sick-list, I do hope that I shall be notified.

The Corporate Communion of St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, January 4, at 7.45. The Annual Meeting will be held on Thursday, January 5, at 3 P. M. There will be a speaker at this meeting.

The Educational Department invites you and your Parish to a New Year's Tea, Thursday, January 5, from 4 to 6 o'clock, Church Woman's Club Room, Church House, 202 South 19th Street, Philadelphia, Penna.

An exquisite silver (seventeenth century) Font has been given for use in the Lady Chapel.

I want to say something about Memorial gifts. Every memorial is a memorial. It is not a mere material possession. It is a memorial of a person whose memory is to be kept alive and fresh and sacred and dear in our St. Mark's Family. Whatever the memorial is, it is priceless because it is personal. It is a living stone in our fabric and not a mere possession, because it is a symbol of the Life in Christ that has bound persons together in the bundle of life, in this world and in the next, for time and for eternity. Our visitors may admire a memorial for some outstanding quality that makes it an object of beauty or rarity or value, or it may escape notice because it is simple and hidden. But whatever it is, it is a living memorial, offered, blessed and used for worship, and for glory and for memory, for all time. Day by day, and every day, from the rising of the sun until the going down of the same, from the first offering of the Holy Sacrifice very early in the morning, on through all the changes of the day, through the Sacrifice, and Office, and Intercessions, and the Litany for the Night, the memory of each and every member of our Family is woven into the fibre and fabric or life that is hid with Christ in God, a deathless, throbbing, living, holy life. Do pray for me, that I may be made and kept true to my trust, that out of my weakness God's strength may be made perfect, and His Holy Religion unfailingly and unfalteringly presented and manifested as loving, lovable, and loved to all who seek sanctuary at St. Mark's.

God give you a Happy New Year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

When Jesus our Lord was born in Bethlehem, in the land of Judea, behold from the east to the City of Jerusalem there came wise men and said: Say, where is He born, the King of Judea? for we have seen His star in the east and are come to adore Him. There shall a star from Jacob come forth, and a sceptre from Israel rise up and dash in pieces princes and nations.

As bright the star of morning gleams,
So Jesus sheddeth glorious beams
Of light and consolation.
Thy word, O Lord,
Radiance darting, truth imparting,
Gives salvation,
Thine be praise and adoration. —From the "Christus"

My Dear People :

It is a cause for satisfaction that so many visitors feel attracted to St. Mark's. I want St. Mark's, however, to be something infinitely more than an attractive place to visit. I want people come here because they find our Lord. I want people who come here to be helped, really helped. One of the first things to do for our visitors is to help them to understand St. Mark's. And from time to time, I mean to write an occasional letter to our visitors. Today I have something to say about the matter of receiving Holy Communion at St. Mark's.

1. In the first place I assume, in the words of the Prayer Book, that "there shall none be admitted to Holy Communion until such time as he be confirmed, or be ready and desirous to be confirmed."

2. In St. Mark's there are Masses every day in the week from 7 and 7.45, with a third Mass on Holy Days and Thursdays at 9.30. This means that Communicants are given at least thirty opportunities on week days to receive Holy Communion. In addition to this, at present, I am giving Holy Communion to people privately, in their homes, every week, an average of once every day. On Sundays, there is a Mass for Communion at 10 o'clock, an hour which visitors have found convenient. For our own parishioners, I am naturally able to make other additional arrangements because I am so much with them that I know their customs and requirements.

At the High Mass at 11 o'clock on Sundays, I cannot, for obvious reasons, make provision to administer Holy Communion to visitors. I cannot estimate an unknown quantity. But the chief and real reason is that St. Mark's is not the kind of Parish where mid-day Communion of a general and non-parochial character is desired or possible without disastrous disarrangement of the order of service which has been developed here, as the result of more than half a century of teaching and practice. The High Mass here is for worship, praise and prayer. Visitors are not expected to come forward to receive. No provision is ever made for this. I write plainly to save visitors from unwittingly disregarding this custom and to save disturbing a carefully planned and executed act of worship.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Processional Hymn—Lo the Pilgrim Magi

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps
Gleamed that Beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant
Earthly King's array;
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore:
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute true.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address:
So, with meetest off'rings
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be.

Amen.

INTROIT. All the world shall worship Thee, O God; sing of Thee and praise Thy Name, O Thou most Highest.

PSALM. O be joyful in God, all ye lands: sing praises unto the Lord for His goodness: and declare the wonders that He doeth unto the children of men.

GLORIA PATRI. INTROIT. All the world.

GRADUAL. The Lord sent His word and healed them: and they were saved from their destruction. O that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness: and declare the wonders that He doeth unto the children of men.

Alleluia, alleluia. Praise the Lord, all ye Angels of His: praise Him, all His host. Alleluia.

My Dear People:

The quota allotted to St. Mark's for 1921 was $22,879.37 (twenty-two thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine dollars and thirty-seven cents.) The total credit on St. Mark's quota for work outside the Parish in 1921 was $26,553.83 (twenty-six thousand, five hundred fifty-three dollars and eighty-three cents. The amount paid over and above the quota was $3,674.01 (three thousand, six hundred and seventy-four dollars and one cent.)

Back of the gifts are the givers. The givers represent the spiritual energy of the Parish. The energy received through sacraments, directed by prayer, and spent in the fulfillment of the law of the Mission. I thank God for all that you are and all that you do. And I have the most joyful confidence "that we may continue in that holy fellowship and do all such good works as Thou hast prepared for us to walk in."

Today, you are making your first great offering of the year for Missions. "Be merciful after thy power. If thou hast much give plenteously; if thou hast little do thy diligence gladly to give of that little."

The Preacher today is the Reverend Francis J. Cotter of Wuchang, China.

There will be a Mission Study Class for men on Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock in the Church House, 202 South 19th Street. The leader will be the Rev. Franklin Joiner, Rector of St. Clement's Church. On Thursday evenings, beginning January 12th, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Mission Study Class for young men and young women. The leader will be Mrs. Pilsbry. The subjects for both classes will be The Church and the Nation.

January the 19th will be Diocesan Educational Day at the Church House. The program is posted on the notice board.

There will be a Missionary Mass Meeting at Holy Trinity Church on January 23d at 8 P. M. The speaker will be Dr. William C. Sturgis.

I ask, today, for the names of those who desire to receive instruction for Confirmation.

I expect to preach this afternoon.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People:

I commend to your attention the following report of the Church Periodical Club. The work is an important one. Under the competent direction of Miss Croasdill, St. Mark's Branch is the leading factor in the Diocese. Can we increase our work? We can if you will enroll as a member by contributing books, magazines, periodicals, or money. The Club offers an attractive and effective opportunity for a teaching mission.

THE CHURCH PERIODICAL CLUB

The Church Periodical Club is an organization for the collection and distribution of good literature: theological and medical, religious and secular books, magazines and periodicals of all kinds. From time to time these are sent to the clergy, to theological students, to missionaries, to schools, to army posts and naval stations, to seamen, to any individual who can make use of the same.

During the war, the Church Periodical Club performed a notable service in supplying literature and games to the men over-seas, and the Chaplains were loud in their praise of the work of this organization, saying that it never failed to meet their needs fully and promptly.

St. Mark's made the largest contribution of any of the Diocesan Periodical Clubs to the Library at St. Paul's College, Tokio. At Christmas four boxes of toys and books were sent to missions and individuals in Tennessee, Virginia, and Porto Rico. A fund has been started for the purchase of medical books to be sent to Dr. Grafton Burke at Fort Yukon, Alaska.

Last year the postage and freight charges for forwarding the various books and magazines was upwards of one hundred dollars. This year it is hoped to have a larger circulation, and this will of course involve a greater expenditure of money for the forwarding charges. Contributions of money are therefore asked for this purpose.

The Periodical Club asks for regular contributors of magazines and periodicals. Books of all kinds are greatly needed too. Any one desiring to send periodicals directly can secure from the Club the name or names of persons who will be most glad to become "the personal recipient" of the Church Periodical Club literature.

Contributions of books, magazines and periodicals of all kinds should be sent to the Church Periodical Club, Parish House, 1625 Locust Street.

Contributions of money should be sent to Miss A. L. Croasdill, 1220 Spruce Street.

Will you not enroll as a member of the Church Periodical Club by contributing either books, magazines, periodicals or money?

The Acolytes' Guild meets in the evening once each month from October to June, and it is proposed to give a light lunch to the boys at these times. Mrs. Reath would be glad to have the names of any one who would like to be responsible for an evening, or to receive subscriptions for this purpose. The members of the Guild are volunteer workers without whose help the services at St. Mark's would lose much of their dignity and reverence.

The Diocesan Committee on Polish work will be glad to receive contributions for its work. Miss Murphy, our representative in this work asks that offerings may be designated "for the Kindergartner's salary at the School of the Redeemer." Contributions may be sent to Mr. Reynolds Brown marked "from St. Mark's."

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, February 1, at 7.45 A. M. The regular monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, February 2, at 3 P. M. There will be a speaking at this meeting

Affectionately in Our Lord,

Fierce was the wild billow,
Dark was the night;
Oars laboured heavily,

Trembled the mariners,
Peril was nigh:
Then said the God of God,
"Peace! it is I."

Ridge of the mountain wave,
Lower thy crest!
Wail of Euroclydon,
Be thou at rest!
Sorrow can never be,
Darkness must fly,
When saith the Light of Light,
"Peace! it is I."

Jesus, Deliverer,
Come Thou to me,
Soothe Thou my voyaging
Over life's sea:
Thou, when the storm of death
Roars, sweeping by,
Whisper, O Truth of Truth,
"Peace! it is I."

My Dear People:

The Confirmation Class for Women will meet on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Confirmation Class for Men will meet on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament immediately after Evening song this afternoon.

The Bishop's Bricks Fund has been in existence since the first year of Bishop Rhinelander's Episcopate, and was started in response to an appeal in the Bishop's address to the Diocesan convention in May, 1912. It is now a fixed Diocesan institution and serves as a channel by which small sums are collected annually to help in whatever building project the Bishop may have on hand.

On February 11 Intercessions will be at 1 o'clock instead of 12.30.

A committee of St. Mark's Church will be in the Parish Parlor 1625 Locust Street, on Thursday afternoons until Lent from 4 to 6 o'clock, to welcome members of the congregation, their friends and strangers.

It is a joy to know that Mr. Wadlow is recovering after a sharp illness. We were sadly anxious last Sunday. Today we are quite relieved.

Mr. Wheeler, the Accounting Warden of the Parish, presided at the organ last Sunday and is presiding today. Our appreciation is ever keen and our thanks are sincere and hearty.

This week Mr. Richard Brock entered into Rest. He was a devout communicant, a pious benefactor, and an honored citizen. He went in peace. May he so rest and may light perpetual shine upon him.

Processional Hymn 530.....Tune, St. Gertrude

INTROIT. The sorrows of death compassed me; the pains of hell came about me: in my trouble I called upon my Lord, and He heard my voice out of His holy temple.

GRADUAL. The Lord will be a refuge in due time of trouble: they that know Thy Name will put their trust in Thee: for Thou, Lord, hast never failed them that seek Thee. The sorrows of death had closed all around me, and hell's dark terrors had got hold upon me, with trouble and deep heaviness; but said the Lord, come arise from the dead and awake thou that sleepest, I bring thee salvation. We called through the darkness, Watchman will the night soon pass? The Watchman only said: though the morning will come, the night will come also; ask ye, inquire ye, return again, ask: Will the night soon pass? The night is departing, departing.

My Dear People :

We are all happy to have Father Hughson with us today. And we very much desire to hear all that he will tell us about the Liberian Mission.

The Rector of Saint Peter's sends us an announcement of a public recital of Choral Church unaccompanied music, to be given by the choir of Saint Peter's, on Wednesday, February 15, at Witherspoon Hall. The program will consist of representative works of the Roman, English, Dutch and Russian Schools, together with several works by modern American composers.

The Eighty-fourth Local Assembly of the Daughters of the King, of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, will be held in the Church House, 202 South 19th Street, on Tuesday evening, February 14, at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be the Reverend Charles E. McAllister of Saint Matthew's Parish, Hyattsville, Maryland. Bishop Garland will preside.

The Department of Religious Education has arranged for a series of missionary classes to be conducted by Dr. William C. Sturgis of New York on Tuesday evenings, beginning March 7, at 8.30, at the Church House. There will be seven lectures in the series. Tickets can be secured by those who are interested by applying to the Executive Office.

Your prayers are asked for the repose of the soul of Doctor William H. Bennett of Atlantic City. A memorial window has been placed for Doctor Bennett in All Saints' Church, Chelsea.

The Confirmation Class for Women meet on Saturdays at 3, in the Lady Chapel.

The Confirmation Class for Men will meet on Sundays at 3, in the Lady Chapel.

The Parish teas are given on Thursdays from 4 to 6, in the Parish Parlor. Do come. And bring some one with you. It helps the Parish.

SEXAGESIMA, 1904

The members of the Guild of Saint Michael's and Saint Martin's Acolyte Guild will give an "Indoor Garden Party" on Wednesday afternoon and evening, February 22nd, in the Parish Hall, 19th and Lombard streets. The proceeds are for the Repair Fund. A representative attendance from Saint Mark's would greatly encourage the workers at Saint Michael's. I urge you to help this work on by your presence. And it will do you good too. I went to Saint Michael's first, thirteen years ago, and I have never ceased to love the people there. They are a real inspiration.

The third and last, before Lent, of the Parish Teas, will be given next Thursday, from four to six, in the Parish Parlor.

We have heard from Father Hughson's own lips the story of the Liberian Mission. If Father Hawkins arrived in Liberia on Sunday, and that was about the time expected, it was a happy coincidence that we should have been thinking of and praying for him on that very day. With this letter I inaugurate the Liberian League. Any one may become a member of the League by agreeing to pray for the work and to make a regular contribution. I hope that you will all join the League. Will you be so kind as to write to me, signifying your intention of becoming a member, giving me your name and address. I will then enroll you, and send you a copy of the League Prayer. Contributions should be sent to Miss Little, addressed Parochial Secretary's Office, St. Mark's Parish House, 1625 Locust Street, and designated "Liberian League."

The Lent cards will be distributed next Sunday. Will you take extra cards to mail to your friends?

Please return thanks for the recovery of Sister Adeline, S. M., and Sister Martha, C. S. M. And pray for several who are ill.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The Lent service list explains itself. Will you kindly take several cards away with you to give or mail to your friends?

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, March 1st, at 7.45.

The monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, March 2nd, at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Charles E. Betticher will speak on Alaska.

We are asked to pray for the Churchmen's Alliance today, for its members and for a blessing upon its work.

I am hoping that this Lent will be an old-time Saint Mark's Lent, which means, (1) a large attendance at the daily Masses, with a conspicuously large proportion of men; (2) a large attendance at the Meditations; (3) a Sunday congregation at the Processional Litany and Sermons on Fridays; (4) many people coming and going throughout the day, for (5) the offices, (6) private devotions, and (7) confessions. This is the work of the Holy Ghost. Let us do our part in Prayer, Fasting, Almsgiving. Then we may expect a good Lent.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon.

My Dear People :

The Lent services are well under way. The attendance has been most gratifying.

To those who came in such very large number to the Thursday instruction I owe an apology. I kept you much too long. That will not happen again. The instruction will be given from the pulpit. It will begin at 5.15. It will last ten minutes. The congregation will be dismissed at 5.25. Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament will be said as a separate service at 5.30 in the Lady Chapel. Those who cannot remain will be enabled to withdraw without embarrassment, before Vespers. I know that it is necessary for many to do so. You will accept this act of reparation? And you will try again next Thursday? Please do! The invitation is general

A Mission Study Class for men and women will be held at All Saints on the Tuesday evenings during Lent, beginning February 28, at 8 o'clock. "The subject will be, 'The Church in the Nations—a Study in Christian Loyalty.'"

Father Huntingdon will conduct a Retreat for young Churchwomen at St. Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street, on Wednesday, March 8, beginning with Mass at 8 A. M. Any one desiring to attend is asked to apply to the Sister-in-charge.

The Committee in charge of the Day of Corporate Intercession ask you to consider carefully this call from our Bishop. We ask that as far as possible you give up conflicting engagements and make this a day of corporate penitence for our sins, of thanksgiving for God's mercy, of intercession for our country for the Church, especially our part of the Church, and for the coming of God's Kingdom.

Our Bishop has told us, "Only as we pray together can we realize our common vocation and our common task."

The Church is open all day and there will be continual silent intercessions from 1 to 5 P. M. It is hoped that many will come in during the afternoon to take part in these intercessions.

[Concluded from last page]

For new buildings for Iolani School, Honolulu.

Iolani is a power house for the development of Christian character. Its 200 pupils include Hawaiians, Anglo-Saxons, Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Scandinavians, and others. For many years it has occupied cheaply constructed buildings now worn out. Bishop LaMothe, who has just gone to Hawaii as Bishop, appeals earnestly for help in equipping the school with new buildings.

To complete the fund for building an industrial school at Cape Mount, Liberia.

Bishop Overs has emphasized the absolute necessity of industrial education in order to make the Church's work in Liberia effective. About $5,000 is already in hand, $15,000 is needed.

Salaries of clergymen, catechists and of Bible women are needed.

Teachers' salaries and scholarships are needed in the schools for the Indians, the negroes, for the DuBose Training School in Tennessee, for China, Japan, Brazil, etc.

Five hundred dollars will provide the building and equipment for one nurse in the new nurses' home and school at St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio. The present home only holds 50 nurses; over 1,000 have applied. Every nurse has gone out from this school a Christian.

We need $200 more to finish our fund of $1,000 for St. Mark's bed in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio.

Anything contributed to these objects counts on our quota.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People :

You will receive this week our circular letter, which concerns the first of our three missionary offerings for 1922. To make it possible to visualize our offerings, I submit the following suggestions :

For new buildings and improvements Bishop Payne Divinity School, Petersburg, Va.

Everyone recognizes the vital importance of giving Christian leadership to the negro people of this country. This school has a fine record. Its standards for education, character and practical training are high. Its graduates are doing excellent work. The school needs better equipment, additional land and a new dormitory.

The building of a chapel at the University of Illinois.

The Illinois State University is one of the largest of the midwestern educational centers. There are 1,000 young men and women of the Church in its student body. They have no adequate place to worship. At present the services are held in a court room.

For the building of a Church at Nara, Japan.

Nara is one of Japan's ancient capitals. It is a city of shrines, visited annually by more than 2,000,000 people. We have the most commanding site in the city. Bishop Tucker desires to erect a church that will not only accommodate the large and growing congregation, but will also attract the attention of those who come to visit the shrines. The opportunity is an unusual one. Nara needs a church second to none in Japan. Through a fortunate sale of property no longer needed, about $5,000 will be available locally to add to the amount needed from outside.

For land, residence and school, St. Andrew's, Wuchang, China.

St. Andrew's is a new mission in a part of Wuchang which is developing as an industrial center. Great cotton mills built and equipped by English and American firms have been erected and are employing thousands of operators. The Church desires to put into the life of this industrial center the spirit and teaching that will avert the disastrous social conditions easily developed in such centers. (This is the Rev. Mr. Cotter's work.)

For church, residence and schools in Nanchang, China.

Nanchang is a city of 500,000 people, and is one of the most important cities in Central China. The Church already owns land on one of the main business streets. For several years work has been carried on in the old and unsanitary Chinese buildings that were on the property when we secured it. It is unfair to our missionary the Rev. L. R. Craighill, to ask him to try to carry on with that inadequate equipment. It is uneconomical to spend the amount of money necessary to maintain a foreign worker in Nanchang unless he has proper equipment. It is unthinkable that the Church, having established itself in a great center and won a fine following of Chinese should now withdraw.

For a church at Yangchow, China.

Yangchow is one of the important cities on the Grand Canal and the home of our Mahan School, known far and wide throughout the province. The present church, built several years ago, cannot begin to accommodate its congregation of students and others. All sorts of expedients have been tried to make space and still the people come. Dr. Ancell says if we give him a church to accommodate 400, he will fill it in a year; and if we make it for 600, he will fill it in five years. Chinese Christians have already given $1,500 of the total needed. The last $500 has been promised. [Continued inside]

My Dear People:

Today the second of the three offerings is being made for the work of the Church at large. I am sure that it will be a worthy offering. We are of one mind and one heart in the matter.

There will be a meeting of Saint Cecilia's Guild on Monday night, March 20th, at 8 o'clock, in the Choir Room. Mr. Wadlow asks for a large attendance.

The Men's Choir Service will be sung in the Church on Wednesday evening, March 22, at 8 o'clock. Will you make this service known by bringing a friend with you?

Next Friday, March 24th, the eve of the Annunciation, Solemn Evensong will be sung instead of the Processional Litany, at 5 o'clock.

The preacher this morning is Father Campbell, O. H. C., the Prior of St. Andrew's, Tennessee.

The preacher next Sunday morning will be Father Sill, O. H. C., head master of Kent School.

On Saturday, March 25th, there will be a Day's Retreat for Acolytes. The conductor will be Father Sill, O. H. C.

On the Fourth Sunday in Lent, March 26th, there will be a meeting of the Kent School Alumni at St. Mark's. There will be a Corporate Communion and the men will breakfast with their Head Master after Mass in the Parish House. St. Mark's is the central meeting place for the Alumnae of Saint Mary's School also.

We can really serve our Church Schools in this way. And it is a privilege to be allowed to take on this work.

It was a pleasure to welcome two of our missionaries last week, Father Cotter of China and Father Campbell of Sewanee. Our Clergy House is most fortunate in its guests. We need just what such visits invariably give us. Mission problems are so real if you only know the Missionary.

Offertory Anthem—The Lord is my Shepherd..... Franz Schubert

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want; He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff shall comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over; surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

The Guild of St. Cecilia will have a rehearsal of the Bach chorals and the Story of the Cross on Monday evening at eight o'clock, in the Parish House. Members and others interested are urged to attend. This is an unusual opportunity for service in the music of the church.

Further explanation of this can be had from Miss Sargent or from the Choirmaster and Organist.

The Great Passion Music, according to St. Matthew, Bach, will be sung Passion Sunday and Palm Sunday at 4 o'clock.

The following letter from Nashotah has been received:

NASHOTAH HOUSE

NASHOTAH, WIS.

LENT, 1922

The cry heard everywhere in the Church today is for more clergy, for better prepared clergy.

Here at Nashotah House we are endeavoring to answer that cry and supply the need.

This year we have more students than for many years past, all earnest men—men whom we are training to be the kind of priests the Church needs, priests devoted to their altars, and with a real love for souls, priests capable of being prophets of their day, trained in the science and philosophy of today, as well as versed in theology and the history of religion.

We need your help to maintain this work. Our invested funds provide for our existence, but your gifts are needed to enable us to keep going. For years we have "carried on" through the generosity of those who have contributed to our "Daily Bread" fund.

Will you not share with us this privilege of thus serving our dear Lord and His Church, and our fellow-men?

Faithfully yours,

BENJ. F. P. IVINS, Dean

WM. WAITER WEBB, Bishop of Milwaukee

REGINALD H. WELLER, Bishop of Fond du Lac

After twenty-five years of service, the Servers' cassocks need renewing. Contributions are asked for this object, and should be sent to the Parochial Secretary.

Johann Sebastian Bach

My Dear People :

On Palm Sunday, the palms will be blessed and distributed after the 11 o'clock Mass. There will be a Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass.

The Corporate Communion of the Women's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, April 5, at 7.45 A. M. The monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, April 6, at 3 P. M. Mr. Hubert Jones will speak on the missionary work in the Diocese.

Many of St. Mark's people have been interested in the development of the Seamen's Church Institute of Philadelphia. During the past winter an unprecedented emergency has been met, the large number of unemployed seamen stranded in the city, occasioning the opening of a soup kitchen at the headquarters, Second and Walnut Streets. Since the first of the year over 10,000 meals have been served, one meal of soup, coffee and bread to one man per day. Improved shipping conditions and better weather will make possible the closing of the soup kitchen after Easter. The Institute is undertaking to raise $200,000 this spring, in order to begin work on the first unit of its new building, which will provide an Auditorium, School of Navigation, Sick Bay, and forty-five to fifty single rooms.

Easter cards may be purchased at the Sisters' House, 1831 Pine Street.

There will be a meeting in the interests of the Belleau Wood Memorial Association at the Academy of Music on Sunday afternoon, April 9, at 3 P. M. Senator George Wharton Pepper is to preside. Any one interested may obtain tickets at the St. James Hotel, 13th and Walnut Streets.

Bach's Passion Music will be sung this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Evensong will be said at 3.30.

EASTER DAY, 1922

My Dear People :

God bless you and give you joy and peace.

Our Bishop sends us a personal letter. We shall treasure it as a token of our loving relationship. This relationship will find its expression in prompt response and whole-hearted co-operation in all his great work for Our Lord.

Bishop's House, 251 South 22nd Street Philadelphia

April 13, 1922

Dear Dr. Vernon:

I am moved by many considerations to send through you a special message to your people which I hope you may be able to give them on Easter Day.

I have watched with very great satisfaction the increase of spiritual life and devotion which has taken place among them, and has borne such notable fruit in their courageous and willing support of the missionary work of the Church. My Easter thanksgiving, as Bishop of the Diocese, will certainly include this as an evident mark of God's blessing upon us.

In addition to this, the appointment of Mr. Pepper to a prominent and responsible position in our national public life, is also a matter for sincere thanksgiving. I can realize what it must mean in his home Parish where of course the thankfulness of the Diocese and of all Christian men and women of the country will naturally be found in its most intense form. I want to have my part with the people of St. Mark's in their hearty recognition of the good hand of God upon us in this matter.

May our blessed Lord, in the power of His endless life, bless and strengthen you and all the people that they may go forward in good works for the extension of His Kingdom and the edification of His Church.

Faithfully yours,

PHILIP M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania

The Vestry has designated the Easter offering for 1922 for two purposes:—

1. General Missions of the Church.

2. Parochial Purposes.

1. St. Mark's Parish is asked to give $30,636.38 for the year 1922 for General and Diocesan objects. This is an increase of 15% over the contributions of last year.

2. As to Parochial objects: The expenses in connection with the installation of the new console for the organ, and an entirely new electrical blowing apparatus, have been heavy. There are other necessary repairs which must be taken care of during the summer, both at the Parish Church and at our Chapels.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People :

Your special attention is called to the fact that Sunday, April 30, 1922, marks a Red Letter Day in the history of St. Mark's Parish. On this day we will commemorate the Diamond Jubilee or seventy-fifth anniversary of this Church.

The records show that in the spring of 1847 the Founders, i. e., the first Vestry, met together, purchased the property and approved the plans for the church building, and it is peculiarly fitting that we should celebrate this event in an appropriate manner.

The day is also the Sunday in the Octave of St. Mark's Day, our patronal festival, and the services will be in keeping with the occasion.

The Grand Mass in C, by Wilhelm Tschirch, will be sung by the Men's Choir of the Parish, conducted by Mr. Wadlow, at a Solemn High Mass, at 11 o'clock. This work was first given at St. Mark's on Ascension Day, 1893, and has not been rendered since. It is a noble composition, written for male voices, solo quartette and chorus, accompanied by wind instruments, drums and organ, and was arranged for the Anglican service by Mr. Andrew Wheeler, who played the organ part in 1893, and will do so again this year.

There is also an additional significance in having special musical services on this day. The city authorities have designated the week of April 30th as Music Week throughout the city, and have requested all organists and choirmasters to give prominence to this fact in making up their musical programs.

The Vestry have decided to mark the day by asking the parishioners for a special offering for Parochial purposes, as a Thank-Offering to Almighty God for the many blessings vouchsafed to this Parish, and have suggested that one of the objects of this Thank-Offering should take the form of a memorial inscription, to be placed in the entrance porch of the church, in commemoration of the Founders and Benefactors of St. Mark's.

The loose cash offering on Good Friday amounted to $201 and on Easter Day $2505.

The annual sale of fancy articles, flowers, fruit, cake and candy, will be held in the Parish House on St. Mark's Day, Tuesday, April 25, from 3 to 6 P. M. Any contributions of the above named articles will be gratefully received and may be sent to the Parish building in care of the Sexton.

The 18th Annual Presentation Service of the Woman's United Thank Offering will be held in St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South Streets, on Thursday, April 27, at 10 A.M. Bishop Rhinelander will preach.

There will be a meeting in the interests of the Wellesley Conference, at St. James' Parish House, 2210 Sansom Street, on April 24, at 7-30.

The Diocesan Session of all Mission Study Classes will be held at Holy Trinity Parish House, Thursday evening, April 27, at 8 P. M.

My Dear People :

The Parish is celebrating its Patronal Festival and the year of the Diamond Jubilee.

1. The Vestry was organized on Monday, the 28th of June, 1847.
 2. The corner-stone of the Church was laid on Saint Mark's Day, 1848, by the Right Reverend Alonzo Potter, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese.
 3. On the 21st of October, 1849, the Twentieth Sunday after Trinity, the Church was opened for Divine Service. The Daily Offices were established the following Advent, 1849, and have been maintained ever since.
 4. On the 2nd of May, 1850, Tuesday in Whitsunday week, the Church was consecrated.
 5. On the Feast of Saint Michael and All Angels, 1884, the Daily Mass was established.
 6. On Saint Mark's Day, 1893, the Clergy House was opened, and a little later it was blessed, the Chapel in the House receiving special benediction.
 7. In 1894 the Cloister was constructed.
 8. On Saint Andrew's Day, November 30th, 1901, the Lady Chapel was opened for service.
- Other and important items of the history of the material fabric are contained in the history of the Parish, from which I have quoted, in so far as space permits.

A suggestion for today's offering is the Memorial Inscription of the names of the Founders and Benefactors, which is to be placed in the porch.

I suggest as fitting Memorials for the Diamond Jubilee year :

- (1) Great doors for the Locust Street entrance.
- (2) A Font Cover.
- (3) Confessionals.
- (4) A Mortuary Chapel.

Today we offer our Solemn Thanksgiving for a glorious heritage. We give thanks for the good examples of all those who, having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labours. And we pray that they may rest in peace and that light perpetual may shine upon them.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People :

The Diamond Jubilee has been worthily observed. The Festival was very splendid and very happy. The offering was $1,048.60. I leave the suggestions as to a memorial to be accomplished during the Jubilee year to your prayers and consideration. We must hand on Saint Mark's to our successors not merely preserved but enriched.

It was a privilege to have the Bishop of Quebec present, and it was a personal pleasure to me to renew a delightful acquaintance made years ago in Quebec Cathedral.

The Saint Mark's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Hospital wishes to report that through the generosity of its members, it is able to pay for an essential article in a modern Hospital, a metabolism apparatus, costing $250, also a much needed table for the Baby Clinic, which is to cost $54.50.

The Great Forty Days which we are observing now are days of deep joy and peace. The Liturgical life of the Church carries us on in the Resurrection life to the Ascension, holds us in expectation and carries us into Pentecost, and then in a flash of splendor, the three Mystic Rays of Glory pierce the clouds that received Him, and our hearts are lifted up, and with Angels and Archangels and all the Company of Heaven we laud and magnify in the Sanctus that thunders through Heaven and Earth, the song that only angels and men can sing. We have not completed the cycle of Devotion yet. We are being swirled to the climax. I want every one of you close beside me in the wonder and the glory of it.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The Rev. John Mitchell Page, Chaplain at the University of Illinois, has written to express his appreciation and thanks for the contribution from St. Mark's to the new chapel. He is making a great effort in the West to raise $20,000 to be added to the appropriation from the Executive Council, and to be remembered by a parish like St. Mark's has brought him encouragement and cheer.

The 84th Local Assembly and the Annual Meeting of The Daughters of the King will be held on Tuesday, May 16, 1922. Afternoon session at 4 P. M. at the Church House, 202 South 19th Street. The speakers will be The Reverend William Oscar Roome, Jr., Church of the Holy Apostles, and Miss Alice King of Erie, Pa. Evening service at 7.45 at St. James' Church, 22nd and Walnut Streets. Preacher, the Reverend Crosswell McBee, St. David's, Radnor, Pa.

The Annual Florence Nightingale Service, to which all nurses and doctors are invited, will be held on Sunday, May 14, at 8 P. M., in the Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South Streets. The preacher will be the Reverend G. Ashton Oldham of Brooklyn. The singing will be led by the newly-organized Nurses' Chorus, under direction of Mr. Ullrich, Choir Master. The Stated Meeting will be held on Thursday, May 18th, in the Pro-Cathedral at 3 o'clock. Address by Reverend Mr. Barton, of Venezuela.

Each member of the Parish will soon receive by mail a copy of the Daily Intercession leaflet. And copies are left on the tables in the Porch for all. I ask you to use the leaflet intercessions every day, wherever you are this summer. It will not require more than ten minutes a day. The real life of the Parish is the Prayer life. This is not an ideal, it is a necessity. The ceremonies, the music, the organizational work, are by-products of the Prayer life. It is the Prayer life that matters. St. Mark's wins its battles on its knees. The summer life of St. Mark's must be impressive, significant and effective. In the summer months all non-essentials are omitted. The great works stand out the more by contrast. Each day and every day, the Holy Sacrifice is offered. The Divine Office is recited. The noon-day and night intercessions are made. The Sacraments are administered. The Church is open for private devotion. There you have the simple, massive life of the true Catholic Parish. It is this background of Prayer life which preserves interior simplicity in ornate ceremonial sincerity in the allied arts, and which creates that penetrating, potent atmosphere, the secret of which is reality.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are Rogation Days. Thursday is Ascension Day. The Masses will be at 7, 7.45 and 9.30. They will all be low. The Ceremonies will be observed on the Sunday in the Octave. On Ascension Day we worship our Lord at the Throne in Heaven, as on Christmas Day we worshipped Him at the Crib in Bethlehem. On Ascension Day we receive Him in His glory, as on Christmas Day we received Him in His lowliness. In our Ascension Day Communion we in heart and mind "ascend and with Him continually dwell." As Bethlehem was the beginning and Heaven is the end of the Pilgrimage of Redemption, so the Ascension Communion fulfills what the Christmas Communion inaugurates. The Great Festivals of the Christian year are of Ecclesiastical obligation. But if one and as one lives with a loving heart the Christian year, one cannot escape the call of love, which is deeper and more convincing and compelling than the obligation of law. As our Lord came as a humble child into our world on Christmas Day, so you and I will come as humble children into His world on Ascension Day, to offer Him our simple love, which is our response to the great love where-with He loves us. In simplicity and quietness we each will make our Communion. That having been consummated, the ceremonies, which on the following Sunday will witness to His glory, will have in them the essence of sincerity, simplicity and love.

I have received the following letter from the Bishop:

Diocese of Pennsylvania, Church House
202 S. 19th St., Philadelphia

Rev. and Dear Sir:

May 18, 1922

An offering for the Church Extension Fund was made throughout the Diocese on Whitsunday of last year. It is peculiarly appropriate that on this day some special effort should be made in behalf of Church extension. Whitsunday, which is associated in the minds of Christian people with the beginning of missionary effort, might very properly be observed in this Diocese as a time for missionary prayer and offerings, especially with a view to advancing the work of the Church Extension Fund.

This department of missionary work has a very pressing claim upon us, and I ask the hearty co-operation of all the clergy and laity with the Committee for the purpose of awakening a more general interest in the Church Extension Fund and of increasing the number of its contributors. The Committee does not solicit large contributions from any one, but they earnestly hope that every communicant of the Diocese will give to the extent of his ability three times a year in response to the call of the Bishop.

I earnestly request the Clergy to devote the offerings on Whitsunday to the work of the Church Extension Fund and to do all in their power to promote its usefulness in the Diocese.

Faithfully yours,

PHILIP M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania

My Dear People:

The number of communions made on Ascension Day was encouraging. But it was only a promise of the harvest that I am expecting. I shall not be content until the Ascension Day communions equal the Christmas communions. In the quiet of that wonderful Ascension morning, it was thrilling to me to see the Sacramental contact of our Lord with each individual and to know that the cloud received each, one by one, into the life that is hid with Christ in God. That ascending in heart and mind was the real business of the day. It was my work to hand you one by one to Him. To leave you safe in His Hands. For those who did not receive, I must render my account to Our Lord. The pastoral responsibility is a heavy one. It is said that very few priests will be saved. No good priest has concern for that though, until and unless he has seen the last of his flock safely in. I confide this to you that you may sense how desperately in earnest I am when I urge you to make your Ascension-tide communion. Have you made yours?

Today we have the pomp and circumstance of the Festival. It is the individual communions previously consummated, the lives offered as a reasonable, holy, and living sacrifice, that makes Catholic worship so lovely and so terrible. It is the fire and smoke and pageantry and song of utter, entire and irrevocable dedication to a passionately adored Saviour and King and God. Also and again in all this we are desperately in earnest.

On Memorial Day the masses at 7 and 7.45 will be Requiems. The mass at 9.30 will be of the Octave.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

When God of old came down from heaven, in power and wrath He came, before His feet the clouds were riven, half darkness and half flame, in power and wrath He came. But when He came the second time, He came in power and love; softer than gale at morning prime, hovered His holy dove. Amen.

Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and every one that loveth, knoweth God; if we love one another, God dwelleth in us and His love is perfected in us.

My Dear People:

WHITSUNDAY, 1922

Today, as is "very meet, right, and our bounden duty," we "lift up our hearts" and "give thanks unto the Lord" "through Jesus Christ Our Lord; according to whose most true promise, the Holy Ghost came down as at this time from Heaven, with a sudden great sound, as it had been a mighty wind, in the likeness of fiery tongues, lighting upon the Apostles, to teach them and to lead them into all truth; giving them both the gift of divers languages, and also boldness with fervent zeal constantly to preach the Gospel unto all nations; whereby we have been brought out of darkness and error into the clear light and true Knowledge of Thee, and of Thy Son Jesus Christ."

It is a day of special devotion to God the Holy Ghost. We make an oblation of ourselves to Him to-day. We surrender to Him our minds and wills and hearts. We stir up within ourselves His Seven Gifts of Wisdom, Knowledge, Counsel, Understanding Ghostly Strength, True Godliness and Holy Fear. We ask in our Communion an increase of the Nine Fruits of Love, Joy, Peace, Long Suffering, Gentleness, Goodness, Faith, Meekness, Temperance. Personal devotion to the Holy Ghost is the Special intention of the day. That devotion is first exercised in the Communion of the day. Then we must examine our accustomed daily devotion to Him. Do we daily pray to Him? Do we constantly go to Him for direction and comfort? We ought to have a prayer rule for this matter. I ask each and everyone of you to say, every day, the Veni Creator (the hymn "Come Holy Ghost our Souls inspire," number 289 in the old Hymnal, number 455 in the new) with special intention for the Church, the Diocese, the Parish, and yourself. I ask you to begin to-day. Then back of the ceremonies we shall have a definite advance in our prayer life. And it is the prayer life, remember, that is the reality of which the ceremonies are the signs.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

TRINITY SUNDAY, 1922

My Dear People:

Today we are engaged with angels and archangels and with all the company of heaven, together with all the Faithful throughout the world, in offering the great act of worship to the Most Holy Trinity. "To Thee," the Church cries, "to Thee, who art one God, one Lord; not one only Person, but three Persons in one substance. For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality." It is the voice of the old Church, teaching the old religion, in the old manner of the old Liturgy, with the old ceremonies. She is changeless, unchangeable, infallible. She speaks with Divine authority. She alone is the Ark of Truth and Reservoir of Grace. Within Her walls, guarded by Her bulwarks, and watched over from Her towers, with quiet minds, with quiet minds and grateful hearts, we receive grace "by the confession of a true faith, to acknowledge the glory of the eternal Trinity, and in the power of the Divine Majesty to worship the Unity."

I have three changes to announce in the staff of priests. I have appointed Father Williamson as Vicar of Saint Michael's. This will call for a real sacrifice from you, and for one no less from me. For Saint Michael's it will mean the gift of a Pastor of rare gifts and the just reward for the loyalty of that devout congregation. For Father Williamson it is a well earned promotion. We shall have him with us the more permanently, I trust, and we shall pray for him to-day and always.

The Reverend Robert Cornell and the Reverend Vincent Fowler Pottle will join the staff in September. Father Cornell comes to us from New York, and Father Pottle from the Cathedral in Portland. I bespeak for them your prayers and your welcome when they come. Father Cornell is being ordained to the Priesthood this morning. Pray for him.

To-day is the twenty-fifth anniversary of my own ordination to the Priesthood. Will you say a prayer for me?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Our parochial family is not yet established in town for the winter. Some are abroad. Some are in the country. I am all the more grateful for those who have returned to the holy place we love so well. The work of the new year is well under way so far as your priests are concerned.

Father Williamson has been keeping his patronal festival at St. Michael's, with glorious services, crowded congregations, happy reunions, and the very evident enthusiasm of his people. He has already fulfilled my best hopes.

Father Craven and his flock at St. Mary's are as faithful and industrious and joyous as ever.

Father Pottle and Father Cornell have joined the staff and have fitted in so easily both in the Church and in the House that they do not seem to be newly arrived priests at all. And this is in part due to the fact that each comes to us well tested and proved. Father Pottle comes from the Maine Cathedral, where he has won the unqualified approbation of the Bishop, the confidence of the Dean, and the affection of the people. Father Cornell comes from the Diocese of Long Island, in which he has won the praise of his Bishop for marked pastoral ability. Both are real pastors. You may turn to them with confidence.

Once again five priests are living in Community under one roof, consecrated to serve God, His Church, and His people. We are His servants and yours. Use us without reserve. Our time and strength belong to you. Remember that you must take out of your vocabulary the words "interruption" or "trouble." No call of yours is ever an interruption. No request is ever a trouble. If you really want to make us happy, make your needs, great and small, important and trivial, known to us without hesitation or delay, in the sure confidence that we find satisfaction and joy and peace in serving you.

You have done so much for our comfort this summer. The Clergy House has been renovated from top to bottom. Gifts for our rooms, refectory and kitchen, are without number. Each day we discover something new. It is like playing a Christmas game. I never knew that a Committee could invent so many surprises. We do thank you beyond words.

The Autumn has brought us our burden of sorrow in the passing of three most dear and devoted members of the Parish: Mrs. William Masters Camac, Miss Elizabeth Seckel and Miss Meta Vaux have gone Home, having the testimony of a good conscience; in the communion of the Catholic Church; in the confidence of a certain faith; in the comfort of a reasonable, religious and holy hope; in favor with our God; and in perfect charity with the world. Pray therefore for the repose of the souls of Catherine, Elizabeth and Meta.

Also we will give thanks for the safe return of all who have been in journeyings. And we will pray today for Alexander Groome, and for Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brice, who are crossing the ocean.

The new green altar cloth, which has been made by St. Margaret's Sisters in England, has arrived and is very beautiful. The total cost with freight charges, etc., is $594. The amount on hand is $280. When the balance, $314, is paid, the cloth can be blessed and put in use. Contributions may be sent to the Accounting Warden.

The preacher at High Mass next Sunday will be my friend and classmate, the Bishop of Hankow, China. Will you make this known? For the sake of the great cause which he so ably represents and to which he has given his life, and for our own sakes, I hope for a crowded congregation. Accomplish this for me, will you?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The date set for confirmation is Easter Eve. Will those who desire to receive instruction kindly give their names and addresses to the clergy as soon as possible? Have you a relative or friend whom you might bring to confirmation? Here is an opportunity for first-hand missionary work. We must each of us remember that God gives to us in order that He may give through us. This is the law of mission. If it is working at the centre, it is sure to work to the circumference. When missions are personal they are vital.

Our chief care and our first thought today is of missions in China. What God gives to us in Philadelphia, we would have Him give through us in China. Bishop Roots went from the Seminary to China because he was carried there by a personal love for souls. The result of his visit will be, I hope, "That other souls may kindly thence," as the hymn at Tierce expresses it. It is a privilege to have him in Philadelphia and a personal happiness to me.

Wednesday will be Saint Luke's Day. There will be the usual third Mass at 9.30. On Saint Luke's Day will you remember in your prayers the Cathedral in Portland, Maine? They will be keeping an important anniversary there.

The City Mission needs a supply of clothes, old or new, for the poor men, women and children of every district in the city. Clothing should be sent to The Clothing Department, City Mission, 225 South Third Street, addressed to Mrs. W. A. M. Fuller, Jr.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

My Dear People:

Through the efforts of the Executive Committee of the Cathedral League a most unusual opportunity to view a collection of eighty-six photographs of American and European Cathedrals will be given this month at the Art Alliance, 1823 Walnut Street. The exhibit is loaned by the American Federation of Arts. The photographs have been exhibited in various large cities, and are coming to this city direct from Portland, where they were on exhibition in connection with the General Convention. Admission to the exhibition will be free. The exhibit will open Wednesday, October 25, and will remain open until the close of Tuesday, October 31st. On week days the hours will be from 10.30 A. M. to 9 P. M. On Sunday the exhibit will be open from 12 noon to 6 P. M. Tea will be served on the opening day from 4 to 5.30 P. M. The Committee will receive.

On the morning of All Souls' Day, November second, at ten-thirty, the inscriptions bearing the names of the Founders and Benefactors will be dedicated. There will be a Solemn High Requiem Mass and Sermon. The Requiem will be offered for Founders, Benefactors, and all departed members of the Parish. We have a goodly heritage in St. Mark's. On the outward and visible side a stately fabric to preserve and enrich. On the inward and spiritual side a blessed communion and holy fellowship with those who in their several generations have loved St. Mark's deeply and served devotedly. It is fitting and profitable and edifying that once a year our parochial family should assemble before the High Altar to assist in the solemn oblation of that only offering perfect in God's eyes, the one, true, pure immortal Sacrifice on behalf of our dearest and our best, that God may fold them closer to His Mercy's Breast and do His utmost for their soul's true weal. A crowded church will be a massive and effective witness to Christian faith and practice before a world which, at heart, longs for that which it has lost. I cannot doubt the purity of my motive in giving my best effort toward making the All Souls' Day High Mass at Saint Mark's a notable event each year. Pray to the Holy Ghost and ask Him so to move the hearts of our people that we may plentifully bring forth the fruits of this good work. And be present yourself.

Be thou at rest;
Sorrow can never be,
Darkness must fly,
When saith the Light of Light,
"Peace! it is I!"

Soothe Thou my voyaging

Will you send me the names of those whom you desire to remember on All Souls' Day as soon as you can? It will help us if you will print the names. Sometimes I am asked if the names of persons who were not communicants may be sent. Of course they may. Send the name of any one who is near and dear to you. The names will be read at all the Masses, 7, 7.45 and 10.30.

The Corporate Communion will be made Wednesday, November 1st, 1922, at 7.45.

Anthem—from "The Last Judgment" Louis Spohr

Come up hither and I will shew thee what shall be hereafter: And lo! a throne was set in heav'n, and on the throne One stood! And a rainbow was round about the throne: and the elders knelt before the throne, clad in white raiment. and on their heads were crowns of gold; and from the throne came thund'rings and lightnings, and voices crying day and night.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts! God Almighty, who was and who art, and art to come!

Behold the Lamb that was slain!

Weep no more, weep not! Behold! He that died is risen, and hath conquer'd death and hell.

And the elders fell down before the Lamb, with their harps, and golden urns burning odors, singing this song of praise. All glory to the Lamb that died, exalted now at God's right hand, in blessing, in wisdom, in honor and praise forever.

And every creature that is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, cried aloud and said: Blessing, honor, glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb forever.

And lo! a mighty host of all nations and people stood before the throne and the Lamb. Of spotless white was ev'ry garment, in ev'ry hand a palm was borne. They fell before the throne of God with holy fear. These, who passed through heavy tribulation, have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb: they stand before God's throne and serve Him day and night. And the Lamb shall lead them to fountains of living waters, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. Yes, every tear and every sorrow He shall wipe away from their eyes. Blessing and power be thine, our Redeemer! Nor sin, nor death, nor pain, nor sorrow shall there be known. Thou art the Lord our God, and we are Thy people. Hail, our Redeemer, hail! Lord God of heaven and earth, we adore Thee. Blessing and pow'r be thine, our Redeemer!

TWENTY-FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1922

My Dear People:

Today we are celebrating the victory of All Saints. On Thursday we presented our prayers for the sanctification of All Souls. The two ceremonies stand out in massive contrast.

On All Souls' Day, black vestments, restrained ceremonial, sombre music, piercing pleading to the Lord of Life and Judge of All Men standing in the midst of the golden candlesticks, with eyes aflame with Divine love and receiving as His clients, one by one, as we presented them, our dearest and our best. We saw each one of them folded closer to His Mercy's breast. We rest content that He will do His utmost for their souls' true weal.

Today is for All Saints a pageantry of gold, and fire and smoke and alleluias, for we celebrate not a pale armistice but a flaming victory. It is the victory of grace. An astounding record of penitence, forgiveness, temptations, heroisms, victories, transformations, glories and lives burned golden by the love of God. Our Lord is supreme, grace is superabundant, good is stronger than evil, and the Saints have come into their own. Apostles, Virgins, Martyrs, Confessors, Doctors, Saints known, Saints hidden, ten thousand times ten thousand, fill the earth and skies with the rush of alleluias. We have given All Souls God-speed, and now with the speed of God we are swirled after that shining array of Saints whose triumph is the promise of our own. Angels and Archangels of October, Saints and Holy Souls of November, and the faithful throughout the world, a mighty array, are engaged in the glories of this day. And you are a part of it.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Mrs. Reath would like to have a few donations toward the incidental expenses of the Hospitality Committee. Last winter meals were prepared by the committee and served to 548 people, most of these were paid for in one way or another, but some were provided by the parish, and for this a little ready money is necessary. The monthly treat for the acolytes might be provided for out of this fund, or as last year, individuals might take charge of this and provide in their own way.

Monday, November 13, 1922, will be Donation Day at the house of St. Michael and All Angels for Colored Crippled Children at 607 North 43d St. Gifts of money, clothing, shoes, groceries and household supplies will be most acceptable. The house will be open for inspection and visitors will be cordially welcome. The House of St. Michael and All Angels is not in the Welfare Federation.

The Parish is being visited by a Committee of men and women, in the interests of the Program of the National Council, known to you last year as the Nation Wide Campaign. Your visitor comes to you to offer you information concerning the work of the church abroad at home, in the Diocese and in the Parish, and to tell you what is expected of Saint Mark's. This is intended to help you to determine what your share in the work may be. You will have the opportunity to ask questions. Then it will be left to you to make your decisions. By November 25th it is expected that every member of the Parish will have been visited.

An informed, corporate mind, a sensitive, corporate conscience, a responsive, corporate will, are the interior qualities which make a Parish serviceable, stalwart, dependable. Our Bishops, the Executive Council, and the Diocese of Pennsylvania have found, and they must always find, St. Mark's serviceable, stalwart, dependable. These three words are our Diocesan watchwords, as our parochial watchwords are serenity, stability, strength. Make them your own. Have them in mind when your visitors are with you. And pray for an intake of true, wholesome, strong religion, and the blessing of God will give the increase.

I call your attention to the list of books posted in the porch. The books are for your free use, subject to the usual regulations of public libraries. Application should be made to Father Cornell or Father Pottle on Thursday at 12.45 or on Sundays after Evensong.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

I wonder if you have had the inclination and the opportunity to look over the book list posted in the Porch. The books advertised are all worth your while and will be loaned to you, on application to Father Cornell or Father Pottle, on Thursdays, at 12.45, or Sunday afternoons after Evensong.

I would be glad to receive the names of those who desire to be confirmed this year. If you would like to consult me about it, I shall be glad to see you after any of the services.

Canon Douglas has been so kind as to prepare a musical setting for Compline for us. I am expecting the copies any day. Two lay cantors will then be trained by Mr. Wadlow. As soon as this is accomplished I shall announce Compline for Sunday nights at eight. Those of you who are familiar with Compline will welcome it. Those of you who do not know the Office will be interested and will quickly appreciate it. The office consists of a short lection from the New Testament, a form of general confession, similar to, but shorter than the general confession at Evensong, Psalms, the hymn "Before the Ending of the Day," a short lection from the Old Testament, Nunc Dimittis, Creed and Collect. I shall give short, simple instructions arranged in a series. It will be the kind of Evening Devotion to which you may invite persons who know little or nothing about the Church. And people who know the Church well, will revive happy memories of retreats and visits in Religious Houses. I feel rather sure that our Compline will very sweetly complete (the word is derived from the Latin word completre) the day's services. I have never had a quiet conscience over a closed church on Sunday nights. But there were practical difficulties. Compline is the solution. Will you pray that this new offering to God may be for His glory and for the aid and comfort of His people and the stranger within the gates.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit return to God Who gave it. Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, all, all is vanity. Vanity of vanities, all is vanity. SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT, 1922

My Dear People:

The Masses on Thanksgiving Day will be at 7, 7.45 and 9.30 (with hymns and the reading of the Bishop's Pastoral). The other services will be as usual at 9, 12.30, 5, 5.30.

The envelopes marked for the special Thanksgiving Day offering for the Episcopal Hospital should be placed in the offering at the 9.30 Mass or at any subsequent offering. The entire offering at 9.30, envelopes and loose money is for the Hospital. I have received the following statement from Mr. Charles S. Cheston, which I hand on to you: "The hospital is doing an immense work, and doing it well, and deserves the unqualified support of all our parishes. We hope that you will be able to raise among your people $3,362.91, which the hospital now so much needs." I hope that the day is not too far distant when the Episcopal Hospital will be released from financial anxiety. This hospital, any hospital, is literally in a hand to hand engagement of life or death. Whether people live or die depends under God upon its staff and equipment. If you have never visited the Episcopal Hospital at Front Street and Lehigh Avenue may I suggest that you do, some time?

The names of persons desiring to be confirmed should be given to any of the Clergy as soon as possible.

Have you looked over the list of books in the lending library? The list is posted in the Porch.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Rev. Charles Winfred Douglas, Preacher

My Dear People:

The Parish meeting will be held in the Guild Room on Monday, December 4th, at 4.30 P. M.

There will be a day of corporate intercession on Tuesday, December 5th. The time table may be found on the table in the Porch. The League of Intercession will make its Corporate Communion at 7.45. The Rector will preach at 12.

The eighth Public Service of the Men's Choir will take place on Wednesday, December 6th, at 8 P. M. The Rector will preach.

The Woman's Auxiliary will make its Corporate Communion Wednesday, December 6th, at 7.45.

The regular meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the Parish building Thursday, December 7th, at 3 P. M. We began a new year of Our Lord today. The years of Our Lord are so called because they commemorate Our Lord. The cycle of the Christian year, in well ordered sequence, sets before us the sacred events of Our Lord's life and the faith of the Gospel. The daily offering of the Holy Sacrifice shows forth His death. The daily, public recitation of the Office provides for the monthly recitation of the Psalter and the reading of the Bible. The triple memorial of the Incarnation witnesses to the central truth of religion. So it is that each day and the sum of all the days make the year of Our Lord.

I suggest a resolution for the Men. Resolve to assist at one Mass, on a week day, every week. The Rector's Mass is always at seven o'clock. I like to see Men at my Mass. It is over before half past seven. A man's whole day will be influenced, governed and protected, if he has begun that day by kneeling at his Parish Altar for the adoration of his Lord and the offering of the Holy Sacrifice. It will profoundly affect his whole life. It is a virile act of wholesome piety. The daily Mass has been my rule for nearly twenty-one years, and I know what I am talking about. Some times I have been away from an Altar, or one thing or another has interfered with keeping the rule. But that has been the rule, and the memory of the exceptions has become lost in the observance. I don't ask a man to go to Mass every day, but I do advise, and I advise You to go to one. I mean, of course, in addition to Sunday. You can do it. I think you ought to do it.

Offertory Anthem Sir Edward Elgar

Seek Him that maketh the seven stars and Orion; and turneth the shadow of death unto morning; and maketh the day dark with night. The Lord is His name. O give thanks unto the Lord, for His mercy endureth forever. Who hath made great lights; the sun to rule the day; the moon and stars to govern the night.

I look for Thee, O Lord, my soul doth wait for Thee before the morning watch, I say before the morning watch my soul doth wait for the Lord. Hear my voice from the deep. I call, O hear my voice. O Lord, my God, I cried unto Thee and Thou hast healed me, and brought my soul out of hell, and turned my heaviness to gladness. The night is no darkness with Thee, the night is clear as day.

Seek Him that maketh the seven stars; the Lord is His name, seek ye Him.

BASS ARIA—Thus saith the Lord: The end is near, and all the winds of heav'n proclaim its coming. Prepare to meet thy God! I will reward thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee as thou hast deserved. To Me is every action known, each secret thought is unveiled before Me. The day of wrath is near, the Almighty shall reveal His power! The reaper's song is silent in the field, and the shepherd's voice on the mountain. The valleys then shall shake with fear: with dread the hills shall tremble. It comes, the day of terror comes! The awful morning dawns. Thy mighty arm, O God, is uplifted; Thou shalt shake the earth and heavens! They shall shrivel as a scroll, when Thou in wrath appearest. For men shall cast away their silver, and count their gold as dross; it shall not save in the great and awful day. Where is now the monarch's might? Where all his splendor? Where the dreams of earthly greatness? The princes of the earth shall cast their crowns before Thee, and all the power of the mighty shall fail, when Thou, O Lord, shalt come to judge the world.

DUET (Soprano and Tenor)—Forsake me not in this dread hour, O God most merciful! Thou art my hope; O Lord, give ear unto my prayer. O spare Thy servant, O cast him not away; if Thou forsake me, whither shall I flee? No friend is nigh, no arm to save, but only Thou, Almighty Lord of Hosts. In Thee alone, O Lord, in Thee alone I trust, alone in Thee.

CHORUS—If with your whole hearts ye humbly seek Me, I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and if ye return to Me sincerely, I will receive you from all the ends of the earth. I will be your Father, and ye shall be My people. Thus saith the Lord.

TENOR RECIT.—Jehovah now cometh to judgment! Bow down to worship Him Who made the heavens and earth.

CHORUS—Destroyed is Babylon the mighty! The smoke of her torment ascendeth for evermore. The hour of judgment is come! Now is the Lord at hand! The grave gives up its dead! The sea gives up its dead! The seals are broken: the books are all unclosed: the mighty now tremble before Him! —From The Last Judgment.

My Dear People:

The preacher this morning is the Reverend John A. Staunton, Jr., of Sagada, well known to you, as he is to the whole Church, and a personal friend of mine for about twenty-five years. Father Staunton may be seen at the Clergy House by appointment and called by telephone, Spruce 2715.

It has been the custom in the Parish to contribute toward the Christmas Fund for the Chapels of Saint Michael and Saint Mary. The Fund is used to provide Christmas trees and entertainment for the children. Contributions should be sent to the office of the Parochial Secretary.

The necessity and advantages of central offices are becoming more and more apparent to us all, as our work develops. It is truly for the interest of discerning, sympathetic and satisfactory service that we unify our activities and work from a common center. The Rector's office hours are from 10 to 12.30 daily. The Parochial Secretary's office hours are from 10 to 4 daily. Arrangements for weddings and burials should be made at the office of the Parochial Secretary. In cases where music or attendance of the Sexton and Bell-ringer, beyond the ordinary stipulations required by the contracts between the Parish and those employed, are entailed, information as to the additional expenses involved should be obtained from and adjusted through the office. Careful compliance with this working rule will insure direct and, I trust, happy contact with the official Parish.

The work of the revision of the Office of Compline, as it will be sung in this Parish, is practically completed. Canon Douglas, our recognized and distinguished expert in matters connected with the rendition of the Office, has expressed his expectation to be present on the first Sunday evening in January, when Compline will be sung at eight o'clock.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Say to them of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God; He will come and save you, even God. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there; it shall be called the way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but the redeemed shall walk there. And the ransom'd of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads, they shall obtain joy and gladness. And sorrow and sighing shall flee, shall flee away.

My Dear People:

I do hope that the children of our Chapels will have the right of way this week. They depend upon us for their Christmas festivities. Small offerings are acceptable. A general offering is necessary. We must do the purchasing this week. Contributions should be sent to the Parochial Secretary.

The necessity and advantages of central offices are becoming more and more apparent to us all, as our work develops. It is truly for the interest of discerning, sympathetic and satisfactory service that we unify our activities and work from a common center. The Rector's office hours are from 10 to 12.30 daily. The Parochial Secretary's office hours are from 10 to 4 daily. Arrangements for weddings and burials should be made at the office of the Parochial Secretary. In cases where music or attendance of the Sexton and Bellringer, beyond the ordinary stipulations required by the contracts between the Parish and those employed, are entailed, information as to the additional expenses involved should be obtained from and settlement adjusted through the office. Careful compliance with this working rule will insure direct and, I trust, happy contact with the official Parish.

Please pray for several families in affliction. For the sick children at the House of Saint Michael and All Angels. And for other sick persons.

The religious duties of Christmas are uppermost in my mind at present. Of course I would like to have every member of St. Mark's receive at the Altars of Saint Mark's. That would be joyful. But I know that it is sometimes necessary for a person living at a distance to receive at the Altar of a nearby church. The vital point is that every one gets to Our Lord. It is the deep, hidden things that I want. If you can't get to an early Mass here, perhaps you could drop me a line, telling me you had a happy Christmas Communion. That is the one Christmas greeting that satisfies me. And then we can all foregather for High Mass as a parochial family. But receive early here if you can.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth,
A thrill of hope, the weary world rejoices,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn,
Fall on your knees! O hear the angel voices!
O night divine! O night when Christ was born,
O night divine!
Led by the light of faith serenely beaming,
With glowing hearts by His cradle we stand.
So led by light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Here come the Wise Men from the Orient land.
The King of Kings lay thus in lowly manger,
In all our trials born to be our Friend,
He knows our need! He guardeth us from danger.
Behold your King! Before the Lowly bend!
Fall on your knees! O hear the angel voices!

My Dear People:

Evensong at 4 today will be Solemn with a Procession. I expect to preach.

On Christmas Day the Masses for Communion will be at 7, 8 and 9. Solemn Procession, Solemn High Mass and Sermon will be at 11. On the three following days there will be the usual third Mass at 9.30.

Thank you for your characteristic generosity and thoughtfulness and promptness in providing for the Chapels' Christmas Fund. Everything is ready, and the children will have their parties, and the needy families will be remembered.

I will be in church today after Evensong for confessions. It may prove a convenience for any who have been prevented by pressure of work, or distance or weariness.

This afternoon, when you come back, you will find everything in Christmas array. This morning it is Advent. Penitential color, few lights, austere ceremonial. Then the vivid contrast of the First Evensong of the Festival. White Altars, candles coming out like stars, the Office in festal setting, the exquisite pageantry of the Magnificat, the going forth of the night procession, with crucifixes, torches, censers, evening carols and robes of state to await the other procession of Angels coming earthward in attendance upon the Infant King. Then the night silence. Then, early tomorrow morning, on the Altar, amidst the golden candle-sticks, and under the seven lamps that burn before the throne, the measured swiftness of the movement of the Mystery, the murmur of the momentous words of Consecration, the signal of the bell that announces the consummation, and He is Here! Our Emmanuel—our God with us!

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The number of communions on Christmas Day was satisfactory. The ceremonies were correct. The music was worthy. The congregations were good. We were happy. Thanks be to God.

The clergy join me in thanking you for the many tokens of your thoughtfulness and kindness. The members of the House have been busily engaged in the personal acknowledgements of remembrances. In one or two instances cards became detached and identification difficult. Hence this joint expression of grateful acknowledgement and thanks.

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made Wednesday, January 3, at 7.45 A. M. The regular annual meeting will be held in the Parish building on Thursday, January 4, at 3 P. M.

On Friday, January 5, at 11 o'clock, Sister Lydia will hold the first of seven Mission Study classes in the Parish House (second floor.) She will also have a Parish evening class, starting Monday, Jan. 8, at 8 o'clock, for seven consecutive Mondays, at 1831 Pine Street. I hope many will be interested and join.

During the week we have been giving Holy Communion to our sick. If there are any members of the Parish who are ill, whose names have not been given me, I trust that I may be notified without delay. Sick calls, however, should come directly from the sick person or the immediate family, and not from an interested friend acting on a surmise. Unauthorized or suggested calls are almost invariably futile, and always intrusive, and if made, serve to establish the perilous practice of delaying Sacramental Ministration until the clergy "hear" that some one is ill. Sick calls are not social visits. Notification of illness should be made to the Rector officially, promptly and explicitly. If the Rector is not in the House to answer the telephone, the message should be given directly to the Priest on duty. Never through an intermediary. Never hesitate to send me a sick call, for any reason whatsoever, day or night. During the year so far I have record of 239 private administrations of Holy Communion. This means that the Blessed Sacrament has been carried from the Tabernacle to our people 239 times. Compare this figure with the number of days in the year. And on reflection you will thank God for the sweet reasonableness of the Catholic Religion, which does not permit the laying upon the shoulders of the sick the ceremonial exactions which are required from those only who are in normal health. Our Mother, the Church, on occasions of state, appears in regal magnificence as the Bride of Christ. As, for example, you see Her this morning. But she is first of all a true Mother. In Her Household, as befits a mother, She is simple, loving, wise, strong, vigilant. She is stately, as a Queen. She is tender, as a Mother. Back of all the Court Ceremonies, as you see them today, She lives, with Her children, in exquisite simplicity. It is Her home-life which lends loveliness to Her court-life.

God give you a happy year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY,
1923

My Dear People:

Next Sunday, the Men's Choir will sing at the Solemn High Mass at eleven o'clock. The music of the Mass will be Gounod's Second Mass of the Orpheonistes. There will be a Solemn Procession. I suggest as a special intention, thanksgiving for all the blessings during the last year.

Compline will be sung next Sunday at eight in the evening, and every Sunday night in the future. Copies of the Office with the music will be found in the pews. Canon Douglas will give a short instruction on the music of the Office, at a quarter to eight. In instituting Compline, I have only one intention, and that is to offer to God the traditional later evening devotion of the day, for the praise of the Divine Majesty, and for the commendation of our souls to His keeping. I am not concerned with the matter of attendance. It is for us to live the life and leave results to God.

Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament will be said immediately after Evensong to-day.

As you know, the books listed on the notice board in the Porch, are at your service. Application should be made to Father Cornell. I hope that the library will serve you well.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Processional Hymn—Lo, the Pilgrim Magi

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps
Gleamed that Beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly King's array;
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore:
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address:
So, with meetest off'rings,
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Life alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee;
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be.

Amen.

INTROIT. All the world shall worship Thee, O God; sing of Thee, and praise Thy name, O Thou most Highest.

PSALM. O be joyful in God, all ye lands: sing praises unto the honour of His Name, make His praise to be glorious.

GLORIA PATRIA. INTROIT. All the world.

GRADUAL. The Lord sent His word, and healed them: and they were saved from their destruction. O that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness: and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of men.

Alleluia, alleluia. Praise the Lord, all ye angels of His: praise Him, all His host. Alleluia.

Sequence Hymn—Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming. Michael Praetorius
Lo, how a rose e'er blooming
From tender stem hath sprung!
Of Jesse's lineage coming
As men of old have sung.
It came, a flow'ret bright,
Amid the cold of winter
When half spent was the night.

Isaiah, 'twas, foretold it,
The Rose I have in mind,
With Mary we behold It,
The Virgin Mother kind.
To shew God's love aright,
She bore to men a Saviour
When half spent was the night.

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY,
1923

My Dear People:

A week ago today Mr. Levis Lloyd Mann, Vestryman of this Church, became ill. On Tuesday he received Absolution and Holy Communion. On Wednesday, he was anointed. At the end of that day he died. He had served Saint Mark's with whole-hearted devotion. He had the esteem and confidence of his colleagues. He died as he had lived, in simple faith and humble piety. We will pray for the repose of his soul and for the consolation of the widow in her desolating affliction.

Compline will be sung tonight at eight, and every Sunday night. Canon Douglas will give an instruction on the rendition of the Office at a quarter to eight. I shall begin a series of instructions on personal religion. At Compline men are requested to sit on the Epistle (right) side, women on the Gospel (left) side of the Church. This rule is without exception.

Tomorrow morning there will be a Solemn High Mass of Requiem at Saint Clement's at 11.15, under the auspices of the General Council of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament. I expect to preach the sermon.

On Tuesday I expect to go to Peekskill for several days. I expect to be here for the confessions on Saturday as usual.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY,
1923

My Dear People:

You have received the letter concerning the Missionary Offering, and I need only hand on to you my own Epiphany motto: "Live deeply: Give widely."

The first of the Parish Teas will be held on Thursday, January 25th, from 4 to 6. The other two will be on Thursday, February 1, and 8. The members of the Parish, their friends and visitors in town are asked to attend.

Compline was sung for the first time last Sunday, very smoothly and sweetly. It makes a wonderful ending for the day. It will not be long before those who attend regularly will become quite familiar with the Chant. It will not be possible to present copies of the Office to those who would like to possess them. The plates are not in our possession, and our edition is limited. It will be necessary to be quite careful to leave every copy in the pews. At Compline, the men will kindly be seated on the Epistle side, and the women on the Gospel side.

I am giving a series of instructions on personal religion, after Compline. I hope for Confirmations as the fruit of the instructions. Perhaps you know someone whom you could bring with you. I feel sure that it is our opportunity to do some work together. I don't mean a feverish effort to capture somebody. That is always a mistake. And very stupid. And not at all our way. But if and when someone asks you, "Why is such or such a thing done at St. Mark's?" or "What do you think would help me?" you might reply, "Why don't you go to Compline at St. Mark's? Perhaps you will get what you want from the Rector's instructions." But I shall not seek out persons at Compline. If anyone wants me, they must come to me. Please keep a very strict silence as you are leaving the Church, while you are in Church, I mean. Do just as you do, when visiting a Monastery or Convent. Keep the atmosphere of a Religious House. Keep a devout silence. Offer your silence to God, as an act of devotion. Make that silence a still silence. Let it be as impressive as, in quite another way, a Solemn Procession is impressive. Do you see what I mean?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

We called through the darkness, Watchman, will the night soon pass? The Watchman only said, Though the morning will come, the night will come also.

Ask ye, inquire ye; ask, if ye will, inquire ye; return again, ask. Watchman, will the night soon pass? The night is departing.

My Dear People:

The Confirmation Classes will be as follows:

For Men	Mondays, at 8.00 P. M.
For Boys	Sundays, at 10.00 A. M.
For Women	Fridays, at 4.30 P. M.
For Girls	Saturdays, at 3.30 P. M.

I will arrange special appointments for instruction on request.

The instructions at Compline will be found to supplement the Confirmation instructions.

In making a decision as to whether to be confirmed or not, the question is whether one will use the means of Grace provided for our salvation by Our Lord or not. It is not a question of "Am I good enough to be confirmed?" or "Can I live up to it?" or "Can I be of service?" The question is, "Shall I or shall I not do what has been done by all men, always and everywhere, namely, use the means of Grace provided by the Catholic Church?" "Shall I accept the Catholic religion or make a religion of my own?" "Shall I trust my soul to the Catholic Church?" or "Shall I take my soul in my own hands?" "Which is probably right, the Catholic Church or I?" "If I submit my judgment and will to the Church, I shall have done everything that I could do, and the Church will be responsible for my salvation. The Church will take me as I am, provide for every one of my needs, minister to me in life, prepare me for death, intercede for me after death and take me to Heaven. All power in Heaven and Earth has been given to the Church. The Church is the Ark of Salvation, the Sphere of Revealed Truth and the Reservoir of Grace. She bids me to nothing that it impossible. She is the Mother of penitents and the Mother of Saints. She is the Bride of Christ. She is the Kingdom of Heaven. Her gate is open. If I refuse to enter, whose fault will it be?"

The Woman's Auxiliary will receive Holy Communion at the 7.45 Mass on Wednesday, January 31st. The regular monthly meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, February 1st, at 3 P. M. The speaker will be Archdeacon Baskerville.

There will be a Parish Tea on Thursday, February 1st, in the Parish Parlour, from 4 to 6. I would greatly appreciate it as a kind courtesy if strangers and visitors would give us the opportunity of meeting them at these teas. And regular parishioners will have the opportunity of dropping in for a friendly word with the Clergy. That isn't a bad idea, is it?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

On Thursday, February the first, Mr. Ernest Zantzinger, sometime Rector's Warden of this Parish, died. He was very far advanced in the interior life of the soul. He loved his Parish Church. He was very kind to me. We will pray for him. His prayers will be of great assistance to us. Truly we are compassed about with a great cloud of witnesses. It is this conscious communion of Saints which is the wonder and the joy and the power of the Christian life. The years come on. the personnel of the Parish changes, yet nothing interrupts the life. The Daily Sacrifice, the Divine Office, the Sacramental life, the hidden prayer life, the unseen workings of Grace, the old ceremonies of the old Religion, all keep the continuity unbroken. And over it all the spire stands sentinel, the massive symbol of the serenity, stability and strength of Saint Mark's, our Shrine and our Home.

Next Sunday you will receive the list of Lent devotions: I want to say this much today. Each one of us ought to look for what is lacking in our lives. We ought to single out one particular thing and work it in, and work it in to stay. This is better than taking on some thing that we mean to drop when Lent is over. Of course we have to take on some things which we shall discontinue at the end of Lent, for example, "The measure of abstinence," and the "extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." But there is a normal abstinence and an ordinary devotion which we ought to secure for all the year. For example, to abstain from meat on all the Fridays of the year except Christmas. Do you do that? The Church requires it. Think about it. Pray about it. Who does not require further comfort and counsel beyond the means of personal self examination and repentance? Who does not need to go to Confession? Think about your own Confession this Lent. Pray about it.

Do you ever go to Mass on a week day? Why not? Think about that. Pray about it.

How often do you receive Holy Communion? Why not increase the number of your Communions? Think about that. Pray about it.

It is the lack of these things which causes a person to be merely high-Church. It is the working use of them which makes a person simple, plain, matter of fact Catholic. Think about that. Pray about it.

Here is a comparative table of statistics which I want you to read and think about and pray about:

(January, five Sundays)	1922	1923
Number of services	187	198
Number of Masses	67	83
Attendance Masses	540	620
Communions	343	389

Subscriptions for the Episcopal Hospital Auxiliary should be sent to Miss Ellen L. Hopkins, 2216 St. James Place.

Hearken diligently unto me: eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto me, hear and your soul shall live. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree. Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.

My Dear People:

This morning you have the cards announcing the Lent devotions, from which you will make your selection to be incorporated into your Lent rule. My one recommendation is this:

Select, before anything else, a weekday Mass, one each week, and go to that without fail.

Whatever else you do, do that. It is the very best thing you can do. It will have a lasting effect upon you. The great central event of Lent is the Sacrifice upon the Cross. The Eucharistic Sacrifice re-presents the Sacrifice of Calvary. At Mass we present and set forth

"That only offering perfect in God's eyes,
The one, true, pure, immortal Sacrifice."

To go to Mass is to cling to the Cross. In our parish there ought to be an average of fifty persons every day at Mass. It is my personal rule always to take the first Mass of the day, all the year round. I try to give you a consistent example. It remains with you to fulfill my heart's desire for you.

I hope that you will take from the lending library, one book for Lent reading. That will help you very much. You will find a conveniently arranged book list in the Porch. Any of the Clergy will arrange to supply you with whatever book you select. Father Cornell is the regular librarian.

For the rest you have every opportunity for public and private devotion. The Clergy are always available and desirous of serving you. I hope that you will have a good Lent.

The Confirmation classes are as follows:

Men—Mondays at 8.00 P. M. in the Clergy House
Boys—Sundays at 10.00 A. M. in the Parish House
Women—Fridays at 4.30 P. M. in the Church
Girls—Saturdays at 3.30 P. M. in the Church

I will give private appointments when desired.

At Compline, on Sunday nights, I am giving a course of instructions. I hope that these instructions will serve as a continuous, all the year round Confirmation class. Whenever a person, who is attending the Sunday night instructions, desires to be confirmed, and tells me of the desire, I will arrange to give them additional and private instructions, and see to it that they are privately presented for Confirmation. You can do a real missionary work by bringing a friend to Compline. I am doing what I can, but you must help. The subject of my instruction this evening will be, "God the Father."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Ye people, rend your hearts, rend your hearts and not your garments; for your transgressions the Prophet Elijah hath sealed the heavens through the word of God. I therefore say to ye, Forsake your idols, return to God; for He is slow to anger and merciful and kind and gracious, and repenteth Him of the evil.

"If with all your hearts ye truly seek Me, ye shall ever surely find Me." Thus saith our God. O that I knew where I might find Him: that I might even come before His presence.

Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He will sustain thee:
He never will suffer the righteous to fall.
He is at thy right hand.

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT, 1923

My Dear People:

There will be a Day of Intercession at Saint Mark's on Tuesday, February 20th. Bishop Garland has written a message concerning it, which I reprint:

Among our manifold divisions the word of God still proclaims "One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism," and unto everyone who confesses the faith, "Grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ." We thank God for a clearer conception of our privilege and of our duty to pray for the unity of Christendom.

In perfect faith let us lift up our hearts and ask God to pardon our shortcomings and our offenses, through Jesus Christ our Lord—to pour His grace into our lives and use them for the advancement of His Kingdom and a blessing to all mankind.

May we be led through the appealing power of intercession to bring forth the fruits of the spirit: love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.

Let us on this day of corporate intercession, and throughout the Lenten Season, think more deeply, meditate more frequently, and pray more earnestly for the fellowship of the Spirit, and that God's benediction may be poured out upon His waiting Church.

Lent, 1923

THOMAS J. GARLAND,
Bishop Suffragan of Pennsylvania.

The Chairman of the Committee which has the day in charge, has issued the following notice:—

"What, could ye not watch with Me one hour?"

The Committee in charge of the Day of Corporate Intercession ask you to consider carefully this call from our Bishop. We ask that as far as possible you give up conflicting engagements and make this a day of corporate penitence for our sins, of thanksgiving for God's mercy, of intercession for our country, for the Church, especially our part of the Church, and for the coming of God's Kingdom.

Our Bishop has told us, "Only as we pray together can we realize our common vocation and our common task."

Please consider this a call to you.

For Women—Fridays at 4 30 P. M. in the Church.

Please pray for those who are to be confirmed.

The subject of my instruction at Compline at 8 o'clock this evening will be The Holy Trinity.

The custom of reading or singing the Psalms antiphonally at Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament and at Vespers of the Dead and at Compline, may well be adopted at Matins and Evensong. The parochial custom at which the Officiant takes one verse and the Congregation another, causes us to lose the community spirit, the spirit of Common Prayer, I think, and it is foreign to the traditional idea of the Office. If we recite our Psalms together, choir-wise, we are much more apt through force of tradition to realize that we are a Congregation of Christians, living, so far as we may, a life of Common Prayer. And we shall feel that we are bound to render the Office as a corporate act of daily devotion. Those of you who are accustomed to visiting Religious Houses, know what I mean by the atmosphere of the Choir Office. It is possible and desirable to have the true atmosphere of the Office in a Parish Church. When you come to Matins or Evensong, choose the side of the Church where there are fewer persons. Read the Canticles and Psalter with the Clergy and people on your side. Pause at the colons long enough to take a breath. Read as rythmically as possible, so that the Psalter will swing along evenly. We will all try to read our Office as perfectly as we can for the Glory of God.

We are asked to pray hard for a woman who is very ill and in extreme pain. And for her family in their distress.

For the repose of the soul of a woman, and for the consolation of her family.

For a little boy who is very ill.

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on Wednesday, February 28th, at 7.45. The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, March 1st, at 3 P. M. The speaker will be Mrs. Mosher from the Philippines.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The Men's Choir will sing Evensong on Wednesday, March 14, at 8 o'clock. I hope that almost every one will be free to assist at these public devotions of the Men's Choir. The public services of the Men's Choir are, in the strictest sense, public devotions. They are for the greater glory of God. Not art for art's sake, but art for God's sake, is the secret of the sincerity and truth of worship. And this is the spirit of our Men's Choir. I mention the date again, Wednesday, March 14, at 8 P. M.

This week I am preaching at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, each day at ten minutes past twelve. I have been doing this for about ten years, I think it is. It has been a real part of my ministry. Will you pray for a blessing.

On Tuesday night I have an Hour of Devotion with the Seminarians at the General Theological Seminary. Will you pray for a blessing upon that?

I expect to keep all my preaching engagements here with the exception of the address on Tuesday at noon.

The Community of Saint Mary, whom I serve as Chaplain General, have, as you know, a large school for girls who live in the mountain district of Tennessee, in the neighborhood of Sewanee. I would like to have you know this school. You do know Saint Andrew's School for boys, at Sewanee. The Sisters of Saint Mary are doing for girls what the Holy Cross Fathers are doing for boys. If you are interested enough to desire to know about Saint Mary's School, you may take from the table in the porch, literature which will describe concisely the work. We can help in two ways:

1st. By endowing one or more scholarships. $125.00 a year will maintain a child in the School.

2nd. By contributing to the sustentation fund of the School.

Contributions within one's means, with regularity, with the intention of helping a child, with prayers for the child and for the Sisters who serve them, are telling contributions, whether the amount is one dollar or one thousand dollars. If you are able to help and would like to help, will you speak or write to me about the matter?

The subject of my instruction at Compline to-night will be "The Angels."

Please pray for a family in affliction, the family of little Richard Fonda, an acolyte of ours.

And for Sister Marianna of the Western Province of the Community of Saint Mary, and for several other sick persons.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

The Ninth Public Service of the Men's Choir of St. Mark's,

Wednesday Evening, March 14th, at 8 o'clock

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN LENT, 1923

My Dear People:

The Men's Choir will sing Evensong on Wednesday evening, March 14th, at 8 o'clock. The Public Services of the Men's Choir are always noteworthy events and I am expecting the usual large congregation.

I have received the following communication from our Parochial delegate to the Diocesan Conference on Missions :

"On Wednesday, March 7th, at the meeting in the Church House, many problems and plans were discussed, but the chief and vital question was the matter of meeting the full quota for the next two years by the Church as a whole. An appalling deficit faces the Church unless each and every Parish meets its full obligation. Failure to do this would result in a deplorable curtailment of Missionary work at home and abroad: churches would be closed; services discontinued, and Missionaries withdrawn. Every member of the Church is urged to buy a Program, and to become familiar with the whole work of the whole Church."

There will be a meeting of the Executive Council of St. Mark's in the Parish House on Tuesday, March 13th, at 4 o'clock, to consider the matter. Programs may be purchased at the office of the Parochial Secretary. Last year we exceeded our apportionment, and if each member of the Parish contributes proportionately this year, we shall continue to fulfill our obligations without anxiety.

On Passion Sunday the Bach Passion music will be sung at 4 o'clock. Evensong will be said immediately afterwards.

You are keeping a solidly good Lent. I am very thankful and happy, for you and with you. The best of it all is the attendance at the Masses, and the number of Communions. In the month of February there were 64 Low Masses, with a total attendance of 829, with 548 Communions.

And the attendance at High Mass has been impressive.

The subject of the instruction at Compline to-night will be Man.

The subject on Friday afternoon, Holy Matrimony.

Please pray for the repose of the soul of Helen Smythe, for the recovery of several sick persons, for those who are to be Confirmed.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

The GREAT PASSION according to ST. MATTHEW

Johann Sebastian Bach

Evensong, 5.30 P. M.

My Dear People:

Evensong will be said today at 5.30. The Bach Passion Music will be sung at 4, and there will be the usual afternoon sermon.

The second of our three special offerings for Missions will be made today. Our apportionment for this year is $27,159.43. Of this amount $17,056.12 is for the maintenance of the present work in the Mission field, and $10,103.31 will be applied for the Forward Work of the Church.

Ninety-five per cent of our people are actively supporting the Mission work of the Church. If in addition to the offering of today there should be pledges from the remaining five per cent, Saint Mark's will be solidly organized for Missions at one hundred per cent.

The General Conference to arrange for the Whitsuntide Presentation Service of the Bishop's Bricks Fund will be held at the Church House, Assembly Room, 202 South 19th Street, on Wednesday afternoon, March 21st, at 3 o'clock. Informal discussion of new plans. Banks and envelopes will be ready for distribution. All are cordially invited.

On Palm Sunday the palms will be blessed and distributed, and there will be the usual Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass at eleven.

The subject of the instruction at Compline tonight will be "The Fall."

The subject on Friday at the Litany at 5 will be Holy Orders.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Tune, St. Drostane

INTROIT. Be not Thou far from me, O Lord, Thou art my succour, haste Thee to help me; save me from the lion's mouth: Thou hast heard me also from among the horns of the unicorns.

PSALM. My God, my God, look upon me; why hast Thou forsaken me: and art so far from my health, and from the words of my complaint.

INTROIT. Be not Thou far from me.

GRADUAL. Thou hast holden me by my right hand; Thou shalt guide me with Thy counsel: and after that receive me with glory. Truly God is loving unto Israel: even unto such as are of a clean heart. Nevertheless my feet were almost gone, my treadings had well nigh slipped: and why? I was grieved at the wicked, I do also see the ungodly in such prosperity.

Evensong, 5.30 P. M.

PALM SUNDAY, 1923

My Dear People:

The Passion music will be sung this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Evensong will be said at 5.30.

The subject of the instruction at Compline tonight will be "The Promise of Redemption."

On Maundy Thursday there will not be a Mass at 9.30. Instead there will be a Solemn High Mass and Sermon at 10.30.

On Good Friday there will be an instruction, the last of the series, at Evensong. The subject will be "Unction."

On Easter Even, you will observe that there will be but one Mass, at 7. Liturgical tradition calls for only one Mass on that day.

The Sacrament of Confirmation will be administered at 4 o'clock on Easter Even. Confessions will be heard from 2 to 5; from 7.30 to 9; and by appointment.

The Masses for Communion on Easter Day will be at 7, 8, and 9.

All the offerings for Easter Day will be

1.—For Missionary Purposes

2.—For Parochial Purposes

as explained by the letter sent to you. Copies of this letter may be obtained in the porch.

The Supply Department of the Diocese is in need of contribution of articles of clothing for distribution in the Mission Field. The list is posted in the porch. The Supply Department has a personal interest for us, because it is under the direction of a member of this Parish. Therefore we are bound to make a special effort to respond to appeals so generously and so promptly as to make it evident that the Chairman of the Supply Department has the solid support of her own Parish.

You have kept a good Lent. God will give you a happy Easter, my very dear people.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

EASTER, 1923

My Dear People:

It is not necessary to wish you a happy Easter. I know that you are having one. And it is the fruit of a good Lent. There were 1088 Communions made during Lent. There was an attendance of 1520 at the low Masses. The Lent devotions were wonderfully attended. So also were the Offices. And very, very many prayers were said through all the days, and at all hours visits to the church were being made. Of all the beautiful things about Saint Marks, I think the most convincing and appealing thing is the sign of the wearing away of the stone steps at the entrance. The beaten path of the uncounted and unknown who come here to pray and to seek the Sacraments. Those well-worn steps are a priceless memorial of lives that are hid with Christ in God, and the silent evidence of our treasury of devotion.

You have received your Easter Gift. "Who so eateth my Flesh and drinketh my Blood, hath everlasting life, and I will raise him up at the last day." "The body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life." "The Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life."

You have everlasting life preserving your bodies and souls now. Your Easter alleluia is an endless alleluia. When you see the Procession coming out of the Sanctuary into the Nave and going around the Church, remember that means that we are all coming out to be with you, so that we may sing the alleluias close beside you, all of us together in the love of God and the love of each other, with one heart and one mind and one voice. That is what a Solemn Procession means, joining the family. Then send us back to our duties at the Altar, with a prayer that we may meetly offer your Sacrifice and ours. God bless and keep you.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1923

My Dear People:

Our Easter was a very happy one. There were more Communion made than last year. The congregation at High Mass was thoroughly devout and it was a very large one indeed. The Ceremonies were correct and the music was exquisite. The offering gave evidence of generous giving. For all of this we will return thanks to God today, who gave us grace with one accord to make our common supplications and prayers.

Our newly Confirmed received their First Communion on Easter Day, and we welcome them into our parochial family.

The Sacrament of Confirmation will be administered at Saint Mary's Chapel this evening.

Tomorrow will be the Feast of the Annunciation. There will be the usual third Mass at 9.30.

There will be a meeting at St. James' Parish House, 2210 Sansom Street, Tuesday evening, April 10th, in the interests of Church Conferences. Supper will be served at 6.30 and the meeting will be at 7.30.

The Clergy are most grateful for the many, many kind and generous remembrances at Easter, and we take this opportunity of conveying our thanks in order that our acknowledgment may be prompt Prayers are asked for two persons crossing the ocean. .

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1923

My Dear People:

I have received the following from the Reverend John A. Staunton, Jr., of Sagada, Phillippine Islands. This work is so well known and so unreservedly commended as to need no further word beyond saying that I know of no work more worthy of your consideration:

"As you well know, our religious work is done under cover, so to speak, of industrial methods which have raised a large, primitive Igorot population to a high grade of self-respect and thrift, as well as made them Christians. Now for fifteen years I have seen available water-power which could make our training more effective, and yield an annual income to the Mission in perpetuity, running to waste for lack of the pitiably small sum needed to harness it. Six thousand dollars (approximately) previously raised has already been put into the plant and will be effective whenever the project can be completed. We still need nineteen thousand dollars to complete our project."

The services of our Ushers on Easter Day were gratefully appreciated by the entire congregation, and I take this opportunity of conveying our thanks to Messrs. J. Alison Scott, John Hilliard, N. Crenshaw McElroy, Francis E. Taylor and Morgan Reichner.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

On Tuesday in Easter week, George Wharton Pepper, Robert B. Sterling, Lewis A. Riley, William F. H. Reed, Thomas Reath, Philip H. Brice, Andrew Wheeler, Charles Price Maule, Richard M. Philler, C. Newbold Taylor, Charles L. Borie, Jr., William Hopkins, were elected members of the Vestry of Saint Mark's Parish. George Wharton Pepper is Rector's Warden. Andrew Wheeler is Accounting Warden. Thomas Reath is Secretary of the Vestry.

Next Sunday, which is in the Octave of Saint Mark's Day, we shall keep our Patronal Festival, and the Seventy-sixth Anniversary of the Parish. There will be a Solemn High Mass at 11 o'clock. The Men's Choir will sing Tschirch's Grand Mass in C for male voices, organ and wind instruments. Mr. Wadlow will serve as Master of the Choir. Mr. Wheeler will serve at the organ. We will return thanks for the blessings of the past year. And we have had so many. So very, very many.

I think we ought to be the most thankful parish in the world. We will offer ourselves and our work to God, praying very hard for grace to show forth our praise not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up ourselves to His service, and by walking before Him in holiness and righteousness all our days. And we will go on together in serenity, stability and strength. Serenity in the daily offering of the Holy Sacrifice and the recitation of the Office and unceasing intercession. Stability in selfless pastoral service to souls. Strength to hold up the hands of those who have gone to teach and baptize at the uttermost ends of the earth. The life that we have together is so thrilling and wonderful and arresting and fascinating and compelling and absorbing and free and satisfying. So deeply, so utterly satisfying, that nothing short of all that we are and the best that we have is worthy of it. We thank God for the blessing of that which we have received. But we thank Him yet more for being allowed to go out gaily to give.

The Nineteenth Annual Presentation Service of the United Thank Offering will be held in Saint James' Church, Thursday, April 26th, at 10.30 A. M. I hope that the Parish will be well represented.

John Keble was born on Saint Mark's Day, 1792, at Fairford in Gloucestershire. He is rightly called Blessed John Keble. He must be numbered among our Saints. We may confidently invoke his prayers. His "Christian Year" should be one of our books of pious reading. And I recommend Ollard's Short History of the Oxford Movement as a book to be read during the summer.

We have a small temporary loan of one thousand dollars. I think we ought to take care of that by a special offering next Sunday. Don't you?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The Patronal Festival is our parochial day of thanksgiving, renewal of oblation and deepening of consecration.

We give thanks for the fair ground in which our lot is cast and for the goodly heritage which God has given to us. And it is a fair ground. I know of none so fair. The heritage is a goodly one. It lacks no manner of thing that is good. We cannot be thankful enough today, as we remember the years that are past and the days that are gone, and the company of the faithful who served here in their generation.

We should be unworthy of our heritage, and should deserve to be dispossessed of it, if we did not very keenly realize, that the Founders and Benefactors of this Parish could never have made Saint Mark's what it is, if they had been inclined or content to complacently live in the past. Each generation made its own present. They met the conditions of their own day, and in their own way. They stirred up the gifts that were in them. They did the work that God meant them to do. They planned with vision and they worked with determination. They made their own contribution in their own day. And when they laid down their work they left something more than they had found.

We must do the same. Today is our day. We have our work to do. And because it is our work, God will give us the wisdom and power. The present is too absorbing to spend over much time in looking back. We must reverence the present. We must be keenly and sensitively alive to the present. We must make the uttermost of the present. We cannot be timidly reminiscent. We must be alert, resourceful, fearless, cheerful, tireless. We must know what we are doing and do it. We must regard obstacles nonchalantly as trifles to be surmounted. And difficulties as points of interest in a successful venture. We must be brimmingly filled with our own joy of our own day. We must do our own work in our own way. As God helped our fathers, so He will help us. Without question or hesitancy we will trust Him to forgive faults, to overrule mistakes, to supply defects, and to guide, guard, preserve and bless our Household of Faith.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Anthem S. S. Wesley

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, that fadeth not away, reserved in Heaven for you who are kept by the power of God; through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

But, as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; pass the time of your sojourning here in fear.

Love one another with a pure heart fervently, see that you love one another, with a pure heart fervently.

Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God; for all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as a flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away. But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. Amen.

FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1923
ROGATION SUNDAY

My Dear People:

On Ascension Day the services are, as on all Thursdays, Masses at 7, 7.45 and 9.30. The Ceremonies will be observed on the Sunday in the Occurrence, next Sunday, when there will be Solemn High Mass and Processions in the morning and afternoon. But the chief thing is to receive Holy Communion on Ascension Day. It will be as easy to do this on Ascension Day as it was on Christmas Day. His ascension into Heaven must be celebrated with no less devotion than His Advent upon Earth. Angels accompanied Him when He descended. Men must accompany Him as He ascends. We do this by receiving Communion on Ascension Day.

Mr. Montgomery Haines, the treasurer of the House of Saint Michael and All Angels Home for Colored Crippled Children, has written me a letter which I hand on to you. We have a parochial responsibility for the welfare of this institution. The Rector of Saint Mark's is Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

"During the past two weeks I have been trying to raise funds for the House of St. Michael and All Angels, both to increase our endowment and for maintenance. So far I have received the sum of $947, $760 for the endowment fund and $212 for maintenance.

"As you know, we have recently purchased No. 609 N. 43d Street, which adjoins our boys' house. We come into possession of this property about May 15th, when it is our desire to make such alterations that the two houses will be combined into one large home for the boys. We have sufficient applicants to immediately fill these larger quarters.

"To me, there is no work more worthy of support than the surgical treatment and the mental, religious and industrial training of young colored cripples,—also, no work with so little appeal to persons who have not been closely associated with us. At least 75 per cent of our children have become cripples through neglect, and when we think what their lives would be without the help that we can give them it is appalling. I would like to give you a short history of one of our boys, "Happy." His mother, rooming in Philadelphia—working by the day in the country some miles outside of Camden—as she had no one with whom to leave "Happy," was compelled to take him to her work. To reach her destination she used the trolleys from Camden, and after alighting had a long walk over country roads. On the way to work one cold winter day, three or four years ago, "Happy's" hands and feet were badly frost-bitten. The following day "Happy" was in such a condition his mother could not take him, so left him alone to spend the day without care, suffering (suffering as only one who has been badly frost-bitten can understand). When she arrived home that evening, it was necessary to send "Happy" to the hospital. The doctors immediately amputated both his hands and feet. This case is just one of many."

The Secretary of Saint Mark's Episcopal Hospital Auxiliary sends the following report:

"Saint Mark's Episcopal Hospital Auxiliary has provided for—

1 operating table for new operating room	$150
2 service tables for new operating room	70
1 stereopticon view box for X-Ray Department	250

The total amount contributed was $537.50. Balance on hand is $67.50.

ELLEN LATHROP HOPKINS.

On May 12th, I shall be giving a retreat for young women at St. Margaret's Convent, 1831 Pine Street. All young women are invited by the Sister in Charge to attend. Each person should send her name to the Sister in Charge. The time table is as follows:

WHITSUNDAY, 1923

My Dear People:

There will be a third Mass on Monday and Tuesday of this week, at 9.30.

There will be a Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass, and Solemn Evensong and Procession on Trinity Sunday.

The seven o'clock Mass on Tuesday, will be a Mass of the Holy Ghost for guidance for the election of a Bishop of Pennsylvania.

Copies of the intercession leaflets may be found in the porch. If you will take them away with you and use them during the summer, we shall be able to keep our prayer life without interruption. The life will be strengthened by the very fact that we are all praying with one heart and mind, and with the same words, wherever we happen to be. The work of prayer at Saint Mark's will go on as usual, through the summer. Mass and the Office and the Intercessions every day, at 7, 9, 12.30 and 5. And you will be a part of it.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The summer does not affect our Parochial Rule of Life at Saint Mark's. I shall announce the time table on the last Sunday in June. Mass, Office and Intercession will go on as usual. There will always be three Priests in the House on duty. The hours for Confession will be as usual. The remembrance of this will encourage you to persevere in your share of our life, as far as you can, wherever you may be. Saint Mark's will be praying for you. And you will pray for Saint Mark's. Our common prayer life will keep us bound closely together. We are a Society of Christians who are trying to live the Christian life in the world. Our Parochial life is one of the fruits of the Christian life. Back of our parochial life is our Christian life. As long as we are faithful to our Rule of Sacraments, Prayer, Meditation, Bible and Spiritual Reading we are safe.

If you have not taken copies of the Intercessions and Litanies, you will find what you need on the tables in the Porch.

For Spiritual reading I recommend the following:

Figgis, J. N.—Churches in the Modern State.
Hopes for English Religion.
Anti-Christ and Other Sermons.

Bull, P. B.—Revival of the Religious Life.

Ollard S. L.—Short History of the Oxford Movement.

Green, Peter—Personal Religion and Public Righteousness.

Gore, Charles—Belief in God.
Belief in Christ.
Orders and Unity.
The Deity of Christ.

These books may be procured by applying to Father Cornell or Father Pottle. You may send for them and they will be mailed to you. Please apply, if you write, on a post card.

THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1923

My Dear People:

In addition to the books on last Sunday's list for summer reading, I recommend:

1. Papini's Life of Christ.
2. Marmion's Christ the Life of the Soul.
3. The books issued by the Anglo Catholic Congress.

You will find these books of great practical value, convenient in size, not expensive in price, and sufficient in number to carry you over into the winter. They will prove to be useful for lending to your friends also.

The Holy Cross Magazine ought to be on your list, too. You will gain profit and pleasure from it. It only costs a dollar a year. Address "Holy Cross Magazine, West Park, N. Y."

Father Williamson is on his way to England. Please pray for a safe journey for him.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE NATIVITY OF ST. JOHN BAPTIST

My Dear People:

The summer schedule of services will go into effect on the first day of July. On Sundays there will be Low Masses at 8 and 9. Matins will be said at 8.30. Evensong will be said at 8.

On week days there will be Mass at 7. Matins at 9. Intercessions at 12.30. Evensong at 5. There will be the usual 9.30 Mass on Holy Days and Thursdays. The hours for Confession will be from 4 to 5 and 8 to 9, on Saturday afternoons and evenings.

This schedule will continue until the announcement, in the newspapers, of change.

You will observe that during the summer, music and sermons are omitted. This seems to me, at present, the right thing to do, taking all things into consideration. The marked contrast with the arrangements for the greater part of the year, has a teaching value. It serves to emphasize the essentials of Christian worship. The first duty of a Christian, on Sundays and days of obligation, is to be present at the Holy Sacrifice. That is the essential act of worship. Low Mass fulfills every duty and affords every privilege. The ceremonies and the music which accompany a Sung Mass or a High Mass are necessary for the days on which Sung Masses or High Masses are celebrated. But whether it is a Low Mass or a Solemn High Mass, the Sacrifice is neither the less in the one nor the greater in the other. There is one, only Sacrifice. An educated Catholic is devout in the simplicity of a Low Mass and simple in the devotion of a High Mass. It is the Mass that matters. If you are in town in the summer, come to Mass at 8 or 9, and then with a good conscience avail yourself of such opportunities for rest, refreshment and recreation as may be given you.

The evening devotion is not of obligation. But you will end Sunday piously by coming to Evensong, if you are so disposed.

Any week day in every week you will have your opportunity of assisting at Mass and receiving Holy Communion.

On Saturdays or at any time by appointment you will have the opportunity of going to Confession.

The Offices and Intercessions will be, as always, the daily prayer rule.

The Church is open all day, for private devotion.

There is always a Priest on duty, at the Clergy House.

I shall be in town until August 1st.

The following books of private devotion will be helpful:

Catholic Prayers

Saint Swithin's Prayer Book

The Anglican Missal

The Sanctuary

The People's Missal

These books may be obtained from Edwin C. Gorham, 11 West 45th Street, New York City.

I call your attention to Father Hughson's article on Henry VIII, and the Anglican Church. You will find copies on the table in the aisle, and in the porch. Please take one or several. The article is of great value.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

TWENTIETH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1923

My Dear People:

I trust that you have had happy holidays. It is good to see so many of you in your accustomed places. May this year be a happy one for you.

One face we shall sadly miss. Miss Catherine Belt went to her rest on the 15th of September. She is a holy soul. Her prayers will help us more than ever now. And we will pray for her.

I will give you due notice of the opening meetings of the Guilds and Classes for instruction. Do identify yourself with at least one, and serve that one well. Offer one work to God.

The attendance at daily Mass is always a fair indication of the vitality and stability of the religion of a Parish. Select one day, at least, in every week, as your day. This is the minimum, of course, for some of you attend Mass daily. Select one day. Save up your intentions. Intentions are the subjects of prayer or thanksgiving. If you have something that particularly weighs on your mind, and you always have, offer your desires and needs concerned with it to God, when you come to Mass. Offer intentions for persons, works, worries, everything, anything, however commonplace. Nothing that interests you is commonplace with God. Offer intentions for thanksgivings, for blessings, and gifts, and anniversaries. Weave everything that matters to you in with your life at the Altar. Write any special intention that concerns you on a card and give it to the Celebrant, in the Sacristy, before he goes to the Altar, and he will remember it, as he offers the Holy Sacrifice. The offering of the Daily Sacrifice is the pulse beat of the Parish, responding to the throbbing of the Sacred Heart. That hour in the early morning will make your day and direct your life, beyond your power to imagine. Think of this. Remember that I told you.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

TWENTY-FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1923

My Dear People:

The men of the Parish are invited to come to the Parish House, as guests of the Men's Choir, on Wednesday evening, October 24th. This will be the first meeting of the season for men, and I hope that every man in the Parish will be present.

I have received the following communication from the Church House:

The Bishop, before he leaves the Diocese, is anxious to come into personal contact with his people. With this in view he has made appointments (as many as were practicable) at the following places in the city, when he will be glad to welcome all who may come:

Tuesday, October 23d, 8 to 10 P. M., S. Simeon's Church, S. W. corner Lehigh Avenue and Ninth Street.

Thursday, October 25th, 8 to 10 P. M., Church of the Advocate, Eighteenth and Diamond Streets.

Wednesday, October 31st, 8 to 10 P. M., Chapel of the Mediator, Fifty-first and Spruce Streets.

Thursday, November 1st, All Saints Day, 4.30 to 6.30 P. M., Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South Streets.

These occasions will be entirely informal and are intended to afford a convenient opportunity to the people to meet the Bishop once more before he leaves.

The Parish Library is always at your service. Father Cornell is the librarian. The catalogue is on the table near the Locust Street doors.

I do not like the words "visitors" or "strangers." Will any persons who are attending Saint Mark's for the first time or occasionally, or any persons who have no assigned sitting, be so kind as to mention this to the usher, in order that particular and personal attention may be given?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

FEAST OF ST. SIMON AND ST. JUDE
TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY
1923

My Dear People:

On All Saints' Day, Thursday, the Masses will be as usual, excepting that at 9.30 there will be hymns and a sermon.

On All Souls' Day, Friday, in addition to the Masses at 7 and 8, there will be a Solemn High Mass and Sermon at 10.30. The names of those to be remembered may be mailed or handed to any of the Clergy. It will insure against accidental omission if all names are sent in before the list is typed on Thursday morning. It is not strictly necessary to include the names of those who departed this life more than ten years ago.

Vespers of the Dead will be said immediately after Evensong on All Souls' Day.

The Masses on Saturdays are always Requiems, and Vespers of the Dead will be said on Saturdays immediately after Evensong.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Thursday, November 1st, at 3 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Guild of All Souls will be held on Friday, November 2, at 12 o'clock.

Next Sunday there will be a Procession and Solemn High Mass at 11.

The Seventh Annual Roll Call of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross will open on Armistice Day. The call to enroll is on behalf of suffering humanity throughout the world. The Chairman of the Roll Call Committee is Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt. It will help her in her work, I think, if we, of our own Parish, take the trouble to enroll generally and promptly. Enrollment cards will be found in the pews. and should be mailed to the Red Cross Office, N. E. Corner of Broad and Walnut Streets.

The Requiem on Saturday, November the 10th, will be for those who died in the War.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY
1923

My Dear People:

In the month of November the Church emphasizes the Doctrine of the Communion of Saints. The Saints and the Holy Souls are the central themes. The victories of Saints, the purgation of the Faithful Departed constitute the subjects for devotions and prayers. Christian Faith and Practice make the Communion of Saints a living reality. Both Faith and Practice are specially stressed for the one month, in order that the average may be raised for the other eleven months. The Christian who uses November wisely and well will be so thoroughly grounded in Faith and trained in Practice as to be above and beyond the reach of what is commonly known as spiritualism. In the clear light of the Christian Religion, the spiritistic cults are obviously vain, gross and revolting. The Christian has neither time nor inclination for them. The Christian Religion is their sufficient reputation. Read Catholic books. Use Catholic books of devotion. Say your prayers. Go to Mass. Make your Communions. Pray for your dead. Invoke your Saints. And you will be filled with the reasonable and holy Hope which is the heritage of those who live in the Communion of the Catholic Church.

Masses for the Departed will be said every Saturday in November and on all Saturdays throughout the year, at 7 and 7.45.

Vespers of the Dead will be said every Saturday afternoon at 5.20, after Evensong.

A Requiem Service for the departed members of the Guild, will be held on Monday, November 5th, at S. Clement's Church, 20th and Cherry Streets, at 9.30 A. M.

The Guild Fair will take place on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday and Wednesday, November 13th and 14th, in the Parish House of S. Clement's Church, 20th and Cherry Streets. Members are all urged to contribute and to take an active part. Donations of cake, candy or fancy goods may be sent to the Parish House at any time, care of Rev. Alfred M. Smith.

The monthly meeting will take place on Thursday, November 15, at St. Mary's Church, Broad and South Streets, at 3 o'clock.

There will be an All-Day Missionary Meeting on Wednesday, November 7, at Holy Trinity Church. A large attendance is expected.

I am very happy to tell you that at last we have a Sister of Saint Margaret assigned to Saint Mark's. Sister Helen began her work on All Saints' Day. The library on the second floor of the Parish House will serve as the Sister's office. Sister Helen's office hours will be from 10 to 12 daily, excepting on Sundays and Mondays.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Enrollment cards for the Seventh Annual Roll Call of the South-eastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross will be distributed at the door today, to those who have not already received cards. Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt is chairman of the Enrollment Committee of the Chapter. There is therefore a personal note in this call to enroll which cannot fail to enlist a general and generous response.

The Guild of the House of Saint Michael and All Angels for Colored Crippled Children will have a donation day, Monday, November 12, at 607-609-611 North 43d Street. Gifts of money, clothing, groceries and household linen are asked. For the new Boys' House there is a special need for chairs, bureaus and small tables.

The two houses will be open to visitors and tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock.

There will be a Retreat for Teachers at Saint Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street, on November 24th. I expect to conduct the Retreat. All who desire to attend are asked to notify the Sister Lydia S. S. M., at the address given above.

TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY
1923

My Dear People:

The annual meeting and collection of garments for St. Mark's Branch (Sec. No. 37) of the Needlework Guild of America took place at the Parish House on Wednesday, October 24th. Collection of garments, 565. Collection from Money Members, $47.50. The Annual Meeting and Tea of the Needlework Guild of America will be held at St. Luke and the Epiphany, 13th Street, below Spruce, Wednesday, November 21st. All Directors and Contributors are cordially invited to attend.

The Associates of the Board of Managers of the Church Training and Deaconess House request the pleasure of your company at a Tea to be given at 708 Spruce Street, on Monday, November 19, from 3.30 to 5.

The Woman's Auxiliary Sewing Class meets in the Parish Building on Thursday mornings, from 10 until 12.30.

Last week many of you received letters from me asking for entertainment of delegates to the Priests' Convention to be held in Philadelphia next Spring. To quote from the letter issued by the Executive Committee, of which I am a member, 1. "It was determined to hold a Priests' Convention in Philadelphia in the Spring of 1924. Philadelphia was determined upon rather than New York because the City is central to the area within which it will be necessary to confine the scope of the Convention. 2. One is apt to think of the thing called 'Convention' as a highly organized synod, functioning through committees, taking votes, passing resolutions. No such thing is intended. The Convention will listen to papers prepared by the men best able among the scholars of the American Church to prepare them, and to speakers who will deal with assigned subjects. The subjects of these papers and addresses will relate to fundamentals of the Christian faith, such as the Incarnation, the Virgin Birth, the Divine Origin of the Catholic Church, the Truth of the New Testament Miracles, and also to the corollaries of fundamental doctrines in practice. The committee intrusted with selection of writers and speakers is composed of the following: The Reverend Drs. C. C. Edmunds, S. P. Delany, Frank L. Vernon, George L. Richardson, and the Rev. Fathers C. L. Gomph, S. C. Hughson, O. H. C., G. M. Williams, S. S. J. E. The subjects chosen and the method of treatment of the same will be, like the Convention itself, not militant and polemic, but positive, reassuring and helpfully instructive. 3. It is hoped and expected to give cause for courage and optimism to many people, cleric and lay, who do pioneer work in isolated places. How great this number is, few realize, but of its magnitude, evidence is given from time to time. A preliminary estimate seems to indicate that the Convention may run above 400 priests."

The Convention will open with High Mass at Saint Mark's. We may well be thankful for this great opportunity to serve a great cause in a great way. I rely on Saint Mark's to rise to the occasion.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

Great is Jehovah, the Lord, for heaven and the earth testify to His great power.
'Tis heard in the fierce raging storm, in the torrent's loud thundering roar.

'Tis heard in the rustling of leaves in the forest, seen in the waving of golden fields, in loveliest flowers' gaudy array, 'tis seen in myriad stars that stud the heavens. Fierce it sounds in the thunder's loud roll and flames, in the lightning's brightly quivering flash. Yet clearer thy throbbing heart to thee proclaims Jehovah's power, the Lord God Almighty.

Look, thou praying to heaven, and hope for grace and for mercy. Great is Jehovah the Lord.

Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it.

SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT
1923

My Dear People:

The Great Doors of Saint Mark's, dedicated today to the glory of God, are the offering of Katharine Fiske, in loving memory of her husband, Louis Samuel Fiske, who departed this life November 11th, 1916.

The doors, now incorporated into the fabric of the Parish Church, become from this day onward the symbol of the gateway into the Kingdom of Heaven, and the pledge of our prayers, that she who makes the offering, and he in whose memory they are offered, with all those who shall enter this Church, may finally pass through the door which shall be opened in Heaven. The material treasures of Saint Mark's are known in this world as works of art. The love in the hearts of those who give, the blessing of God, the Eucharistic Intercession, and the prayer life of the Faithful, make them known in Heaven as offerings rich and rare, only because they are holy. Each and every memorial in this Church, great and small, makes an irresistible appeal to human hearts for human sympathy translated into the language of prayer. The Masses, the Divine Office, the Intercessions, public and private, are the agencies for the supply of spiritual power, which transforms dead stones into living stones and works of art into works of art shining, flaming, gleaming, glorious things, because the Finger of God has touched them.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Masses will be as usual. At the 9.30 Mass there will be hymns and the reading of Bishop Rhinelander's address on the Creed. The offering at 9.30 will be for the Episcopal Hospital. I would be grateful to you if you would take home today, the printed matter which will give you information concerning the Hospital.

Next Sunday the Bishop of Haiti will Pontificate and preach.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

Z. Vernon

Praise His awful name, who was, and is, and is to come, praise to Him who giveth immortality. All glory and majesty surround His throne. Worship and adore Him! Praise, glory to God, praise, glory to God!

Mighty, He cometh to judgment, for He shall judge the world in righteousness! and He shall judge His people with His truth. Fear thou not, O man, for thy Redeemer liveth; He that died is risen, and He shall live to all eternity, and He shall reign, and shall conquer all His enemies.

I know thy works and thy labor and thy patience; for My sake thou hast endured affliction: yet thy first and chiefest duty thou hast forsaken, and thou art fallen from thy high estate: Repent thee of thy sin! repent! and return to thy first work: be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life. Praise His awful name, who was, and is, and who is to come. Praise to Him who giveth immortality; all glory and majesty surround His throne. THE FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT
1923

My Dear People:

It is a privilege and a pleasure to have the Bishop of Haiti at Saint Mark's today. I hope that he may often come to us.

The Bishop of Porto Rico is also visiting me. The Clergy House is honored in having two Bishops as guests. At the time of writing this letter, I do not know what the day's engagements of the Bishop of Porto Rico are. But I am hoping that he may preach this afternoon.

There will be a corporate communion of the Woman's Auxiliary on Thursday, December 6th, at 7.45. At the regular meeting of the Auxiliary, held in the Parish Building, in the afternoon of Thursday, December 6th, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Royce will speak of the work in Haiti.

The Accounting Warden's letter of report to the Parishioners has been mailed to you. I hope that you will give it careful attention. I hope also that you will attend the Parish Meeting tomorrow, the first Monday in Advent. We have been showered with blessings this year. I know of no Parish that has greater cause for joy and thankfulness than has Saint Mark's. Our rule is, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Our motto is, "Serenity, Stability, Strength." We have a thrilling work to do. I know we can do it. Because we can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth us. We thank God. We take courage. We fear nothing. We dare anything. We know what we want to do. And we mean to get it done.

I quote from Mr. Wheeler's letter: "The pledges for the Budget and Envelope Systems for 1923 expire on December 31st next. The blanks for the subscriptions for 1924 are herewith enclosed, and you are asked to make as early a return as possible of your pledge for either the Budget or Envelopes, or both, for the coming year. With this letter is also enclosed a notice from the Rector, calling a Parish Meeting on the first Monday in Advent, pursuant to the financial plan adopted at Saint Mark's several years ago. At this meeting the Budget (which includes separate Budgets for the Chapels, as prepared by the respective Chapel Committees) will be presented, and the Clergy and Vestry will be in attendance to answer all questions in detail in reference to the management of the Parish." I shall look for you at the meeting on Monday at 4.30.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

SOLO (Bass)—Thus saith the Lord: "The end is near, and all the winds of heaven proclaim its coming. Prepare to meet thy God! I will reward thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee as thou hast deserved. To me is every action known; each secret thought is unveiled before Me."

RECITATIVE (Bass)—The day of wrath is near: the Almighty shall reveal His power! The reaper's song is silent in the field, and the shepherd's voice on the mountain. The valleys then shall shake with fear: with dread the hills shall tremble. It comes! The day of terror comes! The awful morning dawns! Thy mighty arm, O God, is uplifted! Thou shalt shake the earth and heavens; they shall shrivel as a scroll, when Thou in wrath appearest. For men shall cast away their silver, and count their gold as dross: it shall not save in the great and awful day! Where is now the monarch's might, where all his splendour, where the dreams of earthly greatness? The princes of the earth shall cast their crowns before Thee; and all the power of the mighty shall fail, when Thou, O Lord, shalt come to judge the world.

CHORUS—"If with your whole hearts ye humbly seek me, I will be found of you." saith the Lord; "and if ye return to Me sincerely, I will receive you from all the ends of the earth. I will be your Father, and ye shall be My people:" thus saith the Lord.

SOLO (Tenor)—Jehovah now cometh to judgement! Bow down to worship Him who made the heavens and earth.

CHORUS—Destroyed is Babylon the mighty! The smoke of her torment ascendeth for evermore. The hour of judgement is come! Now is the Lord at hand! The grave gives up its dead: the sea gives up its dead: the seals are broken; the books are all unclosed: the mighty now tremble before Him.

SOLO (Tenor)—It is ended:

QUARTET AND CHORUS—Blest are the departed who in the Lord are sleeping, from henceforth for evermore: they rest from their labours, and their works follow them.

My Dear People:

The Blessed Sacrament is reserved in the Lady Chapel. Thanks be to God.

The new candlesticks on the High Altar are in memory of Mary Swift Buckley.

Offerings for the Christmas Appeal for the Chapels of the Parish may be sent to the office of the Parochial Secretary, Parish Building, 1625 Locust Street. Money received will be used to provide for the Christmas trees and parties for the children at Saint Michael's and Saint Mary's Chapels.

Four new guilds have been organized by Sister Helen.

The Guild of the Holy Child for girls from 9 to 12 years of age, meets Wednesdays, from 4 to 5 o'clock, in the Sister's office, in the Parish Building.

The Senior Division of the Guild of the Holy Child, for children from 12 to 16 years of age, meets in the Sister's office on Friday evenings, from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Saint Mary's Guild for young women meets in the Sister's office on Thursday afternoons, from 5 to 6 o'clock.

The Bible Class for teachers, social workers and business women, meets in the Sister's office on Thursday evenings, from 8 to 9 o'clock.

Sister Helen's office hours are from 10 to 12 daily, excepting on Mondays. The Sister's telephone number is Locust 1918, and the address is Saint Margaret's House, 1831 Pine Street.

The offering for the Episcopal Hospital on Thanksgiving Day was $835.68. In addition to this sum, Saint Michael's have contributed $23.28 and Saint Mary's $8.

The wilderness and the solitary places shall be glad for them. And the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice with joy and singing.

Say to them of a fearful heart, "Be glad, be strong, fear not: behold your God, He will come and save you."

Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there; it shall be called the way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it. But the redeemed shall walk there.

And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee, shall flee away.

THE THIRD SUNDAY IN ADVENT
1923

My Dear People:

Today, the last of the special offerings for Missions for 1923 is to be presented. You have received a statement from the Committee on Missions. You will remember that the apportionment for Saint Mark's for the year 1923 is $17,056.12 for the maintenance of existing work and $10,103.31 for Forward Work; a total of $27,159.42. If every member of the Parish makes a generous offering today, we shall be assured that the apportionment will be met and Saint Mark's will maintain the record, well established and deserved, of never once failing in its duty to the Church. And it will have been done without a canvass. That is the best of it. But everything depends upon today. And everything depends upon you. And many are depending upon us. Saint Mark's is really loved by persons who are working in Alaska, and Porto Rico and Haiti and China and Japan and the Philippine Islands and Liberia. They know St. Mark's and love to visit us, and to think of us and pray for us. I know this because they tell me and write to me. For example, this from Alaska: "We are too busy to be home-sick, but we do get occasional pangs for Saint Mark's." It is the personal side that comes home so strongly and appeals just because there is no appeal. And in that same letter, "I often think of our little farewell service at the High Altar of Saint Mark's, and feel that that blessing is still with us." Well, it is memories like that which make us care. I shall never forget that morning either, when I blessed them after Mass. And of course that is the secret. If the Missions are personal, the little we can do to help is a pleasure. We won't forget these friends of ours scattered all up and down and across the world. God will reward them. But He expects us to support them.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT
1923

My Dear People:

The hours for Confessions on Christmas Eve will be, as on Saturdays, in the afternoon, from 4 to 5, and in the evening from 8 to 9. Appointment may be made for other times.

The Masses for Communion on Christmas Day will be at 7, 8, and 9. There will be a Procession, Solemn High Mass and Sermon at 11.

There will be the usual third Mass at 9.30 on Saint Stephen's, Saint John the Evangelist's and Holy Innocents Days.

All the offerings on Christmas Day will be devoted to the payment of premiums due, on behalf of the Clergy, on the Pension Fund. Our annual premium amounts to $875. It is hoped that the entire sum will be received from the Christmas offering this year, as in years past.

The Christmas fund for the children of the Chapels should be contributed to at once. The Fund is used for the trees and parties, to which the children look forward eagerly. One hundred and seventy-five dollars are needed for each Chapel.

My colleagues join me in wishing you and yours a Happy Christmas.

God bless you all.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS
1923

My Dear People:

There will be a day of continuous intercession before the Blessed Sacrament in the Lady Chapel on the first Friday in each month.

The day has been divided into half hour and quarter hour periods. The morning periods have already been assigned. Is there any one not already pledged who could take a period in the afternoon? Or would it be possible for any of those assigned to the morning to change their hour to the afternoon? This monthly day of intercession is the development of the annual Advent day of intercession. It is a cause for thankfulness that the simple, quiet prayer life of the parish is growing steadily. It is the background of personal prayer, day in and day out, which lends the note of reality to the splendor of the Festivals. The word lends is used advisedly. The note of reality will accompany the ceremonies of worship just so far and so long as there is a background of private and personal prayer life, in which we all have an unostentatious part. If that background is lacking, no amount of external beauty can produce or retain the note of serenity, stability and strength, simplicity and reality in public worship. I hope that every one of us will try to take some part in the monthly day of intercession.

The music today will be a repetition of the Christmas music, Gounod's Mass of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Anthem Nazareth by the same composer.

On Sunday next, January 6th, the Feast of the Epiphany, the same Mass will be sung by the choir.

On Sunday in the Octave of the Epiphany, January 13th, the music will be rendered by the Men's Choir of this Parish, and the Mass will be Gounod's 2nd Messe des Orpheonistes for Men's Voices, which they have done in the past few years at this season.

The Corporate Communion of St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made on January 3rd, at 7.45.

The Annual meeting will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, January 3rd, at 3. The speaker will be Miss Cheston. The subject will be Indian Work in South Dakota.

On Tuesday, the Feast of the Circumcision, there will be the usual third Mass at 9.30.

The Clergy thank you most sincerely for so very, very many and lovely Christmas cards. Your remembrance of us has given us great happiness. You have been so kind to us.

God give you all a happy New Year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Next Sunday the music will be rendered by the Men's Choir of this Parish, and the Mass will be Gounod's Second Messe des Orpheonistes for Men's Voices.

Here are some of the records copied from the Sacristy Book:

1. Masses	818
2. Private Communions	315
3. Offices	1381

I call your attention to the number of private Communions. These are the Communions made by persons who through sickness or infirmity are unable to be present in the church. The Blessed Sacrament is carried to them, from the Tabernacle, on week days. If you consider that there are 52 Sundays on which the Clergy do not go out, unless in response to cases of extreme sickness, you will note that 315 private Communions administered in homes, averages one for every day in the year. As I have written before, these early morning visits of Our Lord to our sick are the most important of our extra mural ministrations. Please remember that I depend upon immediate notification of cases of sickness.

If there are any persons who, having come to the Parish, have not made themselves known, I would remind them of the necessity of giving their names and addresses to any of the Clergy. This will ensure their being registered and called upon.

The Accounting Warden reports the following offerings:

For the Episcopal Hospital	$ 936.48
For D. D. & F. Missions (December 16th)	983.82
For Church Pension Fund (Christmas Day)	1,327.80

Tune, Morning Star

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving.
Triumphs in their breasts.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore:
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When to guide their footsteps,
Gleamed that Beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chaste bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address:
So, with meetest offerings
Him our God confess.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly King's array;
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Life alone;
Who unto the Gentiles
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be.

Amen.

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY
1924

My Dear People:

Those who desire to be Confirmed this year should give their names to the Clergy. The Confirmation Classes are being enrolled. The hours of instruction will be announced as soon as the enrollment has been made. This is the first notice.

The Mission Study Class will begin on January 18, and will meet at 11 on Friday mornings, in the Parish Building, under the direction of the Sister Helen, S. S. M.

I have been wondering whether it might be a convenience for those who live at a distance from the Church, if arrangements were to be made for a light breakfast to be served at cost in the Parish Building, on Sunday mornings, after the Masses for Communion. If this were done, it would make it possible for a person who came at 8 or 9 o'clock, to remain for the 11 o'clock service. I do not know that the plan can successfully be carried through. But before it is discussed, I must know how many there are who would be interested. If you will let me know of your feeling in the matter, it will be a help.

There will be a Retreat for Social Workers at St. Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street, Wednesday, January 16, beginning at 8 A. M. and ending at 5 P. M. Conductor, Rev. C. N. Lathrop, D. D. Those desiring to attend are asked to notify the Sister-in-Charge.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY

1924

My Dear People:

Those who desire to be Confirmed this year are asked to give their names to the Clergy. The Confirmation Classes are now being enrolled. The times for instruction will be announced as soon as the enrollment is completed. This is the second notice.

Today the first of the Missionary Offerings is being made. A letter containing necessary information has been mailed to every member of the Parish. I add this comment. We have been celebrating the Festivals of the Nativity and the Epiphany. We have offered the adoration of the faithful. Adoration must be followed by service. Our Lord is upon His Father's business. That business is to preach and teach and administer Sacraments to all people of all the nations. That business has been committed by Our Lord to Christians. It is the business of Christians to plant and support Missions. Think of Our Lord saying, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" We must be about Our Father's business too. This is the meaning of the Missionary statement that you have received. This is the motive for the Missionary offering that you are making.

Here are some verses sent to me by a man who remembers and loves Saint Mark's;

"And, far away, I like to think,
The old stones pray for me;
Lord, if he wanders, bring him back,
Dear Jesu and Marie!

Not all unlike, may living stones,
Carven with heavenly grace,
Set in a shrine not made with hands
And in a higher place,

Be always offering silent prayer
To God for mine and me;
Oh, keep them safe and bring them home,
Lord Jesu and Marie."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY
1924

My Dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation Instruction at 8 o'clock tonight will be, "God the Son." The instruction follows Compline. Those who would like to attend are welcome. The Bishop will make his visitation for Confirmation on Easter Even at 4 P. M. Those who desire to be confirmed should attend regularly the Sunday Evening Classes, or arrange with me for private instructions.

Some time ago I wrote to you about the Priests' Convention which is to be held in Philadelphia on April 29th and 30th. I asked for entertainment during the Convention for the delegates. The response was prompt and generous. I now ask if the Parish will take the second step toward completing our quota toward the entertainment of the Bishops and Clergy who have registered as delegates. The other parishes interested are making every effort to entertain as large a number as possible. As over 500 delegates are enrolled, it would seem that we at Saint Mark's should endeavor to provide for 200. Entertainment, either in private houses or hotels, will be needed for three nights and two days. A committee of ladies representing various parishes is working under the direction of Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt. I ask today that every member of the parish will do what is possible to give assistance, by entertaining one or more delegates, or making a money contribution which may be added to the hotel fund.

The opening service of the Convention will take place in Saint Mark's. At the same hour there will be a similar service at Saint Clements. By this duplication of services we hope to provide for the very large attendance which the registration forecasts. The meetings are to be held in Witherspoon Hall.

I have no hesitation in saying that this convention will be the most important event of years. It will be an object of keen interest both in America and in England. The choice of Philadelphia as the Convention City signifies a great trust, a serious responsibility and a high honor. It will be a notable and memorable chapter in the history of the Church in Philadelphia and of Saint Mark's Parish. It will be forever worth every sacrifice that we can make. And I call to you to do what lies within your power to uphold our standard at Saint Mark's, by making it possible for us to provide entertainment for as large a number of delegates as possible. You can do this, if you have not already responded, by communicating at once with Mrs. Cassatt, whose address is 1418 Spruce Street.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My dear People:

The Confirmation instruction will be given to-night, immediately after Compline, which is at 8 o'clock. The subject of the instruction will be "God the Holy Ghost." Persons who desire to be Confirmed should attend every instruction or, if unavoidably absent, arrangement for a private instruction should be made. Any person not intending to be Confirmed is welcome to attend whenever inclined to do so.

When you come to Church for private devotion, will you pray (1) for several members of the Parish who are ill; (2) for those who are to be Confirmed; (3) for those who are trying to decide about Confirmation; (4) for a blessing upon the coming Lent; (5) for all who come here for consolation and strength; (6) for the Clergy, that we, for the sake of those whom God would have us serve, may be given those things which for our unworthiness we dare not and blindness cannot ask; (7) that we may all, people and priests, serve God with dedicated wills.

The catalogue of the Parish Library, a small, black leather covered book, is on the table, at the west end of the nave. Books for Lent reading may be obtained from the Clergy, and books may be kept out through Lent. To read one book might well be a part of the Lent rule.

The Rector's office hours are from ten to twelve daily. It is well to arrange appointments through the office. The telephone number is Spruce 2715. In telephoning, ask for the Rector's office.

My dear People:

The subject at the Confirmation instruction tonight will be "The Holy Trinity." The instructions follow Compline, which is said at 8 o'clock. All are welcome, whether intending to be Confirmed or not.

Today, at this hour, a special service is taking place in Holy Trinity Church, commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rectorship of the Reverend Floyd W. Tomkins, Doctor of Sacred Theology. The Church in Philadelphia and the Church at large has good reason to thank God for the life and work of Doctor Tomkins. We, who are his neighbors, will pray for a special blessing for him and for his people today.

Next Sunday the list of Lent services and sermons will be issued. Will you pray for a blessing upon the Lent devotions and sermons?

I am discovering that this weekly leaflet goes farther afield than I suspect. This week there were three instances. One person wrote from a distant town in Pennsylvania that comfort in bereavement had been gained by reading the Gradual for a certain Sunday. Another person wrote from Chicago to say that the leaflet had been a help and asking for a copy to be mailed each week. Another wrote from Massachusetts asking for a copy each week. The mailing list is growing. I think that the leaflet has a mission. Well, it all goes to show that you never know how great a matter a little fire kindleth. The leaflet has not yet reached the casual person who regards it as a "program." But even he may make the quaint discovery that it is a telegram. You never can tell.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto me, eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto me; hear, and your soul shall live. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the fields shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree.

Ho! every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.

My dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction tonight will be "The Catholic Church." The instructions follow Compline at 8 o'clock and all who desire to attend are welcome.

The Woman's Auxiliary will make their Corporate Communion on Thursday, March 6, at 7.45.

The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday, March 6, at 3 o'clock. Archdeacon White will be the speaker. His subject will be "Work Among the Foreign Born."

The list of Lent services and sermons is ready for distribution today and copies will always be found on the table at the West end of the Nave and in the Porch. It would help very much if you would take one or more extra copies and mail them to your friends.

You will note an extra Mass at 9.30 on Tuesdays. This Mass is added in the hope that it may relieve the strain for those who make it a part of their rule to go to Mass every day in Lent, since two opportunities are given to assist at 9.30. And also it will give an opportunity to those who live out of town. A layman, not a member of this Parish, who lives in the country, told me that a Mass at that hour would really help people who must leave home for business so early that they cannot attend their own Parish Churches.

And speaking of laymen, a man could not make a better rule for Lent devotion than to resolve to go to Mass every day in Lent. I am writing this to men. It would be an excellent, sensible and profitable rule for you. It will develop you in devotion, in self-discipline and stability. You will be offering unostentatious devotion to Our Lord, Who commanded us to do this in remembrance of Him. You will be helped and blessed in every way. And it will serve to get you into the habit of going to Mass on week days, through the rest of the year, not every day, but when you know you need help and comfort. It will do you no end of good. I mean this for men. I mean it for you. Will you take it straight from me?

The sermons are listed together. You will note that Father Pottle is to preach on Wednesday at 5, on Prayer. I am preaching on Fridays at 5, on Conscience. Father Cornell is preaching on Fridays at 8, on The Mass: Its Order and Meaning.

I have planned the Lent devotions to make it possible for every one to go church. And we shall do everything in our power to give you a quiet, helpful Lent.

God bless you and bring you to a happy Easter.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction to-night will be "Baptism." The instruction follows Compline at 8 o'clock. All are welcome.

The public devotions of Lent are listed on the service cards. I want to say something about private devotions in Church. Every person should have a private devotion to be offered in Church as part of the Lent rule. Private devotions are necessary. One's religion is apt to be vague and conventional, if private devotion is not given great emphasis. And private devotion is endlessly helpful and happy. It is so wonderful to get away from persons and places and things, and to drop into Church, where you know that no one will speak to you, and to be sure that you may have a quarter or a half hour in solitude and silence and peace. It gives one the needed chance to get one's breath, and to stop to think, and pray and decide and resolve. We all need private devotion very, very much indeed. We need it ever so much more than we need sermons. Lent is not a time in which "chiefly to hear sermons." No season is for that matter. We all need the Sacraments first. Then we need private devotion to practically make use of what the Sacraments give us. Last week I advised you to go to Mass on week days. This week I advise you to come often and regularly to Church for private devotion. You can fit that in at any time. I shall never be satisfied until there are large numbers of people coming in all day long for private devotion. There is a fairly constant procession of people doing that now. But I want more people. One can't be urged to it. But one can be encouraged. And I am trying in this letter to encourage you.

Come and spend what time you can before the Blessed Sacrament. That means going to Head-Quarters. There you will find Our Lord Himself Tell Him your errand. Get your affairs arranged by Him, in direct intimate, confidential, personal interviews. Fight out your battles before the Blessed Sacrament. Get your help there. And your private devotion will mean so much to you that you will find yourself, more than ever, living the best parts of your life in the best possible place.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My dear People:

SECOND SUNDAY IN LENT, 1924

The final report of Contributions and Apportionments for 1923 has just been published, and the showing for St. Mark's is as follows:

Quota:

For the Budget for Maintenance	$17,056.12
For Forward Work and Priorities	10,103.31

$27,159.43

Payment:

For the Budget for Maintenance	$18,104.40
For Forward Work and Priorities	16,902.25

$35,006.65

St. Mark's therefore exceeded its Quota for Maintenance for 1923 by $1,048.28, and for Forward Work or Priorities by $6,798.94, thus going over the top of the entire Quota by $7,847.22.

In addition to this, $4,394.00 was contributed by St. Mark's to the Japanese Fund.

Today the second of the three special offerings for Missions for this year will be made.

I think we all agree, don't you, that in the matter of giving to Missions or anything else, it isn't having a lot of money that makes us give, or not having much that makes us decline to give. People do not give because they are rich, they give because they care. People do not refuse to give because they haven't sufficient money, but because they haven't sufficient motive. A motive is a power that moves us, and makes us do something. The Christian Religion teaches that the greatest of the three great powers (another name for virtues) is charity, and charity, when it is moving at high speed, will move a person a long way beyond laying down money. It will move a person to lay down their very life for a friend or for a cause they really care for. If Saint Mark's had exceeded its Quota last year, only because there was sufficient money, it would be a very poor parish. If any one were to think that was the reason they would be failing utterly to understand. A long way, a very long way, back of the money given, is the love of Christ constraining to offer self, soul, body and anything else and everything else one happens to have, including money, for sheer love of the Person who loved us and gave Himself for us. It is the fruit of Sacraments, the answer to prayers, and the secret of giving.

The subject of the Confirmation instruction to-night will be "Confirmation." The instructions follow Compline at 8 o'clock, and all who desire to attend are welcome.

This week I shall be preaching at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, every day at 12.10. I shall keep my afternoon engagements every day except Wednesday.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction tonight will be "The Sacrament of Penance." The instructions follow Compline at 8 o'clock and all who desire to attend are welcome.

Tuesday will be the Feast of the Annunciation. There will be the usual third Mass at 9.30.

There will be a retreat for women at Saint Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine street, on Saturday, March 29th, beginning at 8 A. M. and ending at 5 P. M. I expect to conduct the retreat. Those desiring to attend are asked to notify the Sister-in-Charge.

I am expecting soon an assignment of tickets for the Priests' Convention to be held April 29-30. When the tickets arrive, due notice will be given. The number of tickets assigned to us will of necessity be limited. Tickets will be distributed in order of application and will be numbered. Holders will register and will pay a registration fee of one dollar. A ticket will admit to the opening service at Saint Mark's, up to a certain number, after that tickets will admit to Saint Clement's. Both services will be at 11 o'clock on the 29th of April. The same ticket will admit to the meetings at Witherspoon Hall.

Bishop Garland will welcome the Convention in Witherspoon Hall at the opening session. The Presiding Bishop is to be present at the Convention. And Bishop Gailor is to be present at the closing meeting, the evening of the 30th.

Very nearly 600 priests have registered. The Convention bids fair to exceed, in numbers and interest, anything we dared to hope for. Please pray that it may be for the glory of God, the good of the Church, and the edification of the Faithful.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction to-night will be "Holy Communion." The instructions follow Compline at 8 o'clock and all who desire to attend are welcome.

The preacher this morning is the Reverend Liston J. Orum, O. H. C. Father Orum is the Prior of Saint Andrew's, Tennessee. This parish has been interested in Saint Andrew's School ever since its foundation. Pamphlets containing information concerning the development of the School, may be obtained in the Porch.

Father Orum will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, April 3, at 3 P. M.

The Corporate Communion of the Auxiliary will be made on Thursday, April 3, at 7.45 A. M.

Applications for tickets for the Priests' Convention should be sent at once to the Reverend S. Atmore Caine, St. Timothy's Rectory, Roxborough, Pa.

I have been thinking lately about your prayer life as a Parish. I think that you are accomplishing more than you know. The numbers who are coming to Mass every day and the numbers who are making frequent Communions are doing a great work for others as well as for themselves. The numbers who come to pray at mid-day, and all the uncounted persons who come to pray privately during the day are filling the Church with that prayer-power, of which incense is the symbol. Every time you go to Mass or make a Communion, or make a meditation or say a prayer, you leave in the Church an influence which helps those who come after you. And you help to create the atmosphere of belief which makes it possible for Our Lord to do mighty works. It is not always easy for you to come out for an early Mass or convenient to visit the Church for devotion. I understand that. And because I appreciate your sacrifices, I want to remind you that you are doing a lot of good. You are helping more people than you will ever know. When you offer your devotions, will you keep a perpetual intention "for all for whom we pray as a Parish."

And it is just possible that some one will read this who has not realized what they could do for others by coming to Mass and Intercessions or private devotions. And perhaps, and I think very likely, that others will want to add their contribution to the prayers.

And those who read this message in other places may want to join their prayers. And perhaps they will write me of people for whom they would like us to pray. And so we will all be saying our prayers together. Think of all we can do together. It is thrilling.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Johann Sebastian Bach

Evensong, 5 P. M.

My Dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction to-night will be "Prayer." The instruction follows Compline at 8 o'clock. All who desire to attend are welcome.

This afternoon the Bach Passion Music will be sung at 4 o'clock. The Passion Music will be continued next Sunday at the same hour.

Evensong will be said to-day and next Sunday immediately after the Passion Music.

Vespers of the Blessed Sacrament will be sung immediately after Evensong.

Next Sunday there will be the usual blessing and distribution of palms, Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass at 11.

Registration for tickets for the Priests' Convention should be made by sending name, address and one dollar to the Reverend S. Atmore Caine, Saint Timothy's Rectory, Roxborough. This should be done without delay. The demand for tickets is large and applicants are registered in order.

Last Sunday I wrote you of the good work you are doing in your prayer life. This week I want to write you a word or two about "intentions." By "intentions" I mean offering to God, on behalf of persons, certain Masses or Communions or certain Offices (Matins or Evensong, or both), or visits to the Sacrament, or good works. This means that one asks for the persons remembered, the fruits of the act of devotion offered. It is a wonderful way of helping people. And it saves one from self-centered devotions. Or one may offer all the acts of devotion and good works of the entire day for a person, living or departed. The whole week can be given to others. A person or a group of persons can be assigned for each day of the week. On the assigned day one lives and prays for that one person or group. This method of devotion not only takes one out of one's self, but it makes an actual, living, working, practical affair of the Communion of Saints. It gives one a Kalendar of devotion, which will call for the best that we have and the best that we are. "For their sakes, I sanctify myself." Devotions are bound to be real and thorough when they are selfless. I manage mine that way. Very likely you do. But if you don't, try it. Make your Kalendar of days for your list of persons. And offer your intentions. You will gain more than you know for those you love.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

PALM SUNDAY
1924

My Dear People:

The subject of the Confirmation instruction to-night will be "Perseverence". The instruction follows Compline at 8. All who desire to attend are welcome.

The Passion according to Saint Matthew will be sung this afternoon at four o'clock.

Evensong will be said to-day at five o'clock.

There will be a third Mass, at nine-thirty on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday this week.

Please note that on Maundy Thursday, instead of the usual Low Mass at nine-thirty, there will be a solemn High Mass and Sermon at ten-thirty.

The stated hours for Confession are two o'clock to four o'clock and seven-thirty to nine-thirty on Easter Even. And at other times by appointment.

The Bishop will administer Confirmation on Easter Even at four o'clock.

The Masses for Communion on Easter Day will be at seven, eight and nine o'clock.

If there are any sick persons whose names have not been sent to me, it is very necessary that I should be notified, in order that I may carry the Blessed Sacrament to them in Easter Week.

I hope that all members of the Parish will be able to receive Holy Communion in the Parish Church on Easter Day. There may be cases where it is necessary or advisable for persons living at a great distance from Saint Mark's to receive at the Church nearest to them. In this event it will enable me to report accurately the number of Easter Communions, if those who receive elsewhere will be so good as to send me a memorandum of their Communion. Your Communions are my one care and interest at Eastertide. I cannot be at peace unless and until I know that every member of my parochial family has been fed. I hope that each and every person for whose spiritual welfare I am responsible, will understand that I cannot be happy without them. I must know where you all are and how you all are. I feel about you as you feel about members of your own family. I want you to have a holy Easter. Then you will be happy and so will I.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

mutual confidence in each other. We are all giving the best that we have and doing the best that we can, with serenity, stability and strength.

My Dear People:

A happy Easter to you. When you read this, you will have received your Easter Communion. You will have been freshly energized by the life of Our Lord. Our Lord is dwelling in you now, in your bodies and souls, to preserve you unto everlasting life. You have everlasting life as your Easter Gift. Our Lord in you is to refine your bodies, as fire refines silver. This is the present and immediate effect of your gift. The fire of Our Lord's life consumes what there is in you of sin. It is to burn away every substance foreign to Him. This is the Way of Purgation.

The fire of Our Lord's life in you gives you the interior light to lighten darkness and to reveal truth to you. "In Him was life and the life was the light of man. That was the true light that lighteneth every man that cometh into the world." The life of Our Lord in you will show to you what is hidden from the world. This is the Way of Illumination.

Our Lord's life in you makes you one with Him. It gives you His Mind and Will and Heart. It makes you so onely with Him, that you may cry "Christ liveth in me." He dwells in you and you in Him. This is the Way of Union.

This life in you, is fulfilling, you see, your Baptismal vows of renunciation, faith and obedience. This is what is being accomplished in you now. The business on hand is to destroy the first enemy which is sin. This is all that we are concerned with at present. When this probationary period of our life is over, then you will find that the life of Our Lord has destroyed the last enemy which is death. You will find to your delightful amazement, that you just go on living. Always living. Living with God. Living with Angels. Living with Saints. Living with those whom you have loved in Our Lord and who have loved you in Him. By virtue of Our Lord's life in you, you are doing this now. You will go on doing it. Nothing will end. But an eternity of ever so much more will begin. It is all so astounding that it leaves us with only enough, but just enough, breath to join the chorus of earth and Heaven in the Easter Alleluia.

Our Lord has given us much work to do, in the meanwhile. And it is here in St. Mark's that we are to do it. You have received the letter which has told you what we must do this year. The offering to-day is for our work:

1. FOR MISSIONARY PURPOSES
2. FOR PAROCHIAL PURPOSES

(a) As to the Missionary offering. Our first duty is to give $15,000 for the undesignated offering. Our second, to add, by designated offerings, as suggested by the list given in the letter, the amount necessary to bring our total offering up to $28,550.

(b) As to Parochial Purposes. This year we must repair the clerestory windows. They are unsafe. They are not weather proof. They do not make properly regulated ventilation possible. Life, health and protection of property necessitate repairs. The walls require attention. The stone is disintegrating. The result is disfigurement and the constant falling of fine particles of stone is a source of discomfort and annoyance.

The estimated cost of these two items of repair is $5,000.

The offering to-day is for the objects I have named. I have no anxiety as to the result. God has given us untroubled trust in Him and understanding,

Now is Christ risen from the dead: and become the firstfruits of them that slept.

Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ.

O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?

The sting of death is sin and the strength of sin is the law.

My Dear People:

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EASTER
1924

The following Collect is suggested for use before and during the Priests' Convention:

O God, forasmuch as without Thee we are not able to please Thee; Mercifully grant that Thy Holy Spirit may so guide the minds and wills of (us) the members of the Priests' Convention, that Catholic faith and practice may be more humbly and widely received and followed: through the merits of our Only Redeemer, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

The Convention Mass will be sung in Saint Mark's on Tuesday, the 29th, at 11 o'clock, daylight saving time.

The procession will leave Holy Trinity Parish House at 10.40.

Holders of Convention Membership Cards will find seats reserved for them, in Saint Mark's or Saint Clement's, as designated on the cards.

To those who have not secured cards, I can only offer my assurance of regret. The Convention has assumed proportions far beyond the best expectations of the most sanguine of us. As it is, there is probably no church in Philadelphia that could accommodate those who desire to come.

Be sure to bring your card. It must be presented to the ushers.

The same card will assure you of a seat in Witherspoon Hall.

Saint Mark's Day has been transferred to Monday, the 28th, tomorrow. There will be the usual Low Masses at 7, 7.45, 9.30 (with hymns)

On the Sunday in the Octave, next Sunday, May 4th, there will be a Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass at 11 (daylight saving) The Men's Choir will sing Robert Volkmann's Second Mass for male voices, scored for five parts, three tenors and two basses. This means a notable rendition of famous Mass music. I suggest that seat holders plan to arrive early.

I call your attention to the notice cards in the Porch, announcing that the entrance aisles will be closed until after the procession, and that seats will be reserved for holders until after the Introit. The limits of the seating capacity require these rules. I count on your co-operation with our ushers in the matter.

The Woman's Auxiliary will make their Corporate Communion on Thursday, May 1, at the 7.45 Mass. The regular monthly meeting will be held in the Parish Building, Thursday afternoon, May 1, at 3 P.M. There will be no address.

On Friday, May 2nd, from 2 to 6 P. M., the Guild of the Holy Spirit will have a Sale of Useful and Fancy Articles for the benefit of Japan, at Saint Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street.

The Bishop will be installed on May 1st. Special intentions for him will be offered at the Masses here, and you would do well to make a Communion with intentions for him on that day.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

My Dear People:

1924

Thank you for so many kind Easter remembrances for us at the Clergy House. Our only and best return is our continual daily remembrances of you at the Altar.

Thank you for your generous hospitality to the delegates to the Convention. Indeed the standard set by Philadelphia has already inspired the Chicago leaders for their work of preparation for the next Priests' Convention to be held there a year from now. As the Cross is passed from hand to hand across the Continent, it will be good to remember that Philadelphia once again has been the cradle of a great movement.

The papers read at the Convention will be published in the June number of the American Church Monthly, which may be obtained at Mr. Jacobs', 1518 Chestnut Street, for fifty cents a copy.

To-day we celebrate our Patronal Festival.

First, we give thanks for the blessings beyond our power to number which God has showered upon us this year.

Second, we offer our selves, our prayers, our offerings and our work, and all that we have for the year to come.

Third, we pray for grace, guidance and protection.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER

My Dear People:

1924

If you would like to have copies of the American Church Monthly for June, will you leave your order at Mr. George W. Jacobs', Chestnut above 16th Street. The June number will contain all the papers read at the Priests' Convention, and will be useful for reference.

The books in the Parish Library are at your service for the summer. If there are books that you would like to take away with you and keep until you return home in the autumn, please ask for what you want. The catalogue is on the table at the end of the main aisle. Any of the Clergy will get the books for you.

Through the summer we must keep up our prayer rule as well as we can. We shall be scattered far and wide, but our prayers will keep us together. We can pray for the Parish at Mass wherever we are. We can say the mid-day intercessions, or at least an Our Father with intention. Your priests will keep the Masses and offices and intercessions uninterruptedly throughout the summer. So together we shall maintain the prayer life which is the pulse of the Parish.

It has been a good year. Everything that I have planned for us to do has been done.

The summer work at the Chapels is the next thing to prepare for. Before you leave for your own holiday, will you send your contribution to the fund which will provide outings for the children and their Mothers at Saint Michael's and Saint Mary's?

I am receiving many letters conveying thanks for your generous hospitality to the Clergy who came to the Convention. Your praises are being widely sung. And, quite entre nous, you deserve every word.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Will you remember these boys, by name, in your prayers at Mass to-day?

The Churchwomen's Club of the Diocese of Pennsylvania was started on the initiative of the Educational Department of the Diocese in October, 1919, by a small group of women, who felt there should be more fellowship and social intercourse along Church lines amongst the women of the diocese.

Bishop Rhinelander gave the organization his hearty approval and encouragement.

The membership has grown steadily, until it now numbers about 550 members.

All women of the Diocese are invited to become members.

When you make your visits to the Blessed Sacrament this week, will you pray for several sick persons, and for Catherine (not a member of this Parish) for complete recovery after an operation; for all absent members of the Parish; for all who are on journeys; for a person being prepared for Baptism: for a blessing on the Sunday evening instructions?

ROGATION SUNDAY

My Dear People:

1924

On Ascension Day, the Masses will be as usual, at 7, 7.45, 9.30 (with hymns).

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are Rogation Days.

On the Sunday after Ascension Day, next Sunday, there will be a Procession before High Mass.

You have received the annual reminder of the Summer Fund for the Chapels. Any contribution made will be used to provide an outing for some child or weary mother, to whom a day's escape from town in hot weather will be a God-send.

Mr. George W. Jacobs, 1628 Chestnut Street, has most thoughtfully procured a large and attractive collection of books suitable for religious reading, chosen especially for our use. I think we ought to show our appreciation of his courtesy by going to look over the books and by making a purchase for summer study. It will be well to take at least one book for spiritual reading in the summer months. We are fortunate in having so excellent a book store for Church people in Philadelphia.

When you are attending Churches in the country or summer Chapels by the sea, you will be in the way of helping the Rectors and Priests in charge by (1) receiving Holy Communion at early masses only: (2) by making yourselves known to the Clergy: (3) and by giving them every possible encouragement. It takes a first class all around priest to do work in such parishes and Chapels. And you will find plenty of them. Esteem them highly for their work's sake. Many of them will be heard from later on. And the influence of trained Church people will help enormously in the sometimes discouraging work which they carry on in the winter, when you are returned to your own accustomed privileges.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

SUNDAY AFTER THE ASCENSION

1924

My Dear People:

It is impossible to give too much emphasis to the significance of the fact of Our Lord's Ascension into Heaven. The Proper Preface addresses our thanks "Through Thy most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ our Lord; Who after His most glorious Resurrection, manifestly appeared to all His Apostles, and in their sight ascended up into heaven, to prepare a place for us; that where He is, thither we might also ascend, and reign with Him in glory." The Ascension Day Collect prays "that we may also in heart and mind thither ascend and with Him continually dwell." The Collect for to-day addresses our prayer to "God, the King of Glory, who hast exalted thine only Son Jesus Christ with great triumph unto thy Kingdom in heaven." We have adored Our Lord in the Manger and on the Cross. We have adored Him, through the Great Forty Days, risen from the dead. We adore Him to-day enthroned in heaven. And we have Him with us in the Most Holy Sacrament of the Altar. It is always the same Jesus, in the Manger, on the Cross, on the Heavenly Throne, on the Altar. He is our Great High Priest who ever liveth to make intercession for us. We wait to-day expecting the sending of the Holy Ghost "to comfort us and exalt us to the same place whither our Saviour Christ is gone before." So it is that this day blends joy and adoration and expectation. We are at the climax of the Christian Year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

WHITSUNDAY
1924

Dear People:

To-day is the Feast of Pentecost. We shall be keeping the Festival for the next six days. Perhaps you can make use of some suggestions:

1. Say the Collect for Whitsunday in your morning and night prayers each day.
2. Read the Epistle and Gospel each day.
3. Read your Baptism Vows once during the week.
4. Recall the memories of your Confirmation.
5. Pray for the increase of the Gifts of Wisdom, Knowledge, Counsel, Understanding, Ghostly Strength, True Godliness, Holy Fear.
6. Pray for the increase of the Fruits of the Spirit: Love, Joy, Peace, Long-Suffering, Gentleness, Meekness, Faith, Temperance.
7. Make an additional Communion during the week.

If you do all of this or if you do what you can of it, you may expect some special blessing of the Holy Ghost.

My Dear People:

TRINITY SUNDAY, 1924

Today the Church sets before us the Mystery of the Blessed Trinity. The Creed of Saint Athanasius teaches us that

"The Catholic Faith is this: that we worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in Unity:

Neither confounding the Persons, nor dividing the Substance.

For there is one Person of the Father, another of the Son, and another of the Holy Ghost.

But the Godhead of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost is all one, the Glory equal, the Majesty co-eternal.

Such as the Father is, such is the Son, and such is the Holy Ghost.

The Father uncreate, the Son uncreate, and the Holy Ghost uncreate.

The Father incomprehensible, the Son incomprehensible, and the Holy Ghost incomprehensible.

The Father eternal, the Son eternal, and the Holy Ghost eternal.

And yet they are not three eternals, but one eternal.

As also there are not three incomprehensibles, nor three uncreated, but one uncreated and one incomprehensible.

So likewise the Father is Almighty, the Son Almighty, and the Holy Ghost Almighty.

And yet there are not three Almightyies, but one Almighty.

So the Father is God, the Son is God, and the Holy Ghost is God.

And yet there are not three Gods, but one God.

So likewise the Father is Lord, the Son Lord, and the Holy Ghost, Lord.

And yet not three Lords: but one Lord.

For like as we are compelled by the Christian verity to acknowledge every Person by Himself to be God and Lord:

So we are forbidden by the Catholic Religion to say there be three Gods or three Lords.

The Father is made of none; neither created nor begotten.

The Son is of the Father alone; not made, nor created, but begotten.

The Holy Ghost is of the Father and of the Son: neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding.

So there is one Father, not three Fathers; one Son, not three Sons; one Holy Ghost, not three Holy Ghosts.

And in this Trinity none is afore, or after other, none is greater, or less than another:

But the whole three Persons are co-eternal together, and co-equal.

So that in all things as is aforesaid: the Unity in Trinity, and the Trinity Unity is to be worshipped.

He therefore that will be saved, must thus think of the Trinity."

The offering at High Mass today is for the Altar Society of the Parish.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The intention of the Feast of Corpus Christi is thanksgiving for the spiritual food of the most precious Body and Blood of our Lord; for His favor and goodness towards us; for membership in His Mystical Body, and for inheritance, through hope, of His everlasting Kingdom, by the merits of His most precious death and passion.

It is right to have a definitely appointed time each year to thank God for our spiritual food. The State appoints a day of thanksgiving for the fruits of the earth. The Church has a day of thanksgiving for the fruits of the Passion.

You and I will never know all that our Communion have done for us. But we do know that they have been our medicine in sickness, our health and joy and rest. We know that our life in soul and body depends upon them.

The best return we can make, is to use this gift of life, and to use it regularly and frequently. By using it regularly, I mean that we must use it by rule. One must have a rigidly fixed time for receiving Holy Communion. At the very least, once every month. Once or more during the week should be gratefully grasped opportunity. And daily should be the desired goal. "Give us this day our daily bread." When you say this petition in the Lord's Prayer, say it with special intention for the gift of Holy Communion to you, and for the increase of daily Communion. Is there danger in frequent Communion? There is more danger in infrequent Communion. What danger can there be in making Communion with God? It is the only time in which we are really safe. Of course we must prepare. But that is just the very element of safety. It keeps us safe because it keeps us prepared.

And of course Communion cannot be suddenly increased. The growth must be from within out. Make devout preparation and regularity the first point about the Communion you are making now.

Then increase them slowly and steadily, all the while guarding against attempting more than you can accomplish with unfailing regularity.

Consult your spiritual advisor before you increase the number.

We shall have kept our festival of thanksgiving with good result, if we have been led into more frequent and intimate Communion.

I would be grateful for contributions, and they need not necessarily be large, toward the day's outing which I would like to give to the Choir Boys, as our recognition of their faithful service.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1924

Dear People:

During July and August the Parish Sung Mass will be at 10 o'clock at Saint Michael's Chapel, 19th and Lombard Streets. I shall preach at this Mass during July.

The Sunday Low Masses will be here, in Saint Mark's, at the usual hours, 8 and 9.

The Daily Masses will be here, in St. Mark's, at 7. There will be one Mass only each day, excepting on Holy Days and Thursdays, when there will be the usual Second Mass at 9.30.

Matins at 9, Intercessions at 12.30, Evensong at 5, will be said every day, here in St. Mark's.

On Sundays, Matins will be said after the 8 o'clock Mass. Evensong will be said at 8 instead of Compline.

Confessions will be heard as usual on Saturdays from 4 to 5 and from 8 to 9.

I shall be in town until the last few days of July, and you will find me on duty at all times. The Clergy House telephone is Spruce 2715.

Father Cornell will be on duty in August. Father Cornell and Father Little will both be on duty in September.

If there is anything about this that is not clear, do not hesitate to inquire.

One thing I want to make clear. Our prayer life never ceases. Mass, Office, Intercessions, the Sacraments go on as usual. We shall have necessary repairs to the fabric to make and unavoidable inconvenience from scaffoldings, but you will always find an open door, an Altar in use and a Priest on duty.

Thank you very much for your prompt and generous response to the appeal for the Choir boys' outing.

God give you all a refreshing and happy summer and a safe return home.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Welcome home! I hope that you have enjoyed your summer. It is good to see you again.

Last week Saint Michael's kept its Festival gloriously. Father Anderson, O. H. C., preached at High Mass. And I preached at Solemn Evensong. We both were greatly impressed with the splendid work that Father Williamson is doing. The congregations were large. The devotion and the joy of the best days of Saint Michael's, everything that made me love it, years ago, when I came to preach a Mission, all of it was there. Father Williamson is to be felicitated upon his well earned success.

The Men's Choir held its first meeting last week. It was largely attended. No time was lost in getting down to the year's work. The Mass in the Sunday of the Octave of All Saints will be sung by the Men's Choir. Those of us who were at the Priests' Convention Mass will never forget the Men's rendition of the Plain Chant. The Men's Choir is our Men's Club. It is the kind of Men's Club that is really worth while. Its one and only object is the glory of God. The social element in its meetings is delightful. I advise every man in the parish to become an active member. If a man can't sing, he may become a sustaining member. But active or sustaining, I do wish every man in the parish would join it.

The nine o'clock Mass will be sung by children of the Sunday School. Seventy-five children are being trained for this Mass. Communions are expected.

Sunday School meets at half-past two in the Parish House. There will be no Compline this year. Evensong at four seems to be the best arrangement. Do you come to Evensong? If you were in London and had an Evensong like ours, you would tell me about it when you came home. I want the good old custom of going to Evensong restored. Why not?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Last week you received the Vestry Committee's Statement of our immediate needs for a special offering to meet the expense for certain necessary repairs upon the fabric of the church. We do not often have so many repairs at once. And we do not appeal for our own needs as often as we do for the needs of others. We are not, I think, a self-indulgent parish. I hope that you will, for this reason, make a prompt and sufficient response. Will you make it possible for me to announce next week that the amount asked for by the Vestry has been subscribed?

The Red Cross ask us to enroll as members to-day. Mrs. Cassatt is Chairman. That is sufficient to add a personal motive for a generous enrollment throughout the Parish. We owe it to Mrs. Cassatt to place her own Parish well in the lead. Enrollment Cards will be distributed at the doors. Do enroll yourself, and take at least one extra card to give to a friend.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

If the owners and tenants of pews and sittings will notify Miss Little, the Parochial Secretary, from time to time, of any sittings that may be available for the ushers at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday mornings, it will be a great help in enabling us to take care of the many visitors and friends who come to St. Mark's.

Tuesday will be the Feast of Saint Simon and Saint Jude. There will be hymns at the 9.30 Mass.

Saturday will be All Saints' Day. There will be hymns at the 9.30 Mass.

Next Sunday there will be Solemn Procession and Solemn High Mass. The music will be sung by the Men's Choir.

On Monday, there will be Requiems at 7 and 7.45. At 10.30 there will be Solemn High Requiem Mass and Sermon.

Please send in, not later than Thursday, the names of those whom you desire to be remembered.

Vespers of the Dead will be said immediately after Evensong on Sunday and immediately after Evensong on Monday.

The annual meeting of the Guild of All Souls will be held on Monday, immediately after High Mass, in the Parish Parlor.

Would you like to become a member of the Guild of All Souls? If you would, will you let me know?

THE TWENTIETH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1924
IN THE OCTAVE OF ALL SAINTS

My Dear People:

The sorrows of bereavement can only be soothed by the wholesome medicine of the Christian doctrine of the Communion of Saints. The Communion of Saints is one of the Articles of the Creed. It must be taken with the rest of the Creed. It cannot be taken as a detached fragment. Each Holy Day in the Christian Kalendar is only one of the days of the Christian year. It cannot be detached from the other days. It is a part of an ordered cycle. Each devotional practise of the Christian Religion is a part of a complete system of devotion. No one devotional practise will be intelligible if it is detached from the whole of which it is a part.

There is nothing so futile as a fragmentary religion. Supposing a person were to reply, "Yes, that is reasonable. But I came to church today and I would really like to come tomorrow, because I need help. What can I do?" If that is the way you feel, you can do everything. Would you mind if I outlined a plan for you? Here it is:

1. Make a mental picture of Our Lord, stretching out His arms, and saying to you, "Come unto Me and I will give you rest." Think of Him as speaking to you from the Cross. Think of Him as reigning from the Cross, as the Lord of Life. Think of Him as our great High Priest, who ever liveth to make intercession for us. You may refresh your memory by looking at precisely that picture over the doors of this Church.

2. Answer this invitation by coming to Mass. At Mass, Our Lord offers the merits of His Cross and Passion for the sins of the whole world. If you will come, you may ask Him to offer it for any one who may be particularly in your mind and heart. You will recall the words of the hymn

"For those, our dearest and our best
By this prevailing Presence, we appeal,
O, fold them closer to Thy mercies breast:
O, do Thine utmost for their souls' true weal."

3. Pray at other times for the soul who is so dear to you. Every time you think of them, say "May he, may she, rest in peace."

4. When you have an opportunity to give an alms or to perform a good deed, offer it to God for the person for whom you are praying.

5. When you have a temptation, resist it for their sake. Offer it up for them. Sanctify yourself for their sakes. When you have an attack of sadness offer that up for them.

6. If you do this and keep on doing it, you will be offering the sacrifice of your life, in union with Our Lord's perfect and sufficient sacrifice, for the spiritual advancement of the soul you love. You will be laying down your life for your friend.

But what about your own longings? Yes, I know. But we mustn't think about ourselves. It really doesn't matter about us. Any way, Our Lord explained that. He said that if would lose our life for His sake, that we should find it.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

There will be a Retreat at St. Margaret's Mission House, 1831 Pine Street, on Saturday, November 15th. Conductor, Rev. William McClen-then, D. D. Also on Tuesday, November 18. Conductor, Rt. Rev. Paul Matthews, D. D.

Both Retreats will begin at 8 A. M. and end at 5 P. M. Any women desiring to attend is asked to notify the Sister-in-charge.

My Dear People:

I call the attention of the women of the Parish to the notices of the Retreats at St. Margaret's. Any woman desiring to attend is asked to notify the Sister-in-Charge. I hope that there may be many or least some in these Retreats who will be making their first Retreat. I hope that the number of Retreatants will increase each year until it will become necessary for the Sisters to either add to the number of Retreats or to have them in the Church. A Retreat is really a necessity for the spiritual life. Every one needs to get away from the pressure of affairs and with contact from persons occasionally. Every one needs to relieve the strain of life by going apart into a place where one can be really alone to rest. Every one needs to stop now and then to catch one's breath. Every one needs to take stock of one's life. To re-arrange one's interests and to put back into the first places the things that really matter. And to put last things last. And to put away and out altogether the things that have only fictitious value and do not matter at all. And to uproot and burn what would work havoc if it were allowed to remain. A Retreat gives one a chance to regain the sense of proportion and a right perspective. There is always a solution of every problem and a way out of every difficulty if one only takes time to stop and be still and think. One does not have to be a saint to make a Retreat. Saints need Retreats less than any one else. For they perpetually possess the secrets of the art of living. They are always in interior retreat. But there are not many like that. The rank and file of us, who live the ordinary life in the world under pressure and strain of fightings without and fears within, we are the ones who need relief and rest, not for our own sakes primarily, but for the better doing of what God is trusting us to do for Him, and for those whom He would have us serve. There is nothing about a Retreat that demands a strain. One does not attempt what is beyond one's capacity in concentration and unsuitable acts of devotion. All that is needed is to be natural and simple, to be humble enough to just be one's unaffected self. The silence is soothing. The aloofness is bracing. The quiet is refreshing. And in the silence and aloofness and quiet one gets consciously near to God. And that results in getting cleansed and healed and whole. We all need that, don't we? I mean to have an Annual Retreat, in the Church, for men, sometime. Men need Retreats. They need them very much. I ask the men of the Parish to read this letter very carefully and to think about it. Just as soon as there is a group of men who want a Retreat I will provide one. A friend of mine, in New York, has had sixty men in Retreat, in his parish. How many of you men would like an Annual Men's Retreat? Let me know how you feel about it. Will you?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Notices

A meeting of the St. Mark's Altar Society will be held on Thursday, November 20, immediately after the 9.30 Mass.

There will be a Retreat for Women, at St. Margaret's House, 1831
Pine Street, Tuesday, November 18. The Conductor will be the Right Reverend Paul Matthews, D. D. Any woman desiring to attend is asked to notify the Sister-in-Charge.

The Sewing Committee will meet every Thursday, from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. It is hoped that every woman will either attend or take a garment home to make, or give by contribution. Luncheon will be served every Thursday.

My Dear People:

Last week I wrote that I hoped that some of you would feel moved to make a Retreat of at least one day each year. But I know very well that a person cannot be over urged to make a Retreat or indeed any other Spiritual Exercise. A conscious sense of strain always results in a negative reaction. I never want you to feel under a strain, either as individuals or as a Parish. And when you make a Spiritual Exercise, I want you to do it with an intention all your own. It is when one recognizes that a Retreat is an escape from monotonous pressure, that one goes in gratefully and gladly. I think that before one can see the use of, and feel the need of Retreats, that one must have grown accustomed to having a Rule of Life. That is the starting point, I am sure. In secular affairs almost everyone is forced into having a rule of life. Sometimes the ordinary enforced rule of life becomes burdensome. And yet no one is more bored than the person who has nothing to do but kill time. And this is even more true with Spiritual affairs. A rule for the Spiritual life is not only stimulating, it is necessary. I think that the lack of a rule is the frequent cause for finding religion uninteresting and cold and formal.

If a person were to ask: "How should I begin to make a rule?" I would suggest that you write down your present rule. For you have one.

1. You have a rule for receiving Holy Communion.
2. You have a rule for attendance at church.
3. You have a rule about saying your morning and night prayers.
4. You have a rule for keeping Lent.
5. You have a rule for days of abstinence.
6. You have a rule for almsgiving.

As you read your rule over, what do you think of it? Are you doing all that you can? Are you fairly careful about keeping it? Do you think you ought to add to it? What could you add? A weekday Mass, perhaps? Choose a day and put it in your Rule. A meditation once a week, or twice or three times or daily for five or ten or fifteen minutes or half an hour? Put it in your Rule. A visit to the Blessed Sacrament, on a week day? Put it in your Rule. You will probably have to do a lot of experimenting, so your Rule must be elastic. You will have to reckon on your time and secular occupation and physical strength. So your Rule must be intelligent. You will have to consider family obligations. So your Rule must be charitable. You will have to reckon on interruptions. So your Rule must be selfless. But whatever your Rule is, you will discover or you have discovered that it is a help and not a burden: that as you grow, your Rule will grow.

Sometimes, if you think of it, will you say a prayer for me, that I may keep my own Rule better?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

In the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men shall bow themselves, and the grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out of the windows be darkened,

And the doors shall be shut in the streets, when the sound of the grinding is low, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of music shall be brought low.

Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit return to God who gave it.

The Sunday next before Advent

Notices

Thursday will be Thanksgiving Day. The services will be as usual. There will be hymns at the 9.30 Mass. All the offerings will be for the Episcopal Hospital.

My Dear People:

Last Sunday I wrote to you some suggestions as to a rule of life. The Collect for today teaches us the secret of keeping the rule. The whole matter lies with the will. One may be convinced in one's mind that a rule of life is necessary. One may be moved by one's feelings to make a rule. But the keeping of the rule depends upon the will. Stability is a virtue of the will. The surrendered will is the service which is freedom. When the will is once and for all surrendered to God, the imagination cannot deceive, nor can the emotions lead to folly. A surrendered will makes us proof against the mists of the imagination and the Storms of the Emotions. Temptations against keeping a rule follow hard after making it. Endless questionings arise. "What is the use of my rule? Is it a wise rule? Can I Keep it? Won't I get on just as well without it?". Endless reactions follow. "I do not feel like keeping my rule. I do not feel that it helps me. I do not feel that I am getting any thing out of it". Under such temptations, no end of excuses suggest themselves. There seem to be good reasons for neglecting one's prayers. There seem to be valid hindrances from receiving Holy Communion on the regular days. There seem to be good excuses for not going to Church on days of obligation. And all the while, the only thing that is really the matter is that the will needs stirring up. Unless our wills are ruling our affairs, we cannot escape being temperamental. There is no more needless nuisance than a temperamental person. Religion is the very last thing in the world to be temperamental about.

In order to extract the virtue, the power, from a rule, one must accustom one's self to keeping it. When one does not want to keep it. Then the rule becomes Sacrificial. When it is Sacrificial, it is really worth offering to God. And it will develop in one the Elements of Stability and Strength. Just because it gets one free from the tyranny of temperament, it developes Serenity. It makes is possible to over ride storms. Nothing can disturb or divert or confuse one, when the will is firmly set. One just goes ahead, that is all.

So we must all pray today for special grace for our wills. We must pray to be Stablished, Strengthened and Settled. Because we are a community of people who have bound ourselves together to live the Christian life in the world, we offer to God our corporate will. At the Elevation of the Host today, let us offer our corporate will to Our Lord, and He will present it to the Father, in unison with His own. God can work miracles with us then.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Praise His awful Name, who was, and is, and is to come. Praise to Him that giveth immortality; all glory and majesty surround His throne: worship and adore Him, praise, glory to God. Mighty He cometh to judgment, for He shall judge the world in righteousness! And He shall judge His people with His truth.

Fear thou not, O man, for thy Redeemer liveth; He that died is risen, and He shall live to all eternity, and He shall reign and conquer all His enemies. I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patience: for My sake thou hast borne affliction; yet thy first and chiefest duty thou hast forsaken, and thou art fallen from thy high estate: repent then of thy sin! Repent! And return to thy first work; be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

My Dear People:

I wonder if we all realize the significance and power of the life between Sundays at St. Mark's. I mean the prayer life. Since it is true that nothing is possible without prayer and that all things are possible through prayer, it follows that the prayer life of a parish is its most important work. The prayers said are the heart beats of the parish. The steady throbbing of the prayer life is the sign of spiritual vitality. To be a member of a parish, in any real sense, one must share the prayer life. The Red Lamp that burns itself out daily, and every morning is renewed, indicates the Presence of Our Lord and it also is a true symbol of the prayer life. Our prayers must be as constant as the Lamp, all the day long. But how shall we do it? We are doing it. One day is exactly like another. It begins with the Angelus, the Memorial of the Incarnation. On the first stroke of seven the Mass begins. The Holy Sacrifice is offered for the living and the departed. At a quarter to eight the Holy Sacrifice is offered again. And while this second Mass is being offered the Blessed Sacrament is being carried to the sick and the infirm, as occasion requires. At nine Matins is recited. And on Holy Days and Thursdays, the Holy Sacrifice is offered, for the third time in the day. At half-past twelve the needs of the world are prayed for, before the Presence. Then comes the noon Angelus. At five o'clock, Evensong is recited. After that comes the Night Litany for Philadelphia. No one is forgotten, sinners and saints, the tempted and the fallen, the homeless, the weary, the starving, the suicide, the intemperate, the night workers, the police, railwaymen, firemen, those engaged in hazardous occupations, those engaged on the stage, soldiers, sailors, chauffeurs, aviators, watchmen, editors and journalists, the sick, the sleepless, the lonely, the insane, night nurses, doctors, the dying, the bereaved, the dead, and those who have said no prayers that day at all. Then St. Mark's has said good night to her children. The night Angelus rings. The doors are closed. Yet all through the night, the great flaming Calvary whispers to the passers-by "Come unto Me and I will refresh you." The lights are put out. All but one. The Red Lamp flickers in the dark, before the Tabernacle of Him who neither slumbers nor sleeps. And by and by, it is morning. And the Angelus rings in the new day. That is our prayer life.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

BASS ARIA—Thus saith the Lord: The end is near, and all the winds of heav'n proclaim its coming. Prepare to meet thy God! I will reward thee even as thy works have been, and judge thee as thou hast deserved. To Me is every action known, each secret thought is unveiled before Me. The day of wrath is near, the Almighty shall reveal His power! The reaper's song is silent in the field, and the shepherd's voice on the mountain. The valleys then shall shake with fear; and the hills shall tremble. It comes, the day of terror comes! The awful morning dawns Thy mighty arm, O God, is uplifted; Thou shalt shake the earth and heavens! They shall shrivel as a scroll, when Thou in wrath appearest. For men shall cast away their silver, and count their gold as dross; it shall not save in the great and awful day. Where is now the monarch's might? Where all his splendor? Where the dreams of earthly greatness? The princes of the earth shall cast their crowns before Thee, and all the power of the mighty shall fail, when Thou, O Lord, shalt come to judge the world.

CHORUS—If with your whole hearts ye humbly seek Me, I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and if ye return to Me sincerely I will receive you from all the ends of the earth. I will be your Father and ye shall be My people. Thus saith the Lord.

TENOR RECIT.—Jehovah now cometh to judgment! Bow down to worship Him who made the heavens and the earth.

CHORUS—Destroyed is Babylon the mighty! The smoke of her torment ascendeth forevermore. The hour of judgment is come! Now is the Lord at hand! The grave gives up its dead! The sea gives up its dead! The seals are broken; the books are all unclosed; the mighty now tremble before Him!

My Dear People:

I wrote to you last week about the prayer life of Saint Mark's. This week I am writing to you, in a general way, about your own. And I have in mind one thing to-day. It is going to Mass on week days. No one can want to go to Mass unless and until they understand what happens at Mass. What happens is this. The Holy Sacrifice of the Death of Our Lord Jesus Christ on the Cross, is offered for those present and for the whole Church, the remission of sins, and all other benefits of His passion may be obtained. Our Lord is present on the Altar. When we go to Mass we go to Our Lord. If that fact sinks into one's mind and wakens one into a realization of all that it means, it settles the whole matter of wanting to go to Mass. To make it real, one has to live it. Nothing is real that is not really lived. And to live a thing one must make it a thing of life. This is the way it is done. Take the thing that is weighing most heavily on your mind and heart to-day. It may very likely be some thing that no one knows any thing about but yourself. It is your secret. You feel sometimes so wearily helpless about it, so bleakly hopeless. But if you know your religion, you know that you can never be helpless with Our Lord to help. You can never be hopeless with Our Lord to hear. And so you say to yourself, "I must get to Our Lord." And you go to Mass. And at once. You cannot wait until Sunday. You won't mind getting up early and going out on a dark and cold or stormy morning. You will go because the pressure of your life is driving you. You arrive at Church. You offer your intention for that Mass, to God. This means that you tell Him why you came. You ask Him to plead your cause, to intercede, and to give you what He knows to be best. Then the Mass begins. And you follow it. Perhaps you receive Communion, or perhaps you don't. When the bell rings for the Consecration, look up at the Altar. When you see the Host elevated, say "Lord, help me." Then understand that Our Lord has taken your affair into His Hands. He will speak to His Father about it. He will arrange everything and be responsible for the result. Leave your life in His Hands. Nothing can go permanently wrong. Everything will come right in the end. When you find yourself worrying, say to yourself, "I must not worry. I've been to Mass about it." And you will see a new meaning in the Mass blessing. You will know about the "peace that passes understanding."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

The wilderness and the solitary places shall be glad for them. And the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice with joy and singing.

Say to them of a fearful heart, "Be glad, be strong, fear not: behold your God: He will come and save you."

Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing; for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And a highway shall be there; it shall be called the way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it. But the redeemed shall walk there.

And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee, shall flee away.

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People:

Over the doors of St. Marks's and under the Calvary, is written the invitation "Come unto Me all ye that travail and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you."

Picture for yourself persons passing through Locust Street, persons who, for any one of a thousand reasons, need to be refreshed. And there are so many like that. All day long they come. And one dark night last week, I saw a man standing, with his hat off, praying in the rain, before the Calvary. I had never seen him before. I stupidly asked him if I could do anything for him. He answered "No, I am praying. I am in trouble." God gave me wit to say no more, and leave him to his prayers. That happened out in the rain, in the night, when the doors were shut. What happens when they are open? People come into the Church. It is still, very still. And the aisles are dim and shadowy. At the end of one aisle the red lamp burns. Sometimes it flickers, sometimes it is steady. It is so like our own moods. And in the Tabernacle is the Lord of the House of Prayer, the Lord who invites to come and promises to refresh. One is drawn to come as near as one can, and to genuflect, and kneel. What next? Some simple prayer. The Our Father and O Saving Victim. Then one must fix one's eyes on the Tabernacle and keep very quiet and wait.

Sometimes one is very far from interior quiet. A storm is raging within. But one must, by an act of will, preserve exterior quiet and silence. "Arnica for bruises of the body, silence for wounds of the soul." That is a very wise saying. Sometimes one must come day after day, for ever so long. But come. And be still. And wait. And then the miracle happens. The trouble may remain. But the miracle happens. Sometimes it happens in the roar and jam of traffic, while the city swirls by. Sometimes it happens in the loneliness of the night. But it never fails. It comes. The peace which is the fruit of brave, believing, patient silence. The peace which passes understanding because it is the peace of God. This happens every day, before the Tabernacle. It will go on happening long after you and I are gone. Because there are always weary people. And there is always God. It will happen to you if you will make visits to the Tabernacle a part of your rule of life. Do you?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

I want to share a prayer with you. I hope that you may feel inclined to use it through Christmastide. It was written by a Religious and given to me. It is a wonderful prayer to say to the Holy Child:

"Mind of Christ strengthen me.
Heart of Christ stablish me.
Will of Christ settle me.
Joy of Christ fill me.
Love of Christ enkindle me.
Peace of Christ enfold me.
Desire of Christ satisfy me
Until at length I behold, in eternity,
The Vision of Thy Face unveiled."

And it is just the prayer for the development of our lives, at this particular time. We must try this year as we never tried before, to deepen our lives, as we centre them about the Altars of Saint Mark's. We have here as a heritage, everything that is needed to express the symbolic beauty of holiness. And it is a priceless heritage to have freedom to worship God. Yet no one realizes more keenly than we who have the heritage, that symbols only satisfy when they express, if not adequately, at least sincerely, the deep, strong, ruling passion of the soul. It is knowing the Truth that makes us free to enjoy the Beauty of God. And the Holy Child is the Truth. We must know Him. But first we must love Him. No one who has ever seen Him can resist Him. But how do we see Him? Well that is easy enough. This is the way.

1. You know that the word "Bethlehem" means "the house of Bread." Our Lord is the Bread that came down from heaven. And we enthroned Him in the Tabernacle. So our Tabernacle is our Bethlehem. And the Red Lamp is our Star of Bethlehem. Follow the Star. Come often on week days and kneel before the Tabernacle. Say an Our Father and a Come Holy Ghost, and then, as you look at the Tabernacle, make a mental picture of the Holy Child, and Our Lady, and Saint Joseph. And kneel and think about it, and keep very still, and let it all sink in. Then say the prayer the Religious taught us. That will make us want the Holy Child.

2. Then cleanse yourself by Penance and come to the Holy Communion. Outstretch your arms and receive Him very tenderly and carry Him softly and lay Him safely in your soul. Cherish Him carefully, guard Him stoutly, watch Him silently. Give Him your self, your life, your everything. Say to Him "I am yours. I never can be my own again." Say the prayer to Him often. Live it without words all the time. And He will do to you what only God and little children can do. He will make you selfless. When He has made you selfless, He will fill you with Himself. And that will mean goodwill toward men. And that will mean shining white glory to God in the Highest. And then with a thrill you shall see, with your own eyes, through the incense clouds, the Child who has become your King, standing in the midst of the golden candlesticks. And then for the first time you shall know exquisitely perfect happiness.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

To you this day is born He who will guide you, through paths of peace to living waters clear.

Kings from a far land, draw near and behold Him, Led by the beam whose warning bade ye come. Your crowns cast down, with robe royal enfold Him: Your King descends to earth from brighter home. The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made Thursday, January 8th, 1925, at 7.45.

The Annual Meeting of St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday afternoon, January 8th, 1925, at 3 P. M. Speaker, Mrs. R. C. Loving.

My Dear People:

The Christian year began at Advent. The civil year has just begun. The greater includes the lesser. The secret of making our years Christian years is just that, to make the greater include the lesser. If there is any thing in the lesser that cannot be included in the greater, then that lesser thing must go out of our lives. That is what "mortifying our hearts and all our members" means. It is the work of the Sacrament of Penance to exclude the irreconcilable lesser. It is the work of the Sacrament of Holy Communion to include the legitimate lesser in the greater. These two operations are the working forces of religion. Unless and until they are, one is only playing with the fringes of religion. The secret of reality is to place first things in the first place. The secret of simplicity is to keep them there. How is it to be done?

The first beginning, the initial motion, is the work of the Holy Ghost. This must be left to Him. We must pray to Him for our own thorough conversion. We must pray to Him for the power to discern between good and evil. We must pray to Him for the disposition to hate the evil and to love the good, and for the power to reject the one and to choose the other. (1) An Our Father and a Come Holy Ghost daily, with special intention, will give one the first beginning. (2) An examination of conscience at frequent and regular times, will afford sufficient self-knowledge to distinguish the lesser from the greater. (3) Confession will separate the evil from the good. (4) Communion will change the water of the lesser into the wine of the greater. (5) Prayer, at home and in the church before the Blessed Sacrament, will stabilize the conversion. (6) The rest is practically realized by offering everything one thinks or speaks or performs to the glory of God.

If we really do this, we shall make the year a year of Our Lord. This means that out of our weakness, Our Lord will make His strength, in us, perfect. It means that He will make all things work together for good. It means that the evil in us will be overcome by the good that is in Him. It means that we may go out into the new year without fear. It means that we may, without presumptuousness, banish as evil things sadness, anxiety, and fear. It means that we may cultivate and maintain joy and peace and confidence, for we have been called not to the spirit of bondage again, ever again, unto fear but of love, power and a sound mind. And that will mean a Happy New Year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Hymns in Procession { Lo the Pilgrim Magi
95

Tune, Morning Star

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps,
Gleamed that beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant,
Earthly Kings' array;
He a mightier monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor;
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant,
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting
Unto Christ our King;
To the man pure bodies,
Myrrh like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address;
So, with meetest off'rings,
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone;
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee,
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be. Amen.

Mass in A flat

Robert Volkmann

Introit. On the highest throne I beheld a Man sitting, Whom a multitude of Angels worship, singing together: and behold His Name and empire are for ever lasting.

PSALM. O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands: serve the Lord with gladness, and come before His presence with a song.

GLORIA PATRI. INTROIT. On the highest.

Gradual. Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel: Which only doeth wondrous things from the beginning. The mountains also shall bring peace: and the little hills righteousness unto the people.

My Dear People:

The Epiphany Gospel is thrilling, isn't it? "Where is He? We have seen His Star! And are come to worship Him."

The Stable on Christmas night was so dark and still. It seemed so very hidden. And yet, far out and away, the Star was shining. Three men saw it and followed. At last they came and fell down and worshipped and offered their costliest gifts. That was the wonder of Christmas. That was the mystery of Epiphany.

So it has ever been since. So it has been for each one of us. So it will always be for everyone. The Manger. The Night. The Desert. On the rim of the desert a Star. And under the Star, someone who sees and follows and worships. The journey may be a long one. That only makes the homecoming more wonderful.

There is always the Star. Wherever one is, one need only look up to see it. It is the signal of Hope. The hope of forgiveness, the hope of peace, the hope of consolation, the hope of joy. The deeper the sense of the need, the keener the hope. The keener the hope, the more impelling the call. Once one is caught by the spell of the call, deserts and nights and journeys lose their terrors. Only we must never forget to look for the Star. We can always find it, but we must look. And having seen it, we must follow it. Because in every instance it leads to where the young Child is. There is no life so thrilling as a priest's life in a church in the heart of a vast city, so it seems to me. Yet mission priests tell me that there is no life so thrilling as a priest's life in a mission, on an island or a mountain or in a wilderness at the other end of the world. So I suppose it isn't the place after all. It is the romance of the Star. That is what gives the thrill. Wherever it happens, it is always thrilling. Some one appears who has seen the Star. They have seen it out in some lonely desert of their own. And when they arrive, their first and only question is, "Where is He?" They find Him at the Altar and they fall down and worship Him.

God will give them the Star. He leaves the responsibility of the Altar with us. We are expected to erect and serve altars which shall be within the reach of all men, everywhere. Their journey must not be too long. Here is the motive of missions. Where the motive is clear, one always finds willing support at privileged centres and high heroism at distant outposts.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The changing of water into wine was and is the beginning of Our Lord's miracles. As He said, He does not come to destroy but to fulfil. The miracles of grace upon the soul are always changing the natural into the supernatural. I think we all need to be reminded that the supernatural is not the un-natural. To be supernatural means to be not less but more than natural. No one wants to be un-natural. When religion is represented as making people un-natural it is falsely represented. And it is this false teaching which repels. It not only makes religion impossible but it makes it repellant. It discourages. I am sure that this is the reason why many people and especially men are timid about the practise of religion. They have a fixed fear that religion will make them un-natural, that God will have none of them unless they first attain to an exalted piety which cannot be made to fit in with their state in life. And so they resign themselves to the temptation to feel that it is beyond them. Or they have recourse to some inferior substitute.

If only religion can be rightly understood, it instantly becomes attractive and consoling and constructive. The first notion to be got rid of is that the Sacraments are rewards of merit. They are means of grace, without which merit is impossible. The first thing for a man to do is to give himself up to Our Lord, in simple faith that Our Lord can and will change him. That Our Lord can and will make him more than he ever has been or could be by himself. He must hold nothing back. He must give his whole self. And then he must take Our Lady's advice: "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." It won't ever be more than he can do. Then if he is simple and humble the miracle will happen. The water will be changed into wine. His whole personality will be changed.

Some day, when the Sacraments have done their work, and the last purgation has been accomplished, he will awaken and be satisfied. God has made it all as easy as it possibly can be. If you and I are not changed from what we are into what we should be, whose fault will it be?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Father Hughson, O.H.C., will preach next Sunday morning.

Father Pottle will preach in the afternoon. I shall preach at Saint Ignatius', New York, in the evening. On Monday, I shall be at Saint Mary's Convent, Peekskill, for the observance of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Community of Saint Mary.

The men of the Parish are invited to be the guests of The Men's Choir on Wednesday evening, January 28, at 8 o'clock, in the Parish House.

My Dear People:

A long time ago a leper came to Our Lord. That leper will never be forgotten. Not because he was a leper, there were lots of lepers. But this leper will always be remembered, because he came to Our Lord. He was cleansed. That was a miracle. But that was bound to happen. Our Lord touched him. Of course his leprosy was cleansed. But why did he come? Why did he say, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean"? What made him come? What made him say that? God knows. That was a mystery. The mysterious coming, the miraculous cleansing. There is wonder in the cleansing. There is mystery in the coming. We have all heard about the cleansing. Only God and the leper know the mystery of the coming.

And yet that secret is not a leper's secret after all. It was his secret, not because he was a leper, but because he was a man. And because God is God. Given the two, God and a human being, and you have a romance in the making. Sooner or later, sometime, somehow, somewhere, there comes a calling, calling, calling! Sooner or later, away down deep, in some innermost and hitherto closed cell of the soul, there is a motion of attention and a response, and then a coming, coming, coming! Then at the appointed time a swift meeting, and then a miracle. Something happens that makes former things to pass away. Something that makes all things new.

You come into this Church. You see someone leaving a Confessional and going to say a thanksgiving before the Altar of the Blessed Sacrament. It has been a happy cleansing. We know, because we have been cleansed ourselves. But the calling and the coming. That is a mystery. Only God and the penitent know that secret.

You see a person hurrying to Mass, on a dark winter's morning. You see the motionless figure kneeling before the Altar. Presently a bell rings. There is an eager coming. A swift meeting. A miraculous touch. The supreme mystery. Blissful Communion. The return for thanksgiving. The Mass is ended. The going out into the world. And the life that is hid with Christ in God. We know what happened. Because it happens to us. But why did he come? Why did she come? The calling and the coming. That is a mystery. Only God and the communicant know that secret.

We don't know their romance. It is their's. Besides, we each have one of our own. How could we ever forget the day that God called us? It has always been a mystery. It will always be a romance. That calling! That coming! That first meeting! And our cry, "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst!" And then the miracle!

Miracles? Mysteries? Romance? Why, we breathe them, move in them, live in them. And some day we shall die in them. And then? Why, then—then—God.

J. Vernon

The Mission Study Class, held by Sister Helen, will begin on Friday, February 6th, at 11 o'clock, in the Parish Building. There will be six sessions and it is earnestly hoped that there may be a large class.

The Corporate Communion of the Woman's Auxiliary will be made Thursday, February 5th, at 7.45 A. M.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Mark's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday, February 5th, at 3 P. M. Speaker: Archdeacon White, on his work among the Foreign Born.

Father Pottle will preach this afternoon. The subject of his sermon will be, "God the Father." It will be the second of the Confirmation sermons. If you are thinking of Confirmation, please give us your names.

My Dear People:

Last Sunday I wrote to you about God's call to the Christian life. That life is the life which is hid with Christ in God. It is the life which is based upon the Baptismal Vows to observe the Precepts of the Christian Religion. At Baptism we made, or our sponsors made in our name, three vows. They are vows of renunciation, faith and obedience. They are binding all the days of our life. The Christian life is the response to God's call. All are called to this life.

Today I am writing to you of another call, beyond the call of the Precepts. It is not given to everyone. It is the call to the Counsels of the Christian Religion. The Counsels are the call of God to serve Him under the three-fold vow of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience. The life of the Counsels is called the Religious life. It is called the Religious life because it is lived under a Rule. God's call to the soul to live the life of the Counsels under a Rule is what is meant by the term Vocation to the Religious life. A Vocation to the Religious life is a wonderful gift. When parents discover that their child has a Vocation, they should be happy and thankful all their lives. Every Christian household should be favorable to the development of Vocations. It must always be remembered that the Service of God is perfect freedom. The call of God is always a call to a more abundant life and to all that makes life really abundant. The selfless love with which the soul makes generous response to the call of God is the essence of perfection. One soul may be called to live in the world, another may be called to live in the cloister. If the foundation of each life is obedience and its dominant energy is love, the fruits of joy and peace are sure to follow and holiness will be the final attainment. I want you to know and love the Religious life. The better you know it, the more you will love it. I suggest that you order a copy of Father Hughson's book, "The Fundamentals of the Religious State." We have a copy in the Library. And you are welcome to mine. And I would like to have you pray for Vocations in our Parish. Then, when any of your young people confide in you their thought of a Vocation, you will be able to give them the understanding sympathy they need to speed them on their way. And God will reward you for working together with Him.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Whoso dwelleth under the defense of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

I will say unto the Lord, Thou art my hope and my stronghold, my God, in Him will I trust.

He shall defend thee under His wings, and thou shalt be safe under His feathers: His faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

O Jesus, King of Paradise,
O keep me in Thy love,
And guide me to that happy land
Of perfect rest above.
Where loyal hearts and true
Stand ever in the light,
All rapture through and through,
In God's most holy sight.

There is still a balance of $150 due on account of the Temporary Loans.

The report of the Accounting Warden, for 1924, shows an increase of $3,195.50 in the income for the Parish and Trust Funds while the principal of the various Trust Funds has been increased by $33,999.24.

The total of the securities and uninvested principal of the various Trusts of the Parish is $312,481.35. Of this, $141,430.28 is in the Jubilee Endowment Fund and $79,445.85 in the Endowment Fund.

The goal set for St. Mark's Endowment is $500,000. Some of our people are now helping to attain this by sending small contributions from time to time, which are added to the principal of the Endowment Fund as "Memorials."

The amount of the first of the three Special Offerings for Missions for 1925, on January 18th, was $850.44. In January, 1924, the offering was $1,033.59.

The "Expectation" from St. Mark's, for the Missionary work of the Church for 1924, was $15,000. Through the generosity of one of our parishioners, in paying $547.40, the exact amount needed, the Parish met this "Expectation."

The final report from the Diocese shows that St. Mark's stands third in the list of contributors to the Missions of the Church for the year:

	1924 Expectations	Payments on account Expectations	Forward Work	1924 Specials	Total
St. Paul's, Chestnut Hill	$26,000.00	$26,100.17	$1,751.74	$25,449.10	$53,301.01
St. Martin-in-the-Fields	35,000.00	35,645.28	901.50	8,015.70	44,562.48
St. Mark's	15,000.00	15,000.00	774.50	14,269.62	30,044.12

The following tabulation is also made from the Diocesan report, showing the "Expectation" from some of the larger Parishes, with the payment thereon:

	Expectation	Payment

THE SUNDAY CALLED SEPTUAGESIMA, 1925

My Dear People:

I have written to you about God's call to the Sacramental life. This is Catholic conversion. And I have written to you about God's call to the Religious life. This is vocation. To-day I am writing to you about God's call to the Common way. This is consecration. It amounts to fitting ourselves in with God's plan. It means finding one's self and finding one's place. It leads in the end to a perfect activity in a perfect sphere. And so it leads to peace. To fit one's self into the way of the will of God is to become normal. And so it is normal to be at peace. One's exterior life may be turbulent at the same time that one's interior life is peaceful. This is difficult to understand until we remind ourselves that the peace of God passes understanding. So the Common way invites one to the fine art of living an ordinary life in an extraordinary way. And this is what holiness is. We are so apt to imagine that in order to be a Christian one must continually do extraordinary things. That one must attempt what is outside our real vocation and strain after what is beyond our strength. It is this wrong notion which either repels many from even trying the Christian life or plunges those who are trying, into discouragement and sometimes into utter despair. The real truth of the matter is that God never taxes any of us beyond our strength. He who calls is always faithful. If we are ever conscious of over-strain, it is because we have made some mistake about the method we are using in responding to our vocation. We should not and need not lose our interior peace. The Sacramental life is a peaceful life. The Sacraments are means of grace, not instruments of torture. The Religious life is a peaceful life. The cloister is a home, not a prison. And the Common life is a peaceful life, if only we possess its secret. And this is the secret: "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." There is nothing in the world that can block the Common way to God. If anything does block us, the trouble is not in the world but in our own wills. The will and not the world is our battle ground. Once we have locked our wills with God's will, and given God the key, we have overcome the world. This is precisely what we do when we pray. We may have time for many or few prayers. But the prayer life is made continuous by consciously keeping our wills locked with the will of God. If we really have this simple and permanent intention, we shall be firmly fitted into the Divine plan. We may not be conscious of it. Most of the time we will be quite unconscious of it. But circumstances and combinations of circumstances will work out in wonderful ways. Seemingly unrelated events will develop into sweetly ordered ends. Personal relationships will work out with mutual satisfaction. An underlying and undeviating purpose will make divine vocations out of secular avocations. Each life will possess and keep a value and beauty all its own. The rule is very simple. Morning and night prayers daily. Fidelity to the Sacramental life. If you do this, you will keep your vocation and you will keep your peace.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

I have been writing to you about your own personal vocations. To-day I have something that I want to write to you about our corporate vocation as a parish. And by that I mean our vocation as a community of persons who are trying to live the Christian life in the world, under a common rule, sufficiently elastic to adapt itself to the capacity and opportunity of each member. There is a minimum which is of obligation upon us all. We are all bound to observe the days of obligation for worship, which means assisting at Mass. We are all bound to be regular in our Sacramental life. We are all bound to maintain our prayer life. We are all bound to observe the precepts of the Church and to fulfil the notable duties. We are all bound to each other, as members of one family, to be loyal to each other and to keep our household of God in perpetual Charity. It is all of this and more that makes our parish a community, "a body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part." Our Lord is our Head. It is He who "maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love."

You see, Our Lord holds us together by holding each one of us to Himself. We are one in Him because we are one with Him. Therefore the first concern of each of us is to keep in a constant state of communion with Him. This state is the guarantee and the measure of the vitality of our membership in our community. We have nothing to give to each other except that which Our Lord gives us. We can only give what we have received. This explains why it is "the Mass that matters." It explains why Holy Communion is the essential, central and supreme daily event in our parish.

Our parish is a composite personality. "Every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working of the measure of every part." We never make a Communion without "supplying our part" to the whole parish. Every Communion that each one of us makes, helps the whole parish. We are never alone at the Altar. The very word Communion indicates this. Communion makes us one with God, one with the Angels and Saints; one with the whole Church and one with the whole parish. At Communion we offer our selves, our souls and bodies, our prayers, our works, our intentions. Our parochial life is the aggregate of all this. This is what we are as a whole.

God takes us for what we are as a unit and uses us. He gives us, as a parish, a vocation. This vocation is adapted to our capacity for response. As we increase our capacity, by deepening our Sacramental life, God entrusts us with a deeper and wider Vocation. The more freely we receive from Him, the more freely we give for Him. He has brought us together, bound us together, kept us together, and stationed us in the centre of a vast city. He has not done this, we may be sure, without a purpose. We are here because He has given us the power to do something for Him that needs to be done. We are here because we are needed. All sorts of people need what we have to give. All sorts of people will be sent to us. He has "anointed us to preach good tidings unto the meek; He hath sent us to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the Captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." This is our Vocation, the Vocation of Saint Mark's. And we are dedicated to it. And this Parochial Vocation gives us what every accepted Vocation gives, light-hearted, care-free, happiness; rightly grounded confidence; and the peace that passes understanding.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

We are all thinking to-day about "keeping Lent." It is one thing to observe Lent. It is quite another thing to keep it. One is apt to become weary of observing Lent. One can only escape weariness by keeping Lent. I mean to say that if one thinks of Lent only as a period of distasteful inhibitions then one is naturally glad to get them over and done with, and to welcome Easter as the time when one may do as one likes again. One may observe Lent and never really consciously get below the surface of life. Some one has said that "there is nothing so sterile as a purposeless asceticism," which means giving up things just for the sake of giving them up. That sort of thing is not only merely wearisome, it is perilously explosive. It may involve disastrous reactions. It is like living over a volcano. It never works well to take something away without putting something better in its place. The Christian life does not destroy, it fulfills. It takes away the lesser only to give the greater. It leaves one richer not poorer. I don't mean that we shall not be observing Lent by keeping rules. But we shall have rather a cheerless Lent if we don't get deeper into it than that. We must get something out of Lent that we can keep. What is that something?

Isn't it this? Our Lord has shown us how to meet temptation: how to give up what we want: how to pray: how to lay down our lives for those we love. That battle on four sectors we have on our hands always. That is our real and life-long Lent, and we have to keep it, well or ill, whether we want to or not. If we keep it ill, we shall quickly grow very weary indeed. If we keep it well, we shall have stumbled again upon a priceless secret.

Now take temptation. It is apt to be a nerveless struggle if one is resisting a temptation with only the thought of one's self. Sometimes one does not much care what becomes of one's self. But the thought that one is doing it for someone else, gives one a new courage, and one will find a compelling motive in sanctifying one's self for others' sakes. Our Lord taught us this in His Lent.

Then take fasting in a broad sense. It is apt to be a heartless exercise if one is denying one's self something merely for the good one hopes to gain by the discipline. One may grow very harsh and cold and self-centred. But the moment one begins to do it for the sake of others, the moment one consciously seeks to become poor that one may make others rich, that moment self-discipline becomes a joy. Our Lord taught us this in His Lent.

And then take prayer. One's prayers will be listless after a while and sometimes very irksome, if one prays only for self. One's devotions may become very unstable if one is merely indulging one's feelings. But the moment one begins to pray more for others than for one's self, the more absorbing and necessary our intercessions become. There may not be much else one can do. But one cannot do more than pray. We never know how much our prayers help. Our Lord taught us this in His Lent.

So you see Lent really runs like a purple thread through our lives. There are other threads, but there is this one, and life is not perfect without it. If we can get the heart of Lent and keep it all the rest of our lives, we shall possess the secret of lasting happiness and peace.

The Annual Meeting of St. Mark's Branch of the Guild of All Souls was held on All Souls Day, November 3rd. The secretary reported a membership of fifty-five and a balance of $9.69 in the treasury.

Two objects are put before the Guild this year. It is hoped that we may be able to repeat our gift to the City Mission in aid of the Christian Burial Fund, whereby poor patients at the Philadelphia Hospital who die in the Catholic Faith may receive decent Christian burial, and be saved from the fear of the Anatomic Board. And we are hoping also to do something for our own lot in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, which seems to have fallen into neglect and disorder. It would be a good thing if we could put this small piece of consecrated ground into order and beauty, and, if possible, into the Cemetery Company's "Perpetual Care." A sum of at least $500 is needed for this. The dues of the Guild are very small, and therefore gifts for either of these two purposes would be very acceptable, and may be sent to the Rector at any time.

The Philadelphia Associates of the Community of St. Mary cordially invite you to a meeting at St. Mark's Church, 16th and Locust Streets, on Wednesday, March 4, at 3 P. M., to be addressed by the Rev. Shirley C. Hughson, O. H. C., to create interest and gain support for the work of the Sisters of St. Mary, at Sewanee, Tennessee. Please extend this invitation to as many as possible and urge them to attend.

Miss Katherine Buckley, President, 1508 Spruce Street.
 Miss Gladys Connelly, Secretary, 731 South Broad Street.
 Miss Nancy A. Reath, Treasurer, 2103 DeLancey Place.

This week I shall be preaching daily at 12.45 at St. Paul's, Broadway, Fulton and Vesey Streets, New York City. I shall keep all my afternoon and evening engagements here as usual.

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT, 1925

My Dear People:

We often hear it said of certain churches that they are singularly attractive because of a certain atmosphere that pervades. If we ask just what is meant by that, the answer is apt to be, "I don't know. I can't explain it. But you can't help feeling it." There is something that one feels. What is it? Is it age and tradition? Is it beauty? Is it some association of ideas or memories? All that awakens something in the imagination and the senses. But it isn't really all that we mean or what we mean when we say that a church or a chapel has atmosphere. We mean that there is something that speaks. Something that says "Be still and—" what? "know that I am God." When a place makes us feel that, it has religious atmosphere.

A few years ago a friend of mine, in Religion, read me a letter from a nun whose Community had just taken possession of an old country house in England. The nun, who wrote the letter, described the house and the gardens, and then she went on to relate an experience which had come first to one and then another. There was a small room off in a wing of the house. A very small and out of the way room. It had evidently been the sleeping room of a servitor, used no one knew when, for it was a very ancient house. But in that room there was a subtle, penetrating something. Something electric, only more than electric. Something that made them feel the presence of God. Something that gave a sense of deep peace. The nun wrote, I remember, that the Community had concluded, that the room had been lived in by some one who had developed an unusual prayer life. That prayer life had generated a spiritual energy, which had never quite left the room. It had remained all the years as a benediction for those who came after. This is a true story. And it is the true story of every place, church, chapel, oratory or room, where there is a religious atmosphere.

The truth is that when we pray we generate and release a spiritual energy. It comes from God. It fills the person who prays. It is released and directed at will to the ends of the world and to the enclosure of the unseen world. It returns to the person who prays and completes the circle by returning to God. It charges the place of prayer with an energy that is never lost. It glorifies God. It consoles man. It makes devils tremble.

You can do this. You can do it in church. You can do it in your room where you live. You can create the atmosphere of prayer. Every person who comes or ever came into Saint Mark's to say a prayer has helped to create the atmosphere that we all feel. The legacy of prayer that you and I bequeath to Saint Mark's is infinitely priceless beyond anything that we can leave in our material bequests. It will be here long, long after we are gone and forgotten. When Locust Street is all changed and everything about it has become new and old and new again, all sorts and conditions of men will be seeking sanctuary here, and they will be asking each other "What is there about this old church?" And you and I will remember and understand.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Last week I wrote to you concerning the power of prayer. This week I want you to think of the power of silence. We speak to God in our prayers. We listen to God in our silences. Our prayer life should advance beyond vocal prayer. We should learn how to practise silence in the Presence of God. This will open the way to Mental Prayer. It is possible for the average Christian to go far on this adventure. Very often the weariness and distaste for accustomed vocal prayers is a signal that we should give more time to Mental Prayer. That we should be still and listen.

You know that there is a rule of silence during a Retreat. Persons in retreat are required to abstain from conversation. Most people who go into Retreat are inclined to dread the silence. But it is soon perceived that the silence rule for Retreats is not only a safe-guard against distractions, but also a provision for rest and refreshment for mind and body as well as soul. There is nothing so soothing as a religious silence.

It is not only in Retreat that we need silence. We need it in our ordinary life. For example, immediately before and after Communion. We can have a rule of silence, on the mornings on which we receive, from the moment of awakening until after grace at breakfast. This silence is the most wonderful of all. To be alone with Our Lord in still silence, in the early morning, is something to look forward to with great and eager desire.

There is a medicine in silence also. Very often we become disturbed by anxieties or troubles of one kind or another. At such times the chances are that we lose our sense of proportion. We are almost sure to exaggerate our difficulties. The first impulse is to seek out someone to whom we can talk. Such conferences are very rarely satisfactory. This is because we are not able to make matters clear. We scarcely know how to express our ideas and feelings. So we fail to find the sympathy we had hoped for. Here is the time for silence. We should bring the difficulty to God in vocal prayer and then be silent. If the difficulty is a matter for confession, we may speak freely as we need. And we should do this without delay. But we should be silent at all other times. When the burden is pressing hard, we should come to Church and kneel in silence before the Tabernacle. Five minutes even daily will work wonders for us. Whenever during the day or night we are conscious of a return of the disquietude, we should offer it to God and will ourselves to silence. We shall gain the power to do this by patient practise.

The result will be, either that we shall rise above our trouble or that the trouble itself will melt away. In either case we shall have found peace. But the real gain will be that we shall have grown up a little farther into the mind of Our Lord.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE THIRD SUNDAY IN LENT, 1925

My Dear People:

The Collect for the day teaches us that our hearty desires may be offered to God as a real part of our prayer life. This is what we mean when we use the word "intention." We speak of "giving an intention" for a person and by that we mean that we offer to God a hearty desire for them.

For example, we may have certain persons for whom we desire to pray. It may be that we are prevented from giving as much time to Vocal Prayer as we would like, and yet we would gladly give up a day to pray, if only we could. There is a way of doing it, and it can be so arranged as to be quite within our power. We can decide to give a day's intention. On that day we can offer every thing we do with a special intention. We can offer our private prayers in the morning with special intention. We can go to Mass with special intention. We can make a Communion with special intention. We can offer the performance of every one of the duties of the day with special intention. If we are placed under some exterior or interior trial, we can offer it with special intention. We can offer our night prayers with special intention. And as we end the day, we can offer the day as a whole, with special intention. The hearty desire for the person, who has been so much in our mind and heart, will have been woven into the fabric of the day. The whole day will have been a living, loving, breathing, throbbing prayer. The entire energy of the day will have been directed to the person for whom we have set ourselves to pray. It will have been their day. To labor is to pray. However little time we may have had to engage in the labor of prayer, we shall have transmuted all our labor into prayer. From time to time during the day, we can say a silent Our Father, wherever we happen to be or whatever we happen to be doing. Or we can say an ejaculatory prayer. We can call upon the Holy Name and add the name of the person for whom we are giving the day's intention. The effectiveness of such an intention is equal to an all day vocal intercession. And you see it can be done by any one.

After a while we shall find that we have assigned special intentions for each day. We shall have filled our entire week and month and year with intentions. We shall be literally living for other people. We shall be absorbingly engaged in what is really perpetual prayer. And it can be done with no overtaxing effort, and without an atom of self consciousness. This is the Communion of Saints. For us it may begin with one person, but it deepens and widens and rises like a river. It bears those who offer the intentions and those for whom they are offered, in a resistless current, until they are swept into the ocean of the love of God.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN LENT, 1925

My Dear People:

Relieved by the comfort of Grace. What haunting words those are! "That we, who for our evil deeds do worthily deserve to be punished, by the comfort of Thy grace may mercifully be relieved." Penitence and Hope. The two must always go together. They must never be separated. So Refreshment Sunday comes in the middle of Lent. Hope illuminates Penitence.

The comfort of Grace is the attraction of the Sacraments. The Sacramental System may be accurately and correctly explained. The duty of receiving the Sacraments may be insistently taught. But nothing less than a first hand discovery of the comfort of Grace will ever inspire a fervent devotion to the Sacraments. The greatest hindrance to the humble use of the Sacraments is the fixed idea that Sacraments are rewards rather than refreshments. The idea that a person who is conscious of evil deeds for which he worthily deserves to be punished, has no comfort of grace by which he may mercifully be relieved, until in some subjective way he can, by a process of forgetting, comfort himself sufficiently, to risk the chance of receiving Sacraments unworthily. This, of course, is pride. There can't be much refreshment in a religion so forbidding as that.

A sorrow for unworthiness that is not shot through with Hope is not Godly sorrow. A sorrow for sin that paralyzes effort is merely remorse. And remorse is from the devil. You can always recognize the difference between remorse and repentance. A penitent of Saint Francis de Sales once said to him, after Confession, "Monseigneur, what must you think of the greatest sinner on earth?" "I think that God has poured out the abundance of His mercy upon you," was the answer. "You are bright with the light of His forgiveness now." "But, Monseigneur, you know what I am." "You are what I say." "What I was, then." "As to that," Francis replied, "I have forgotten it all; why should I remember what God has blotted out?" To receive absolution and to "go in peace" is a sign of humility.

And then pride serves us another evil turn sometimes, by keeping us away from Communion on the plea that we are lacking in pious disposition. A person may become obsessed with the idea that it is necessary to refresh one's self before going to Our Lord. In the first place this is not possible. In the second it is disregarding what Our Lord said. He said "Come unto me, and I will refresh you."

I suppose that the trouble with most of us is, that in trying to be conscientious we only succeed in becoming over anxious. We are very apt to make our religion an elaborate, laborious affair. One of the things that we need to pray for and try to cultivate is simplicity. Children and Saints are very simple in their religion. Children and Saints are deliciously refreshing persons. If you and I begin to-day to try to become children, some day we shall become Saints. Simplicity is the secret of refreshment.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

PASSION SUNDAY, 1925

My Dear People:

The Christian Religion teaches us to offer sickness and pain to God, in union with the Passion of Our Lord. It is in this way that we share His Passion. If we share the sorrows of His Passion, we shall share the joys of His Resurrection.

In order to offer sickness and pain in union with the Passion, we should know how to use the Sacraments in sickness. Our Lord comes to minister to us in the Sacraments. And in the Sacraments we yield ourselves to Him. So our first thought in sickness should be of receiving the Sacraments.

There are three things we need.

- 1st. To be absolved from sin.
- 2nd. To be fed with the Body and Blood of Our Lord.
- 3rd. To be anointed with oil.

Absolution releases body and soul from the power of the devil.

Communion unites body and soul with God.

Unction conveys spiritual purification, strength and sometimes bodily health.

The Sacraments convey to the sick the Spiritual relief of all their necessities for this world and the next.

The administration of the Sacraments is practicable when no other ministration would be. A person may be too ill to have time or strength for sick-room prayers. All the conditions may render prolonged visits unadvisable. Personal visits may be exhausting to the patient and inconvenient for the attendants. But the Sacraments can be administered under any and all conditions. They are given quietly and swiftly. The patient is not required to make a physical effort of any kind. There is no appeal to the emotions.

If a person is a member of a family in which the Sacraments are unknown or imperfectly understood, it should be made clear that in case of illness every provision must be made to give the priest unhindered access for the work for which he comes. It should be explained to the doctor (though most doctors understand and co-operate). It should be explained to the nurses. Instruction should be given to the servants. When the priest brings the Blessed Sacrament, he cannot speak to anyone in the house. It is just as when he carries the Sacrament to a person at the Altar rail. The Blessed Sacrament is Our Lord. Our Lord when He visits a house should be adored as in church. All in the halls or sick room should kneel as He enters and passes on His way. And the blessing of His Presence will remain with the entire household.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Jesus, Word of God incarnate, Of the Virgin Mary born, On the cross Thy sacred body For us men with nails was torn.	Cleanse us by the blood and water, Streaming from Thy pierced side. Feed us with Thy body broken, Now and in death's agony, O Jesus, hear us, Son of Mary.

Mysterious act of God's Almighty mercy!
Condemned to death, behold the Lord of Glory.
To fall'n and sinful man God pardon
offers,
While Jesus suffers.

CHORALE

If I should e'er forsake Thee,
Forsake me not, O Lord;
When sorrows overtake me
Sustain me by Thy word.
When death and hell assail me

Then, Saviour, do not fail me,
For Thou endur'd'st pain.

PALM SUNDAY, 1925

My Dear People:

"On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet Him, and cried, Hosanna: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

Contrast this with the first procession. "And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field. Keeping watch over their flocks by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God."

Think of a third procession. "And as they led Him away, they laid hold upon one Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus. And there followed Him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented Him."

Think of another. "And He led them out as far as to Bethany, and He lifted up His hands and blessed them. And it came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven."

Think of the one that is yet to come. "And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds, with power and great glory."

The contrasts are bewildering. The processions are pageants of heavenly glories and earthly humiliations. Light and darkness. Palms and scourges. Cross and Crown. But the ending of it all, which is really the beginning of it all, is the victory of Divine Love over human sin. We must always remember this. The victory remains with love. And God is love. It is love that watches. Love that is wounded. Love that seeks and suffers and dies and rises and ascends and reigns and forgives. It is love that works miracles of Grace in the Sacraments. It is love that hears and answers prayers. It is love that makes impossible things possible. It is love that finds what is lost and mends what is broken and makes all well in the end. Love that glows in the shadows of the Stable and flashes in the Clouds of Heaven.

Clasp your palm tightly. Come along. And it will all come true for you.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

The Easter Offering this year has been designated by the Vestry as for several years past:

ONE-HALF FOR MISSIONARY PURPOSES

ONE-HALF FOR PAROCHIAL PURPOSES

In the Easter appeal attention is called to the importance of adding to the Endowment Fund of the parish, and it is hoped that some may feel disposed to respond to this.

It may not be amiss to repeat the following statement contained in the Easter letter, issued by the Rector and Vestry:

"We have very much to be thankful for at St. Mark's, and it is by the hearty co-operation of the members of the parish in the Easter Offering for the whole work of the whole Church, abroad and at home, that expression can be given to our gratitude for the many blessings vouchsafed, not only to the parish, but to the many 'strangers within our gates.'"

My Dear People:

"If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." "If ye then be risen." The inference is plain. The Resurrection Life is a gift already possessed. We have it now. We are living in Christ here and now.

The Life of Christ in the soul makes the Christian. It is given in Baptism. It is nourished and increased in Holy Communion. As we feed upon Our Lord, He is formed within us. Being formed within us He reproduces His life within us, through us, by us, for us. He shares His Bethlehem life with us. He shares His Nazareth life with us. He shares His life of prayer with us. He shares His life of temptation with us. He shares His life of fasting and discipline with us. He shares His Passion with us. He shares His Death with us. He shares His Resurrection with us. He lives in us and we live in Him. The joy of Easter is not in the promise that we shall live, but in the assurance that we are living now. "We have passed from death unto life." And the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. We are in it now. And Heavenly things are present realities. We are living now in the Presence of God. We are living now in the Communion of Saints. The present moment is eternity in a point. So it is the present moment that matters. This is what makes the joy of Easter so solidly real.

And it makes all of life new. The Cross stands between us and the past. We are free now to walk in newness of life. The road ahead runs out like a ribbon of gold. It is Heaven all the way. And all the way there are treasures to be found and kept. Treasures of graces and virtues. Treasures of spiritual knowledge. Treasures of Divine consolations and delights. Treasures of human friendship. All to be laid up in Heaven, Nothing will be lost. There is the adventure of discovery. And the satisfaction of possession. And the joy of sharing. With all this, there is the growing consciousness that we are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the Saints and of the household of God. That household is really ours now. There is a place in it, that is our own. In that place we shall find those who have made us, in their time, happy in this world. Nothing, of all that, will be lost. For every thing that God ever gave us here will be ours there. And forever. Every joy will be gathered up into the fulness of joy which is in the presence of God. No wonder earth and sky sing Alleluia.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

My Dear People:

There is great comfort to be found in the Gospel for Monday in Easter-week. There is matter for meditation which will stand one in good stead in many a trial, long after Eastertide. This Gospel records the appearance of Our Lord to the two disciples, on the road to Emmaus.

The two disciples are unknown to us by name. They were His disciples. This is all we know. They were talking together of all the things that had happened. They were trying to reason it all out. They could make nothing out of it. There was not one ray of light or grain of comfort. They were sad.

While they were plodding on, Our Lord drew near and went with them. He was really with them. But "their eyes were holden that they should not know Him." But He was really with them. They did not know Him. Yet all the while He was teaching them. And as He talked with them, their hearts burned within them. And when they were at their journey's end, they begged Him to stay with them. And then "He took bread and blessed it, and brake and gave to them. And their eyes were opened and they knew Him: and He vanished out of their sight." What a wonderful ending to that walk.

We shall take that walk ever so many times this year. Most of us, when we have things to reason out, try to work it in a long walk. And sometimes when we walk we are puzzled and sad. If only our eyes were not holden, we would never be sad. When we do take walks to get the time to reason things out, it will be a good thing, just as we start out, to make an act of recollection of our last Communion, by silently saying "Blessed, praised, hallowed, worshipped and adored be Jesus Christ in my heart," and to remember that He is going with us. In some wonderful way He will make us gradually understand. It may or may not come in a sudden opening of our eyes. But our hearts will burn within us. Our minds will be made up by the power of His mind over them. And we may depend upon it, we shall not go wrong. There will be given us a sure sense of His Presence. Something deep down in us will cause us to say "Abide with me: for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent." And in the very midst of our ordinary lives, something will happen, the remembrance of Him will enchant us, "and our eyes will be opened, and we shall know Him."

Remember this, will you, when you take walks? Remember it whenever anything is worrying you. Remember it this summer. Take walks with Our Lord. He really is with you. Make it real. Keep it real. Easter all the time.

Then when our day is really far spent, and it is toward evening, and our walk is getting near its end, our eyes will be opened as they never were before, and we shall know Him, and that time He will not vanish out of our sight. He will never again be out of our sight. For we shall see Him forever.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

In the midst of the Easter-tide Alleluias, a promise is given. "There shall be one fold." Then the Alleluias continue.

For He who made the promise is the same Lord who rose from the dead. So the fulfillment of His promise is an article of Faith. And we sing "I believe one Catholic and Apostolic Church. I look for the resurrection of the dead. And the life of the world to come."

Heresies will perish. Schisms will be healed. The Shepherd knows His sheep. The sheep know their Shepherd. He will call. They will hear. We do not know when. Or how. But He will come. And when He comes, He will come suddenly.

There are three things that we must do.

1. We must pray to the Holy Ghost for the gift of a great love for Our Lord. And as we pray, we must remember that this love is to express itself through our wills. We must show our love by giving up our wills. Surrendered wills are the sacrifices of perfect love. And surrender results in union. A surrendered will becomes one with the Will of God. An unsundered will is a zero. A surrendered will receives God's one. The one before the zero makes ten. 0=nothing. 10=ten.

2. We must pray to the Holy Ghost for the gift of true charity. And again charity expresses itself through our wills. We must be persons of good will toward all men, "and especially unto them that are of the household of faith." We can't always manage our attractions and aversions, but we can always manage our wills. We can will ourselves to resist temptations against charity. We can will ourselves to refrain from thinking or speaking or acting uncharitably, no matter how great the provocation may be. "By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye love one another."

3. We must continue to do everything in our power to increase and deepen devotion to the Blessed Sacrament. The Blessed Sacrament is the centre of unity. We and all others who shall be partakers of this Holy Communion receive the precious Body and Blood of Jesus Christ, are made one body with Him, and He dwells in us and we in Him. It is this indwelling life that makes us one. This is the unity which cannot be broken. So long as this life is in us. So long as the Blessed Sacrament is tabernacled on our Altars. So long as the Holy Sacrifice is offered daily in our Churches. So long as we shall be serving God in our generation; having the testimony of a good conscience; in the communion of the Catholic Church: in the confidence of a certain Faith; in the comfort of a reasonable, religious and holy hope. There shall be one Fold. Alleluia. He is risen. Alleluia.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1925

My Dear People:

We have been observing our Patronal Festival. We have offered our thanksgiving for the gift of the Life of Our Lord. That Life is the one object of our adoration. It is our one source of energy. It is our one attracting power. It is our Strength, our hope, our confidence, our peace and our joy. Without that Life, we can do nothing. With that Life we can do anything that God wills.

We have begun a New Year. The Effectiveness of the New Year depends upon our union with and our unity in that Life. We must be so constantly conscious of that Life, that we became less and less self conscious. The atmosphere of the church must be so changed with the energy of It that the first sensation and thought upon entering will be of the Real Presence. Strangers coming to us must feel the Presence so deeply and so strongly that they will not be conscious of the congregation. And we ourselves must be so quiet and so recollected, that we unconsciously create still silence. Our Lord must have this in order that He may work upon us.

It is not difficult. One need only stop to think of what happens here.

Think of Our Lord's Sacramental Presence, It is always here. He never leaves us.

Every day, in the early morning, He presents us to the Father. As our Mediator He intercedes for us. As our Advocate, He pleads our cause. And we kneel as His clients and are content. Everytime we go to Mass, we change and control and direct the events not only of a day, but of a life time. It is all so reassuring. It makes us so safe and so protected and so care free. Nothing can go far or permanently wrong in our life, if we have frequent access to the Holy Sacrifice. A parish that depends upon its daily Mass is safe. A priest who neglects it is in peril.

Think of Our Lord's life dwelling in the soul. It is a consuming fire that steadily burns away what will destroy us, if it is not destroyed. It is a refining fire that transmutes our natural affection into supernatural clarity. It transmutes the love of our hearts into the love of the Sacred Heart. It transmutes human friendships into the Communion of Saints. That Divine Love is the energy which works the Will of God in us and through us and for us and by us. Our Lord's life in us is our virtue and our hope of glory.

Think of Our Lord dwelling in the Tabernacle. All the day long He is there, waiting for us. He will comfort us when we are sad. He will cheer us when we are lonely. He will soothe us when we are disturbed. He will refresh us when we are tired. And all the night, while we are sleeping, He will wait for us to come to Him in the morning.

Our Lord at Mass, in the Soul at Communion, in the Tabernacle, is true to His promise. "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." To Him we owe all that we have, all that we are and all that we hope to be. In Him, Saint Mark's is serene, stable and strong. To Him we ascribe all praise and glory and honor and might and majesty and thanksgiving.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1925

My Dear People:

The secret of true joy is always very near at hand. We do not need to change our environment to discover it. We only need to change ourselves. The troubles of life can all be traced to unruly wills and disordered affections.

The Will of God is the fresh spring of happiness. When we pray "Thy will be done on earth, as it is in Heaven," we are praying for Heavenly happiness on earth. When we pray "Thy will, not mine, be done," we are really praying for our own happiness. The purpose of prayer is not to bend God's Will to ours, but to unite our will with His. The purpose of prayer is to set our affections on things above, and not on things on the earth. Our real purpose in prayer is to change ourselves. When we make our Communion, we offer and present ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy, and living sacrifice. We offer up our wills and hearts. We leave them in God's keeping. This is all we need to do. We need have no further anxiety. Our circumstances may or may not be changed. But we shall be changed. This is the only thing that matters. We shall have fixed our hearts where true joys are to be found.

Now the wonderful thing about all this is that it really works. In the first place it leads to the possession of a joy that the world cannot give. Nor can the world take it away. And in the second place it is the only true joy, because it is the only joy that makes us really joyful. The world never knew the meaning of joy, until Our Lord brought it. And when it came, it burst upon us with a Gloria and transposed into an Alleluia.

"Sursum Corda, lift up your hearts," cries the priest at Mass. "We lift them up unto the Lord," we answer. And angels and archangels and all the company of Heaven become our companions in joy. It is just as Our Lord told us. "The Kingdom of Heaven is within you." "Your heart shall rejoice." When? The very moment we allow God to order our wills and fix our hearts.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1925

My Dear People:

Our Lord has told us to pray in His Name. If we are to pray rightly we must identify ourselves with Him. So it is necessary for us to keep constantly in mind Our Lord's own life, by which He identified Himself with us. We shall learn to recognize the marks of identification if we train ourselves to meditate upon His life. It is not really a difficult thing to do. The appointed devotions for the Christian year will give us the material for meditation. If we follow the steps of Our Lord's life from Bethlehem to Heaven, we shall see that He has lived through the whole range of human experience, sin only excepted. And for sin He has given us the secret of reparation in the mystery of His Passion. Whatever we pray, we must make one perpetual reservation and that is that we may never miss one of His steps. In some way we must have some share in His life in Bethlehem, Nazareth, the desert, Jerusalem, Gethsemane and Calvary. If we persevere as far as this, the Garden of the Resurrection will be the reward. There will be times when our human nature may move us to shrink from the rigors of discipleship. If and when we do pray with clamorous self will, Our Lord will test us with a searching question. That question will be, "Will ye also go away?" Sometimes we may be scattered every man to his own, and we may leave Him alone. But sooner or later we shall discover that our own will not satisfy us. He allows this in order that He may dispel our illusions. In the end we are bound to come back to Him with the question, "To whom shall we go?" Where He is, there you must be. There is no happiness anywhere else. No one can take His place. "Suffer me not to be separated from Thee" is the only prayer that matters. And it is the one prayer for which we may be certain of a literal answer. In this answer we shall have our peace. Some of the tribulations from which we prayed for escape, will remain. He has prepared us for this. But even so, we shall find ourselves possessed with the power to be cheerful in tribulation. He will turn sorrow into joy so constantly and so invariably that we can scarcely escape the conviction that He really has overcome the world. As this conviction dawns and deepens, our prayer life will become simple and childlike and happy. We shall pray without ceasing. We shall be anxious for nothing.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SUNDAY AFTER ASCENSION DAY, 1925

My Dear People:

There is a very great need in the world today of a definite devotion to Our Lord in the glorious mystery of the Ascension.

The Holy nativity devotions are almost spontaneous. I suppose that almost every one feels and in some measure responds to the thrill of Christmas, with its midnight wonders of shepherds and angels, and its morning mystery of the Manger. It is a God-forsaken house-hold for which the Christmas Communion is not the first and foremost event of Christmas Day.

The Passion-tide devotions are rooted deeply in the hearts of most people. A casual visit to Saint Mark's on Good Friday would convince any one of that. The crowded church, the tense Three Hours, the sigh in the singing, the sudden darkness and the silence can never be forgotten.

The Easter-tide devotions with the rush of Alleluias; the old cry which is new each year, "The Lord is risen," and the breathless response, "He is risen indeed;" the thronged Altars; the outstretched hands and the Life-giving Sacrament; the certainty of the resurrection of our bodies and better still the bodies dearer to us than our own; all this means life, everlasting life. Easter is irresistible.

But this is not all. We cannot stop here. Christmas-tide means love. Passion-tide means redemption. Easter-tide means life. Ascension-tide means home. That word unlocks the secret door of every human heart. Every exile with every other longing starved, still longs for home.

Ascension-tide reveals the shining road with the blazing gates at the end, flung open wide. Down that road the Voice rings reassuringly. "In my Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you." Somewhere in that great gleaming city is your place. In that place you shall find Him. And you shall find your dearest and your best. And you shall find your heart's desire. There will be no sighings there, for there will be no separations. There will be no tears there, for there will be no sorrows.

It is the human joys of Ascension-tide that need to be set before us. After all we are human. Human joys are the joys we understand. So God was made Man, that we might understand. Once we come to know Our Lord in His Ascension as we have come to know Him in the Crib, on the Cross and in the Garden, then no power on earth will hold down our hearts and minds. We will seize His hand in our Ascension-tide Communion. We shall have Heaven in our hearts. Then nothing else will matter.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People:

We are offering our devotions today to the Most Holy Trinity. "It is very meet, right and our bounden duty, that we should at all times, and in all places, give thanks unto Thee, O Lord, Almighty and Everlasting God, Who art one God, one Lord, not one only Person, but three Persons in one Substance. For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality."

We sing the Sanctus with the Angels. The Angels see God's unveiled face. When shall we? And what do we do in the meanwhile?

We shall see God when we shall have arrived at the perfection of Purgation. For the sight of God is the reward of the pure in heart. By purity of heart is meant detachment from all that is not of God, and attachment to all that is of God. We shall reach this state if we persevere. Then we shall see God for ourselves, and our eyes shall behold and not another.

What about the meanwhile? Well, first of all and all the while, we must be proved and tried and tested. We may see God, if we choose. But we must choose. And we must choose of our own free will. There can be no compulsion. So there must be temptation. To really choose we must see what is not of God. And we must feel its attraction. And repudiate it. We must give it up when it is hardest to give it up. This is what is meant by mortifying corrupt affections. In one form or another it is a life long process. There is no sin in feeling the attraction offered. The conscious attraction of a resisted temptation is the opportunity for virtue. Real detachments really hurt at the time and for a long time after. God knows how much. It is just because He does know, that He is never so near as when the temptation is most severe. When we have succeeded, He sends angels and humans to minister to us. We find ourselves emerged from what we see to have been a hideous

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925

My Dear People:

The Great Festivals have come and gone. And now we are concerned with the Great Commandments of Our Lord. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God. Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." It was Saint Thérèse who said, "True love is nourished by sacrifice, and the more the soul denies itself natural satisfactions, the stronger and the more disinterested becomes its tenderness." Love is the sacrificial instinct. Saint Paul told us that it is possible to speak with the tongues of men and of angels; to have the gift of prophecy and to understand all mysteries; and all knowledge; to have all faith so that one could remove mountains; to bestow all one's goods to feed the poor; to give one's body to be burned, and yet to lack love.

Saint John comes to our assistance today. He tells us that love is of God. And that the secret of possessing the love of God lies in our being possessed of God. Then it all becomes simple. The mysteries of Faith reveal the love of God. The mysteries of Grace convey the love of God. We must approach both as little children. We must be humble and simple and trustful. We must make living tabernacles of our hearts and cherish the indwelling Presence of Our Lord. It is a great help to make frequent acts of love to Our Lord in our hearts. To make frequent acts of adoration: "My God, I love Thee," "Blessed, praised, hallowed, worshipped and adored be Jesus Christ in my heart."

We ought to make meditations on "Christ within us." An Our Father, a Veni Creator, and at least five minutes a day in quiet, with an act of oblation of our hearts to the Sacred Heart, will work wonders.

We ought to say our prayers with the one thought of surrendering our wills to God. We ought to say constantly, "I offer and present myself, my soul and body, to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice."

We ought, when we are resisting temptation, to forget ourselves, to offer up the temptation for those we love, and to say, "For their sakes, I sanctify myself."

We ought, when we attempt good works, to put far from us any thought of personal satisfaction in the sense of achievement, and to act in simple kindness, without elation at success or depression at failure.

We ought to be patient with ourselves. This is true humility. And we shall become far more patient with others. The very important thing is to keep interior quiet, as well as we can, no matter what happens. Then it will gradually come about, that, whether we realize it or not, the love of Christ will steadily and constantly constrain us. Everything we do, we shall do for the love of God. We shall be kind and gentle and courteous. Gradually the love of God will cast out all our fears. The perfection of love will bring joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance. God will be dwelling in us and His love will be perfected in us.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925

My Dear People:

Devotion is the movement of the will in response to Charity or the Love of God. It is an act of the will by which a person offers to God soul, mind and body for reasonable service. The spirit of devotion is obedience to God, in all things. To be devout, one must give one's all. Whatever God gives back must be regarded as a trust, for which an account of stewardship must be given.

The moment one begins to attempt the devout life, one's spiritual difficulties begin. The more one perseveres, the greater the difficulties become. The more conscious one becomes of spiritual difficulties, the more one becomes conscious of the need of spiritual help. The more conscious one becomes of one's spiritual necessities, the less difficult it becomes to resort to prayer and the means of Grace. They who hunger and thirst after righteousness are blessed, not because they hunger and thirst, but because their hunger and thirst will drive them on, and will not allow them to rest or falter, until they are filled. It is the hungry who are filled with good things.

The devout person is not devout because he prays. A man may pray from temperamental reasons, and not be really devout at all. The devout person prays because he is devout. The temperamental person is moved by his emotions. The devout person is actuated by his will. Prayer is a luxury for the temperamental. It is a necessity for the devout.

The devout person is not devout because he goes to Church. He goes to Church because he is devout. Church-going is a luxury for the temperamental. It is a necessity for the devout. The temperamental person will have a fine discrimination in choice of days and in matters of music, ritual and sermons. The devout person will be concerned with the one thing needful. The devout person seeks the meeting place with God. In God he finds his joy.

The devout person is not devout because he uses the Sacraments. He frequents the Sacraments because he is devout. Again a person may have recourse to the Sacraments from temperamental reasons. The temperamental person will avail himself of the Sacraments when and as he feels inclined. The devout person is urged by a necessity which leaves him no choice. He cannot live without God. And he finds God in the Sacraments.

The devout person is not necessarily a saint. But he is in the way of becoming a saint. He has given himself to God. There are passions to be conquered. There are affections to be transmuted. There is a nature to be purified by pain. There is a self to be crucified. In his desert; on his hill of prayer; in his Gethsemane; on his Calvary, his soul cries aloud for God. God in prayer. God in the Sacraments. God at Mass. God all the day. God all the night. God for all time. God for eternity.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925

My Dear People:

Humility is the secret of a quiet mind. Humility is the grace by which all things are seen in true proportions and right relations. The humble person sees things as they really are. The humble person has no illusions. He distrusts himself. He trusts God. He knows his own weakness. He therefore depends wholly upon Divine Grace. He feels his cares. But he casts them unreservedly at the feet of God. He is aware of the perils that surround him. But he resists his temptations, steadfast in the faith that he, with his brethren that are in the world, will not be tempted beyond the strength given, and that the way to escape will not be wanting. He is prepared to suffer. Nor is he dismayed when for a while sensible consolations are withdrawn from him. When, after a while, he perceives himself to have been established, strengthened and settled, he gives glory and dominion to God, and continues quietly on his way. His rule is "Keep your heart in peace, let nothing disturb it: all things have an end." Saint Teresa said, "However deep humility may be, it neither disquiets, wearies nor disturbs the soul, but is peaceful, sweet and serene. It dilates instead of troubling or depressing the soul, making it more capable of serving God."

Simplicity is the child of humility. Under the clear, white, steady light of simplicity, temptations shrivel. Temptations are the result of vividly dramatized situations, in which one promised gratification is magnified beyond semblance of truth, and its consequence treacherously hidden in a temporary darkness, upon which, sooner or later, the light will beat disconcertingly.

Pride is the passion which lures the soul to regard only the gratification, and maddens it to disregard the consequence. Pride imprisons the soul and leaves it to feed upon itself. The child of pride is despair, which plunges the soul into darkness.

God has made it easy for us to be humble and simple. We have only to train ourselves to remember that He cares for us. He always cares. And He cares most when we deserve least. If we have sinned, there is Penence. If we are weak, there is Communion. If we are suffering, there is Prayer. And underneath are the Everlasting Arms. So the companion of Simplicity is Cheerfulness.

This is what we want, isn't it? Who does not want to be simple and cheerful? Saint Peter learned the lesson in his school of fire. "Be clothed with humility."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

LEWIS ALEX WADLOW, Organist and Choirmaster

My Dear People:

The Collect for Saint Michael and All Angels' Day teaches us that God has ordained and constituted the services of Angels and men in a wonderful order. Just what does this mean? It will help us to understand if we take the three words ordained, constituted, order, as points for meditation. Let us do that, and see what we shall get out of it.

1 Ordained. It is a part of God's plan to execute His Will through the ministry of His creatures. He assigns work to Angels and men. He gives power to Angels and men and uses them as ministers of His Providence. The work they do is God's work. The power which they exercise is God's power. No work of God can fail. No enemy of God can resist His power. The Angels and men of God are irresistible because they have been given power in Heaven and on Earth. They are God's legions. God has ordained that they should serve Him without weariness, rest or defeat.

2 Constituted. Angels and men stand together. They think together. They move together. They act together. What is the secret of their unity? The secret is that the Will of God binds the will of each to Himself and each to the other in Him. They are one in Him. Their unity with God, makes their unity in God. So they stand together. All that is required of each is to maintain flawless unity with God. The personal integrity of each is the secret of the solidarity of all. One single, supreme obedience welds the wills of a multitude which no man can number into one will which is one with the Will of God. So no one stands alone.

3 Order. There are orders, hierarchies and ranks. To each Angel and each man there is an ordered place. And for each vocation there is the gift of grace necessary for its fulfillment. There are varieties of vocations and diversities of gifts. Each Angel and each man is responsible for each several service. Each goes so far and

THE EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925

My Dear People:

The Gospel for today teaches us that the great commandment of the law is to love God and our neighbor. We love God by being devout. We love our neighbor by being charitable. Let us think of the first and great commandment. What does it mean to be devout? What is devotion? It has been defined as "the desire to render God His due." It is an exercise of the will. It incites the will to action, and most often, when the action may be contrary to desire. It is the sacrificial offering of self to God. True devotion means giving all and asking nothing.

Devotion is the motive for going to church. The devout person goes to church to give something to Almighty God. That something is worship. What is worship? Worship is the interior acknowledgment of God, expressed by outward and visible signs. We worship in spirit if the interior acknowledgment is adequate. We worship in truth if the outward signs are sincere.

Non-attendance at church is frequently commented upon and variously explained. The non-church goer is portrayed in heroic proportions, pointing the finger of accusation toward the "church." It appears that the "church" is unworthy of him—the "church" has failed him. Last week the headlines in my Ledger conveyed the appalling news gathered from the report of a speech of a minister of religion that "the church was responsible for crime." It would be quaint if an additional burden were to be laid upon the shoulders of General Butler, requiring him to organize a "church squad"—with motor cycles and fleeing preachers?

It has been discovered of

SAINT LUKE'S DAY, 1925
THE 19TH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

My Dear People:

I wrote to you last Sunday about private devotion. Today I have something to say about public devotion or corporate worship. For this we have our Book of Common Prayer, in which our services are prescribed. The Prayer Book gives us the standard and expresses the mind of the Church.

At the centre is the Liturgy, Holy Communion, Eucharist, Mass. Whatever the descriptive title may be, the thing is the same. It is the Sacrifice of the Lamb of God Who taketh away the sins of the world. It is the bounden duty and service of Christians, on every Lord's Day, having in remembrance His blessed passion and precious death, His mighty resurrection and glorious ascension, to render most hearty thanks for the innumerable benefits procured unto us by the same, and to offer the Sacrifice that we, and all the whole Church, may obtain remission of our sins and all other benefits of His Passion.

The climax of the Liturgy is the Consecration, for it is then that the Body and Blood of Our Lord are on the Altar. Much as a person may love certain parts of the Liturgy, the Collect, Epistle, Gospel, Sanctus, nothing should divert the mind from the climax, up to which everything works, the Consecration. This is why it is wrong

THE 20TH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

My Dear People:

I am writing to you this week about the Offices of Matins and Evensong. These Prayer Book Offices are to Parochial life what the Breviary Offices are to the Monastic life. Their purpose is to provide for the orderly recitation of the Psalter, the reading of Holy Scripture and to maintain fixed hours for prayer. Those of you who are accustomed to visiting Religious Houses of men or women, know that the rendition of the Divine Office with unbroken regularity and devout precision is regarded as the Work of God. It is the pulse beat of the prayer life of the Community. It is the secret and the evidence of stability. Lauds, Prime, Tierce, Sext, None, Vespers, Compline and in some Houses the Night Office, like grains of incense cast into the fire, ascend and mingle with the Heavenly incense which is the prayers of the Saints. With each Office go the special intentions which direct and apply the prayer energy to the needs of those whose lives are in the world.

For those lives another legion of God is responsible. They have their houses of prayer. Parish Priests and Mission Sisters serve them in the world. In each Parish Church the work of prayer is carried on. The heart of the Monastic Office is contained in the Parochial Office. The recitation of Matins and Evensong daily and without break is also the secret and the evidence of the stability of Parochial life. It is the pulse beat of the Parish. The Parochial rule of prayer must be adapted to the requirements of labor which life in the world exacts. But the Priests maintain the recitation of the Office and carry in their intentions the needs of their people. The Office is of obligation for the Priests. It is not of obligation for the people.

In Cathedrals or Churches where there is a Choir School, the Office is usually sung. In Saint Mark's only Sunday Evensong is sung. Some day we may have a Choir School, then the Office will be sung here. But it makes no difference. The one thing that matters is regularity. Because the Office is offered to God. It is not said or sung to attract an audience. If you can make it a part of your prayer rule to come to some of the Offices, you will get your reward. If you can only come to one, I recommend Evensong on Sundays.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

ALL SAINTS' DAY, 1925.

My Dear People:

"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ", is a very good text for All Saints' Day and All Souls' Day. The Communion of Saints means that there are "many members, yet but one body. That there should be no schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another. And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it. Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular".

The next thing to remember is, that we no longer have to reckon with death. Our Lord has overcome death. Death neither separates the souls nor interrupts the prayer life of those who are one in Him. Everything goes on just the same. If these two things are kept in mind, the custom of invoking the Saints and praying for the dead is easily understood.

The Saints are they who have attained perfection. They have attained to glory, and we rejoice with them and honour them with the veneration which is their due. The Saints have been made perfect in charity. So they are not unmindful of the humble members of Christ's Body, who are suffering. Their way of giving aid is through prayer. We will never know in this world, how much they have helped us. It is just because Our Lord has made them sensitive to our needs that they are sensitive to our desires. If we invoke their prayers, they will grant our request.

The Souls of the faithful are in process of being made perfect, whether in the body or out of it. This process involves suffering. As we grow in the love of God, we grow in sympathy. We pray more for others. Wherever they are, they are alive. Because they live, we pray for them. We offer the Holy Sacrifice for them. We offer our prayers, our alms and our good deeds for them. We shall never know, in this world, how much we have helped them. But in the discovery of the fuller meaning of the Communion of Saints, we shall rid ourselves for ever of the terrifying desolation of bereavement.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925.

My Dear People:

I have written to you about Mass and the Office. This week I am writing to you about visits to the church for private devotion. Many people come to Saint Mark's for private prayer. The many who find comfort and rest and strength by so doing will not need to read this letter. But I think that there are many more who have not learned to seek sanctuary. We all need either to deepen or discover the joys of prayer.

There is no doubt that we all have need to escape from and relieve the pressure of the inescapable trials of daily life. We cannot safely wait for Sundays to pray in Church. If our difficulties become the occasions of new spiritual adventures, they are well worth what they cost us. When we have formed the habit of fighting out our battles on our knees before the parish altar, we shall love the parish church.

The Blessed Sacrament is the meeting place. The red lamp is the beacon light of Heaven. It is a wonderful thing to have Our Lord to flee to. One can get to Him so easily. It only requires a little planning. One can arrange to make a visit to the Tabernacle at any hour. A man can manage to get a few minutes on the way down town in the morning. Or he can get a little time at noon. Or he can end his day by refreshing himself in the Presence. Soon he will find that he instinctively goes to the Church to pray whenever he is troubled. It is so much better than burning himself out by brooding. The oftener he goes to pray, the oftener he will need to return to give thanks.

It is well for every man to have a book of private devotions. The Treasury of Devotion is as good as anything I know. But most often a man will pray best in his own words. And not infrequently he will do well to kneel in silence. Our Lord works wonders in silence.

I advise every one who reads this letter, to select one day a week in which to make a visit to the Blessed Sacrament. Make that visit a fixed engagement with Our Lord. Then very wonderful things will happen.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My dear Mr. Wheeler:

November Fourth, 1925

Bishop Freeman and Dean Bratenahl have asked me to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the receipt of $62 for Washington Cathedral, representing the annual offering from St. Mark's Church.

The unfailing and generous interest of the people of your Church in our Cathedral undertaking since 1919 has been a source of great inspiration to all of us who are privileged to help carry on the work in a humble way. We shall appreciate it if you will extend a cordial invitation to any of the people of St. Mark's who contributed to these offerings to visit Mount Saint Alban whenever they come to Washington and see for themselves how their gifts are being used to hasten the upbuilding of the Cathedral.

With renewed appreciation and all good wishes, I am

Faithfully yours,

EDWIN N. LEWIS, Executive Secretary.

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1925.

My Dear People:

On Armistice Day we were bidden to remember, on the stroke of eleven o'clock, those who had given their lives in the world war. All over America this was done. When Big Ben rang, all London stopped, was silent, remembered and prayed. I suppose this happened all over the world. Every one knew what it was all about and why it was done.

Once upon a day, God gave His Only Begotten Son, to the end that all that believe in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

The Angel announced unto Mary.
And she conceived of the Holy Ghost.

And Mary said, "Behold the Handmaid of the Lord."
Be it unto me according unto Thy word.

And the Word was made Flesh.
And dwelt among us.

Now this is the greatest thing that ever happened to the world. Nothing else compares with it.

So, three times a day, we pause and remember it. We recite the Angelic salutation to Mary and we pray that God may pour His grace into our hearts, that as we have known the Incarnation of God's Son, Jesus Christ by the message of an angel, so by His Cross and Passion, we may be brought unto the glory of His Resurrection.

This devotion is called the Angelus. All over the world, morning, mid-day and evening, Christians observe it, as we do ourselves at Saint Mark's.

It is a reasonable devotion, isn't it? It is a necessary devotion, in these days of unbelief and misbelief, isn't it? It is a beautiful devotion, isn't it? And when you think of all those who use it, all over the world, and of how the Angelus unites all hearts and opens all lips to show forth one common praise of the Redeemer of all mankind, it is a wonderful devotion, isn't it?

Do you say the Angelus? If you don't, wouldn't you like to?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

THE SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT, 1925.

My Dear People:

Once a year, at least, it is well to examine one's rule of life. Before Advent we ought to test our rule by the experiences of the past year. If revision is necessary, we should attend to it.

We are all creatures of habit. Consciously or unconsciously, we all have a rule. The main points of a rule are concerned with the practise of prayer, and the use of the Sacraments. If one has a definite rule, the thing to do is to look back over the year to see whether or not the rule has been fulfilled. If it has been, then there may be a question as to whether the rule may be expanded. Perhaps an extra private devotion might be added. Perhaps the number of Communions might be increased.

If there have been irregularities in observance, it is possible that a revision is necessary. Perhaps the rule was too exacting. It is better to keep a simple rule than to neglect a rigorous one. Experience will teach us our capabilities and our limitations.

An examination of conscience concerning our rule will enable us to know if we have been lax. If the trouble is with us and not with the rule, then we must try harder and persevere under our infirmities. It is all such a personal affair, that I would not for worlds intrude. But I think that you might find a rule card useful. So I have prepared one. If you care to take one home, you might fill it out and keep it to refer to. Of course it would be for your eye alone. You must decide for yourself how much of it you will observe. Then you can write in, on the blank space, what you like. For example, after Communion, write the stated times for receiving. If you want to have special week days for Mass or an Office or Intercessions or Visits to the Sacrament, write that in. And so on. Do you see what I mean?

My one desire for you is, that wherever you are you may have the feeling that you are protected and sustained and cheered by your religion, particularly from Monday morning until Saturday night. The week day religion is what counts. The Sundays are not so difficult. I thought the cards might help. I hope they will.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT, 1925

My Dear People:

One of our duties towards our neighbour is "to do my duty in that state of life unto which it shall please God to call me." So in making a rule of life, we are bound to make a rule which will be suitable to our state in life. The object of the rule is to help us to do our duty. The Catechism teaches us that God calls us to a state in life. A person who has failed to attain to that state is said to have missed his or her vocation. In that case the vocation will have been missed or lost for lack of a well kept rule. The rule is the safe guard of vocation. It is the safe guard of any vocation, whatever it may be. If a person has a vocation to the Ecclesiastical State, that is, to be a Priest; or to the Religious Life, that is, to be a monk or a nun, the Rule must be suitable to the State of life. But the point I make here is, that God gives Vocations to live in the world. The Secular Vocation is a true Vocation. Now a person who has a Secular Vocation is not expected to live under a rule suitable to the Ecclesiastical Vocation, or the Religious Vocation. But what we all have to do, is to walk worthy of the Vocation wherewith we are called. We do that by making God the Centre of our world, whatever it is. The Rule makes God the Centre and keeps us at the Centre. The rule makes it possible to be in the world but not of it. And that means escaping many things, including being bored to death. A Rule will give you just enough detachment to make you free. And just enough freedom to make you keen. And if you are free and keen, you will be happy. So, you see, you really do need a Rule. And this does not mean that you must be some one else. You only need to be yourself in your own world.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Private morning and night Prayers are given first mention in our Rule of Life, because our daily private devotions afford us an indication of our spiritual condition. They are reliable tests of spiritual vitality. If we are normal, our morning and night prayers will be regular. If they are irregular, there is something wrong somewhere.

I am writing today concerning the spirit of private devotion. Before we consider that, however, it will be well to provide ourselves with whatever has been proved useful for the mechanics of prayer. I feel sure that a book of private devotion is necessary. And for this reason. We all need a scheme of prayer. We need a model form which will illustrate the scope and content of private prayer. We need a book of private prayer for the same reason that we need a book of Common Prayer. There are many books of private prayer. I have never seen a book better than "The Treasury of Devotion." I recommend it to you. In time, undoubtedly, you will color your own prayer life. You will pray more and more in your own words. But you will retain the outline, and the structure will be the lasting legacy of your book.

You will need a visible sign to serve you as a reminder of your duty to pray. I advise you to have a Crucifix hanging on the wall of your sleeping room. Bring your Crucifix to the Church to be blessed. Then pray your way through life at the foot of the Cross.

The spirit of private daily prayer is this. In the morning you renew your life vow to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto your life's end. This is the reason the Christian signs himself with the sign of the Cross. All through the day, wherever you are, whatever you are doing, your single intention is to be loyal to God. Loyalty is the watch word by day.

At night you commend those for whose well being you are responsible to God. You pray for forgiveness for your failures. You return thanks for your mercies. You pray for a blessing. Then in simple faith you take your rest. Trust is the watch word by night.

You will pray as you breathe. And you will be at peace.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT, 1925

My Dear People:

Meditation is the fourth point in our Rule. It sounds difficult. I know it can be made so. But I don't think it really is. It all depends upon how one goes about it. If you stick to a book or imitate a person or assign too long a time, the chances are the average person living in the world will decide not to try. But my point today is that persons living in the world cannot get through a day without meditating about something. For after all to meditate is just to stop and think. We would be frightfully dull if we didn't do that. It may only be the coffee or the head lines of the paper, at breakfast, or the plans for the day, or the mail or a book or a play. But it is something. And it isn't the time it takes, but it is the thought that matters.

The idea of daily meditation is to make sure of at least one thought about God to carry through the day. The thought will not always be in the front of one's mind. But it will be at the back where thoughts lodge and affect speech and acts far more than we realize. That is simple enough, isn't it?

But when can time be found? Well, if you really haven't a spare moment all day long, you can manage it while you are dressing, or on your way to your first appointment, or in a motor, or on a bus, or in a street car, or any where when you do not have to think about what you have to do for some one else. There is always a free time, even if it isn't a long time.

But what will you meditate about? O, one of the verses you read in the Bible Reading or the last Sunday's Gospel or Epistle or Collect, or one of the Sacraments, or something you heard in a sermon, or the season of the Church year, or something in a spiritual book. You have enough material. Only (this is important) you ought to plan it out, on Sunday, say, for a week ahead, a point a day.

But how will you do it? (1) Say an Our Father and a Come Holy Ghost Our Souls Inspire. (2) Recollect your point. (3) Reflect how it ought to affect you. (4) Resolve to act accordingly. (5) Say "In the Name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

You may accomplish it in three minutes anywhere or thirty minutes in church. In either case it will be a Meditation.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

O holy Night, the stars are brightly shining,
It is the night of the dear Saviour's birth.
Long lay the world in sin and error pining,
Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth.
A thrill of hope the weary world rejoices,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn.
Fall on your knees! O hear the angel voices!
O night divine, when Christ was born.

Led by the light of Faith serenely beaming,
With glowing hearts, by His cradle we stand.
So led by the light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Here came the Wise Men from the Orient land.
The King of Kings lay thus in lowly manger,
In all our trials born to be our friend.
He knows our need! He guardeth us from danger,
Behold your King! Before the Lowly bend!

O holy Night, the stars are brightly shining,
It is the night of the dear Saviour's birth.
Long lay the world in sin and error pining,
Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth.
A thrill of hope the weary world rejoices,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn.
Fall on your knees! O hear the angel voices!
O night divine, when Christ was born.

Led by the light of Faith serenely beaming,
With glowing hearts, by His cradle we stand.
So led by the light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Here came the Wise Men from the Orient land.
The King of Kings lay thus in lowly manger,
In all our trials born to be our friend.
He knows our need! He guardeth us from danger,
Behold your King! Before the Lowly bend!

My Dear People:

The fifth point in our Rule is Confession.

I am not at the moment concerned with the doctrine of Confession. There is no escaping it, if one is logical. The principle involved in Absolving is one and the same with the principle involved in Baptizing or Confirming. Spiritual gifts are conferred through visible signs by a human ministry. The argument against the Sacrament of Penance sweeps with it the Sacrament of Baptism and the Sacrament of Confirmation and the whole Sacramental System.

Nor am I concerned with cautionary admonitions against its free use or with warnings concerning its alleged abuse. Those who go to Confession are satisfied with its use. The alleged abuses are invariably the obsessions of those who have no experimental knowledge in the matter.

I am writing today of one particular aspect of Confession. It is the protective benefit that I have in mind.

The sorrows of the soul cannot long be suppressed with safety. Morbidity lies that way. Nor can they be prudently confided to any and every person who seems to be sympathetic. Self-pity is the poison of that practise.

Yet there are griefs that cry for human counsel, and there are wounds that only God can heal.

There are crises that require secret speech under sealed silence and Divine power through human agencies. The Confessional precisely supplies this very need.

The prescribed examination of conscience reasonably insures the necessary manifestation of the symptoms to be observed for correct diagnosis.

The form required for Confession insures brevity, simplicity and directness.

The seal of the Sacrament of Penance safeguards inviolably the confidences of the penitent.

The counsel given removes anxiety by the weight of the authority which accompanies it.

The efficacy of the absolution imparted is attested by the Saviour of the world Who declared that they who are so loosed on earth are loosed in Heaven.

The Penance given provides wholesome relief for what remains of suppressed emotion.

The Amendment required stimulates and re-directs the will into normal expression.

There has never yet been discovered a satisfactory substitute for the Confessional. Without hesitation or exception I advise its habitual use.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS, 1926

My Dear People:

Communion is the next point in our Rule. The promise of the Christmas Gospel is that Our Lord will give us power to become the sons of God. He makes us His children in Baptism. He gives us the power of children of God in Communion. The power is renewed with every Communion. It is developed by filial devotion.

When we kneel with outstretched hands at the Altar, we offer and receive a gift. Our gift to God is our selves, our souls and bodies, our understanding, memory, will and affections. God's gift to us is Himself. His Sacred Humanity unites our own with Him. The fire of His love consumes the evil that is in us and releases the good which He has made possible for us. That good is rightly called virtue or power. It is the power of the Sons of God. It is the energy released by the action of Divine Fire upon human nature. It is stronger than any force opposed to God. It prevails over every enemy of the sons of God. The gifts are exchanged in silence and the power is generated in secret. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when He shall appear we shall be like Him." In the ordinary events of the common life the process goes on. The surface flaws will be apparent. We shall see them in each other constantly. Charity will not require us to be blind to the imperfections that we see in each other. But charity will open our eyes to the results of Our Lord's workmanship. The shadows will only bring out the lights. What we are will be forgiven for the sake of what we are becoming. As we live on together, days and years will pass very swiftly. Impressions will deepen and memories will mellow and faith in God and each other will grow steadfast. And all the while the life that is hid with Christ in God will mould us into the family and bind us with the House-hold of God.

Some day will be the eve of Eternity. Sacraments will cease. Mysteries will be unveiled. The secrets of all hearts will be revealed. We shall all awake after His likeness and be satisfied. We shall know even as we are known.

This is our real, innermost, intimate life, isn't it? It is because we really have it, that we take sweet counsel together and walk in the House of God as friends.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps
Gleamed that Beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant
Earthly kings array;
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway;
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

My Dear People: THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY, 1926
Sunday Mass comes next in order in our Rule.

In these brief commentaries on the Rule I am emphasizing the reasonableness rather than the disciplinary aspect. There is a sweet reasonableness in our religion. There is a winsomeness about it that attracts the heart and captivates the will. There is an easiness of the yoke and a lightness of the burden. Devotion discovers the way to make discipline a joy. It is always so with anything we really care for. The reason why we care for anything is that it has something to do with some one we love. We do not have to be told to do it. We just do it. This is why we go to Mass on Sunday. I think every one would go to Mass, if only once they understood what it is all about.

I myself know less than nothing about music. It is because I am too stupid to understand what it is all about. But I try. I always read what a learned acquaintance of mine writes in the news paper about the Symphonies and the Operas. Sometimes I wish I did understand the Symphony. And sometimes I wish I didn't understand the Opera.

But I do wish that every one understood the Mass. Because it is the one really thrilling thing in all the world and sea and sky. It is the one undimmed truth and the one unfading splendor on earth and in Heaven. It is the one symphony that is Celestial. It is the one drama that is Divine. It is the one great, gleaming, golden Arch that spans from earth to Heaven. The Pontiff who built this Bridge is God. And over it walk men and angels.

The truth that the Mass contains is simply astounding. The act which expresses that truth is astoundingly simple. It is astounding because it announces that God came to earth and was Incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and dwelt among us, and suffered and died for our sins, and rose from the dead to restore to us everlasting life and ascended into Heaven to prepare a place for us. But the supremely astounding climax in the Mass is the moment when the God Who did all this appears in person, Sacramentally veiled, and exposes Himself to our sight for our adoration.

The Mass is astoundingly simple. So simple that it shows forth in one act things which if they should be written every one, even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. So simple that old men and children, young men and maidens, virgins and matrons, the learned and the unlearned, may hear each in their own language, of their own hearts, the wonderful works of God, and see with their own eyes the mighty thing which has come to pass.

When all the world is mixed and muddled and distracted, and wilful and wanton and soiled, and mad and sad and wistful, the Mass is the massive miracle of truth and light and joy and hope and comfort and peace and sanity and stability, the one thing on earth that shall not pass away.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EPIPHANY, 1926

My Dear People:

Week day Mass comes next in our Rule. The point that I emphasize is this. Our Lord has taught us that the safe-guard against anxiety is to commit our cares to God; that the secure protection against despondency is to live one day at a time; that the sure sufficiency of sustenance is to be found in Daily Bread. This is precisely what Daily Mass makes possible.

I suppose that most of us know what it means to urge an unsoothed mind to troubled sleep, while all the while the heart is heavy. We are not apt to forget the vague depression of first awakening. For an instant the sensation is undefined. And then remembrance stabs us. There is another day to live through. How to do it, God only knows. But there is the point. God does know. And God is at Mass. So we go to Mass. If God begins the day, then God will end the day. Whatever happens we are sure of that.

When the day is gone, it is really gone. And some how or other we are ready for another. And in the same way, God meets us at Mass. He, to whom a thousand years are but as yesterday, and that which is past as a watch in the night, is the Advocate who pleads our cause and the Governor who orders our way. The Sursum Corda banishes despondency as the sun dispels the mist.

Each day will bring its strain. But it is only the strain of one day. One day's strength is sufficient. That strength is given in the Bread which comes down from Heaven daily. For the Bread is God. And our sufficiency is of God, whose strength is made perfect in weakness.

Now, I do not mean to say that all of life is as desperate as this. though it is in spots. But what I do mean to say is, that Mass has depths of compassion as impressive as its heights of glory. To those who know the depths, it is given to know the heights.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

The first of the three Special Offerings on January 17, for Missionary Purposes for 1926, amounted to $1,110.67.

Tomorrow will be The Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul.

My Dear People:

The Sunday Offices, Matins and Evensong, are of obligation for the Clergy. They are not of obligation for the Laity. The Clergy are required to recite the Office daily. The Laity are not.

Yet in the practise of religion we cannot be content with only doing what we are required to do. We do want to make free-will offerings. The recitation of the Office is a devotion which brings a rich reward. The Psalms, Lessons, Canticles and Collects afford the substance of praise, meditation and prayer. Whether the Office is read in Church, or at home, on train or ship-board, out of doors, in the country or by the sea, it gathers one into a peaceful enclosure, in which one senses the solidarity of the house-hold of God.

The Office ought always to be said with special intention. The first intention is the praise of the Divine Majesty. The second intention is the Mystery commemorated by the day or the season. The third intention is the special intercession, in which we pray for a particular object. The Office is like a censer. Our devotion is like the kindled charcoal. The intentions are like the grains of incense. The fragrant smoke is the symbol of our prayer.

When we offer the Office with special intention for persons we envelope them with the atmosphere of holiness, in which the evil that may be assailing them is frustrated and in which holy desires and good counsels are infused and made fruitful. The persons may be near at hand or far away. They may be aware that the Office is being said for them, or they may be utterly unconscious of the offering. But the effect is irresistible. The Office never fails to accomplish its work of prayer. Next to offering one's Mass or one's Communion, there is no more loving service that one can render to one's friends than to offer the Office for them. The Office, like everything else, is most happy when it is most selfless.

It is easier to say the Office, if one has a Prayer Book and Bible bound together. The book can be obtained in convenient size, at any church book store.

Of course it goes without saying, that the Office cannot be a substitute for Mass. Going to Church means going to Mass. That is the Sunday duty.

But you will find that saying your Office on Sunday will supply a real need in your spiritual life. And there is something about Evensong on Sunday that seems to round out the day. The modern conditions of living force distractions in upon us. At the end of Sunday, one feels the need of being sterilized and toned up. Evensong satisfies the aspiration expressed in the words of the hymn "with Thee began, with Thee shall end the day." A well observed Sunday gives a peace that the world can neither give nor take away.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Tune Rest

Anthem

Sir George C. Martin

Whoso dwelleth under the defense of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say unto the Lord, Thou art my hope and my stronghold, my God, in Him will I trust.

He shall defend thee under His wings and thou shalt be safe under His feathers. His faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

O Jesus, King of Paradise,
O keep me in Thy love
And guide me to that happy land
Of perfect rest above;
Where loyal hearts and true
Stand ever in the light,
All rapture through and through,
In God's most holy sight.

The following letter was received by the Accounting Warden, in response to the check for $1001 sent to Nashotah House:

"January 21, 1926."

"Dear Mr. Wheeler:

A few days ago we had the pleasure of receiving a splendid check from you, and I am writing to thank you and St. Mark's in the name of the House.

We are most grateful for your interest, and if you could let me have a list of the individual donors I would be most happy to express our appreciation to each of them.

In any event, I hope you will let it be known how pleased we are at the confidence in Nashotah which St. Mark's has shown both now and in the past.

Faithfully yours,

Persons who desire to be confirmed, are asked to give their names to the Clergy at once.

My Dear People:

The Daily Offices are recited by the priests publicly in the Church. If pastoral duties prevent a priest from being present in Choir, he reads his Office when and where he can. But the Office must be completed before mid-night.

The regular recitation of the Office in Choir ensures a sustained prayer life daily throughout the year. There is never a day when the devout Christian does not have the privilege of reciting the Psalter, hearing the reading of the Holy Scriptures and participating in the Common Prayer.

I have in mind two benefits secured. The first is this. The changeless witness to the unchanging Faith. Out in the world there is so much uncertainty and confusion and infidelity. One finds it every where, in the public prints, in books, on lecture platforms, in pulpits, in conversations. The irreducible minimum of belief seems to be the goal of popular teachers.

In the midst of all this, the Divine Office with its rhythmic regularity and its cycle of teaching and devotion, unfalteringly and sweetly witnesses to the Faith once delivered to the Saints. Nothing changes. Everything endures. The light is undimmed. And by that light the Christian is guided into the way of peace. In the place that he loves, he hears, in the language that he understands, the Truth that makes him free.

The second benefit is this. The securely enclosed refuge. We, all of us, need a sanctuary, to which we may fly for protection and consolation. Most of the time, a person living in the world is imprisoned in places for which he has little liking. Even the pleasures pall, when once he has become sophisticated. Then, at some such time, if only he becomes aware of the refuge of the Divine Office, he discovers what he needs. Perhaps he wanders into Evensong, some afternoon on his way up town. He sees the priests in the Choir. He sees the High Altar in the afternoon half light. He sees the red lamp flickering before the Sacrament Altar. He hears the Office and the words are sweet and healing. Before he leaves the Church, he kneels for a few moments before the Sacrament. And when he goes out from the Church, Locust Street and Rittenhouse Square have for him, a little bit of the light of Heaven, that he hadn't noticed before. Many a day after, when his affairs are troublous, he will console himself with the old words into which he has learned to read a new meaning:

"Be the day weary or never so long,

At length it ringeth to Evensong."

The Divine Office praises God and it greatly comforts man.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

The next point in our rule requires us to devote a certain portion of our time to intercession. Intercession means praying for others.
 Petition means praying for one's self. It would be interesting to examine our prayers, just to see what proportion intercession bears to petition. The best cure for self-centredness is to increase the intercessions and to reduce the petitions. The almost immediate effect is to take one out of one's self. The next result is the cultivation of sympathy. Sympathy means feeling with people, not merely feeling for them. We can never really understand a person, until we have learned to sense their feelings. It usually takes a long time, but it can be done. This is really what the Communion of Saints means. It is the life received from Our Lord, which every member shares with every other member, finding articulate expression in mutual intercession. If the life is strongly possessed and keenly sensed, intercession becomes spontaneous. The energy of intercession is the pulsation of the Body of Christ, Who ever liveth to make intercession for us.

Now, death has no more dominion over that Body. In Him we are all made alive. We are alive when we are in the flesh. We are alive when we are out of the flesh. In the flesh or out, it makes no difference. So we go on interceding. We intercede for each other, regardless of time, space, sight, sound or physical contact. We intercede for persons in Philadelphia, London, Calcutta, Purgatory, wherever they may be. The Saints in Heaven are so perfect and are so perfectly one with Our Lord, that they know with Him and feel with Him perfectly. This is how they know when we ask them to pray for us. This is why they know how we are feeling when we invoke them. It is not possible to imagine a Christian on earth, in Purgatory, or in Heaven, who is beyond either invocation or intercession. Let me quote for you a verse sent me by one who has gone farther in intercession than most:

"I cannot tell why there should come to me
 A thought of someone miles and miles away,
 In swift insistence on the memory,
 Unless there be a need that I should pray.

Perhaps just then, my friend has fiercer fight,
 A more appalling weakness, a decay of courage,
 Darkness, some lost sense of right,
 And so, in case he needs my prayer, I pray.

Friend, do the same for me!
 If I intrude, unasked upon you,
 On some crowded day,
 Give me a moment's prayer, as interlude.
 Be very sure I need it, therefore pray."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

QUINQUAGESIMA, 1926

My Dear People:

The last point mentioned in our Rule is "Visits to the Blessed Sacrament."

The Blessed Sacrament is reserved in the Tabernacle. Visiting the Blessed Sacrament means praying before the Tabernacle. To pray before the Tabernacle is to pray in the Sacramental Presence of Our Lord. The Blessed Sacrament is Our Lord.

It is not easy to describe the experiences of visits to the Sacrament. They are so very personal and intimate and confidential. And the results are so wonderful.

Picture the Church as it is when there is no service going on. It is dim and quiet. Before one of the Altars a red lamp burns.

Somewhere out in the world, some one is conscious of a care or pierced with a sorrow or assailed with a temptation or surrounded with a peril. Some one is conscious of fightings without or fears within.

The recollection of the red lamp is like the sailor's memory of a harbor light. To sight the light is to make the anchorage. Through the storm or the fog one must steer the course. The red harbor light means danger. The red Sanctuary light means safety.

So the Christian bears his burden and bides his time until he makes his visit to his home harbor.

He enters the Church, makes his genuflection and kneels before the Sacrament. At first he has no word to say. He looks at his Lord and His Lord looks at him. The consciousness of the Compassion of the Sacred Heart soothes his sorrows and drives away his fear. And presently he is pouring out his grief. Sometimes his own, sometimes another's. Sometimes he seeks consolation. Sometimes he seeks strength. Sometimes he seeks guidance. Sometimes he seeks protection. Sometimes he asks an undeserved favor. And always he has something for which he would return thanks. But whatever it is, he leaves his cause at the threshold of the Tabernacle. When he rises from his knees he finds that he goes in peace.

All day long this is happening. Many come on a like errand. By night time the Tabernacle is festooned with the prayers of the pilgrims of the day.

The next morning, when the priest offers the Holy Sacrifice, every thing is presented to the Father. Nothing is overlooked. Nothing is forgotten. For God notes all these things in His Book.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT, 1926

My Dear People:

We have finished the little commentary on our parochial rule of life. Our time table gives us opportunities for regular observance. The spirit of observance is the gift of the Holy Ghost. To Him we must go for holy desires and good counsels.

It is very wonderful to see the work of the Holy Ghost in souls. We can't see it all. But we can see some of it. The first motions drawing a soul are quite wonderful. The Holy Ghost is gracious, His motions are gentle, and He is endlessly patient. He begins where the soul is able to begin. He never imposes a burden too heavy. He never forces the pace. And He speaks to each soul in its own tongue the wonderful works of God. A sense of mysterious beauty at a High Mass may be the first motion for one. I know of a notable conversion that began in that way.

A sense of indefinable awe on the occasion of a chance visit to a church, on a week day, and the flicker of the red lamp at the end of a dim aisle, and the motionless figures of a few people praying in the still quiet, may be the occasion of an awakening. A sentence in a sermon, a line in a hymn may cling in the memory. "The wind bloweth where it listeth and thou hearest the sound thereof and canst not tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth. So is everyone that is born of the Spirit."

And then, suddenly at the appointed time the full awakening. The truth is revealed. The doors are opened. The soul has found its way Home. Everything is easy after that. Penitence breaks down every barrier, Faith changes darkness to light. The water of Baptism, the fire of Confirmation, the blood of Penance, and then Holy Communion and the first amazed cry, "It is the Lord!" The adventures of prayer, the strange fiery temptations, the tests of discipleship and the surprises of vocations will follow. What the soul shall be will not yet appear, but some day it will awaken after His likeness and be satisfied.

In a Church where mighty works like these are to be done, there must be unfettered Faith, unmaimed Sacraments, and unhindered devotion. And priests and people must evince, in some degree, the Fruits of Love, Joy, Peace, Longsuffering, Gentleness, Goodness, Faith, Meekness, Temperance. For by our fruits we shall be known.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY IN LENT, 1926

My Dear People:

The Gospel for today gives us an instruction on prayer. There was once a woman who had a daughter who was vexed with a devil. The mother went to Our Lord and told Him of her trouble. And Our Lord answered her not a word. He knew what the matter was. But He did not answer. She came the second time. Her first experience had made her more humble and yet none the less persistent. And there was an answer that time. And the woman added an act of Faith to her act of Humility. And then the prayer was granted. Her daughter was made whole from that very hour. That was wonderful. But something wonderful had happened to the mother. She had come to know Our Lord. She would never forget Him. The experience had changed her.

We all of us, in one way or another, at one time or another, may learn and must learn the same lesson. The pressure of some need drives us to prayer. And most of us do not realize how much self love hinders and prevents us. We think we are selfless and we are not. We pray and make Communions and go to Mass and visit the Sacrament. And nothing happens. Our Lord answers us not a word. Then comes the temptation to give up. If only we can keep on. More prayers, more Communions, more Masses, more Visits are necessary to really storm Heaven. Then come long, anxious days and troubled, brave nights. And all the while God is really doing what He knows is really best. And all the while a change is coming over us. It is all very difficult to describe. But we are becoming different. Humility is making us quiet. Worship is making us devout. Faith is making us confident. Somehow, sometime, somewhere, all will be well. We are learning to wait. And there settles down upon the soul an accountable and deep and lasting peace. Sometimes God gives the very thing we ask. We can understand this peace. Sometimes He does not give the thing we ask. But the peace remains. This is the peace that passes understanding. It is the peace of God. It is a miracle as great as the miracle we prayed for and did not get. Prayer and Mass and Communion and Visits have become fixed habits. Days and weeks and months and years go on. The peace remains. And gradually the peace becomes luminous. In the new light we see what we could not see before, in the days of pain and blinding tears. We see that from the very hour in which our prayer became real it was answered. Not one word was lost. Everything came right at last. All was well in the end. God never forgets. God never makes a mistake.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

For a long time I have found that it helps to have three guiding words to steer by. I wonder if you use a similar device. Very often one may get the words from a meditation and use them as a summary.

The Epistle for today, for example, might work out in this way. The first sentence gives the points. "Be ye therefore followers of God as dear children."

Children are humble. Dear children are so sure of their parents' love, that they are simple. "Be followers." Followers must trust their leader.

So we get Humility, Simplicity, Trustfulness.

It is like walking through a garden and picking a flower here and there to keep as souvenirs of the garden. Devotional writers describe these as spiritual bouquets. We ought always to carry a spiritual bouquet home every Sunday and keep it fresh all the week.

Humility is an exquisite flower. Humility is really the measure of sanity. The humble person sees himself as in God's sight. The humble person has knowledge of his own imperfections and so has no time to be concerned with the faults of others. The humble person knows that God's strength is made perfect in weakness and so is never for long depressed. On the stem of Humility, he discovers the buds of charity, gentleness, cheerfulness.

Simplicity is an exquisite flower. The simple person has but one intention. He desires to love God and his neighbor and to do his duty. His motives are disinterested. Therefore he is free. And he is childlike. He feels like Mr. Stevenson's little child, "The world is so full of a number of things, I am sure we should all be as happy as kings." He sometimes feels like Christopher Robin, and quite unashamedly "goes hippity, hippity, hoppity hop, because he cannot possibly stop." On the stem of Simplicity he discovers the buds of sincerity, fidelity, happiness.

Trustfulness is an exquisite flower. The trustful person steadfastly believes the promises of God. He believes that he is a member of the Family of God. A very wonderful family, of angels and saints and nice ordinary persons, it is. He believes that the Family Prayer (this is what Mass is) is always answered. He believes that His Lord has overcome the world and so nothing in the world troubles him too much or too long. On the stem of Trustfulness, he discovers the buds of serenity, stability, strength. This is our Saint Mark's motto. It is a sort of spiritual game. But it is a nice game, isn't it?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN LENT, 1926

My Dear People:

In the Gospel for today we read that a great multitude followed Our Lord, because they saw His miracles which He did on them that were diseased. We read also that Our Lord miraculously fed this multitude and sent them away refreshed upon their homeward journey. The sick went home well. The hungry went home refreshed. And they stayed at home, I suppose. We shall not be hearing about them on Passion Sunday. Where were they on Palm Sunday? I wonder. And where were they through Holy Week? At home very likely. But perhaps later on some of them became Christians. Surely they could not forget. Of course Our Lord never forgot them.

But we haven't time to wonder very much or very long. For we have miracles of our own. We have ours in Church. Our Lord is always here. And human nature is just about the same. There are always people who need to be healed. And there are always people who need to be refreshed.

Locust Street has changed. Saint Mark's is just the same as it always was. The door is always open. People are always coming in. Our Lord is always here waiting for them. And miracles are never lacking. They are always happening. We get quite used to them.

Early in the morning, you may see little groups kneeling at the Altars, and being miraculously fed. The Food that Our Lord gives them makes them strong to resist temptations and to endure griefs and to bear burdens.

Often you may see persons being healed in the Sacrament of Penance. These are also miracles. The lame walk. The blind see. The deaf hear. The dead are raised. It all happens just as it used to happen. Our Lord is just as wonderfully kind as ever.

All the day long you may see people kneeling before the Tabernacle and having interviews with Our Lord. They have long quiet talks with Him. And He listens and answers and always knows what He will do. Then He blesses them. And they go relieved and reassured.

And when High Mass is being sung, thanksgivings flicker like tapers through the incense smoke, and the candles on the Altar and the seven lamps sing together like morning stars, and there is joy among the angels because of the mercy that endureth forever.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

NOTICES

Passion Week is our week of participation in the Cycle of Prayer instituted by the Catholic Congress. The general intention is the conversion of America to the Faith, and a deeper consecration to the personal love and service of Our Lord. Every communicant is asked to pray daily and to be present at Mass each day if possible.

Office Hours

The Rector's Office Hours are daily, except Saturdays, from 10 to 11 A.M.
Sister Ethelwyn's Office Hours are daily, except Mondays, from 10 to 11 A. M.

Notice has been sent out of the second of our three Special Missionary Offerings for this year. The Offerings at all services today will be for this purpose. The "Expectation" of $15,000 for 1926 is the same as that for 1925. This is the minimum amount asked, and it is hoped that St. Mark's will not be content with the least it can give, but will "go over the top."

The Sisters of St. Margaret have procured a full line of Easter cards. These cards will be on exhibition and for sale on Tuesday, March 23d, between 10 A.M. and 4 P.M. at the Sisters' House, 1831 Pine Street.

This week I shall be preaching in New York at noon each day. Miss Philler will receive communications during office hours and I will keep my afternoon and evening engagements here.

The Men's Choir will sing the music of the Mass on Palm Sunday.

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

THE FIFTH SUNDAY IN LENT, 1926
PASSION SUNDAY.

My Dear People:

It is of the utmost importance that a Christian should learn of Jesus Christ how to suffer and to die. The surest, safest, simplest way is to consistently continue the Sacramental life which provides for every contingency from the beginning of our life in this world to the beginning of our life in the next. The first thing to do is to use the Sacraments while we are well and strong. This is the time to form habits. When one is ill, one must rest on one's oars, so far as habits are concerned. The tree lies where it falls.

So the first thing to do is to make sure of being Baptised. This is a simple matter to attend to.

The next thing to do is to make sure of being Confirmed. This also is a simple matter to attend to.

The next thing to do is to learn how to prepare for and make a Confession. This also is a simple matter to attend to.

The next thing to do is to learn what the Blessed Sacrament is, and how to receive it. This also is a simple matter to attend to.

And all the while one must learn how to share the Passion of Our Lord, by constantly offering Him, our sufferings in union with His own. We must school ourselves to be Companions of Calvary.

All this comes with practise. It requires method, and care and persistency. It must become second nature. It must become so ingrained in us as to become instructive. We must accustom ourselves to go to Confession and Communion and to pray, while we are well and strong and free from distractions.

Then when sickness comes we shall find that our Sacramental life is the only thing left us that is stable and uninterrupted. And we shall be grateful for that. Sickness cannot change the part of our life that really matters.

The moment that sickness comes, we should send for a priest. And when he comes, he does not come to pay a social visit or to make a call of condolence. He comes on business. The business is to administer the Sacraments.

The first thing he does is to hear the sick person's Confession and to give Absolution. This is a simple matter to attend to.

The next thing he does is to give Holy Communion. This is a simple matter to attend to.

The next thing he does is to give Extreme Unction. This means anointing the sick person with Holy Oil. The priest will do this, if and when he thinks it necessary. This is a simple matter to attend to.

The priest's work requires that he shall be given the same unquestioned access to the patient as is accorded to the doctor.

The Christian so provided for will be established in a state of Grace. Whether he is to remain in this world or depart to the next is for the Good God to decide. He never makes a mistake. Peace will be upon the Christian's house and to all who dwell in it.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

O blessed Jesus, what is Thy transgression?
That Thou must suffer all this vile oppression.
What is Thy guilt? Into what erring way
Did Thy blest footsteps stray?

My sin it was which bound Thee,
With anguish did surround Thee,
And nailed Thee to the tree—
I must in hell have groaned
And my sad fate bemoaned;
But Jesus, Thou hast died for me!

Mysterious act of God's Almighty mercy!
Condemned to death, behold the Lord of Glory.
To fall'n and sinful man God pardon
offers,
While Jesus suffers.

If I should e'er forsake Thee,
Forsake me not, O Lord;
When sorrows overtake me
Sustain me by Thy word.
When death and hell assail me
And rend my heart in twain,
Then, Saviour, do not fail me,
For Thou endur'd'st pain.

	1925	1926
January	$ 861.19	$1139.07
March	1153.06	1217.13

The Vestry has designated the Easter Offering

One-half for Missionary Purposes

One-half for Parochial Purposes

In the letter issued by the Vestry, attention is called to the minimum amount of $15,000 expected from the parish for 1926 for Missionary Purposes, and to the need of a generous response, through the Easter Offering, to meet this call.

Attention is also directed to the requirements of the parish, and to the building up of the Endowment Fund.

Hours for Confession on Easter Eve, 3 to 5 and 8 to 9 P. M.

My Dear People:

We shall be carrying our pieces of palm home today. The palm will have been blessed. We shall keep it on our prayer desk or in our Bible or in our Prayer Book. All the year it will remind us of Palm Sunday. We shall be cheered through many a lonely struggle, by the thought of the victory that rewards every well fought battle and of the joy that is set before every cross. It is not always easy to remember this.

I have always remembered the motto of my old school. "Let him bear the palm who has merited it." God's palm can only be given us through the merits of Our Lord. And yet Our Lord allows us a share in His merits. He allows us to work for our palm. We can win it or lose it. If we lose it, the fault will be ours. If we win it, the joy will be ours. The race may be long and the contest may be keen, but one thing is certain, we are on the winning side.

Many a time this year we shall be tried and tested by temptations that will imperil our interior integrity. In our Confessions we shall be having our wounds bound up. In our Communion we shall be having our souls fed. In our prayers we shall be making our reports. In our meditations we shall be receiving our directions. God will be guarding us. The Angels will be attending us. The Saints will be praying for us.

Many a time this year we shall be tried and tested by interior mortifications. There will be pride to mortify. There will be humiliations to endure. There may be griefs to bear. There may be disappointments to accept. There will be thousands of tests. None of them may be spectacular. They won't attract attention. As some one has said, it will mean being cheerful when it is difficult to be cheerful, patient when it is difficult to be patient; it will mean pushing on when we want to stand still, keeping silent when we want to talk, and being agreeable when we want to be disagreeable.

At the end of the year our little battle scarred palm, that we carry home today, will have withered. But the other one, the one God keeps for us in Heaven, is fadeless. And this is the one you will carry when you go up to the New Jerusalem.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Easter! What a thrilling word it is. It is like an inscription on a box of jewels. One cannot help being eager to open the box. This is what we shall be doing in our meditations for the next forty days.

We shall find a great, gleaming, central jewel, surrounded by lesser yet lovely gems. The central jewel is a gift for immediate possession. The surrounding gems are promises for the future. But the jewel in the centre is for today. We are meant to have it today. It is the gift of everlasting life. It begins here and now. It is life in this world lasting without interruption into the world to come. One world will go. Another world will come. But the life for both worlds is ours now. This is the thrilling thing. The everlasting life is ours now.

This morning you came to the Altar. You received the Blessed Sacrament. You heard the words "Preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life," and the gift is yours. Everlasting life is throbbing in your veins. Everlasting life is animating your souls. Everlasting life is your very own, the while you read this. Death has no more dominion over you. You are alive forevermore. Alive today, alive a million years from today, alive for ever, no matter where you are.

This life that is in you is the same life that is in those whom you love. So they are alive. Alive today, always alive, no matter where they are. And because you and they have the one and the same life, you and they are one, inseparably one this morning. You and they are alive together. Everlasting life makes two worlds one.

So you and they live together and pray together. You are being tried, they are being purified. They pray for you. You pray for them. The things that matter most are the things you have never lost. The things that always made you one, are the things that keep you one now.

The lesser, yet lovely gems, are the promises of the intimate joys which are to surprise you as your everlasting life unfolds. You shall have some of them in this world. You shall have all of them in the next.

In this world you shall have the joy of the Presence of Our Lord. You shall have the joys of the Communion of Saints.

But in the next! It will pass power to imagine. You and yours will be together with satisfaction beyond your most wistful longing. And you and yours together, with All Souls and All Saints and All Angels, will hear Sursum Corda ringing through Heaven. You will lift your eyes and you will see God.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1926.

My Dear People:

Easter brings to us forty days of intensified joy in Communion. The forty days of Lent brought us intensified penitence in the Passion. It was our duty at that season to cultivate and practise penitence. It is our duty now to cultivate and practise joy. We are to offer joy to God.

We find our joy in the Presence of Our Lord. The Easter message is "The Lord is risen." His Resurrection is the cause of our joy. It is joy to have Him. We are not thinking of ourselves so much as we are thinking of Him. This was the way the disciples felt. Their cry was "We have seen the Lord." That was the wonder and the joy of the first Easter. It was His Presence that made their hearts burn within them. Easter was Easter because they had Him.

Our Lord's appearances were so very personal. Heart spoke to heart. They who loved Him saw Him. They who longed for Him had Communion with Him.

It is just so with us. It was the Presence of the Holy Child that made us happy at Christmas. It is the Presence of the Risen Lord that makes us happy at Easter. Once having lived with Him, we cannot live without Him. We have Him. We are happy.

We live with Him and converse with Him and walk with Him and work with Him. Wherever we are, we have Him within us. When we awake each morning we are with Him. Our ejaculatory prayer, when we rise, is "In the name of Jesus Christ, crucified to the world. I rise from sleep," and we make the sign of the Cross, Do you do this? Please do! When we say our morning prayers we are speaking to Him. When we come to Mass we shall see Him. When we receive the Blessed Sacrament we shall have Him. When we go our way about the city, we shall really be walking with Him. Isn't it thrilling? When we are working, we shall be working with Him. When we are tempted, He will be there to protect us. If we fall, He will be there to pick us up. When we are tired or puzzled or downhearted, we shall have Him to refresh and counsel and cheer us up. When we want to get away from everything, we have Saint Mark's, so dim and quiet and lovely, to visit and rest awhile under the red lamp at the threshold of the Tabernacle. If we are sick, He will come to us and renew our Communion. And when we are dying, He will preserve our bodies and souls unto everlasting life. It is all so amazing and so unutterably joyous that all words fail us, except one. But that one word will do. Alleluia!

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1926.

My Dear People:

The Resurrection life in us is our Easter gift from Our Lord. It is the actual deliverance of our souls from the tyranny of disordered nature, here, in this stage of our existence. It elevates our souls to sovereignty over our bodies. It settles our bodies in quiet, willing and grateful submission to our souls.

The purpose of all our spiritual exercises is to subdue the flesh to the spirit. It is to "put on the Lord Jesus Christ and make no provision for the flesh to fulfill the lusts thereof." It is to certify the fact that "we are debtors not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For if we live after the flesh, we shall die: but if we through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, we shall live." To do this is to "walk in the spirit." By so doing our bodies become spiritualized. We have a terrestrial body to begin with. Then we are changed. And we have a celestial body. We are now engaged with that process. It is slow and difficult work. But the process is sure. And the evidences are unmistakable. Observe, if you will, someone who has emerged from a great temptation, or passed through a penitential purification, or an experience in one of the kinds of prayer, or through a great sorrow or an experience of bodily suffering and you will notice a physical change. The body has become spiritualized. It bears the marks of the Lord Jesus. The person will be quite unconscious of the fact. But the marks will be there. Something in the face, something in the voice, something in the manner. A something, what is it? The word "spiritual" describes it. Yes, that is it.

Well, that is the Resurrection life, already appearing and beginning to make a new creature in Christ Jesus. It is all a struggle now. For "that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural and afterward that which is spiritual. The first man is of the earth, earthy; the second man is the Lord from Heaven. As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy; and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly. We shall all be changed. And the dead shall be raised incorruptible. When this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

SAINT MARK'S DAY. 1926.

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER EASTER.

My Dear People:

We are keeping our Patronal Festival. We are returning thanks for the blessings showered upon us for more than three quarters of a century. We are keeping in our prayers the names of our Founders and Benefactors. We are re-dedicating our lives for the faithful fulfillment of our inherited trust.

And what is the trust? I have in mind a phrase which I found this evening in a book, "the impact of the Personality of Our Lord." Our trust is to maintain in the heart of this city of two million souls, a shrine in which the impact of the Personality of Our Lord will be felt.

And how is this to be accomplished. "I, if I be lifted up," says Our Lord, "will draw all men unto me."

We rely solely, at every step of the way and turn of the times upon the sheer force of the power of the Personality of Our Lord. And we have recourse to no means which do not directly and unswervingly serve to that end.

The glowing red doors remind us of the Precious Blood which redeems and the Fire of the Holy Ghost which illuminates. On the Rood above, the Figure of Our Lord speaks as Prophet, sacrifices as Priest and reigns as King.

Within, the Red Lamp indicates His Presence in the Tabernacle, where He waits for and welcomes the weary and the heavy laden and giving rest, adds the fullness of joy which His Presence unfaillingly affords.

In the Confessionals the power of the impact of His Personality is felt by penitents who are loosed on earth and in Heaven, from the sins which by their frailty they have committed, by the exercise of His power in the ministry of reconciliation.

At the Altars, when the Holy Sacrifice is offered, by the merits of His death upon the Cross, the whole Church obtains remission of sin and all other benefits of His Passion.

There we offer and present ourselves to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice, and there we receive His most precious Body and Blood, are filled with His grace and heavenly benediction and made one body with Him, that He may dwell in us, and we in Him.

The Office in Choir daily praises Him.

The Angelus commemorates His Holy Incarnation.

The ritual is made magnificent as befits the ceremonial of the court of the King of Kings.

In all ways He is blessed, praised, hallowed and adored.

This is our trust. So will we fulfill it in our day and generation. The lot has fallen unto us in a fair ground. We have a goodly heritage. It is a joyful and pleasant thing to be thankful.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1926.

My Dear People:

All the misadventures of life are due to unruly wills. All the misfortunes of life are caused by disordered affections. It is because we fail to love the thing which God commands that our hearts fail to be fixed where true joys are to be found. The result is that sooner or later, and inevitably at the last, the sundry and manifold changes of the world bring disillusionment, disappointment and despondency.

The cure and the more desirable prevention is supplied by religion. It is the function of religion to rightly relate the will and order the affections, to the end that the reigning desire may be fixed where true joys are to be found. Religion is the source of stability under the strain of the world's sundry and manifold changes.

God has made religion very easily accessible. The hindrances are of our own making. Of all the hindrances to religion, not the least and probably the greatest, is the tendency to regard it as the reward for, rather than the means of, attainment. It was Saint Paul who said that he counted not himself to have apprehended, but reaching forth unto those things which are before. We do not seek religion in perfection, but perfection in religion. We do not begin with ruly wills and ordered affections. That is the ultimate state for which we hope.

Unruly wills are not to be broken but ruled, Disordered affections are not to be crushed but directed. The difference between the great sinner and the great saint, is not that the sinner has a strong will and impelling affections and the saint bereft of both. The difference is that the saint has fixed his heart where joys are found. The great saints invariably possess wills of steel and hearts of fire. And the other difference is that the sinner wilts under the changes in which the saint exults. The sinner is dreary. The saint is gay.

The unruly will and the disordered affections need only to be plunged into the furnace of the Sacred Heart to become instruments of joy. Neither the power of the one, nor the ardor of the other is lost.

When we receive Holy Communion we offer and present ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice. We plunge our wills and affections into the fire of the Sacred Heart. The weak and weakening elements are consumed. Our wills are restored as purified silver and our hearts as tried gold. It is to discover vibrant, dominant, exultant joy.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Peace, peace,
Jesus is here.
Peace, peace;
Angels are near—
We are not left alone
Here at His Altar Throne
Heaven and Earth are one
Jesus is here.

Kneel, kneel,
Jesus is King,
Kneel, kneel,
Offerings bring—
Dear Babe of Bethlehem,
God of Jerusalem
Love is His diadem
Jesus is King.

Soft, soft:
Whisper your need.
Soft, soft;
The Father will heed.
Given the Holy Food,
Now as upon the Rood
Pleadeth the Precious Blood
Whisper your need.

Rest, rest:
Infinite Love,
Rest, rest:
Here as above,
Now on His Gentle Breast
Weary ones find their rest,
Truest and tenderest
Infinite Love.

The Bishop in his Convention address has requested that the authorized changes in the Prayer Book be adopted by all the parishes.

The new order will be used at Mass next Sunday.

1. The Prayer of Consecration follows the Sanctus and Benedictus Qui Venit.
2. The Our Father immediately follows the Prayer of Consecration.
3. The Prayer of Humble Access follows the Our Father and is said immediately before the Priest's Communion.
4. The Thanksgiving immediately follows the People's Communion.
5. In the Gloria in Excelsis, the redundant phrase "Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us," is omitted.

THE FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1926.
ROGATION SUNDAY.

My Dear People:

"Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my Name, He will give it you." This is Our Lord's very definite promise.

"Ask in faith." This is the counsel of Saint James. He penetrates to the root of a difficulty. He illuminates the whole transaction of prayer. He makes it so simple. One wonders how the point could ever have been missed. And yet it is not so obvious as might be supposed.

Just what does it mean to ask in faith?

Suppose there is something that we want very much. Our wills are keenly fixed on that one want. Where there is a will there is a way. Under pressure of an insistent will, there is rarely lacking ingenuity to discover a way. But then the difficulties begin. Obstacles appear in the way. Before any thing can be accomplished they must be removed. It transpires, after many futile efforts, that the obstacles are obstinately irremovable. Then we remember that we have not prayed. So we begin the prayer of petition. We make our desire known to God. We pour out our complaint concerning the obstacles. The content of our prayer is directed toward the way of our selection. We go to Mass. We receive Holy Communion. We visit the Blessed Sacrament. We pray at home. We are intent and tense. The mountainous obstacles must be removed. It would seem that our prayers are very real. Yet nothing happens. The thing we ask for is not given us. What is the matter? Haven't we been asking in faith? Yes, in great faith. But it was a misplaced faith. It was faith in ourselves. We were firm in our belief that we knew what ought to happen, and how and where and when.

It is faith in God, not in ourselves, that is required for prayer. It is faith in God's love for us which makes us believe that He sympathizes with us in our needs. It is faith in God's wisdom which makes us believe that He knows what is best for us. It is faith in God's providence which makes us believe that He makes all things work together for good. It is unreserved faith which makes us believe that God knows our necessities before we ask and our ignorance in asking, and is wont to give more than either we desire or deserve. This is the faith which removes mountains because it leaves the mountains to God.

The technique of prayer is the familiar one. But having cast our cares upon God, we cease to be anxious, because of our faith that He cares for us.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

THE SUNDAY AFTER ASCENSION DAY, 1926.

My Dear People:

There are two days above all other days in the Christian Year, on which we desire to be very near to Our Lord. On Christmas Day He came to earth. On Ascension Day He returned to Heaven. Angels attended Him upon His earthly journey. Men attend Him upon His Heavenly journey. Somewhere, midway, the companies meet. Human Alleluias are the final responds to Angelic Glorias.

At the Nativity Mass the Christian adores the Incarnate Son of God. In the Christmas Communion the Christian receives the Holy Child and gives Him possession of the manger of the soul. This is the joyful mystery of Christmas.

Presently the scene will change. The Christian's soul becomes a Nazareth. Within the soul Our Lord lives His hidden life. It is a time of simple, silent, steady accomplishment of set tasks. It is a period of selfless, subjection and withal of placid contentment in human intimacies.

Presently the scene will change again. Within the soul Our Lord will exercise a measure of His public ministry. Within the soul He will be about His Father's business. He will cause the soul to understand that the concern of life is not to be ministered unto but to minister, to serve and not be served. Within the soul He will reveal Vocations and fulfill them. He will teach the soul the joy of work.

Presently the scene will change. Within the soul He will be led by the Spirit into the wilderness. Out in some lonely desert place He will offer up in us, and through us, His temptations,

Again the scene will change. Within the soul He will offer up the pains of His Passion and the desolations of His death. Within the soul He will erect His Calvary. Upon the Cross of a surrendered will, He will die.

Once more the scene will change. Within the soul, He will rise and transform it into a little garden of the Resurrection. There will be palms for the victories and lilies for the pains, and there will be Alleluias borne on the wings of the wind blowing where it listeth.

And then will come the last change of all. And after that there will be no more changes. Within the soul He will ascend far up into the Heavens—up and up and beyond the cloud. And then the voice saying "Behold the tabernacle of God is with men and He will dwell with them." And then the Holy City and twelve gates of pearl flung open wide!

Did you make your Communion on Ascension Day?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

WHITSUNDAY, 1926.

The Collect for Pentecost contains petitions for a right judgment in all things and for joy in the comfort of the Holy Ghost. We are beginning a seven days' devotion to the Holy Ghost.

There will be other times in the year when we shall need, for personal reasons, to have recourse to days of special devotion to the Holy Ghost. We may, and no doubt we shall, have perplexing questions to find an answer for. There may be important decisions to make. There may be pressing anxieties. There may be exhausting interior disquietudes. There may be hidden sorrows beyond human consolation. And always there will be the ordinary tests which demand extraordinary fortitude, patience and cheerfulness. The best preparation for emergencies is most easily made in times of peace. What we really are ordinarily will determine what we shall do under extraordinary circumstances. All we really need to do is to be our best selves all the time. Then we shall not need to worry over emergencies.

The thing to do at Pentecost is to learn, or to refresh our memories concerning, the technique of devotions to the Holy Ghost. Then, when the special needs arise, we shall know just what to do in the matter of intensifying the devotions with the requisite special intentions.

The first point is Holy Communion. During Pentecost we should receive Holy Communion with the special intention of self oblation to the Holy Ghost. This means giving ourselves up to Him, to be directed, illumined and governed. We should increase the number of Communion by receiving on as many week days as possible. On days when we do not receive we should be present at Mass.

The next point is prayer. We should say the Our Father, the Veni Creator and the Collect for Whitsunday daily. We may add special emphasis to our prayer by making it the occasion of a daily visit to the Church.

The next point is Meditation. We should meditate upon the gifts of the Holy Ghost. We should meditate upon the Fruits of the Spirit. The Gifts are Wisdom, Knowledge, Counsel, Understanding, Ghostly Strength, True Godliness, Holy Fear. The Fruits are Love, Joy, Peace, Longsuffering, Gentleness, Faith, Meekness, Temperance. And we should train ourselves to quiet, silent waiting for the motions of the Holy Ghost.

If we really know how to do this we shall know how to make Novenas to the Holy Ghost. A Novena is a nine days' devotion.

A Novena to the Holy Ghost will gain for you a right judgment, whatever may be your perplexity and a joyful comfort, whatever may be your trouble.

This is all very important. You won't forget it, will you?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

TRINITY SUNDAY, 1926.

My Dear People:

We are celebrating the Feast of the Holy Trinity.

The cycle of devotion is complete. The beginning is the end.

The end is the beginning. God is the Alpha and the Omega.

There is nothing uncertain about the Christian year. Everything in it is true. Everything is vital. Everything is lasting. Everything is our very own.

The secular year is another story. It is always uncertain. Sometimes it is successful. Sometimes it is disappointing. Sometimes it is happy. Sometimes it is sad. Usually it is a bewildering blend of bitter and sweet. But it isn't this that makes the difference.

The real difference between the Christian year and the secular year is that the Christian year means a year with God in the world and the secular year means a year in the world without Him. God makes the difference.

"This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent." The knowledge of God is the objective of the Christian year and the reward for its devout observance.

The Seasons, the Festivals and Fasts, the Sacraments and Prayers, the Ceremonies and Devotions are all the means to one supreme end. That end is the knowledge of God. Not one of the means which makes for this end is negligible. But any one of the means which misses its end is futile. The essence of simplicity in worship is the simplicity of intention. Simplicity will not necessarily be found in an irreducible minimum or ritual, any more than devotion will necessarily be found in an elaboration of ceremonial. If the one absorbing desire is to know God, we shall be as simple at High Mass as we are in our private prayers at home.

Advent taught us the love of the Father.

Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Easter, Ascension taught us the love of the Son.

Pentecost taught us the love of the Holy Ghost.

Trinity teaches us that the Three Persons are one God.

Our personal experience in our Confessions, Communion, and Prayers, have taught us that God is love.

God's love demands our own. For the love of Him our one desire is to please Him and our ruling passion is to serve Him. For the love of Him, our one aim is to eliminate from our life everything that is of a substance foreign to Him. The elimination of foreign substance is the essence of purity. The pure in heart shall see God, When the final purgation is accomplished, the Beatific Vision will be given. Then we shall all know the Mystery of the Holy Trinity.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Again our thoughts turn to plans for Summer outings for our people of St. Michael's and St. Mary's Chapels. Some of these outings are just for a day, some for a week, some few for a longer time. No one can tell the pleasure, relief and benefit derived from these breaks in the hot Summer days. To meet the expense of these outings we can not do with less than $600.

For several years Father Pottle, the Chaplain of the Choir, has taken some of the Choir boys on a day's outing to the shore; others on trolley rides and short excursions to nearby places. For this we need $100.

As you plan for your own Summer, will you not make some provision for "our" outings, and send a contribution to the Accounting Warden, 1625 Locust Street?

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1926.

My Dear People:

I am writing this letter on the Feast of Corpus Christi. It is the Thanksgiving Day of the Christian year. It is the day upon which we most heartily thank God for that He does vouchsafe to feed us who have duly received the Holy Mysteries with the spiritual food of the Most precious Body and Blood of His Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ.

It is a day filled with grateful memories of all the Communions of the year and all the years. Our Communions made the years to be real years of Our Lord. The years were His because we lived them with Him. Our Communions were not mere momentary contacts. They each served to stablish, strengthen and stabilize a state. As we gave thanks for each Communion we prayed that we might continue in that holy fellowship. So Communion means a continuous fellowship with Our Lord. This is what we are thankful for on Corpus Christi Day.

I think that devotion to Our Lord within us is the form of Eucharistic devotion which needs particular emphasis. Exactitude in the rubrics and seemingly splendor in the ceremonial are essential for validity and reverence. This goes without saying. But it is quite possible to go that far with little religion and less morality. One must go infinitely deeper than that.

The great thing in Communion is accomplished when we offer and present ourselves, our souls and bodies, to Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, to be a reasonable, holy and living Sacrifice, humbly beseeching Him that we may worthily receive His most precious Body and Blood, be filled with His grace and heavenly benediction, and made one body with Him, that He may dwell in us and we in Him. It is this oblation, union and continuance which is the perfection of Eucharistic devotion.

I know that it requires great and bold faith to continue consciously in Him. One feels so keenly and so terribly unworthy. But it can't be presumptuous to insist upon living with Him. It would be presumptuous to try to live without Him. The humble thing to do is to take it for granted that we are in Him, and He in us. We mustn't allow our sins to make us less devout but more devoutly penitent. We mustn't allow our temptations to make us less devout but more devoutly humble. We mustn't allow our sorrows to make us less devout, but more devoutly patient. No matter what happens we must recollect His Presence in our souls. The highest act of Eucharistic devotion is to say in simplicity, penitence, humility, patience, trust, fortitude and gratitude in each adventure and every misadventure, "Blessed, praised, hallowed, and adored be Jesus Christ enthroned in my soul."

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

O Sacred Heart!
Our home lies deep in Thee,
On earth Thou art an exile's rest,
In heaven the glory of the blest,
O Sacred Heart!

Thou fount of contrite tears,
Where'er those living waters flow,
New life to sinners they bestow,
O Sacred Heart!

O Sacred Heart!
Lead exiled children home
Where we may ever rest near Thee,
In peace and joy eternally.
O Sacred Heart!

O Sacred Heart!
Our trust is all in Thee;
For though earth's night be dark and drear,
Thou breathest rest where Thou art near,
O Sacred Heart!

When shades of death shall fall,
Receive us 'neath Thy gentle care,
And save us from the tempter's snare!

Again our thoughts turn to plans for Summer outings for our people of St. Michael's and St. Mary's Chapels. Some of these outings are just for a day, some for a week, some few for a longer time. No one can tell the pleasure, relief and benefit derived from these breaks in the hot Summer days. To meet the expense of these outings we can not do with less than $600.

For several years Father Pottle, the Chaplain of the Choir, has taken some of the Choir boys on a day's outing to the shore; others on trolley rides and short excursions to nearby places. For this we need $100.

As you plan for your own Summer, will you not make some provision for "our" outings, and send a contribution to the Accounting Warden, 1625 Locust Street?

My Dear People:

The Christian year from Advent to Trinity has taught us about the love of God. It has made clear to us the nature of that love. "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because He laid down His life for us."

Now comes the lesson. "We ought to lay down our lives." This is the law of the Christian life. There is no ambiguity and there is no escape. It costs us our lives to be Christians. This does not mean a grim, purposeless, needless slaughter. Nor is it a sacrifice without a reward. As a matter of fact it means joyous, purposeful necessity. It is the only thing worth doing. It always leads to unexpected delight. "He that loveth his life shall lose it." It is selfishness that results in grim loss.

"He that loseth his life for My sake shall find it." It is sacrifice that leads to happy findings.

One hears much nowadays of self-expression. One hears much of the necessity of it, if one would be normal and free and happy. But it is self-expression through self-indulgence. That is the rotten thing about it. That is the rotten thing about the psychology of it and the novels about it and the plays. And it isn't true. And it doesn't work. The novels don't give the last chapter. And the plays don't give the last act. Self-indulgence is sin. And the wages of sin is death. And there is no getting away from the fact.

Of course every person must have self-expression. But what kind of self? And what kind of expression? The fact is that we are at our worst when we are self-indulgent. When we are at our worst we are futile. This is what we mean when we say a person is a rotter. And the very moments when we most love our lives are the very moments when we are losing them.

We are, all of us, at our best when we are self-sacrificing. The very moments when we are losing our lives for a person or a cause, are the very moments when we are coming into our own and finding a life that we never dreamed could exist for any one, and least and last of all for us. We somehow or other, even in the pangs of loss, react to the thrill of finding.

Our Lord has the secret of self-expression. Its symbol is the Cross. Its sequence is the Resurrection. Its glory is the Ascension. From beginning to end our religion is first for God, next for our friends and last of all for ourselves. It is for their sakes we sanctify ourselves.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1926.

My Dear People:

Saint Peter, in the Epistle today, gives us three words, Humility, Vigilance, Patience. Each word is the summing up of a spiritual experience. We remember best what we have learned by experience. Saint Peter learned all he knew that way. He lived impetuously. He loved ardently. He suffered deeply. He served valiantly. He died gloriously. All his words are burning words, because they had burned themselves deeply into his own soul.

The words are not without sequence. As a matter of experience, humility develops vigilance and vigilance develops patience. With the three a person is prepared for about everything that can happen in this life's adventure.

Humility is really clarity of vision. It enables the soul to see everything as it is. It enables the soul to see itself. It enables the soul to gain a right perspective and to estimate persons and things at a proportionate valuation. Above all it enables the soul to distrust self and to trust God. As a consequence a humble person will never long remain elated or depressed. Nor will a humble person be easily deceived by flattery or discouraged by blame. The humble person will take whatever happens with reasonable cheerfulness. Persons who are really humble are possessed of a sense of humour which is apt to prove very disconcerting to the proud.

And humble persons are wise. They know enough to be vigilant. They are always on their guard. They know their own weaknesses. They know the power of their adversary the devil. And yet, because they are humble, their vigilance does not make them timorous. They do not think the fiery trial strange, but rejoice inasmuch as they are partakers of Christ's sufferings.

So the humble become patient, through the trying of their faith. And they let patience have her perfect work, that they may be entire, wanting nothing. They seem to have a luminous understanding of suffering. They do not wilt under it. And they are willing to wait awhile. When the storm is over, they emerge perfect, stablished, strengthened, settled. It must be possible for us, or Saint Peter and Saint James would not advise it so confidently.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

Saint Mark's, Philadelphia

THE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1926.

My Dear People:

The Gospel for today warns sternly against criticizing the faults of others. It teaches that the impulse to criticize the fault of another is the symptom of a greater fault in one's self. The fault finding are always the most faulty. The fewer faults a person has, the fewer faults that person sees in others. The beam in one's own eye inflames it to the verge of blindness. It obscures the vision of virtues and fills the air with dancing motes of minor imperfections.

It is curious that we should be like this. But we are. It would seem that our faults might at least make us humble. Yet so often they make us censorious. And we usually condemn the more severely the faults of others which are the reflection of our own. When every one about us seems to need correction, it is high time we went to Confession. After we have pulled out the beam from our own eye, it usually happens that the mote in some one's else eye seems too minute to require our attention. It is always a happy discovery to find that the world is much better than appears on the surface. God loves it and we are only useful to it, when we love it too.

Penitence mellows a person most marvellously. The knowledge of one's own imperfections leaves one less and less inclined towards harsh judgment of others. We may be conscious of imperfections in others and yet we know how much suffering is involved in these imperfections. The suffering is bound to come sooner or later. If we know the pain of our own purgations, we shall not be willing to add to the pains of others. We shall have learned how to sympathize and pray and be silent.

If by any chance we are adversely affected by the faults of another, our penitence over our own faults and the remembrance of the suffering we ourselves have caused others, will move us to suffer long and be kind; to be not easily provoked and think no evil; to bear all things, believe all things, hope all things, and endure all things.

The same thing applies to matters of religious faith and practise. The remembrance of one's own slowness of heart to believe and slothfulness to practise, will somewhat temper zeal to regulate the spiritual affairs of other people. It will save us from rude and ruthless invasion of the sanctuaries of other souls in which the Holy Ghost is gently leading the way into all the truth.

We can best serve others by sanctifying ourselves.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE TWENTY-FIRST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1926

My Dear People:

There are four words in the Gospel for today which are like burning coals in a censer. "So the father knew." This father had a son who was sick. Our Lord had said, "Go thy way, thy son liveth." On his way home, his servants met him and told him, saying, "Thy son liveth." Then he enquired the hour when he began to amend. And they said, "Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him." So the father knew.

It is a wonderful way to come into one's religion. When one looks back to some crisis in one's life and remembers, and ever after lives in that remembrance. Then religion becomes very vividly real. Then we know.

I find myself frequently somewhat bored by the sort of person who proclaims, with an impressive display of learning, all the things he does not know and never expects to know.

And I find myself attempting to suppress a momentary sense of impatience with the type of person who declares what "nobody knows." Particularly if some of the things happen to be something that some of us really do know, and have known for quite some time. For example, if Our Lord is described as "the Man nobody knows." Or if the Bible is described as "the book nobody knows." If the report is really true, then it is a terrible indictment of the system of religion in which it has been their misfortune to have been reared.

However, it does not concern us. The simple practise of the Catholic Religion is the secret of intimate, luminous, satisfying knowledge of Our Lord.

The person who has experienced the joy of Absolution, becomes conscious of freedom and newness and peace. So he knows.

The person who has been fed with the spiritual food of the Body and Blood of Our Lord, becomes conscious of strength and solace and joy. So he knows.

The person who has come to know the meaning of the Mass, becomes conscious of the prevailing intercession of Our Lord. So he knows.

The person who has learned to seek refuge in the Sacramental Presence in the Tabernacle, has found the delights of friendship with Our Lord. So he knows.

The person who has explored the ranges of the Catholic prayer life, has discovered fellow citizenship with the Saints. So he knows.

All these experiences are so easy of access. And one can look back to the very hours that shine like burnished gold. So we know. And nothing else matters.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE TWENTY-THIRD SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY, 1926.

My Dear People:

The Sunday in the Octave of All Saints has a note of joy which is all its own. It brings the promise of final triumph to those who persevere.

All Saints' Day was white, with Alleluias. We stood and watched the Saints arrayed in all their splendor, and cried, "Thy Name, O Jesu, be forever blest."

All Souls' Day was black, with Requiems. We knelt and prayed for our dearest and our best, and cried "Lord, all pitying Jesu Blest, Grant them Thine eternal rest."

Today, the light of All Saints shines upon All Souls, as day follows night. Alleluia is the last haunting note. Sorrow endures for a night. But joy cometh in the morning. The dead live. The penitents become saints. The separated are united. The severed friendships are knit. And God Himself wipes all tears from all eyes.

The Church never plays upon our emotions. She never moves us to sentimentality. She deals with the facts of life and death in the most matter of fact manner. She shows us the glory of the Saints, in all their greatness. She shows us the faithful departed in their humble and lesser estate of purification. She shows us why there are Alleluias for All Saints, and Requiems for All Souls. And somehow or other, out of the shadow of the Requiem, She manages to lift up our eyes unto the hills from whence comes our help.

In times of crushing grief, and in succeeding days of dreary desolation, there is really only one solace and support that soothes and satisfies. The Catholic doctrine of the Communion of Saints is to the bereaved what the Catholic doctrine of the Forgiveness of Sins is to the penitent. It provides not a promised but a present peace. It imparts the secret of a common life not only in the world to come, but in this present world. It teaches us to share life in the seen world with those who live in the unseen world. It teaches us to share our Prayers, our Communions, our Masses with those we love. It teaches us to offer up, for them, our sorrows and temptations and penances, our good works, our alms, and our intentions. It teaches us how to bind our lives up with theirs. It teaches us how to link up Locust Street with Heaven. It teaches us how to live sanely and serenely and securely with those from whom it is never God's will that we should be separated. It takes away the sting from death, the victory from the grave. It leads us from the loveliness of taper-lighted Altars to the noon-day brilliance of the Great White Throne.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

And lo! a throne was set in heaven, and on the throne One stood. And a rainbow was about the throne; and the Elders knelt before the throne, clad in white raiment: and on their heads were crowns of gold: and from the throne came thunderings and lightnings, and voices crying day and night:

"Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty! Who wast, and Who art, and art to come!"

Behold the Lamb that was slain!

Weep no more; behold, He that died is risen, and hath conquered Death and Hell.

And the Elders fell down before the Lamb, with their harps and golden urns burning odours, singing this song of praise:

"All glory to the Lamb that died, exalted now at God's right hand, in blessing and wisdom and honour and praise for ever."

My Dear People:

The only way to arrive at a first-hand knowledge of the Communion of Saints is to live in the state of Holy Communion. The way to live in the state of Holy Communion is to receive the Blessed Sacrament frequently, regularly and constantly. Holy Communion must be the centre of our lives. The Communion of Saints is nothing more or less than the common life of souls in communion with God. Each soul in communion with God is in communion with each and every soul in communion with God. Because this common life is everlasting life, it is a timeless communion. Each one of you who received Holy Communion this morning renewed your communion with God and with every soul in every age, in every place, who is in communion with God. As you knelt at the Altar, loving, adoring and receiving the Body and Blood of Our Lord, you were in communion, in Our Lord, with every one who knelt with you. You were in communion with all souls, all over the world, at all the Altars where the Blessed Sacrament was received. That Communion made the Catholic world one. It made you one with your absent relatives and friends, wherever they are and however far away they are. The Altar is the meeting place for all the world.

The Lord who, in Holy Communion, unites you with Himself and binds you in the bundle of life with all others whom He has united with Himself, has destroyed death and restored everlasting life. In Holy Communion you do not have to reckon with death. Therefore you are in communion with all who, now living in the unseen world, are in communion with God. You are one with those who received Holy Communion a thousand years ago today. You are one with all who have continued in the Apostles' Doctrine and Fellowship, and the Breaking of the Bread and the Prayers. Time has nothing to do with it, for this Communion is a timeless thing. The more subtly sensitive your communion with God is, the more subtly sensitive your communion with them will be. The more you live with God, the more you will live with the Saints. The more you love God, the more you will love the Saints. The more you pray to God, the more you will share the prayers of the Saints.

The Communion of Saints is the result of the Communion with God. This is why we ask the Saints to pray for us. This is why we pray for the departed. Since we believe in the life everlasting, what else could we do?

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

SUNDAY NEXT BEFORE ADVENT, 1926.

My Dear People:

In the Collect today we pray that our wills may be stirred up. In the ordinary course of events we find little difficulty in stirring up our thoughts and feelings. For good or ill, for profit or loss, our imaginations and emotions are more or less self-starting. Our wills are quick enough to go off on sudden impulses. All the tragedies in the world are due to impulsive wills. A will enslaved to imagination or emotion is the most terrible and terrifying and inexplicable instrument of torture and destruction.

So the first thing to be done is to mortify the will. This means to make it dead to uncensored suggestion and irregular reaction. It means training the will to refrain from response to blind impulse. Such impulses are always sudden. The devil is an impatient person, because he knows he has but a short time. He has ready and easy access to our thoughts and feelings. But our wills are our own. There may be mental tempests and emotional volcanoes, but so long as our wills are stable we shall be unharmed. The secret of peace lies in stability of will. A strong will without stability will ruthlessly wreck the most promising life. This is the distinction between strength and stability. Serenity depends upon the combination of the two.

But this is only half the battle. The restraint of the will is only the discipline preliminary to release for right action. The stirring up process comes next and indeed goes along with discipline. As the will becomes dead to self, it becomes alive to God. It becomes sensitive, responsive and obedient to Godly motions. It begins to find true expression in the service which is perfect freedom. In this freedom it plenteously brings forth the fruit of good works. It cannot fail because it rests in the Will of God. In the Will of God it finds the plenteous reward of peace.

So, at Mass, the priest says: "And here we offer and present ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice." This is the oblation of self-discipline. And in the Thanksgiving, the priest prays that we may "do all such good works as Thou hast prepared for us to walk in." This is the oblation of service.

All of this is the background of the Collect for today. It contains all the principles of ascetical theology. It tells the story of the spiritual combat upon the battle ground of the will.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

My Dear People:

Bible reading is a Spiritual Exercise. Like any other Spiritual Exercise, it requires preparation. Sacraments and prayer are the preparation.

Consider the preparation which the Church has given us today. We have received Holy Communion. We have been given a Collect. We have heard the Epistle and Gospel. Communion, Prayer, Meditation.

In our Communion we were given the Mind of Christ. The Confirmation Gifts of Understanding and Wisdom were stirred up. Understanding gives power to penetrate Divine Mysteries. Wisdom gives power to embrace and ever hold them fast. The mind which was in Christ Jesus, being now in us, makes us ready to be of no reputation, to take upon ourselves the form of a servant and to become obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross. We learn patience in Communion.

Prayer directs the mind and will and heart to God as the Center. All who pray meet ultimately and inevitably in God. The Bible records the prayer life of person after person. They were all led and sometimes driven to God through the deep experiences of life. Temptation, penitence, tribulation caused them to cry to God for comfort. They found no man to comfort them, so they pressed on to God. They endured days and nights and years. It was all very hard and dark and sometimes terrifying. But they prayed. They never gave up their prayers. They became wonderfully patient. They gained great serenity. And cheerfulness was added to serenity.

They gave comfort but they never asked for it. They had the gift of joy. It is a fruit of the Spirit. It follows love and is followed by peace. Love, joy, peace are the rewards of prayer. The Bible makes it all so clear. "Whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope."

Meditation will lead us to reflect that what others have done, we can do. No matter what difficulty we may be facing, we can always find someone in the Bible who had a greater difficulty to contend with. The promise that held good for them, holds good for us. They believed the promise. We must learn to live our lives in a steadfast hope in the promises of God. Most of the time we shall not be able to see how or when or where the promise will be fulfilled for us. It is through faith and patience that we inherit the promises. Some day and suddenly the promise will come true. Meditation is the door of hope.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE THIRD SUNDAY IN ADVENT, 1926.

My Dear People:

The Collect for today contains a petition for the ministers and stewards of the mysteries of God, that they may be enabled to prepare and make ready the way of Our Lord, by the effectual preaching of repentance. It may be used as a companion collect to that of Ash Wednesday, in which the petition is that new and contrite hearts may be created in us all.

The turning of hearts is a mysterious work. It is the work of the Holy Ghost. Yet, God uses a human ministry upon which He places responsibility for its accomplishment. The services of men are ordained and constituted in a wonderful order.

My point about this Collect is that it reminds us of the duty of praying for the clergy. I am sure that we ought always to pray for the priests who have ministered to us. We ought to pray for the priest who baptized us and the priest who prepared us for Confirmation. We ought to pray for the priest who heard our first confession and the priests who have heard our subsequent confessions and for our present confessor. And we ought to pray in a general way for all priests who have given us Holy Communion. And we ought to pray with a general intention for all priests who have served us in other ways.

The priest is always praying for us. He offers his Mass every morning for us. And he carries intentions for us in his Office. And he remembers us in his intercessions. By doing this he sends out a current of Divine energy upon us. If we pray for him, then we release a current of energy which completes the circuit. Whenever and wherever such a condition exists, then miracles of grace take place.

I am sure the secret is that such a prayer life creates centres of faith in which mighty works are accomplished, which are far beyond the natural capacities of people and priest. Our Lord could do no mighty works in certain places because of unbelief. So the first thing to be done in any parish, however old, or in any mission, however new, is to create a centre of faith. This is done by maintaining a steady pressure of corporate prayer. The Sacramental life generates the energy. The devotional life directs it. The products are all such good works as God has prepared for us to walk in. It is under such conditions that conversions are experienced and vocations discovered.

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT, 1926.

My Dear People:

The Advent Epistles end with the note of joy. The sentences of the Epistle for today have a throbbing sound. And they are throbs of joy.

"Rejoice in the Lord: Again I say rejoice.
The Lord is at hand. Be careful for nothing."

And then one deep sigh of utter rest. "And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." It is all an ecstatic note of sheer joy.

It is Christ's joy. The heart of it is "the Lord is at hand." If it only said, "rejoice, be anxious for nothing," it would be merely pagan joy. Old paganism, new paganism both offer about the same thing. It is always some secret for joy, some escape from care. But is is never the true secret. It is never the real escape. It always lacks the one thing. It never can say "the Lord is at hand." And that makes all the difference.

There is the problem of evil. There is pain. There is injustice. There is sadness. There is death. Who can rejoice in the face of all that? Who can be without care? Who can be at peace? No one. Then the voice is heard: "Lo, I come." "Get thee behind me, Satan." "Let him take up his cross and follow me." "Blessed are the weak, for they shall inherit the earth." "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." "I will raise him up." The Lord is at hand. He vanquishes Evil. He glorifies pain. He rights wrongs. He turns sorrow into joy. He overcomes death. He really can rejoice. He really is careful for nothing. He really has peace and gives it and leaves it. For He is the Lord of victory and glory and justice and joy and life—and He is at hand. So the Apostle cries "rejoice; again I say rejoice. Be careful for nothing. Let your requests be made known, with supplication and thanksgiving. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."

This is it. Our Lord has the secret. He has the gift. He comes as a friend. Tell Him. Ask Him. Trust Him. Let Him be your friend. He is never far away. He is always at hand. You may change. He never changes. It is not that you deserve. It is that He desires.

When you kneel at the Altar, He is at hand. When you receive Communion, He is in your heart. Rejoice, and again I say, Rejoice.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

Kings from a far land, draw near and behold Him, led by a beam, whose warning bade you come, your crowns cast down, with robe royal enfold Him; your King descends to earth from brighter home. ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS, 1926.

My Dear People:

There are three texts to be kept in mind as aids for meditation upon the Incarnation.

"For God so loved the world, that He gave his only begotten Son."

"And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

"Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

These three texts provide three points.

1. God loves the world.

2. God came to the world.

3. God is present in the world.

The knowledge of the love of God and the sense of the Presence of God are the secrets of joy in God.

Some fault in teaching, some failure in learning has inclined us to think of God's love as a capricious gift. It is a thought which pictures God's smiles as rare and swift to change to frowns. So, being what we are, we do not expect smiles. It is a tragic misunderstanding. It is the real explanation for many an alienation. It lies at the root of despair. The truth is that the smiles of God mean changeless love. The seeming frowns are satanic illusions. If we would picture the face of God as He looks at us, we need only raise our eyes to our crucifixes. There is pain that moves to penitence. But it is the pain of suffering love.

There is an inveterate tendency to think of God as remote, in some far-off inaccessible place. There is difficulty in grasping the idea of the Presence of God. There is difficulty in associating the thought of the Presence of God with our ordinary thoughts of the common affairs of daily life. We can scarcely think of God dwelling among us. So our prayers are apt to be stilted and labored and timid. We are afraid to be intimate and simple and frank. We shrink from speaking of many of our interests because we consider them unimportant. We cannot understand that everything which is important to us is important to God. If only we did, our prayers would be as easy as breathing. And they would save us from so much needless anxiety. And they would give us many a happy quarter of an hour. We should learn to taste and see how gracious God is. We should grow into a friendship with God that would give us a foretaste of Heaven.

And it seems to be difficult to grasp the idea of God's perpetual Presence. It seems to be hard to sense It as real. The moment one realizes the Real Presence of Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, Mass becomes a privilege, Communion a joy, visits to the Tabernacle a consolation.

Make sure of all this, and you will have a happy new year.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY, 1927

My Dear People:

The events of Christmastide move rapidly. It is all so exquisitely and hauntingly lovely. The silent night, the shining stars, the Angelic chorus, the hastening shepherds, Mary, Joseph, these are the enthralling beauties of Bethlehem. The Holy Child is the Supreme Mystery.

Now Epiphany has come. The Light, that lighteneth every man that cometh into the world, draws the three wise men. They open their treasures. They present their gifts. They offer gold, because He is King. They offer incense because He is God. They offer myrrh because He is Saviour. Then they go softly and slowly into the night. We hear the soothing lullaby of the angels. We catch the last glimpse of tender Mary, and silent Joseph, and the silvery light shining from Him who is brighter than the sun and fairer than the moon. Then the curtain falls.

But let no one mistake this for a mere drama. It is all real. It is the reality which lies back of the last reality, and makes all things real and all things new. It is timeless. It is yours and mine. We are part of it.

This is how it happens. The Holy Child comes to the Christmas altar. So we go to Bethlehem. We worship with the shepherds. We offer with the wise men. We open our treasures. We present our gold and frankincense and myrrh, our selves, our souls, and bodies.

The offering of ourselves is the gift of allegiance to Our King. To Him we give our persons. To His cause we give our lives. His friends are our friends. His enemies are our enemies. No wile of the devil may win us. No pomp of the world may possess us. No lust of the flesh may lure us. This is our gift of gold.

The offering of our souls is our gift of devotion. Our souls will wait upon God. In the midst of exterior distraction we will cultivate interior recollection. God will be the centre of everything. This is our gift of incense.

The offering of our bodies is our gift of discipline. Discipline is discipline-behaviour. It means negative reaction to the impact of evil. It means positive response to Godly motions. It means patience in pain.

Do you see? It is more than the story of three wise men. It is the story of you.

Hymn in Procession { Lo, the Pilgrim Magi
Brightest and Best, 95 - Tune, Goshen
Tune, Morning Star

Lo, the pilgrim Magi
Leave their royal halls,
And with eager footsteps
Speed to Bethlehem's walls;
As they onward journey,
Faith which firmly rests
Upon Hope unswerving,
Triumphs in their breasts.

Oh, what joys ecstatic
Thrilled each heart, from far,
When, to guide their footsteps,
Gleamed that Beacon Star;
O'er that home so holy,
Pouring down its ray,
Where the cradled Infant
With His Mother lay.

Costly pomp and pageant
Earthly kings array:
He, a mightier Monarch,
Hath a nobler sway:
Straw may be His pallet,
Mean His garb may be,
Yet with power transcendent
He all hearts can free.

At His crib they worship,
Prostrate on the floor:
And their God, there present,
In that Babe adore;
Let us to that Infant
As their offspring true,
Hearts with faith o'erflowing
Give our tribute due.

Love for gold presenting,
Unto Christ our King;
To the Man pure bodies,
Myrrh-like, chastely bring;
Unto Him, as incense,
Vow and prayer address;
So, with meekest off'rings
Him our God confess.

Glory to the Father,
Fount of Light alone:
Who unto the Gentiles,
Made His glory known.
Equal praise and glory,
Blessed Son, to Thee
And to Thee, sweet Spirit,
Evermore shall be, Amen.

Gradual. The Lord sent His word and healed them: and they were saved from their destruction. O that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness; and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of men.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE SECOND SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY, 1927

My Dear People:

The first miracle in Cana is the sign and the promise of the last miracle in each one of us. As water was changed to wine, the natural man will be changed to the supernatural man.

The miracle in Cana happened in a moment. Our miracle requires years. But after all a thousand years, with God, are but as yesterday, and the miracle does happen.

First of all, notice the miracle was not accomplished with empty jars. Our Lord directed that they should be filled with water. Water was all the servants had. So they provided that. Then came the astounding command: "Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast."

This is the way the miracle works in us. It happens at Communion. At each Communion we offer to Our Lord ourselves with all the natural content of our natural selves, our souls and minds and bodies. We are not asked to repress but to offer, and to offer all. The container must be filled up to the brim. Filled with all the energy which lies back of all our desires and tendencies. Our Lord does not come to destroy but to fulfill. We must present our real selves, our real souls and our real bodies. We must not be afraid to be boldly and unaffectedly simple about this. We must not try to be like some one else. We must be our genuine selves. The only point is that we must want to be changed and we must believe that Our Lord can change us. The process may be slow. But the results will satisfy.

We are expected to assist actively. We must fill to the brim. This means that we must keep nothing back. Whatever we possess of natural gifts must be offered freely. There must be no repression. It is religiously wrong to defer Communion until we have temporarily repressed emotions and desires. I know that many people try to do this. They are under the impression that to do so is good religion. When they learn from secular sources that it is bad psychology, they abandon religion for fragmentary psychology. But it is not good religion. If people would concern themselves with religion more, they would not need to concern themselves with psychology at all. Any reliable psychiatrist would tell them this. A simple practising Christian is sure to be a normal person.

When once the whole nature is given up to Our Lord, by means of habitual, frequent Communion, one may draw out from one's interior resources, for selfless service with untroubled confidence.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

J. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY, 1927

My Dear People:

I wonder if we realize the Saints' devotion to us. You have, no doubt, been asked why we should have a devotion to the Saints. Isn't it because the Saints have a devotion to us? It is a different kind of devotion. But it is a devotion. The Saints look out to us. We look up to the Saints. The Saints love us with the love that Our Lord gave them. In loving us they only fulfill the second great Commandment. Because they do it better than the rest of us, they are Saints. So we love the Saints because they first loved us. This is the Communion of Saints in a single sentence.

But how shall we realize the devotion of the Saints to us? Of course the answer to that is, by knowing more about them. Take Saint Paul. He gives us illuminating counsel in the Epistle for today. He goes carefully and discerningly and gently into the practical questions of ordinary life. He always does. One can always go to Saint Paul for advice. He never fails. He always tells one just what to do, in a way that one can easily understand.

This is only what we would expect from one who was chosen for this very work. But what makes one love Saint Paul is to remember what great things he cheerfully suffered. He was beaten with rods. He was stoned. He was shipwrecked. He braved every peril. He endured weariness, painfulness, watchings, hunger, thirst, cold. There was no hardship he did not know. He suffered the loss of all things for his Lord, and counted his loss as gain.

And he was so kind and courteous. Notice how he begins his letters. "Grace be to you and peace" is his salutation. He never loses an opportunity to praise his people. He always encourages before he exhorts. He never scolds. His parting word is always "rejoice."

And he understood human infirmities. He knew everything there was to know about every temptation. He knew all about the world and the people of the world and the sins of the world. Nothing surprised him. No one shocked him. Consequently, no one was afraid of him. All kinds of people came to him. All kinds of people loved him. He was all things to all men. It must have been so easy to go to Confession to Saint Paul.

When it came to dealing with advanced souls, he was the greatest of guides. He is the master in Ascetical Theology. Study him. Invoke him.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY, 1927.

My Dear People:

On Wednesday we shall be observing the Feast of the Purification of Saint Mary the Virgin. The Blessed Mother first made her ceremonial offering of a pair of turtle doves. Then she presented her Son, the Lamb of God who was to take away the sins of the world. Saint Joseph, Simeon and Anna were the only earthly witnesses. The splendor of the august ceremony was hidden from all other eyes. The glory of the Son and the blessedness of the Mother were not yet revealed. Some day the world will see Him coming with power and great glory and all generations shall call Mary blessed.

It is our joy to be numbered with Saint Joseph and Simeon and Anna, together with the faithful of all ages. It has been given to us to adore the Child and to venerate the Mother. With the Beloved Disciple, we behold the glory of the only begotten of the Father. With the Beloved Disciple, we behold Mary as our Mother.

The Collect teaches us to pray that "we may be presented with pure and clean hearts by the same Jesus Christ Our Lord." The Purification Communion is made with special intention of presenting ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice. The meaning of Mass is that we offer Our Lord. The meaning of Communion is that we offer ourselves. The joy of Mass and the joy of Communion is the joy of offering. To go to Mass is an act of love. To go to Communion is an act of love. Our personal devotion to Mass and Communion is the measure of our personal devotion to Our Lord. His command was: "Do this in remembrance of me." He said: "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

This is the real secret of devotion to the Mass. It is not fear. People who do not understand think it is. But they are mistaken. It is not formalism. People who do not know think it is. But they are wrong. It is the love that casts out fear. It is the love which is utterly absorbed in the one great Reality.

There is another mistake that is often made by people who do not understand Mass and Communion. It is to suppose that only Saints may present themselves. And that to frequent Mass indicates a profession of righteousness. As a matter of fact, it means nothing more than a keen consciousness of human infirmity and nothing less than a direct appeal to Divine Compassion. Men ought to be more sensitive to this than women. There ought to be more men than women at Mass. When men once really understand, there will be.

J. Vernon

Extracts from a letter from Bishop Campbell:

"Due to the fact that some of you have been so kind as to remember Liberia this Christmas, it is fitting that a word of greeting should be sent you.

"When I preached in St. Mark's last January, just on the eve of sailing for Africa, I tried to tell something of the conditions under which the Church is striving to set before the people the way of truth and of righteousness. And all this under the most trying conditions. Just one difficulty, which perhaps you never realized, is the obtaining of wafers and wine for the Mass. These things are not native to Liberia; and if we are to carry the Holy Sacrifice and its attendant blessings to the people, it is no small matter to prepare. Vestments, too, spoil very rapidly with the action of the damp atmosphere and the consequent invasion of mould.

"But if that were the only word we could give, it would be a sorry picture, indeed. Need we tell you of the joy that comes when, after weeks of preparation, a class is presented for confirmation; or, when after years of study, a young man is ordained to the Sacred Ministry of the Church? Or again, when some little child, or some poor native comes with a mite of an offering—for God and the Church—then we know how the Holy Spirit is working in the hearts of the people.

"Be sure to pray and give for Liberia."

ST. MARK'S PHILADELPHIA

THE FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY, 1927

My Dear People:

There is always to be found in the Collects an exquisite central phrase which is like a jewel in a perfectly wrought setting. Take, for example, in today's Collect, the phrase "they who do lean only upon the hope of Thy heavenly grace." Repeat that phrase slowly, several times. Could any combination of words be more delicately graceful or more hauntingly lovely? Yet each Collect has something flawless of its own.

But there is more than art in the Collects. There is the secret of living. One repeats the words with one's lips at first. It is not long before one's heart kindles. The Collect appointed for the Sunday shall serve all the week after. So the rubric directs. There will be many a time in the week when the Collect will serve us comfortably. It may serve us at the threshold of the Tabernacle, or in some crowded street, or in the silence of a sleepless night hour. Whenever and wherever we may use it, we shall find that it possesses expulsive power over troublous thoughts.

It ought to be easy to lean upon the hope of grace. But it is not. In the first place it requires a great amount of humility. And it requires a great degree of faith. It requires the childlike heart without which one cannot enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. But there come times when for sheer weariness we do really lean upon the hope of grace. Sharp lessons of defeat, dull consciousness of failure, piercing fears of impending ordeals drive us to depend wholly upon what religion may do for us. And then suddenly peace comes and hope dawns and patience possesses. The meaning of the Sacraments becomes vividly clear. Absolutions bring conscious freedom from entangling sins. Communion brings sensible delights in the Divine Presence. Vocal prayers soar up into the upper airs and float blissfully in the silence of affective and simple prayer. The soul becomes still in "the peace that passes understanding." Temptations lose their power. Sorrows are relieved of bitterness. Fears vanish. Illusions are dispelled. Crooked places are made straight. Rough places are made smooth. Life becomes possible once more. One actually feels that all things are possible with God. One hesitates no longer. And all is well.

What has happened? The exterior circumstances of life remain unaltered. The former conditions remain. The old tasks are as exacting as ever.

But the interior life has changed. The hope of grace has been fulfilled. The Kingdom of God is within.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.

Then ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace. The mountains and hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, instead of the briar shall come up the myrtle tree.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

SEPTUAGESIMA, 1927.

My Dear People:

We have three weeks to prepare for Lent. A well considered Lent will be a well balanced Lent. A well balanced Lent will ensure a well ordered year. And a well ordered year will be a well guarded year.

So the first thing to do is to rid our minds of the notion that Lent is a dreaded season of unwelcome interruption, of meaningless inhibition and of overcrowded devotions.

Lent is very far from meaning anything like that. It means not interruption but rest. It means not meaningless inhibition but purposeful discipline. It means not overcrowded devotions but taking time to be with God.

We all need all of this. We need it more than we realize. And we only begin to realize it when we stop to think. Lent gives us a time to think things over. Lent gives us a time to get things straightened out. So, one ought to plan for a quiet time each day. Each must decide how long a time and where to spend it. The point is to be regular about it. The place is obviously the Church. The best rule, I think, is to go to the Church once each day and stay as long as one's duties permit. If one makes it a rule to go at the same hour each day, there is less chance of neglecting it. At the end of Lent one will have found the visits so helpful that the habit will have become formed. And many times through the year, wherever one may be, it will be the most natural thing in the world to slip into a Church and say a prayer. Without that habit life must be very drab and dreary. Lent will serve to cultivate it.

As to the inhibitions, "The Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." I am not going into that now. I am concerned with the general purpose rather than the particular practice. The purpose of natural restraint is supernatural release. I mean to say one refrains from the lower that one may do the higher. Now here is the point. One must never take away the lower without substituting something higher. Lent does not destroy but fulfills life.

I feel this way about Lent devotions. It is better to use the established devotions more frequently than to attempt to add new ones. Increase the Communions. Go oftener to Mass. Go oftener to Confession. Make more visits to the Tabernacle. There one has really gained something.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

SEXAGESIMA, 1927.

My Dear People:

"We put not our trust in anything that we do." What an impossible sentiment that must seem to any one who is without God in the world. What a hopeless admission it must appear to any one who does not understand the petition which follows. "Mercifully grant that by Thy power we may be defended against all adversity."

Supreme trust in self is a sine qua non for secular success. The masterful self-made man is not, in every case, attracted by a religion which would teach him not to put his trust in any thing that he does. Certainly not in the beginning of his career.

No one has any use for a timid, hesitating, apologetic person. We are all agreed on that. It is certainly necessary to be prompt and decisive and determined in order to be effective. No one disputes that. But the foundation for confidence is a legitimate subject for inquiry.

Religion teaches us that dependable confidence can only rest in God and not in self. "Thou shalt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee."

As a matter of fact most of us need discipline to rid us of self-confidence. And very few of us lack the occasions for frequent humiliations. The discipline involved in self-examination and Confession serves the double purpose of freeing us from self-confidence and fixing our confidence in God. We feel particularly keenly, in the Confessional, the contrast between our own weakness and God's power. And absolution mightily reassures us of strong defence against all adversity.

"I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." "I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." These ejaculations of Saint Paul are startling expressions of the astounding confidence of the Christian. He begins by losing all confidence in self. He ends by gaining fearless confidence in God. No adventure daunts him. No misadventure dismays him. He unfalteringly undertakes labours. He intrepidly endures stripes, prisons, rods, stones, shipwreck, journeyings, perils, weariness, painfulness, watchings, hunger, thirst, fastings, cold, nakedness and constant care. In all this he is more than conqueror, because he is persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate him from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus, his Lord. The devil fears a Christian in the state of Holy Communion as he fears God.

The Christian well knows his infirmities in prayer. But he knows that the Spirit maketh intercession for him. At Mass he appeals to the prevailing Presence of his Advocate. He knows that He, in whom he trusts, will never let him be confounded. His confidence rests on the Rock. He is at peace.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

QUINQUAGESIMA, 1927.

My Dear People:

The keynote of the teaching for Quinquagesima is Charity. The Epistle explains Charity. The Collect is a prayer for Charity.

Why is this particular Sunday selected for this specific instruction? It is because Lent is a season in which the Charity of Our Lord is fully manifested. When the climax is reached, at the Three Hours, we may say with very humble, very grateful, very hopeful hearts, "behold, how He loved us." The lines of the children's hymn express it all,

"O, dearly, dearly has He loved,
And we must love Him too."

All the disciplines and all the devotions of Lent are moved with one intention, growth in the knowledge and love of God.

It is the essence of perfect contrition. We are to be sorry for our sins because they have wounded the Sacred Heart. This kind of sorrow makes one selfless, and generous and humble. It impels one to find expiation in Confession, reparation in Satisfaction, and peace in Amendment. Expiation, Reparation, Peace are good guiding words for Lent.

The best way and the only way to understand the Christian religion is to live it. The desire to live it comes either by direct attraction to Our Lord or else indirectly through some preparatory disillusionment which serves to clear the way.

The direct attraction to Our Lord is the normal reaction to the Sacramental life. A person who has been brought up in the Household of Faith really sees Our Lord at close range and knows Him at first hand. Everything is very direct and very simple and very real. Very few things need to be explained and very many things cannot be explained. They really are there. They really happen. But one must have eyes to see and ears to hear, and minds to understand, and hearts to love and wills to follow. Those to whom all this has been given pursue their undisturbed way of Sacraments and Prayer in the glorious liberty wherewith Christ hath made them free.

There are many who must first undergo the experiences in life which result in peace-giving disillusionment. It is a very great gain to have discovered what really does not matter and what really does. It is a very great advance to come to the point of lightly regarding the non-essentials. Then one is ready to enter into possession of the essentials. The treasures that have been most hardly won are the treasures that will be most highly prized.

Most of us have some knowledge of each of these spiritual adventures. Lent is our time for acquiring greater knowledge of both.

SILENCE IN THE PORCH

Silence in the porch is necessary for the maintenance of absolute quiet in the Church. Every sound from the porch, every sound from the Church steps is heard in the Church. This means a painful distraction for those who are engaged in devotion. It is particularly distressing after Communion. I think it would help us in keeping silence, if we were to make it a parish custom to begin, silently, the Nunc Dimittis when we rise from our knees, to say it slowly, refraining from speech until we have finished the Gloria.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN LENT, 1927.

My Dear People:

In the Collect today we pray for "grace to use such abstinence, that our flesh being subdued to the Spirit, we may ever obey Thy Godly motions in righteousness and true holiness." This is the normal state of life. The purpose of abstinence is to correct abnormalities. We all very much need a definitely appointed time to regulate our lives. We all very much need to diagnose our disorders and to apply the remedies. So often we are acutely conscious of some disorder and yet sheer force of circumstances seem to crowd out time to attend to the malady. As the year goes on disorders accumulate and we become confused or depressed. Something is wrong somewhere. What it is or where it is, we cannot quite find out. But there is something.

Of one thing we may be sure. There is a failure to obey a Godly motion at some point in our lives. The motions of God are all for peace. If we are not at peace it is because we have missed a motion. If we have missed a motion of God, it is because the soul has lost control of some point of contact. The flesh needs to be subdued to the Spirit.

So the self-examinations are inspections of contacts. The confessions are reports of needed repairs. The abstinences are readjustments. The whole process is one of recovery.

The subduing of the flesh to the Spirit is what mortification means. There are two forms of mortification, exterior and interior. Exterior mortification has to do with self-denial. Interior mortification has to do with self-discipline. We must practise both. The amount and the limit of exterior mortification will be measured by age, health and avocation. When one is in doubt advice should be taken and followed. Vain emulation, self-will and scrupulosity are materials for interior mortification. Any self-denial that is a source of self-satisfaction defeats its own purpose. Our Lord is very explicit about this.

Interior mortifications have no limits. One may deal without mercy with pride, impatience, selfishness and whatever other interior inclinations are contrary to charity. One may practise interior mortification to the profit of those with whom we live. And at the same time the mortification which costs us so much will not itself be seen of men. Under the conditions of life in the world in which our lot is cast, the emphasis is rightly placed on interior mortifications.

It was Saint Catherine of Sienna who said: "Lose thyself wholly, and the more thou shalt lose, the more thou shalt find, and God will not despise thy desire."

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE SECOND SUNDAY IN LENT, 1927.

My Dear People:

The woman of Canaan obtained a miracle. Her daughter was made whole from that very hour. Her faith was great. She was not disappointed.

Since that time so very many have prayed for favors. But no miracle has come. What about the people who have been denied the thing they prayed for? Have they had less faith? Is that the reason? I doubt it.

It could not have been so difficult to follow after Our Lord, when one could see Him and hear Him speak. But picture a person kneeling before the Tabernacle. Overhead the lamp flickers. Straight ahead is the door to the Presence. The Church is so still. That is all there is to aid the senses.

There is the heavy heart of the suppliant. There is the insistent prayer for mercy. The same Lord is there. But He is unseen. Only the Tabernacle and the lamp. All over the world you may see it. In Saint Mark's you may see it all day long. The walls are saturated with misereres. How many have found it even as they willed? Many have. Many have not. These are the persons whom I can't forget. What happened to them in the end? What is happening to them now?

It is not hard to guess. The petition was not granted. The miracle did not come. The sorrow did. Then what? A Requiem, perhaps. Then long dreary days and years. There was work to be done. There were people to whom outward cheerfulness was due. There was life to be carried on. There was the peril of self-pity to be avoided. There was selfless interest in things which had lost selfish interest. There was undismayed devotion to religious duties, which would so hardly and so rarely ever seem to be more than duties. Early Masses on gray mornings. Unconsoling Communions. Mechanical Confessions. Languid prayers. Day after day. But still keeping on. Never stopping. Always something urging on. Was it something or Someone?

There was a growing gentleness. There was a wider sympathy. There was a deepening tenderness. There was a dauntless patience. There was a mysterious peace. There was a dependable thoroughness with unattractive work. There was a graciousness in the welter of uncongenial surroundings. There was an unaffected happiness. When it came and where it came no one seemed to know. But it was there.

So the years went on. Fewer and fewer people were left to remember and understand the background of the life which newer and younger people were finding edifying and satisfying.

And then one day the end came. The end which was the beginning. Then came the Voice, "Great is thy faith." Then came the miracle.

Our walls are saturated with more than misereres. We may not say the word in Lent. But you shall hear it when Easter comes.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

F. Vernon

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE THIRD SUNDAY IN LENT, 1927.

My Dear People:

"The dumb spake." What do you suppose he said? Whatever it was, the real person, as he really was, spoke what was really in his mind. The first words must have been a revelation of his real self. What he became, and what his last words were, no one knows. Anyway the devil was gone. That was the beginning. Self-expression came afterward.

We hear a great deal about self-expression in these days. The right of self-expression and the peril of self-repression are much emphasized. We get books and plays and newspaper interviews, to explain and illustrate and exploit theories of self-expression. Freedom seems to be the one thing that matters. The devil does not seem to matter at all. He seems to be taken for granted.

As a matter of fact, as long as a person is possessed of the devil, it is very much better to be dumb. If self-expression is not the expression of self at its best, then there would better be no expression at all. There are too many books that never ought to have been written. There are too many plays that never ought to have been presented. There are too many interviews that never ought to have been published. The trouble has been that the dumb spake before the devil had gone out.

The Christian way of self-expression begins with the renunciation of the devil and all his works. Then follows the regeneration, and grafting into the body of Christ's Church, which prays that the newly baptized being dead unto sin, and living unto righteousness, and being buried with Christ in His death, may crucify the old man, and utterly abolish the whole body of sin; and that, as he is made partaker of the death of Christ, he may also be partaker of His resurrection.

The Church proceeds then to strengthen the Christian with the Holy Ghost, who will daily increase in him the manifold gifts of grace; the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and ghostly strength, the spirit of knowledge and true godliness, and with the spirit of holy fear.

Then the Christian is presented unto God, his soul and body to be a reasonable, holy, and living sacrifice, to be filled with grace and heavenly benediction, that Christ may dwell in him, and he in Christ.

The Christian has not arrived at perfection. But when, by reason of the human frailty from which he has not yet escaped, he sins, he confesses his sins before God, the whole Company of Heaven and the Church on earth, and he is absolved and starts afresh.

All the while he is finding his best self, which is his real self. At last he is finding something worth expressing. And, as he begins to speak, he speaks the language of God.

Affectionately in Our Lord,

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE FOURTH SUNDAY IN LENT, 1927.

Dear People:

The miraculous feeding of the multitude, related in today's Gospel, recalls the drama of the exodus, and it points on to the final revelation of the Holy Christ.

The daily feeding of the multitudes who are refreshed by the Bread of Life which contains in Itself all sweetness, is the daily answer to the prayer of Our Saviour Christ hath taught us to say.

Only those who have eyes to see and ears to hear are aware of what is going on at the Altars every morning, all over Philadelphia and all over the world.

The eyes of the faithful wait on Our Lord and He gives them their meat in this season. The burdens of life would be unbearable if it were not for the Bread which comes down from Heaven. Picture a Mass on any day of the week. A little company of people are kneeling in prayer. A priest is standing at the Altar. He is commending to God the needs of those who have come to present their supplications. He is praying for heavenly grace for all of them. He is praying especially for the congregation there present, that they may hear and receive the Holy Word with meek heart and due reverence and may serve God in holiness and righteousness all the days of their lives. He is praying for comfort and succour for all those who in this transitory life, are in grief, sorrow, need, sickness or any other adversity. And he is remembering those who have departed this life in faith and fear.

There is the company waiting to be fed.

The Mass goes on. The moment of the Consecration arrives. The Lord has come. The people draw near to Him. Each person has a secret for His ear and each person needs comfort and support and protection and refreshment.

Each person will be filled with good things. No one will be sent empty away. Strength will be given to the weak. Virtue to the tempted.

Consolation to the suffering. Consolation to the sorrowing. Patience to the fainting. Hope to the despondent. Peace to the distracted.

The Mass is ended. Presently the priest returns to the Altar. He takes the Eucharist Sacrament from the Tabernacle. With his Lord, he goes out to visit the sick and the infirm. Into homes and hospitals, the Lord enters. Upon each

He lays His healing Hand. To each He gives His Flesh, which is meat indeed, and His Blood which is drink indeed. It is very wonderful to see spiritual strength made perfect out of bodily weakness. It is very wonderful to see a man being wheeled into an operating room with a serenity which edifies doctors and nurses.

All this and more is happening in this place every day.

To fall'n and sinful man God pardon offers,

While Jesus suffers.

My sin it was which bound Thee, With anguish did surround Thee,

And nail'd Thee to the tree;—

I must in hell have groaned

And my sad fate bemoaned:

But Jesus, Thou hast died for me!

If I should e'er forsake Thee,

Forsake me not, O Lord;

When sorrows overtake me

Sustain me by Thy word.

When death and hell assail me

And rend my heart in twain,

Then, Saviour, do not fail me,

For Thou endured'st pain.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

PASSION SUNDAY, 1927.

My Dear People:

The Epistle for today gives us two subjects for meditation for Passion-tide, the High Priesthood of Our Lord and the power of the Precious Blood.

Before one can really sense the significance of these words, one must have a sense of one's own sin and a desire for redemption. Repentance and faith are necessary if Passiontide is to be a reality. Penitence must be deepened and faith quickened in Passion Week. Self-examination will deepen penitence and meditation will quicken Faith. One must really work out one's salvation with fear and trembling. Reality will be the reward for that. Our Lord will be very real to us in Passiontide, if our conscious need of Him as High Priest is real. He will be very real to us if we understand that He has obtained eternal redemption for us. The Precious Blood will be really precious to us, if we know that it is purging our consciences from dead works. A living faith in Our Lord as High Priest and a loving devotion to the Precious Blood is the essence of the spirit of Catholic faith and devotion. It is the interior which must be passionately possessed before exterior signs can be intelligently used.

Once it is possessed, it can never find adequate expression in any thing less than Mass and Communion.

Humble penitents find in Mass altogether satisfying experience. For in the Mass Christ offers Himself without spot to God, to obtain eternal redemption.
As the penitent offers his intentions and supplications to Our Lord, he knows that Our Lord will most surely obtain eternal redemption for him and for those for whom he prays. The High Priest is really present. The High Priest is really offering Himself. It is the only offering perfect in God's eyes. It is the one, true, pure, immortal sacrifice. The spotless Priest offers the spotless Victim. Himself the Victim and Himself the Priest. So intent is the penitent upon the great thing that is being done, that he is scarcely conscious of the words said or the ceremonial acts performed. His whole mind and heart and will are absorbed in what is being accomplished in the holy place.

Humble penitents find in Communion the deepest experience of all. For in Communion the Precious Blood is applied to the soul and it is washed whiter than snow. Consciences are purged from dead works. The promise of eternal life is renewed. New life makes possible the service of the living God.
As it is sprinkled on our guilty hearts, Satan in confusion, terror struck departs."

All this is given through the merits of the most precious death and passion of God's dear Son.

Each year as Passion Week prepares us for Holy Week, our gratitude to the High Priest of good things to come deepens. Each year with clearer understanding we learn to praise the Precious Blood.

Affectionately in Our Lord

Any Offering on Good Friday will be devoted to D. D. & F. Missions, as has been the custom of the Parish for many years.

The Easter Offering for 1927 has been designated by the Vestry:

One-half for Missionary Purposes

One-half for Parochial Purposes

In the notice issued by the Vestry, attention is called to the following three items:

1. That the "Expectation" of $15,000 for Missions for 1927 is the minimum amount desired.
2. That there should be no curtailment of the work of the Parish Church and our two Missions of St. Michael's and St. Mary's, because of a lessening of parochial income.
3. The great importance of adding to the Endowment Fund of the Parish.

The services during Holy Week will be according to the Lenten card.

The hours for Confessions will be on Easter Even from 2—3.30 and 8—9.30. Special appointments will be made upon request.

Will all persons desiring to be confirmed kindly notify the Rector at their earliest convenience.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

PALM SUNDAY, 1927.

My Dear People:

There is something inexpressibly sad about the procession of Palm Sunday. There is a stirring going forth in the Name of the Lord, but it is a going forth to die. There is a riding on in majesty, but there is something heartbreaking in the face of the King. There is pomp, but it is lowly pomp. There are cries from the multitude, but the cries are supplicating. They are Hosannas. At first sight the procession looks like the beginning of a festival, but it is the beginning of a tragedy. This is what makes it sad. There is something terrible about this procession. It is as terrible as an army with banners. It is the banners that are terrible. They are palms. Who is this that goes on to die? And what have palms to do with it? Well, we shall see later. All that we need know at this stage of the great drama is that He who is riding on to lay down His life for His friends. His is the love greater than which no man can have. It is the love that conquers all. We shall see Him winning all along the line, all through this dreadful week, which His love has made an holy week. He will suffer for our sins, but He will save us sinners from our sins. He will die for us men, but He will restore to us everlasting life. He will endure the Cross, but He will possess the joy set before it. That is what palms have to do with it. They mean that victory remains with love.

No one may idly or indifferently watch this procession. No one may see and expect to have life go on unchanged. If one really has eyes to see and ears to hear and a heart to understand, one never can be the same again. Either one must allow that lonely Person to ride on alone or one must snatch a palm and march on with Him.

To watch Him until He is out of sight will be to love life until it is time to lose it and then to lose it forever.

To join Him will mean to become possessed by the sacrificial love which loses life and finds it forever. It will mean the crucifixion of self with Him who is crucified for us. It will mean dying with Him for those for whom He dies. It will mean that sacrifice will be the price of living. And it will mean that the winning passion will be to lay down one's life for one's friends.

This procession will return next Sunday. The silenced word will be released. And we shall see the victory which the palms have promised.

At a meeting of St. Mark's Auxiliary, held March 3rd, it was decided that a Memorial shall be made to Mrs. Albert Lucas, for many years one of its most devoted members.

The Sisters of St. Margaret, of whom she was an Associate, are going to Haiti to work under Bishop Carron, and it is thought that an appropriate Memorial to Mrs. Lucas would be the Chalice and Paten, the Altar and its furnishings, of the Sisters' Chapel. Mrs. Lucas was deeply interested in the project of the Sisters going to Haiti, and after careful consideration the Committee feels that this Memorial would be one very near to her heart.

All who knew Mrs. Lucas will realize that no solicitation for money can be made, but the Committee offers this opportunity to those who loved her to share in the Memorial.

ST. MARK'S, PHILADELPHIA

THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EASTER, 1927.

My Dear People:

The Gospel for today gives us a vivid impression of the joy of the disciples as the knowledge of the Resurrection came to them. Their joy was centered in Our Lord. It was the joy of having Him with them.

Think of them on that "same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut." They were desolate and afraid. And then came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you." Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord."

That was the joy of the first Easter. That is the joy of every Easter. Personal devotion to Our Lord is the secret of Easter joy.

Picture a congregation of Christians as they are assembled in their church, very early in the morning, on Easter Day. They are kneeling. They are engaged in silent prayer. The Altar is in festal array. The Eucharistic Mysteries begin.

The Collect for the day invokes Almighty God, who through His Only Begotten Son Jesus Christ has overcome death and opened the gate of everlasting life. The humble petition beseeches that, as by special grace, good desires are put into the mind, so by continual help they may be brought to good effect.

The Epistle conveys the exhortation, "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth."

The Gospel announces the astounding tidings of the empty sepulchre. That is certain. But where is He? No one knows yet. But wait. There was a young man sitting on the right side within the sepulchre. He is clothed in a long white garment. They were affrighted. And the young man said unto them: "Be not affrighted. He is risen."

It is as thrilling today as it was then. The company have heard the news. With one voice the cry is raised: "I believe in one God the Father Almighty: And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God. He rose."

Supplications follow fast. And then the shout of praise can no longer be suppressed. "We are bound to praise Thee for the glorious Resurrection of Thy Son Jesus Christ Our Lord. Holy! Holy! Holy!"

Now the Mysteries approach the climax. "This is my Body. This is my Blood." Jesus has come! He is standing in the midst of His disciples! In an instant they are kneeling with outstretched hands. He is touching them! "The Body of Our Lord Jesus Christ, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life. The Blood of Our Lord Jesus Christ preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life."

This happened in Locust Street in nineteen hundred and twenty-seven.
